CURB MARKET.

New York, Nov. 6.—Realizing sales checked the rally which got under way at the opening of today's curb market, leaving closing prices irregular. Most active stocks, however, moved within a comparatively narrow range.

Oil shares failed to make any appreciable response to the increase in Gulf coast crude prices and the declaration of an extra dividend of $1 a share on Vacuum Oil as compared with three previous extras of 25 cents.

Public utilities showed a firmer tone, American Light and Traction standing out with a net gain of 1 1-3 at 138. Coal stocks also were in good demand. Chief interest in the radio group centered in the public offering tomorrow of 75,000 shares of DeForest at $21 a share, preliminary subscriptions being reported largely in excess of the total issue, with a premium bid for the stock in the open market. Listed radio shares showed only fractional changes.

Ford Motors of Canada jumped 10 points on a few odd-lot sales. Little interest was manifested in the mining group.

MONEY.

New York, Nov. 6.—Call money firmer; high 3 1-2; low 3; ruling rate 3; closing bid 3 1-2; offered at 3 3-4; last loan 3; call loans against acceptances 3 1-2; time loans steady; mixed collateral 60-90 days 3 3-4@3; 4-6 months 3 1-4; prime commercial paper 3@3 1-4.

COTTON.

New York, Nov. 6.—Cotton spot quiet; middlings 23.60.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Nov. 6.—Marked activity in semi-speculative railroad bonds was maintained today despite high call and time money rates, which retarded trading in other issues. Sufficient profit-taking developed, however, to reduce the price average in the general railroad list as well as in other sections.

Revival of interest in the low priced rail liens reflected the favorable outlook for earnings, dividends and merger developments and also represented the cumulative effects of several weeks of record-breaking car loadings. Buying orders were carefully placed, with selected issues of the St. Paul, Peoria and Eastern, Chicago Great Western, Frisco, Wabash and International-Great Northern scoring gains of about 1 to 2 1-4 points. High grade convertible bonds also moved up in sympathy with the rise in rail stocks.

Prices of Liberty bonds were shaded further in reflection of the stiffening of money. The trend of foreign obligations was little changed, although Serbian 8s recovered 1 1-4 points and Cuban 5 1-2s worked into new high ground for the year at 97 1-2.

Bethlehem Steel 8s were conspicuously heavy, at one time declining 2 5-8 points to a new low price at 93 1-8, but closing with only a fractional net loss. Midvale Steel 5s also were lower.

Public offering will be made this week of $6,000,000 Winnipeg Electric Railway 30 year 6 per cent. bonds. The city of Toronto sold an issue of $9,971,000 4 1-2 per cent. bonds to Canadian bankers to finance street railway purchases.

The first piece of financing undertaken for the Cities Service Power and Light company, the new holding corporation for the Henry L. Doherty public utility enterprises, will take the form of $20,000,000 6 per cent. 20 year bonds. Dillon, Read & Co. heads a syndicate which will offer the issue tomorrow at 94 1-2 to net about 6 1-2 per cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Notable fresh upturns in the price of wheat today accompanied big seaboard clearances and liberal new buying for shipment to Europe. The wheat market here closed strong, 1 1-4 to 3 3-8c net higher, December 1.47 to 1.48 1-8 and May 1.52 1-4 to 1.52 3-8, with corn unchanged to 1-2c up, oats at 3-4c to 1 1-4c gain, and provisions varying from 12 cents decline to a raise of 42 cents.

It was estimated that today's export purchase of wheat totaled at least 2,000,000 bushels and that fully 5,000,000 bushels had been taken for Europe within the last few days.

Besides, export clearances today were figured at 2,044,000 bushels, of which 1,617,000 were from the domestic crop. In connection with the evident improvement of export demand a sharp bulge in the price of November delivery of wheat at Winnipeg received a good deal of notice. The Winnipeg advance was taken here as implying that Canadian dealers had sold considerable wheat direct for Europe.

Corn and oats averaged higher chiefly as a result of wheat strength. In addition, however, shippers and industries were buyers of corn. Oats receipts showed a decided falling off in volume.

Lower quotations on hogs weakened most of the provision list.

Piles

Can't Be Cured From the Outside.

Internal treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through the stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., set at work some years ago to find a real internal Piles remedy. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It's easy to take, and can always be found at Lee & Osgood's, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

MYSTIC

Fire was discovered shortly before noon Tuesday in the Middleton house on Quoketaug Hill just out of Old Mystic, familiarly known as the "Stone house". The house is the property of Mr. and Mrs George W. Middleton of New York and is occupied by them as a summer home but has been occupied recently by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Marcus, of New York, who were packing to return to the metropolis when the fire was discovered. Mr. Marcus is an artist and is well known here, having spent several summers in Mystic. It is reported that the fire started from a fireplace, in which a fire had been built earlier in the day by the Marcus Japanese servant, but before discovered the blaze had gained such headway that it was impossible to extinguish the fire and the interior of the house was destroyed with most of the contents, the roof and one side having fallen in. Some of the furnishings were saved and the Marcus trunks which were packed were removed, but Mrs. Marcus is said to have lost other belongings and the loss to the Middletons is great because the house held furnishings of priceless value to the owners. Mrs. Middleton was expected to arrive from New York on Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Marcus were away when the fire was discovered. The house was located at the top of Quoketaug Hill and commanded a wonderful view of the surrounding country, being one of the most sightly locations hereabouts.

There was a large turn out of voters Tuesday on the Stonington side of the river, the number of votes cast being 829. There are 1,072 names on the list, 448 women and 624 men, and of this number 360 women voted and 469 men. An interesting feature of the election was the fact that the oldest voter on the list, Mrs. Uranah B. Mattison, who is 93 and a staunch democrat, was able to get out and cast her ballot, an event to which Mrs. Mattison had been looking forward throughout the campaign, which she has followed closely.

The New England Southern Conference of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist church, which was in session Thursday and will continue today (Friday), was begun on Wednesday evening with a preliminary prayer service, followed by an executive board meeting. There were a number of special addresses during the conference, a children's hour having been arranged for 4 o'clock Thursday and a public service with a special speaker in the evening. This (Friday) morning a business meeting will be held and in the afternoon the conference will close with an installation of officers and communion service. This conference brings delegates from all parts of Eastern Connecticut Rhode Island and southeastern Massachusetts.

Miss Emma R. Grimes has returned to Carolina, R. I., after a visit with relatives here.

Frederic Wilson of Rockville has been a recent visitor here.

John Russell of New Haven came home Tuesday to vote.

Ard F. Noyes has returned to New Haven after a visit at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Caperton are visitors in Providence.

Mrs. Ruth E. Earnshaw is visiting relatives in New Jersey.

Cornelius Donohue, Jr., of Washington, D. C., came home to vote.

Mrs. Rowland H. Wilcox left Wednesday for a visit with her daughter Mrs. Edna Coleman, in Lewisville Penn.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Union Baptist church will meet this (Friday) afternoon, for sewing, with Miss Emily Gates.

Miss Susan Fish, 91, was one of the voters on the west side in Tuesday's election.

W. N. Begg of Brooklyn, N. Y., is the guest of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Gaskell.

Mrs. Florine Larkin and Mrs. Alice Ledwidge of Westerly were guests on Wednesday of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mabbet.

Miss Clemmie J. Henry of Maryville, Tenn., college, was present at the meeting of Fanny Ledyard chapter, D. A. R., Wednesday afternoon, in Masonic Temple, and spoke on the work of that institution. At the conclusion of the business session refreshments were served by the entertainment committee.

An alarm was sent in Thursday morning shortly after eight o'clock for a brush fire in the Rorodin avenue section. The fire companies responded promptly and the blaze was soon extinguished.

LION'S DISTRICT GOVERNOR IS SPEAKER AT NORWICH CLUB MEETING

The Lions club met in the Wauregan hotel Thursday noon for the weekly club luncheon and meeting. Acting Chairman Edward Carpenter, presiding. The usual songs were enjoyed with Dick Thompson as leader and the entertainment committee for last month was discharged with thanks. The new committee appointed is Edward Rich, William O'Neil and John Barry.

During the meeting the resignation of George A. Finn as president was read and accepted with regret. As First Vice President Louis Fontaine did not desire the office of president, the following committee was named to make nominations: Edward Rich, John Barry and Dr. Kopland Markoff.

Max Hapgood spoke concerning the Armistice Day celebration and the club voted to donate a sum of money toward current expense.

Acting Chairman Carpenter then introduced District Governor Rev. John W. Davis of New Britain, who spoke on Lionism, emphasizing the possibility of every boy becoming great if he works hard. At the close of his most interesting remarks the club gave him a rising vote of thanks. Rev. Mr. Davis is district governor for Rhode Island and Connecticut Lions clubs and is soon to leave New Britain in answer to a call to a larger church in New York city.

Announcement was made that all Lions meet at 1.30 o'clock on Cliff street on Armistice day preparatory to taking part in the big parade. The meeting closed with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner and the salute to the flag.

Cranston by Frederick Noyes, Clinton Christman by H. G. Spencer, Mrs. Charles W. Gale by James L. Case, Mrs. Anna Libby by Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell, Mrs. Lorenza Armstrong by Mrs. Emil Miller, Mrs. Charles Billings by C. Edward Smith, Mrs. Charles Rogers by Mrs. A. F. Wyman, Mrs. Alonzo Keables by J. H. Powelson and C. D. STALLED ON TRACK AND HIT BY TROLLEY CAR

An automobile driven by Miss Priscilla Billings, a school teacher of Mystic, was badly damaged when it was struck by a trolley car operated by Michael Gimley, motorman, and Robert Greene, conductor, shortly before 8 o'clock Thursday morning in Groton.

Miss Billings was alone in her car and was proceeding south in Thames street. According to the state police, there were two other machines ahead of her and when one of them turned out to pass the first she tried the same maneuver. She drove toward the left side of the road across the trolley track, but since there were other cars parked on the other side, she was unable to pass. In attempting to return to the right side of the road her engine stalled while the machine was still across the rails. The Mystic-New London trolley car headed north, approached at a comparatively low rate of speed. When the motorman realized the car was stalled, he made every possible attempt to stop the car, throwing his operating mechanism into reverse and blowing out the fuse connections in the attempt. When the car struck the automobile in which Miss Billings was still seated, it had come almost to a standstill and only with the fact that the motorman had greatly reduced the speed of the trolley car saved the machine from being utterly demolished.

State policemen appeared on the scene of the accident and since no one was injured and there was no indication of recklessness, no arrests were made.

Trolley service was interrupted for nearly an hour by the damaged automobile and during the time that the highway was blocked, passengers were transferred at the place of the accident.

MADE ANNUAL REPORTS TO McCALL AUXILIARY

The Norwich Auxiliary of the American McCall Mission held an interesting and profitable meeting Thursday afternoon with the Misses Lucas, No. 94 Sachem street. The president, Mrs. Charlotte M. Huntington, presided at the meeting which was well attended. Following the regular reports of the officers Miss Charlotte Gulliver read a report of the year's activities as given at the annual meeting of the American McCall Mission in Troy, N. Y. Mrs. Huntington read a report of the annual meeting and interesting items were given by several members of the auxiliary.

Christmas cards were on sale the proceeds to be used for the benefit of French orphans. Attention was called to McCall Day which is to be observed November 9th in the churches throughout the country. Announcement was made that interesting letters have been received by the auxiliary from some of the French orphans who have been and are being aided.

During the meeting Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard delighted the members with a vocal solo, My Task.

NORWICH DEMOCRATS ARE FAVORABLE TO LONERGAN

The delegation was uninstructed, but it was understood that it was favorable to the nomination of Augustine Lonergan.

Mayor Milo R. Waters was chairman and Henry Gebrath clerk of the caucus, which named the following delegates: Mrs. Julia J. Casey, Mrs. Elizabeth Drew, Mrs. Margaret Sullivan, Mayor Milo R. Waters, Henry Gebrath, Joseph F. Williams, M. Frank Leonard, Patrick T. Connell, William H. Harrington, Fred Dugas, Edward J. McNerney, Jeremiah A. Desmond.

CELEBRATED THEIR 60TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Congratulations and good wishes from close to 100 of their friends came to Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Harrison Eldredge of 43 Fairmount street Thursday when an informal reception for their 60th wedding anniversary was held from 3 in the afternoon until 9 in the evening at their home. The house was profusely decorated with flowers and among the many gifts was a great bouquet of 60 beautiful yellow chrysanthemums. A tribute to their long and happy wedded life was presented in an original poem by Mrs. J. B. Palmer of Lisbon, a cousin of Mr. Eldredge.

Among the out of town visitors were Mrs. Eldredge's two brothers, Arthur E. and Alfred P. McLean, of Plainville, who attended the anniversary with their wives.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldredge were married in Mansfield Nov. 6, 1864, and have been residents of this city since 1882, when he entered the hardware business here.

Mr. Eldredge comes from a well known family in Connecticut, which at one time owned the southern part of Willington from the Willimantic river on the east. He was one of seven sons, being born, May 6, 1840, in Ashford, the son of Elijah E. and Hannah Holman Eldredge. Mrs. Eldredge, whose maiden name was Mary McLean, was born in Manchester, Dec. 29, 1839. They were united in marriage in Mansfield, Nov. 6, 1864, by Rev. Mr. Breeks and after residing for a time in South Coventry, went to Willington to live. Later they moved to Putnam, but in 1880 Mr. Eldredge returned to Willimantic and entered the hardware business. In 1882 they came to Norwich where he immediately went into the hardware business, taking active part in this business until January 1st of this year, when he turned the entire business over to his son-in-law, R. H. Montgomery of 29 Colt stret.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldredge have always taken an interest in church work. When coming to Norwich they joined the old Second Congregational church and later became members of the United church.

On Tuesday Mr. Eldredge cast his vote for Calvin Coolidge. Mr. Eldredge cast his first vote for President Abraham Lincoln and has had the privilege of voting for every republican nominee for president since that time, never missing going to the polls for an election during the 64 years intervening.

He is a direct descendent of Dr. Edward Fuller, who came over on the Mayflower and his grandfather was the first Congregational minister of Willington.

Mrs. Eldredge's grandfather was Rev. Elliott Palmer of Trenton, N. J., and Senator George P. McLean is her second cousin.

The many friends of the couple in the community extend to them best wishes for many more such happy anniversaries.

START $300,000 BUILDING FOR ODD FELLOWS' HOME

Actual construction operations on the new Odd Fellows' home at Fairview, Groton, were begun this week when a force of men broke ground and began excavating the cellar. At present there are but a few men on the job but as soon as the excavations are well under way a force of about 50 men will be assigned to the building. The new building will be of stone and according to the predictions of the contractors it will be about a year before the new home will be completed. The building will cost approximately $300,000 when completed and furnished. The cost of the building alone will be about $260,000.

French Reign of Terror

The Reign of Terror was that period of the French revolution beginning with the fall of the Girondists in June, 1793, and lasting until the overthrow of Robespierre, July 27, 1794. During this time the country was under the domination of a faction which carried on wholesale executions regardless of age, sex or position.

Nature of Static

As spoken of in connection with radio static is a condition in which electro-magnetic waves affect the receiving set. Static is produced by electrical storms and by atmospheric electrical discharges. Such waves are also known as "strays" or "x's." Briefly, static may be said to be electric waves set in motion by atmospheric disturbances as distinguished from electric waves from a broadcasting station.

"Pennsylvania Dutch"

Nation's "Battle Month"

April has been called our battle month because in April many of our military operations began. Notable among them are: Battle of Lexington, April 19, 1776; Black Hawk war, April 26, 1832; war with Mexico, April 15, 1846; Civil war, April 15, 1861; war with Spain, April 22, 1898; World war, April 6, 1917.

Descendants of Old Latin

The romance languages are those that are derived not so much from the classical Latin as from the Latin dialects spoken in various Roman provinces. The principal ones are the Italian, French, Provencal and Spanish.

Keeping Off the Mud

By curling the edge of mudguards of automobiles to form a trough which conducts the mud downward beneath the running boards English manufacturers have succeeded in eliminating the creeping of the sticky dirt around the wing of the protector.

Famous English Society

The Royal Geographical Society of England was founded in 1830. Its object is to collect, register, digest and print in a cheap and convenient form such useful and interesting facts and discoveries as the society might from time to time acquire. It has always welcomed to its fellowship those anxious to further this object by their interest and support as well as those able to take a more active part in their work of discovery and explorations.

Manners

Manners have been somewhat cynically defined to be a contrivance of wise men to keep fools at a distance. Fashion is shrewd to detect those who do not belong to her train and seldom wastes her attentions. Society is very swift in its instincts and, if you do not belong to it, resists and sneers at you, or quietly drops you.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Household Hint

Put a large piece of washing soda in the sink just over the grating, and with every drop of water poured into the sink some of the cleansing properties of the soda will be washed down the pipe. After washing dishes—no matter how often during the day—pour a quantity of boiling water down the pipe.

Ararat in Three Countries

Mount Ararat, on which Noah's ark is said to have rested, is in Armenia, and belongs to Russia, Turkey and Persia. Its summit is Russian territory. Mount Ararat is 17,325 feet above sea level.

Amended "Touch"

Beggar (after receiving coin)—Oh lady, only a nickel—what a pity to open such a beautiful bag for such a trifle.—Boston Transcript.

Author of Famous Poem

The correct name of the poem "The Night Before Christmas" is "A Visit From St. Nicholas." This was written by Clement C. Moore, an American poet and educator, at New York city in 1822. He wrote it for his children, but afterward it was published in a New York paper and later in a book of his collected poems.

Chinese Work of Art

A Chinese Tsang Fang sacrificial table, consisting of a bronze stand, 12 vessels and a wine dipper, dated about 1122 and 256 B. C., in the Chou period, is on exhibition at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York.

Need One or the Other

The less logic you can use to defend your faith, the more temper you must use.—Duluth Herald.

Right Must Prevail

Right is the eternal sun; the world cannot delay its coming.—Wendell Phillips.

Misconception

B. S. D. hands in this one: "And they tell me you're a newspaper writer," gurgled the sweet young thing. "That's so interesting! Do you know, it's awfully stupid of me, but I didn't know there was such a thing. I've always thought they printed newspapers!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Double Meaning

"Looks like rain today," said the milkman, as he poured the customary quart from the can to the pitcher. "It always does," replied the housewife, compressing her lips with cold significance. Stifling an oath, he took up his liquid burden and departed heavily.—Jack Canuck.

Broke Up Roman Roads

Large stone slabs which formed the core of the Roman roads in England were in medieval times frequently carried off for building purposes. The using of these ancient roads as quarries accounts for their disappearance in many districts.

Conviction Needed

"You have all done not so badly," he would say. "But you shall remember that it is not enough to have the method and the art and the power, nor even that which is touch, but you shall have also the conviction that nails the work to the wall."—Kipling.

Three Famous Lakes

The famous Lakes of Killarney are three connected bodies of water, one of which is about a mile and a half from the town of Killarney. They are situated in the midst of the Kerry mountains.

Courtesy's Great Value

Courtesy is a science of the highest importance. It is like grace and beauty in the body, which charm at first sight, and lead us on to further intimacy.

Surreptitiously

The only way some people will take advice is when nobody is looking.—Boston Transcript.

Iowa Rival Accuses Brookhart Of Plot

Daniel F. Stock, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator from Iowa, who accuses his G. O. P. opponent, Smith W. Brookhart, of assisting in Senator Burton K. Wheeler's inducement to Miss Roxie Stinson to testify against former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, in the recent Washington scandal.

End of All Things

The temperature at which water begins to boil is called the boiling point. The boiling point depends on pressure as well as temperature. Water can be made to boil by either raising the temperature or by reducing the pressure. Theoretically, then, if all the atmosphere were removed from the earth the pressure would be zero and the water of the ocean would boil and turn into vapor.

Business in the Desert

Bandits make huge profits from the caravan shipping business of Tripoli, the gateway to the Sahara desert. The bandits are not in the business—they exact huge tributes to insure the freight shipments against looting. Tripoli thrives despite the menace of the desert thieves, however, and all kinds of goods from rhino horns to ostrich plumes, are shipped on caravans from there.—Exchange.

A Miss Cicero of 1510

Cecilia Heron was the third daughter of Sir Thomas More. She was born in the year 1510, and, with her sisters, received a thorough knowledge of Latin and corresponded with Erasmus in that language. Very early in life she was married to Giles Heron, Esq. Little or nothing of her private history is on record aside from her acknowledged scholarship.—Denver News.

Danger in Sudden Riches

There is nothing keeps longer than a middling fortune, and nothing melts away sooner than a great one. Poverty treads upon the heels of great and unexpected riches.—Bruyere.

To Represent President

Betty Byrne, daughter of Mrs. Stanton J. Peelle, of Washington, D. C., and the Capital's prettiest girl, who has been designated by President Coolidge to be a Princess in the Court of King Cotton, representing the Capital, at the annual Texas Cotton Palace Exposition, Waco, Texas.

Seven "Bibles" in All

Other scriptures regarded as Bibles, in order of age, are as follows: The Zendavesta of the Persians, which contains the sayings of Zoroaster; the Three Vedas of the Hindoos; the Five Kings of the Chinese; the Pitikes of the Buddhists; the Koran of the Mohammedans; the Eddas of the Scandinavians. The Bible is the oldest of these, while the Koran is the most recent, about the Seventh century. The Eddas were not published until the Fourteenth century.

Keep Ice Pick Handy

Does that person exist who has not had to hunt the ice-pick? The last one who used it would either leave it in with the ice, on top of the refrigerator or carry it off to some other place. The round eye part of an old curtain fixture attached to a shelf or to the wall near the ice-box will save many steps. The pick can be dropped through the round hole and it will always be in its place.—From the Delineator.

No Danger From Comets

The Naval observatory says that the mass of a comet is never large; and the material is, for the most part, exceedingly tenuous. It is probable that the earth, if struck by a comet, would witness nothing more than a meteoric shower. The explosions, if any, would be similar to those hitherto observed in the case of large meteorites.

Kentucky's Pride

The famous "Blue Grass" region of Kentucky has this distinction: Tobacco and hemp have two crops a year and grow quite high, and the blue grass grows almost throughout the year. This region occupies the north central portion of the state, about 10,000 square miles, Lexington being the metropolis. The underlying rock is blue limestone, rich in phosphate of lime.

Overcrowded China

If the population of the United States and 40,000,000 more were crowded into the state of Texas, the density of the population would be about the same as that of China in the valleys of the Yang-tze-Kiang and the plains between the Yang-tze-Kiang and the Hoangho. This means an average of 520 persons to the square mile.

Society's Outcast

The word "pariah" is used to mean an outcast or one despised by society. This is not what the word meant originally, since pariah was not an outcast nor the lowest in caste rank, but a member of a low caste in southern India and Burma, just below Sudra rank.

French State Department

The state department of France is referred to as Quai d'Orsay, just as that of England is called Downing Street; from the fact that the French foreign ministry building is on the Quai d'Orsay, Paris.

NO TAX LEGISLATION TILL REGULAR SESSION CONGRESS

President Coolidge Does Not Expect to Present Any Plan of Tax Reduction to the Present Congress—Decision Announced After Conference With Congressional Leaders—Commission Has Been Appointed to Inquire Into Agricultural Condition.

Washington, Nov. 7.—President Coolidge does not contemplate, at least for the present, calling the new congress into special session after next March 4, nor does he now expect to present any comprehensive plan of tax reduction to the present congress at the short session which will begin next month.

White House spokesmen in outlining the president's views today indicated that farm legislation and the annual appropriation bills would comprise the principal subjects of congressional action at the approaching short session. Mr. Coolidge late today announced the personnel of the agricultural commission he has had in mind for some time as an agency to study farm needs and it is hoped that its recommendations can be formulated in time for action upon them by congress before March 4.

Insofar as tax reduction is concerned it was made known that President Coolidge just now does not think it advisable to reopen the whole question of taxation at the short session with a congress which has but recently declared its position on the subject. He has not, however, determined on the recommendations he will submit to the session beginning in December and meanwhile will study the advisability of taxation recommendations along with others.

The president's position on legislative problems was given after a day devoted largely to conferences with congressional leaders. Senate spokesmen frankly expressed the hope the president would not call a special session, declaring the country had shown no desire for immediate additional legislation. Farm measures, if necessary, they declared, could be passed at the short session, while another year would, in this opinion, develop the possibilities of tax reduction.

Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, a member of the senate finance committee, declared after a visit at the White House, that tax reduction looked as a possibility to the point of placing the surtaxes below the maximum of 25 per cent. recommended by Secretary Mellon at the last session. He declared publication of the tax returns, which he endorsed, had shown that the high surtax rates were futile as a means of collecting taxes from large incomes, the returns, he said, showing holders of fortunes in many instances were investing in tax exempt securities rather than pay the high taxes.

Chairman Smoot, of the senate finance committee, likewise predicted tax reduction would go over this session and wait for the regular meeting of the new congress a year hence. He also believed extensive reductions could be made at that time all along the line. Present tariff rates, he added, would in his opinion, stand unchanged.

Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, another White House visitor, joined with his colleagues in expressing the hope that the president would not call a special session after March 4. Tax reduction is expected, he declared, but he thought another year would develop more fully the limits to which this could go.

Farm conditions were also discussed by the president generally with Senator Curtis, of Kansas, republican whip, who reported on the situation in the middle west where he has been for several weeks.

The regular cabinet meeting was held this morning, and later the president went over with Director Lord of the budget the estimate for next years appropriations which will be presented to congress.

COMMISSION TO PROBE AGRICULTURAL CONDITIONS

Washington, Nov. 7.—President Coolidge announced today the personnel of the commission which he proposed in his speech accepting the republican nomination for president should be appointed to inquire into agricultural conditions with a view to determining a program for permanent improvement of the industry through legislation and otherwise.

Robert D. Carey of Careyhurst, Wyo., a former governor of that state, was named chairman of the voluntary commission which includes seven other farm leaders from various sections of the country. Additional appointments may be made later, it was said. The members announced today are:

O. E. Bradfute, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation of Chicago; Charles S. Barrett, the chairman of the National Board of Farm Organizations of Union City, Ga.; Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange of Columbus, Ohio; Ralph P. Merritt of Fresno, Cal., president of the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers; R. W. Thatcher, director of the New York Experiment station of Geneva, N. Y.; W. C. Coffey, dean of the College of Agriculture, and director of the experiment station of the University of Minnesota and Fred H. Bixey, president of the American National Livestock Association of Long Beach, Cal.

Some consideration to the personnel of the commission was given by the president during the summer but at the suggestion of farm leaders appointment was deferred until after the elections lest its work become involved in politics. Now that it has been named it is intended that there shall be no delay in its operation, it being the present plan for the commission to meet in Washington for a conference about the middle of next month.

Meanwhile it is believed that President Coolidge will retain Howard M. Gore, as acting secretary of agriculture, and not select a successor to the late Secretary Wallace until March 4, when a partial reorganization of the cabinet is regarded as a possibility. Mr. Gore will assume the office of governor of West Virginia on March 4.

Nevertheless the president is giving considerable attention to the filling of this post, and today we went over the recommendations so far received for the office from various farm leaders in response to his request. The list is growing daily and today Senator Curtis, republican, Kansas, recommended L. H. Mohler, livestock commissioner of Kansas, for the post. Another name undergtood to be before Mr. Coolidge is W. C. Coffey, dean of the College of Agriculture of the University of Minnesota, who was named on the agriculture commission.

REPUBLICANS GAIN AN ADDITIONAL SEAT IN HOUSE

Washington, Nov. 7.—The republicans, on the basis of revised election returns, appeared today to have gained an additional seat in the house bringing their total up to 247, or 29 more than a majority. The upset in the First Oklahoma district, cut the democratic strength to 182 seats, as against 207 in the present house.

On unofficial returns, Wayne Bayless, democrat, was winner by a scant margin in the Oklahoma district, but the official tabulation showed him 143 votes behind S. J. Montgomery, his republican opponent.

In the Fifth Washington district Representative Hill, democrat, maintained a small lead over his republican opponent, with the count practically complete, while Representative Morrow, democratic representative-at-large from New Mexico, kept to the fore as the tabulation of votes proceeded slowly.

In New Mexico, Senator Bursum, republican, continued to trail Sam G. Bratton, democrat, but President Coolidge maintained a lead over John W. Davis his electoral college total will be 383, as all doubt as to his capturing North Dakota was removed today when the count there was practically completed. Loss of New Mexico would cut the Davis electoral vote to 136, with Senator La Follette's total at 13.

PLANS ANNOUNCED FOR HUGE MERGER OF BAKERIES

New York, Nov. 7.—Incorporation of the Continental Baking Corporation, which is expected to be the first step in a huge merger of the United Bakeries Sorporation, the Ward Baking Corporation and other leading organizations in this field, was announced today by George G. Barber, an official of the United Bakeries, who will assume the chairmanship of the new concern.

Mr Barber issued a statement explaining that the concern had been incorporated in Maryland with a capital of 2,000,000 shares of eight per cent. cumulative preferred stock with par value of $100; 2,000,000 shares of noncumulative Class A common stock, and 2,000,000 shares of Class B common stock, the two latter stocks without par value. Class A has an $8 a year dividend preference over Class B, otherwise participating share for share with it, he said.

It was expected, the statement said, that when the "present and immediate programme" of the company was completed, the sales of the companies in the merger would produce earnings of $3 a share on the B stock after paying eight per cent. on the preferred and $31 a share on the common A.

"The business of leading bread and cake looms brightly on the horizon of business enterprise," said Mr. Barber. "It should be attractive because about fifty per cent. of all the baked goods consumed in the United States are still baked in the home. This presents opportunities for increased business."

CONSIDERING REQUESTS OF RADIO BROADCASTERS

Washington, Nov. 7.—Requests of major radio broadcasters of Boston for additional wave length assignments for that district, which would enable them all to broadcast at the same time, instead of having to divide the time, were taken up at the commerce department today in the plans of the department for a general reallocation of wave lengths.

Under the department's tentative plan, now under consideration, wave lengths in addition to those now in use are allocated to New England, including the Boston district, but according to Stephen B. Davis, acting secretary of the commerce, since the number of wave lengths available for use does not equil the number of stations desiring them, it is impossible to give each station an exclusive channel and a division of time becomes necessary.

New York, Nov. 7.—Girls between the ages of ten and thirteen are employed by golf clubs in the city's outlying districts as caddies and have been found working in poolrooms racking pool balls and in bowling alleys setting up pins, Mrs. Mary Hamilton, director of the women's bureau of the police department, said today.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

KING GEORGE SITS WITH NEW CABINET COUNCIL

London, Nov. 7.—(By The A. P.)—King George today bade farewell to Ramsay MacDonald and his ministers and later sat at a cabinet council presided over by the new prime minister, Stanley Baldwin.

The remaining appointments to Mr. Baldwin's ministry are not likely to be announced officially before next Tuesday. It is generally agreed that, like the late labor government, there will be one woman member in the new administration and that the choice will fall upon the Duchess of Atkoll. In the MacDonald ministry Miss Margaret Bonfield held the post of parliamentary secretary to the ministry of labor.

LA FOLLETTE WORKERS IN N. Y. TO CONTINUE PARTY

New York, Nov. 7.—Workers for Senator La Follette in his recent campaign for the presidency decided today to effect a permanent organization of a "progressive party" in New York state.

Members of the state and Greater New York campaign committees will hold a meeting the evening of Nov. 15 to discuss further plans for the organization. This is to be followed by a mass meeting of La Follette followers.

State Chairman Arthur Garfield Hays declared today that leaders in the independent movement were well satisfied with the La Follette vote of approximately 461,000 in this state, declaring it "showed that one out of every seven voters signified a desire to form a new party with a progressive program."

The La Follette-Wheeler defeat was attributed in the statement to "misrepresentations of the La Follette platform, the tremendous pressure brought to bear upon employes by employers, the total absence of any organization when the campaign started and a New York state fund of less than $25,000."

SENATORIAL RECOUNT IN IOWA IS PROBABLE

Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 7.—With the unofficial returns on Iowa's senatorial contest between Senator Smith W. Brookhart, republican, and Daniel F. Steck, democrat, verified and re-checked by county auditors making no material change in the lead of Senator Brookhart, Iowa politicians are looking forward to the official county canvass next week for possible determination of the winner. The unofficial figures placed Brookhart 1,025 votes in the lead.

Senator Brookhart also said he expected his majority to increase rather than decrease in the official total.

No statement was issued during the day by democratic headquarters. A request for careful preservation of all ballots was requested by National Committeeman Clyde L. Herring, with a view, he said, to a senatorial recount.

Tilson's Claims as Senatorial Timber

Slated in Announcing His Candidacy For Vacancy Caused by Death of Senator Brandegee.

New Haven, Nov. 7.—John Q. Tilson, of this city, congressman for the third congressional district, who for the past fourteen years has been representing Connecticut in the lower house of congress, issued the following statement today in announcing his candidacy for the United States senatorship to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Brandegee:

"In offering myself as a candidate for the senatorship I do not feel that I am thrusting myself forward for a position for which I have no proved qualifications. For four years I served the state in the lower house of the general assembly at Hartford. The two years of that time I served as speaker of that body. No one will deny that my services there was faithful and effective.

"For fourteen years I have served the state in the lower house of congress at Washington and I have no reason to doubt that my services there have met the approbation of the people of Connecticut. Since the death of the late Ebenezer J. Hill I have been the dean of the Connecticut delegation in the house of representatives and no one will say that the best interests of Connecticut have suffered under my leadership.

"By reason of the sad death of Senator Brandegee there has come an opportunity for a greater service in the upper house of congress. Naturally I feel that if there is to be a promotion, my capacity, experience and proven qualifications for that service should be considered and that I should not be passed over without good reason.

"Therefore with all due modesty I am offering myself to the republicans of Connecticut as their candidate for United States senator."

The special election will be held on December 16th.

YOUTHS CONFESS ACCIDENTAL KILLING OF BOY COMPANION

New York, Nov. 7.—The body of Ernest Schwer, Jr., 13, who disappeared from his Brooklyn home ten days ago, was found buried in a lot by the Maplegrove cemetery in Richmond Hill by detectives tonight. Police said they were led to the spot by four boys who they alleged confessed to the killing of the Schwer boy.

Young Schwer was last seen when he went to attend some muskrat traps with two companions in a swamp near his home. The other boys told police later that Schwer had left them and started for home. Search for the missing boy had been continued since the day of his disappearance by firemen, Boy Scouts and friends in addition to a detail of police and detectives. Yesterday an airplane was employed to make an aerial photograph of the swamp in an effort to discover if the boy's body was lying there.

Police did not reveal the identity of the two boys alleged to have confessed to the crime.

Arthur Megan, 12 years old, told detectives that Schwer was killed by a .22 calibre rifle, which was discharged accidentally and that he, his brother, Harold Megan, 11, Adam Rotunda, 12, and Charles Hirschfeld, 14, all of Richmond Hill, became panic-stricken and hid the body in the swampy lot bordering Maplegrove cemetery.

The boys, all of whom attended the same public school in Richmond Hill, were rabbit shooting and laid the rifle on the stump of a tree, according to Megan's story. While playing near the stump one of the boys, Megan said, accidentally fell against the gun and discharged it. Schwer, who was in front of the rifle at the time, was hit by the bullet and dropped dead, Megan declared.

ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF SELLING NARCOTICS

Commissioner Bernard E. Lynch, he waived examination and was held in bail of $2,000 for the United States court.

Coleman was arrested after a chase and a fight with the agents and detectives. He was taken at his home after it is alleged he sold narcotics to a man who volunteered to aid the officers in securing evidence. Leaving his home, Coleman saw the officers waiting for him and made a dash behind his house, according to the officers. He was caught just as he was about to leap over a board fence. He resisted arrest but was subdued by the officers.

PALL OF SMOKE HAMPERS WORK OF FIRE OBSERVERS

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Nov. 7.—A heavy pall of smoke which has hung over the northern Adirondack mountain section for the past 48 hours, apparently from forest fires in southern New York, seriously has hampered the work of fire observers in the mountains about this village. The smoke has reduced visibility from the towers to such an extent as virtually to end observation, adding to the difficulties of what is considered in this vicinity as a critical situation.

Norwich Suburban Day

Today the merchants of Norwich have arranged special attractions in the way of seasonable goods, interestingly priced which will meet the demands of a discriminating public.

It is a trade stimulating occasion patterned after others of the kind with which the purchasing public of this and surrounding towns are thoroughly familiar. Careful attention has been given to meeting the wants of their patrons by the merchants. Careful consideration of the opportunities is warranted by those who buy and those who have a long want list to fill.

Suburban Day finds the merchants well prepared to meet such demands as are made upon them. The advantages of the special trading day should not be overlooked.

Record Rainless Period in New York

Thirty Consecutive Dry Days—Prophets See Presage of a Mild and Easy-Going Winter.

New York, Nov. 7.—A new drought record for New York city—thirty consecutive rainless days—arrived tonight in the van of a weather bureau prediction that this section is to have a mild and easy-going winter.

Nothing in the weather bureau's records of more than 52 years can approach the dry record completed today. With rain predicted for tomorrow, the present drought tonight was considered have gone its limit.

Weather Forecaster Starr said the odds were two to one that an open winter would follow the mild October that warmed the city and surrounding country this year.

"Analysis of the records of the past half century," he said, "shows that two times out of every three a warm October has been followed by an open winter.

HEAVY TRADING INCREASED VALUE OF RAILROAD STOCKS

Remarkable Volume of Buying Appreciated The Quoted Value More Than $10,000,000 Yesterday—Buying Orders Poured Into the New York Stock Exchange From All Parts of the Country—Movement is Ascribed to the Fact That Defeat of the Radical Element in the Recent Election Has Given Capital Confidence That There Will Be No Adverse Legislation.

New York, Nov 7.—(By the A. P.)—Railroad stocks traded in on the New York stock exchange appreciated more than $100,000,000 in quoted value today in one of the most remarkable buying demonstrations in recent years. Forty-five carrier stocks soared to new high prices for the year, some of them to he highest prices in history, on net gains that ranged from small fractions to 4 points.

Buying orders poured into the market from all sections of the country in such great volume that total sales of all stocks exceeded 2,300,000 shares, the first "two million share" day since April 17, 1922, and probably the most active since the wide-open break of June, 1916, when one day's sales ran above three million shares. Although the market closed promptly at 3 o'clock it was not until 15 minutes later that the stock ticker had recorded the last sale. There was a total of 511 stocks traded in during the day, as compared with the high record of 517 established on Dec. 28, 1923.

While the recent high monthly earnings statements and record breaking car loading statistics have been factors in the accumulation of railroad shares, most market observers agreed that the almost unprecedented demand for those stocks at this time was due to the growing belief that the apparent loss of the balance of power by the radical element in congress precluded the probability of any adverse railroad legislation in the next few years and left the roads free to carry out ambitious consolidation and development programs, in addition to giving consideration to dividend increases or resumptions, which seemed warranted by current earnings.

Industrial shares which apparently have discounted most of the good news in sight, were irregular on further profit taking in the early trading but swung upward later under the leadership of U. S. Steel common, which touched 113, its highest price since 1919. Wall street has heard rumors that several of the large industrial corporations are contemplating the capitalization of surplus, in order to avert taxation of the same and this is believed to have been a factor in the buying of shares in which such action is likely.

An indication of what today's advance means in dollars is given in the following table which shows the net change in the day of a few of the most important stocks and the increase in quoted value in round numbers.

N. Y. Central	4 1-2	$13,200,000
Pennsylvania	7-8	8,700,000

ELDERLY WOMEN BARRICADE AND RESIST EVICTION

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Barricaded in a three-story brick building, two elderly white-haired women aided by three bulldogs this afternoon were successfully holding at bay with revolvers a score of policemen and deputy bailiffs seeking to serve an eviction order putting them out of their home.

The two women, each with a pistol in her hand stood at the front and rear of the house threatening officers who surrounded the house, seemingly undecided what to day.

"Ill let the bulldogs loose on you and if they don't stop you, I'll riddle you with bullets," one of the grey-haired women, warned as a policeman more intrepid than his fellows, approached the front entrance. He retreated.

The presence of the officers attracted several hundred persons who blocked traffic in nearby streets. Prior to the arrival of the policemen, a 19 year old youth, urged by a deputy sheriff to enter the building and disarm the women on promise of a reward, ventured to climb through a rear window. One of the women sighted him and rushed toward him screaming, "I'll kill you."

The frightened youth made a hasty leap through a front window, landing on his head. The woman did not fire. The crowd cheered while the deputy bailiffs summoned reinforcements.

The strategy of a policemen ended the siege without a shot being fired. While his fellows made a noisy "attack" on the front door, drawing the woman guarding the rear of the house to the assistance of her companion he entered by the rear way and surprised both women.

GRAND LARCENCY CHARGE AGAINST INDIAN SOPRANO

New York, Nov. 7.—Ida Ryder, 26, Indian soprano who sings under the name of Princess Atalie Unkalunt, and who described herself as a daughter of State Senator Thomas Ryder of Oklahoma, and a niece of Mrs. Richard Croker, widow of the former Tammany leader, was arraigned in Yorkville court today on a grand larceny charge.

The singer is accused of stealing personal property valued at $355 from Mrs. Lucy Benedict, daughter of George H. Ainslie, an art dealer, while a week end guest at the Ainslie home at Ardsley-on-the-Hudson, N. Y. Mrs. Benedict is the complainant.

The defendant testified that she was born in Oklahoma, attended elementary schools there and later was a student at Boston university and the Boston Conservatory of Music. She said she served with Y. M. C. A. as a professional entertainer during the war and also assisted in burying the dead on the firing line in France. Since her return to New York she declared, she has been employed by the board of education as a lecturer and by two New York newspapers.

The hearing will be continued.

VAST PRODUCTION OF ICE CREAM AND CONFECTIONERY

Washington, Nov. 7.—More than $1,000 worth every minute was the rate at which confectionery and ice cream were manufactured in 1923, census bureau statistics issued today disclosed. Confectionery valued at more than $1,000,000 a day and ice cream at more than $700,000 daily were reported by manufacturers. Total value of confectionery, including corn balls, salted nuts, etc., was $365,265,659 and ice cream and ices were valued at $258,666,575. Those values were computed on manufacturers' prices; the retail value was not stated. Value of confectionery showed at 16.3 per cent. over 1921, and ice cream 21.3 per cent.

SENATOR LODGE HAS PERIODS OF CONSCIOUSNESS

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 7.—The condition of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who suffered a stroke at the Charlesgate hospital her Wednesday, remained grave tonight, according to his physicians. After lying for nearly 48 hours in a state of coma, Senator Lodge today regained consciousness and took a little nourishment. Tonight, in their bulletin, his physicians announced that the periods of consciousness had been more sustained and that he had taken more nourishment since noon.

"Senator Lodge's physical condition remains grave," the bulletin issued at 6.15 p. m. by Doctors John A. Cunningham and Frederick H. Wimlow stated. "Since noon he has taken more nourishment and periods of consciousness have been more sustained."

Upon arousing from his long period of unconsciousness today, the senator drew a watch from Dr. Cunningham's pocket and looked at it. Later he was able to speak a few words to those at his bedside.

His physicians today commented upon the vitality which has enabled Senator Lodge, in his 75th year, to continue his fight for life throughout the two day period in which little hope was held out for him during which at times, death was expected momentarily. As he entered the third day following the stroke his pulse was strong and his temperature fair, his secretary said.

Senator Lodge had rallied rapidly after two operations this year, one in July and the second on October 2d. The stroke Wednesday came entirely without warning at a time when Senator Lodge was almost ready for discharge from the hospital. It involved the rupture of a blood vessel in the brain, Dr. Cunningham explained, being similar in nature to the shocks suffered in many cases by aged persons.

At 10.30 tonight Dr. Cunningham issued a further bulletin on the condition of Senator Lodge, as follows:

"No improvement shown; no loss of ground during day.

"The exchange of musical programs between country and country on an international communication basis.

"A universal news ticker service by radio that would reach points not hitherto accessible by wire.

"Radio development in the field of telepmechanics that would furnish power for the operation of aeroplanes, submarines and other ships at sea."

NEW 1924 HIGH RECORDS IN EUROPEAN CURRENCIES

New York, Nov. 7.—Establishment of new 1924 high records by demand sterling and three other European currencies today marked trading in the local foreign exchange market, which also was featured by the inauguration of dealings in the new German reichmarks.

Demand sterling reached a new top at 4 43 3-8, carrying with it to higher levels Swedish kroner, which sold parity at 26.82 cents; Swiss francs which at 19.28 cents were within a shade of parity, Dutch guilders which mounted to 39.90 cents.

The new reichsmarks commanded a premium of two points above its nominal part value of 23.86 cents on initial transactions. Trading in this currency was relatively light but dealings are expected to increase with the conversion of rentenmarks into the new bills.

NORWICH BULLETIN

Office Hours: 9:30 to 12 m.; 1:30 to 6 p. m.

Failing to catch the light of coming victory which shone in the eyes of the 33 Windham democrats who met in caucus Thursday night to choose delegates for the nomination of a United States senator to succeed the late Senator Brandegee, many of the surrounding town democrats tacked up the "Lost Hope" sign, with the result that several of the town halls in eastern Connecticut were pitch dark on caucus night. Believing that the traveling expenses to New Haven would simply be a loss of so much good money to the delegates who would attend the state convention, Nov. 24 and 25, the chairmen of the town committees of Hampton, Chaplin, Willington, Franklin and Lebanon did not call their partisan townspeople to caucuses.

At Mansfield eight democrats met at the town hall in Spring hill and made the following selections for delegates to the convention: O. G. Hanks, A. W. Buchanan, James F. Sullivan and Louis Medbery. O. G. Hanks was chairman of the caucus and James W. Green clerk.

Seven democrats attended the caucus Thursday night in Ashford with O. D. Baker chairman and James Baker clerk. Delegates selected were Hugh McQuade, Norman D. Baker, Anthony Krape and Edwin A. Buck.

BERTRANDS, TWICE MARRIED, ARE AGAIN DIVORCED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, Nov. 7.—Twice married to one woman, Delphis Bertrand secured his second divorce in an unusual case, heard at the session of the Windham county superior court here Friday forenoon. The divorce proceedings were uncontested and implicated Florence Bertrand as defendant. The case closed the business at the session of court and followed the assignment of cases. Bertrand was represented by Attorney W. A. King and the decree was granted by Judge William Maltbie. Plaintiff testified that on Jan. 7, 1908, he married Florence Brunnelle, one of the popular belles of the Thread City. Within 18 months her love for him became cold and she left him. He finally despaired and secured a divorce from her on grounds of desertion. Then came the World war and he served with the U. S. forces "over there." Following the signing of the armistice he returned to Willimantic. As he stepped from the train he was met by his former wife. They spent some time in company and the woman expressed a desire for her old home, giving promise that never again would she desert him, as she had in 1919. Their differences patched up, on January 13, 1919, they were reunited in marriage by Rev. J. J. Papillon, pastor of St Mary's church. Exactly three months later there came a change of mind and Bertrand again found himself a deserted husband. Once more he kept the little home together to await her possible return, but later he broke it up and went to live with his parnets on Union street. Bertrand said that his wife had left him for another man, named Clouthier, and he did not know her present whereabouts. Miss Rose Bertrand, a sister of plaintiff, testified that the couple had been separated for four years. John Shannahan, a neighbor, said that he knew of the separation and said that he was a witness of legal services on Mrs. Bertrand in the divorce suit. The woman snickered and stuck her nose in the air, according to the witness. The decree was granted.

The court granted an additional two weeks for the filing of briefs on the matter in the case of Frank Ladue vs. Daniel P. Dunn et al, a hearing on demurrer on the short calendar.

The case of Anthony Pionosky et al vs. John Arcahivach, which was to have been tried after Friday's short calendar session, was not ready and Judge Maltbie announced that next week he would assign the case for a specific date.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

It is illegal to dim motor vehicle headlights while driving at night in Connecticut. Attention is called to this by Chief John McFarland through a circular issued from the office of motor vehicle commissioner. A great many drivers have the dimming habit in this section of eastern Connecticut. In a measure the practice is due to following the example of drivers of cars bearing registrations of Rhode Island, where dimming is practiced as something of a courtesy. This border section is driven over by hundreds of Rhode Island drivers and, likewise, hundreds of drivers hereabouts drive much in Rhode Island.

It is not an uncommon experience for drivers who live hereabouts to have a Rhode Island driver shout "dim your lights" as he probably has done himself and expected the return of what he considers a courtesy. The theory of this appears to be that passing is made easier.

However, the practice is declared illegal in Connecticut and a driver whose car causes damage, while he is driving with dimmed lights may be held for violation of the lighting law.

Connecticut requires certain types of lens and other lighting equipment rated as legal. Provided with such equipment, a Connecticut driver is not required to dim his lights while driving and if he does he may find himself having something to explain to the proper officials. Rhode Island drivers may be peeded that their dimimg practice is not reciprocated, but the motor vehicle commissioner of Connecticut warns that it must not be done.

Publicity is given the ruling here in order that it may be generally known in this section of the state. It is just one more of the scores of things that drivers are required to known about the rules and regulations of operating motor cars in Connecticut.

There was talk Friday that a recount of the votes for representatives may be demanded in the town of Ashford, where Allen B. Lincoln, republican, was declared elected Tuesday evening by a very narrow margin of votes. Ashford has not been accustomed to sending republican members to the legislature and wants to verify beyond all reasonable doubt that one has won an election within its boundaries.

The death occurred at Dayville Friday of Ray E. Johnson, 63, a native of West Greenwich, R. I. Mr. Johnson had been employed for years as a night watchman at the plant of the Assawaga Woolen company. He had been seriously ill for a week past. Mr. Johnson leaves his wife and a family.

Numbers here recalled Friday that it was the sixth anniversary of the celebration in Danielson, as in many other places in the United States, of what might be termed pre-Armistice day. When reports came through indicating that the Armitice had been signed, a delirious celebration followed. Danielson fairly outdid itself in this display of emotion, making an all-night affair of it.

Not only has the upper crossing at Attawaugan been closed, as the result of the construction of the new cut-off stretch of highway, now open, but also the entire stretch of highway between two two crossings on the westerly side of the tracks of New Haven road. A series of fences very effectively cut off use of the barred stretch of highway, leaving open only the area needed for the tracks of the trolley company.

Getting about the country in search of work, or just for the fun of it, is not so difficult just now. A hiker told the Danielson motorist who gave him a lift Friday that "I guess I am but a worthless bum," admitted having traveled north from Washington, D. C., since the first of the week, "walking only far enough at times to stretch my legs." Motor car drivers that he hailed had brought him to this town from the capital city. The man was in this territory hunting work for the winter in the cotton mills. He was not seriously worried about getting a job, failing in which he would make his way to South Carolina to remain for the winter. "The automobile drivers will take the back if I decide to go," he said, and he was very master of fact and complacent about it.

Excerpt from an editorial of Friday in a New York newspaper that supported the Davis-Bryan ticket: "A democratic party based on the south and west against the east is doomed to impotence and defeat."

The Bulletin said something like that Thursday morning. And a few old line democrats here remarked, 'I can't understand it!' Most people feel the same way about the radio—but it works!

Conversation between a rabbit and a pheasant: "What's become of those pesky hunters?"

"Dunno; been off voting, probably?"

"Voting for what—rain?"

"I suppose so, and likely they'll get it, fore they're through."

Whatever one gives today to the Tag day fund of the civic federation will go into a fund dedicated to the health and well being of humanity. No money is spent in a better cause. Y., a student at Pomfret School, while participating in a practice scrimmage, received a fractured leg, while Henry R. Safford, a student in Woodstock Academy, had a bone in his foot broken while in practice. Both accidents occurred Thursday afternoon.

Harry E. Baker of Pomfret, was arrested Thursday night on a charge of non-support. He was presented before Justice Walter Bryden at the Town House, Friday, and entered a plea of not guilty. Baker asked for a continuance until Tuesday next, which was granted and bonds were fixed at $200.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew V. Frost, on Sunnyside, at eleven o'clock Friday morning, their older daughter, Miss Wilhelmina Frost, was united in marriage with George A. Vaughn, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Vaughn of Thompson, formerly of Putnam. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Richard D. Hatch, rector of St. Philip's Episcopal church. The bride wore her traveling costume as Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn left immediately after the ceremony for a wedding trip. On their return they will live in a newly furnished home on Sunnyside. Only members of the two families attended the wedding.

The bride is a graduate of Putnam high school, class of 1921 and finished her education at Southfield Point Hall, Stamford. The bridegroom is a graduate of Williston seminary.

Walter E. Barnes, 21, older son of Mr. and Mrs. James Barnes, of Bridge street, died at St. Vincent's hospital, Worcester, Thursday evening at eight o'clock. Death was caused by an attack of influenza and he was taken to the hospital last Saturday.

The young man was born in Putnam, April 6, 1903 and had lived here all his life. He attended the public schools and finishing his education went to work in the mill, his last employment being in the mill of the Beachmont Worsted Company, Mechanicsville. Besides his parents he leaves a younger brother, Harold, and a sister, Mrs. Irving H. Miron.

Dwight Coombs, 71, who committed suicide in Middletown by hanging himself in a shack, Thursday night, leaves his wife, Mrs. Melissa Coombs of Putnam Heights. While the authorities in Middletown know of no reason for the tragic act of Coombs, it is known in Putnam that an attorney, acting for Mrs. Coombs, had recently communicated with the state's attorney in Middlesex county regarding the matter of support and it is believed here that Coombs may have learned of this and that it had some bearing on his act.

Coombs was arrested some six or seven months ago on a charge of not supporting his wife, from whom he has been separated for some years. He was sentenced to six months in jail, but was placed on probation upon his promise to send his wife money. It was his failure to live up to his promise that caused the wife to seek legal advice which led to the matter being brought to the attention of the state's attorney in the county where Coombe lives.

Coombs was employed upon a farm and when he did not appear for work Thursday morning a search was made for him and he was found hanging in a shack, 200 yards from the house. The medical examiner gave the opinion that the man had been dead from 18 to 20 hours. Besides his wife Coombs leaves a sister, Mrs. Parmelia Adams, of Fiskdale, Mass.

The new Citizens' National Bank of Putnam will open its doors for business in the First National Bank building next Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock.

Permission and direction for the new bank to begin to function at the earliest possible minute was received Thursday from Henry M. Dawes, comptroller of the currency.

Twelve hours later the Citizens' Committee had met and selected a board of directors and officers which represents all of the different elements that make up the business and professional life of this banking community. The names of the directors are such as will command the confidence and respect of everyone in the territory which the bank will serve. They are: Joseph C. Hoppin, Asa M. Ross, Alex Gilman, Mahlon H. Geissler, Samuel Reynolds, Edward J. Keegan, Whitman Danielson, John W. Whipple, William P. Warren, S. Nikoloff, A. Newton Vaughn, Edgar H. Corttis, Ethel M. Goodridge, Louis P. Faucher, Victor Chapdelaine, Albert H. Williams, Earl C. Rogers, James A. Parker of Boston.

The directors organized as follows: President, Samuel Reynolds.

Vice Presidents, A. Newton Vaughn, Alex Gilman, Judge Mahlon H. Geissler.

Cashier, Whitman Danielson.

These officers will serve until the first annual meeting which will be held in January, when a permanent directorate will be chosen by the stockholders.

Mr. Danielson is one of the substantial citizens of this county, a capable, clear-thinking business man, well qualified to act as temporary cashier. He consented to serve until the directors have had time to consider the merits and select a permanent cashier of long and varied banking experience from among several applicants for this important office.

In addition to the commercial department there will be a savings department, both of which will be ready to function Wednesday morning. The bank will also handle certificates of deposit as one of their forms of service to the public. In the alteration of the bank building over a year ago more than six hundred safe deposit boxes, of the most approved type were provided. They are protected against fire and burglary by impregnable vaults.

Arrangements have been made with George M. Coffin, Receiver and Comptroller Dawes for Mr. Coffin to remain in the building until the affairs of the First National Bank are liquidated.

The working force of the new bank will be made up of as many of the old employes as the business will justify, and preference will be given those who are not taken on at once when additions are made to the clerical force.

The delay in the organization and opening of the new bank, while regrettable, is in no way due to the Citizens' Committee of Putnam. They have worked incessantly and unselfishly with a view single to the best interests of this community. The board of directors thoroughly represents the interests of Putnam and of the surrounding towns. of the more than three hundred shareholders two-thirds are from Putnam, the remainder from Pomfret, Woodstock, Thompson and adjacent localities.

There is hardly a name among the directors that is not favorably known to every reader of The Bulletin. There are from Pomfret, Dr. Joseph C. Hoppin and Ethel M. Goodridge, who are among the heaviest subscribers to the stock. In Woodstock, Albert H. Williams, selectman and mill manufacturer. In Thompson, Edward J. Keegan, of the Lawrence Keegan Mill Company as Wilsonville; Louis P. Faucher, one of the best known business men of North Grosvenordale and Edward H. Corttis, one of the county commissioners.

Mr. Reynolds is a hard-headed, practical, successful business man. He was instrumental in straightening out the affairs of the Putnam Foundry and Machine Company when it became insolvent in financial difficulties several years ago. Under his management it became a prosperous, paying concern. Three years ago it was taken over by the firm of Leland, Gifford and Company, and Mr. Reynolds was retained as its head, and under his capable direction, backed by the financial strength of the new owners, it gives promise of becoming the leading industry of the city. Mr. Reynolds has been a resident of Putnam for seventeen years.

The vice-presidents are among the best known and most influential men of the community.

A survey of the three hundred shareholders discloses the fact that more than eighty per cent. of the business and professional men and women of Putnam are on the list. Of the remaining twenty per cent., more than half have pledged their assurance of cooperation and support.

Perry leader of the Stonington band, that had paraded that same evening, was raided and 60 cases of liquor found. Perry tried to escape the police by jumping off the dock in the rear of the premises and swimming for a fishing smack in the vicinity but the state police bent on capturing him, fired two shots at him from their heavy double barrel shot guns. He was struck in both legs, the bullet going clear through. It is thought that he will lose one leg, the main bone being splintered. The police telephoned for a truck to take the cases of liquor away. Dr. D. E. G. Women as Inventors.

American women have patented nearly 1,400 devices. Women have patented contraptions all the way from hooks-and-eyes to artificial eyelashes, including roadbuilding equipment and intricate machinery. When Howe was trying to invent the sewing machine he reached the point of where he was stumped. His wife, tiring of having him sitting around glowering, shoved him aside, sat down before the machine, gave it a few whirls and said, "Put the thread eyelet in the other end of the needle down by the point." That solved the problem.

Sea Snakes Seize Ship

Although sea serpents are now generally conceded to belong only to the world of fables, there are approximately 50 species of snakes that make their home in salt water, some of them attaining a length of several feet. They are poisonous, according to Popular Mechanics, and although timid under ordinary conditions, have been known to attack savagely when disturbed. When the steamship Ikala dropped anchor in the Straits of Macassar not long ago it aroused a school of salt-water reptiles that swarmed on board, crowling up the chains and hawsers. The ship was reported to have been held up several days before the snakes could be driven away. In many respects these reptiles resemble the land variety but have broad paddleshaped tails, which enable them to swim rapidly after small fish.

SECRETAARY MELLON.

It is nearly four months to the fourth of next March, but speculation concerning the president's cabinet for the next term is bound to prevail. It is natural that there should be a look ahead.

In this connection Secretary Mellon of the treasury department has been sounded by outsiders. They have gotten busy and faced him with such a question but as might be expected he is unwilling to commit himself regarding such a matter. Naturally he isn't going to embarrass the president concerning any such matter. He isn't going to accept a place in the new cabinet until he has been invited to continue as secretary of the treasury. He has no intention of telling the president that no other can have the place.

When the statement is made by his friends, however, to the effect that Mr. Mellon has no intention of resigning his post and that he has no desire to quit the job, it makes it evident that his services are available. What President Coolidge will do rests with him to say, but there has been and is a general recognition of the masterly service which Secretary Mellon has rendered in handling the finances of the government. Even those of opposite political faith understand the excellence of the guidance, and are outspoken in the results that have been obtained.

Mr. Mellon has displayed a soundness in the handling of the nation's finances that establishes an unshakable confidence. He is first, last and all the time for a strict, businesslike administration. His policies have contributed greatly in the cutting of the national debt by two billion dollars, and there are reasons to believe that the soundness of his taxation plan will come in for a much greater degree of appreciation.

President Coolidge will pick his own cabinet and none knows better the qualifications of Andrew W. Mellon for secretary of the treasury. There will be much gratification over the statement that Mr. Mellon has no desire to be relieved of the duties of that office.

REGITTERING IMMIGRANTS.

Secretary Davis of the department of labor, speaking in Philadelphia, advocated the registration of all foreigners entering the country. He pointed out that when the immigrants arrive they do not want to be made objects of charity, but want to help themselves. There is a chance nevertheless to aid them to be better citizens through instructing them concerning American customs, and this the secretary advocated. He likewise pointed out the importance of getting them in line for an education and to become citizens.

The task of teaching the newcomers American ways, customs and language is not a small one. The importance of making them into good American citizens as soon as possible cannot be disregarded. The effect of negligence along this line has already been clearly demonstrated, and for that reason it is well that there should be a well organized effort to make up for past inattention and get started in the right direction.

But in addition to rendering this most valuable service to the immigrant there is to be recognized the need of giving protection to ourselves. This country has recently enacted stringent immigration laws. The purpose was in part to better our future citizenship and yet we repeatedly read of instances where the smuggling of immigrants is being disclosed. Secretary Davis says the entire army and navy could not stop it, and it is not hard to believe it.

One effective means of placing a check upon the illegal entrance of aliens is through registration. That provides a means of keeping tabs upon such people. If they go through the proper channels and can show registration papers they have nothing to fear. If they cannot it becomes self evident that they have no right to be in the country and deportation can be expected to follow.

The idea of registration of immigrants is one that has excellent possibilities for both the immigrants and the country.

CURTAILING NARCOTICS.

Fighting the traffic in narcotics which are used for other than medicinal purposes undergoes no abatement. While there are disclosures which show that the smuggling and the illicit sales continue in large volume there are forces at work to stop it and to so regulate the production of the dope as to place a restraint upon the illegal business.

Evidence has been shown: what difficulties lie in the way of enforcement of restrictive measures by one country alone, when others attempt no restraint and through them the means of breaking down the laws of other countries are provided.

For that reason much hope is placed in the conference which is now under way by the league of nation's committee. This is considering the problem from a world standpoint, an international arrangement whereby relief from the frightful effects of dope may be extended to humanity. How far it will get no one knows. All nations do not look at it through the same eyes. There are phases which concern some countries which do not interest others.

According to one plan there would be a limit placed upon the amount of opium raised. Certain derivatives would be prohibited. Others would be limited, and that limit would be governed by what is required for medicinal and scientific purposes. The other plan would be to obtain as an agreement between nations for the control of narcotics.

It can be recognized that those countries which produce opium do not look with pleasure upon the breaking up of a profitable business. They look at the profits therefrom with greater consideration than the demoralizing effect upon humanity. There's a selfishness which they find almost immovable. For that reason there's no telling how far the conference will get, or what the recommended action will be. The world looks to such an agency for beneficial results, and it seems to be a convincing argument that if the production to medicinal demands the illicit traffic must end.

ARE YOU WASTING WATER?

Norwich has faced other periods when the water shortage was more acute than it is today. In that drought which resulted in the building of Stony Brook reservoir the water in Fairview got to a much lower point than it is now.

But there is no ground for believing that the present supply of water does not urgently call for the elimination of all waste. It does. It is a time to conserve. Sight must not be lost of the fact that the demands are greater than they were something over a dozen years ago. No greater mistake can be made than figuring the present supply, under reduced pressure, is adequate for all requirements, and that there is no need of stopping the leaks and checking the wastes which habit tolerates under normal conditions.

A water shortage is always a serious matter. Relief is greatly needed in the form of rain, and perhaps there are reasons for believing it will be obtained, but that doesn't warrant any misuse of the present supply.

Norwich normally uses about 125 gallons of water per capita daily. That is a large per capita consumption when it is understood that the average per capita consumption of cities is only about 100 gallons. Does the 25 gallons over the average represent waste? It is something which Norwich may well stop to consider. Certainly there could not be a better time than right now to end any such waste.

At a time like this all eyes are turned to the water department. That is natural, but there is a duty nevertheless, devolving upon each and every user of water to cooperate in the meeting of the situation. If the overcoming of waste will aid in meeting the situation let us by all means render that cooperation with enthusiasm.

Are you wasting water? If so, stop it!

POLITICALLY SPANKED.

There is nothing surprising about the belief that those who are so fortunate as to go back to congress, even though they have participated in coalition and obstructive tactics in the past, will give more heed to constructive legislation in the future.

There was an alignment between certain members of both the democratic and republican parties in the present congress which disregarded national welfare. That has been taken into consideration by the voters. The strengthening of the republican membership that can be depended upon to stand by party is one of the results. That can hardly be disregarded. It is the strongest kind of a message to get from home.

The insurgents and the obstructionists have been under trial. The result is obvious. There were those who hastened to clear their skirts before election. Instead of doing that Senator Brookhart became more defiant. He has been practically repudiated at home, and if he hasn't been beaten he should have been. There has been a determination to end bloc government, and the response to the La Follette candidacy shows the public disapproval of such tactics as he has been responsible for.

Had there been countrywide approval of the bloc control represented by such leadership as La Follette, Brookhart and others the result at the polls would have been of an entirely different character. Those who have been spanked can be expected to remember it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The people render many interesting verdicts at the polls.

Every day in every way the election reports get better and better.

On the question of daylight saving Massachusetts continues to stand pat.

Two of the states which formerly had governors have now put governesses in charge.

Perhaps more interest in voting might be assured by a change of style about election time.

When Samuel Gompers talks about carrying on politically he knows he didn't and cannot deliver.

When it came to responding to duty many states joined hands with and followed the lead of Connecticut.

Trotsky's view of the United States only furnishes greater satisfaction to those here who aided in the defeat of La Follette.

Saving water becomes an individual responsibility. Don't let it be a case of exhorting others to save, and actually waste it yourself.

Candidate Davis' sister rejoices that he was defeated. Perhaps she was the one that prompted him to pick Bryan as his running mate.

While La Follette says he has just begun to fight, no one would gain the impression that he was really making a fight from the vote he received.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

We cannot expect much real attainment without supreme effort. Our successes are the result of a combination of blood and spirit. Another has said that "life is a battle for the possession and enrichment of the soul. A man has as much soil as he cultivates. He has as many virtues as he plants. He reaps what he sows." These figures of speech are taken from farm life. We do not measure the productiveness of a farm by its size. Four hundred acres that are allowed to run wild producing nothing but weeds and underbrush are less valuable than forty acres that are in a high state of cultivation. As far as the income is concerned the farmer really has no more vital acres than he works. His virtues are not bought at the village store, and are not sent to him in pound packages from his congressman in Washington. They are the result of his own planting and cultivating. Attainment is the fruitage of effort.

It is generally true that the bitter must everywhere be taken with the sweet. Probably unalloyed sweetness is not best for us, otherwise we should have it. Take, for instance the incomparable weather that has charmed us this fall. Cold, wet, gloomy days we have had scarcely at all. It has been dryness plus sunshine for the major part ever since Labor day. Now this has delighted us and we want these days to linger with us in November. We are like Peter and his comrades on the Mount of Transfiguration. The glorious scene was so enchanting that Peter wanted it to last. Hence he exclaims: "Lord it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles; one for thee, one for Moses, and one for Elias." Like that we want this pleasant weather to remain. But as the Lord knew that Peter needed the other side of life, so we must have the shady side of the weather.

How far are we justified in boasting our agreement with distinguished people, even though they are relatives. It is beautiful in a boy to think that his mother is just the noblest woman on earth, or to feel that his father is as strong as Hercules or as good as Washington. But for adults to cherish this domestic idolitry is another matter. The nation has been laughing at a statement attributed to Charles W. Bryan, to this effect: "I have always been in agreement with the political positions held by my brother, William." The New York Tribune-Herald has used this remark as a campaign slogan, and gives it a prominent place in which it says: "Nobody but a small man will be satisfied in being nothing more than the shadow of somebody else, even though that somebody else is his own brother. Whatever we are let us try to be ourselves, and stand out clear cut and distinct in our own individuality.

What changes can be wrought within the limits of two generations! And such changes can be seen almost all lines of human advancement. Thirty-five years ago today (November 8, 1889) Montana was admitted into our sisterhood of states. This infant empire has a square mileage of over 146,000—or nearly twice the size of the British isles. At the time of its admission it had a population of about 50,000, and we have a right to speculate what its population will be when it is as old as Great Britain. When the last census was taken its population had increased to 548,000. If Montana should continue to increase in population at the rate it has since 1889 until it is as old as Great Britain the population will then be more than four hundred millions. But in all probability this rate of increase will not continue, but everything now points to a mighty future commonwealth.

As usual the season of Hallows-e'en was noticed this year by harmless fireside revelries and outside grotesque performances. In all cases it took the form of masquerades of great variety aiming at comical appearance. We have noted that barn dances were enjoyed by many as a part of the gala night activities. In England at the vigil of All Hallowes it was customary to crack guts, and duck for apples in a tub of water. It has always been observed under a great variety of forms, but the undergrying idea in all nations is the same. Such gatherings have their place in society as well as prayer meetings and sewing circles. Sometimes the privileges of the festival are overstepped and rowdyism prevails. But this year seems to have been free from mischievous behavior.

Now Denver, Col., and Montana can jointly celebrate their November birthday. On November 8, 1861, the same day of the year on which Montana became a state, Denver became the capital of Colorado. It was settled in 1858, with merely a handful of inhabitants, but now has a population of 276,000. This is referred to merely to show the differences in the rapidity with which our western cities grow compared with New England cities. Denver is not only a great health resort, but is an otherwise up-to-date modern city. But how long will it be here? In fact how long will any American city be here? Does that sound like calamity howling? Niebuhr, the German historian, says: "Cities like individuals have their birth, growth and decay." And he points to Nineveh Babylon, Thebes and Palmyra. Plato's words, "Not to live but to live well," may apply to cities as well as men.

One can hardly believe that 78,000 people came from various parts of the country and crowded into Yale bowl, at the Yale-Army game, merely to see a passing fad. Some sports have proved to be only passing fads. Roller-skating as an illustration was brilliant for awhile, so much so that rinks were built for the purpose, but roller-skating was as meteoric in its going as in its coming. But football is much more than a sport, it is a great human game which roller-skating was not. Football is symbolic of many phases in human life. It has its tackles, so has human life. Someone everyday is running out on some big job tackled. Football has its interferences, so has human life. The goal isn't reached because somebody has interfered. All the spectacular runs in college life are not made on the gridiron. Many a boy makes his thirty yards in the class room while his commanders applaud. In many other ways life shows skill, perseverance and endurance.

Let us keep in mind that old Boreas is headed this way, and he will get here in his own time and way. Thus far he has been very indulgent in giving us mild sunny days, but he would not be true to form if he did not appear on the scene of action before long, and remind us that he is still living and is doing business at the old stand. Since Labor day he has twice reminded us by gales he sent that it is not well for us to forget him. It is well then to meet Boreas with enthusiasm, and plenty of it, for if he comes late in the fall he is likely to stay later in the spring. Nothing is gained in the long run in sitting in cold, damp houses just to save coal. If the coal dealer doesn't get your money the frozen will, so that you might just as well put on all the comfort as you go along. Get your coal now because they say it will run out in 25,000 years.

CROSSING THE CONTINENT BY AUTO

At last we're off! For six years I had thought and dreamed and planned a motor camping trip from coast to coast—from the Atlantic to the Pacific—the realization of my dream was a long time coming true, yet it has come and the hours of selecting and rejecting equipment, as I pored over sporting magazines and catalogues and read the articles of those who have made the trip, has borne fruit. So may all dreams come true, if we wish and work hard enough to make them!

We left Norwich on a Monday morning, followed the military highway to New London, then the fine cement road from New London to Colchester, down through Middletown to New Haven to the Post road, which at the present time is remarkable for the great number of its unpleasant detours.

At Pelham Manor, the thought struck me of the civic pride with which that small borough must be imbued. The road is cut and blasted through rock and the pockets in these rocks have been filled with earth and planted with flowers—the blazing scarlet sage and portulaca of every shade under the sun—so that the roadside instead of the deadly gray of broken granite is one mass of gorgeous color. On to New York, where we crossed the Dyckeman street ferry into New Jersey.

New Jersey Attractions.

I suppose all states have their scenic attractions, but they seem to be seriously lacking in New Jersey and the thousands of billboards used for advertising purposes which litter the entire landscape, detract from what it naturally has. There are two auto camps near Englewood Heights. They are both "pay" camps and while located in groves of beautiful trees, they do not look to be very up to date.

Newark, which is the largest city in the state of New Jersey, is an unusually clean and well kept looking city and has the best traffic regulations that we have seen in any city other than Wheeling, W. Va.

Following the National Old Trails, we go through Linden, where the Standard Oil company has the largest refinery in the world, to New Brunswick, the seat of Rutgers college and the state agricultural college; also there is here located the immense plant of Johnson & Johnson, who manufacture surgical and medical supplies.

About two miles outside of Princeton, we motored along the shore of beautiful Carnegie lake, which was created by Andrew Carnegie and was given to Princeton university by him for the use of the Princeton Boat club.

The buildings of Princeton university are said to be among the finest college buildings in the world and are certainly very beautiful. Eleven miles further brings us to Trenton, the last city in New Jersey before we cross the Delaware river into Pennsylvania. Trenton is the capital of New Jersey and contains a great many factories, including various potteries, also the great Roebling wire works.

In Pennsylvania.

Here we crossed the Delaware river into Pennsylvania, just nine miles south of where George Washington made his famous crossing on Christmas Eve, 1776, when he surprised the British and captured Trenton.

And here we made our first camp! The road through Pennsylvania to Philadelphia is in excellent shape and fast time could be made. That city is 23 miles long, from north to south and contains a larger proportion of individual homes than any other city in the world. There are miles and miles of two, three and four-story houses, set singly, surrounded by attractive flower gardens, or in rows. Fairmount park is the largest city park in the United States and is filled with varied attractions such as "boat house row," boat clubs each with an individual house, one of William Penn's home, wonderful flower gardens and Horticultural hall which is filled with giant palms, olive trees, all sorts of tropical fruit and flowers. In Fairmount park also is the zoological garden—the largest in the world.

That night we camped at Avondale, Penn., a village about 30 miles beyond Philadelphia. The camp was called Hillside and was one of the most attractive that I have seen.

Camps.

A few words about camps. There are thousands of them, of all kinds and conditions. Some will be a cleaned up spot in an orchard with rustic tables and benches and stone fireplaces, others—in larger cities—will supply gas ranges, electric washing machines and flat irons, immaculate bath houses, with tub and shower baths and nearly all of them have a small first class grocery store and gas station in connection. The Hillside camp was very clean, had dandy baths and a good store. One of its greatest recommendations was a spring of splendid water.

After we had made camp and took a minute to look around, we discovered our neighbors were from Boston and we all greeted each other like long lost friends.

There are thousands of pounds of mushrooms produced through this section; in fact, they call it the mushroom center of the United States.

In Maryland.

The next day we crossed the Mason and Dixon line on our way to Baltimore, then west through the Blue Ridge Mountains, one does not wonder that Whittier spoke of that section as "fair as a garden of the Lord." As far as we could see in all directions were heavily fruited orchards of apple and peach, great fields of golden shocked corn and the green of the winter wheat, with the bright sunshine over all.

Just beyond Hagerstown, Ind., we saw one orchard of fifty thousand apple trees, beautifully kept and heavy with fruit of scarlet and gold. Here we started to climb the Alleghenny mountains and, at that time, it seemed a very inspiring sight, for one could see for miles across the Cumberland valley, over heavily wooded foot hills and rich farm lands.

It seems difficult to realize that years ago, herds of buffalo ranged here and that they were the ones which originally made the trail over which thousands of automobiles now pass. In 1750 a Delaware Indian named Nemacolin was hired to make a route from Cumberland, Md., to Wheeling, W. Va. This same trail was later used by Washington, during the war with the French and the Indians, and then it was used by General Bradock when he attempted to conquer them at Pittsburgh. But it was in 1818 that it was used by the United States government as a road to the Ohio river. There are still many old stone taverns which were in use in stage coach days, the original mile stones mark the way and heavy arched bridges, dated in the early eighteen hundreds span the streams.

On the far side of the Alleghenies is a three-mile descending grade which is the heaviest grade on any trunk highway east of the Rocky Mountains. Here twenty-five different car manufacturers bring their cars to test their brakes and their power.

Crossing Ohio.

We crossed the state of Ohio on a perfect road: it seemed to unfold before one like a bolt of ribbon. The cities are the cleanest and most attractive of any state through which I have passed, all the farm house yards are gay with flowers and there are many herds of sleek Jersey cattle. The camp at Dayton is located in Island park, a beautiful spot next to the McCook flying field, which is the largest experimental aviation field in the world. All day the air was full of planes going through the most thrilling stunts, and at night they go up illuminated, wings and all. It is a very wonderful sight, one to never be forgotten.

Here we must leave you until the next communication.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Gas and Electric Plant

Mr. Editor: In considering the new offer for the gas and electrical property, it should be kept in mind that the price at which it is sold becomes the basis for capitalization, and cost of property becomes the basis for rate making, so that the higher the price realized for the property the greater will be the burden of interest or dividends on this investment.

A sale price of $2,500,000 would no doubt mean security issues of $2,000,000 to $2,500,000, and the holders of those securities would expect to secure a substantial rate of return, and, of course, the source of that return is the rates paid for gas and electricity in Norwich.

As I understand it, the offer of the Eastern Connecticut Power company was coupled with an agreement to make the purchase price the basis for capitalization of a new company to be formed, so that in considering these two offers for the gas and electric property, the sale price, as it affects the users of gas and electricity, must be given careful consideration. Within certain limits, it makes little difference to the purchaser what price is paid for a public utility if it can be made to produce the necessary earnings.

The Eastern Connecticut Power company, a local company with a modern plant near at hand, with ample financial resources and an organization now doing business throughout the eastern end of the state, will no doubt pay as much as any one can afford to pay for this property.

Flags on Election Day.

Mr. Editor: During the late war people were hysterical about the flag and yet on so important a national day as election day very few flags were displayed. We unfurl the flag for events and heroes of the past—and that is right, but the very day when our hearts should swell with patriotic sentiment and our flag should be waving everywhere, to stir up every bit of patriotism, we fail to see it.

The picture of Coolidge in the windows of Americanized foreigners living in the back country fourteen miles from their nearest city is a subject for thoughtless Americans to ponder over.

Floyd F. Lowe's thought, Selfish Politics vs. Loyal Patriotism, is most pertinent.

Mary Roberts Rinehart's Success After Marriage

As a girl Mary Roberts decided that she wanted to accomplish something in life, but not until the time when she was the mother of three sons did she find the vocation that brought her world recognition.

Born in Sewickley, Pa., she attended the public schools, and entered the Pittsburgh Training School for Nurses. Graduating at 18, she married Dr. Stanley M. Rinehart of Pittsburgh, three days afterward.

Abandoning the field of professional nursing at its portal, she became mistress of a home, with its many domestic duties. Soon after her twenty-first birthday her first boy was born. The other two came within the next ten years. An invalid, from 20 to 30, she seemed to promise her the sole career of a mother.

Having long had a desire to write, she jotted down some of her impressions. Writing an article telling how she had systematized the duties of two maids and a butler, she sent it to a magazine. It was accepted and she received $35. Now encouraged, she wrote some children's verses, but they were rejected.

Just after she had nursed the youngest boy back to health from a serious illness, she took her verses to New York and spent a day trying to interest publishers but without success.

Acting upon the knowledge gained from the only publisher who gave her consideration, she wrote The Circular Staircase within the next year and submitted it to him. It won success. Then appeared The Man in Lower Ten that won greater recognition for her, and Tish, Bab and other books added to her fame and fortune.

She wrote the play, The Double Life and in collaboration with Avery Hopwood the farce, Seven Days, which proved a great success. Later Tish and Bab were put on the stage in plays of their names.

Her health recovered, her home life ideal and with her books and plays producing a revenue of nearly $100,000 a year, before she was 40, life was indeed happy. Her editorials and wholesome advice made her more endeared than ever. Then The Bat was produced and is said to have earned more than a million dollars for the author.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Gen. William Wallace Atterbury, who is slated to become president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company next year upon the retirement of the veteran Samuel Rea, is now one of the vice-presidents of that company. Gen. Atterbury started his railroad career with the advantage of a college education (he is a graduate of Yale), but began his life work in humble capacity. He entered the Altoona shops of the Pennsylvania as an apprentice; later served as road foreman of various divisions; became master mechanic and general superintendent of motive power. It was succession of jobs that gave him the practical knowledge he applied when he came to be numbered among the vice-presidents of the road. During the recent war Mr. Atterbury served as Director-General of Transportation of the American Expeditionary Forces, with the rank of brigadier-General in the U. S. Army. For his services in this post he received decorations from the governments of the United States, France, Great Britain and Belgium.

Stories That Recall Others

Thanksgiving Story.

"Daddy, what is a globular map?" asked brother on his return from school the other evening.

"I suppose that would be a map of all the countries of the globe," the so-called head of the household replied.

"Well, if they call it a 'globular' map it would be just a map of Turkey, wouldn't it?" was brother's next question, and he didn't wait for an answer.

Then Give Up Nothing.

Mrs. A. was engaged in fall housecleaning. A rather ragged, though quite a cheerful individual had been employed to help during the several days of cleaning. In discarding all unnecessary accumulation, Mrs. A. thinking she would please the woman helping her, laid aside a small sugar bowl and cream pitcher with the intention of giving them to the woman. What was her surprise on presenting the gift to here the woman shower:

"No, thank you, Mrs. A., I just figure if you have nothing, you don't have nothing to worry about."

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

The Giant Releases the Wolf

Little Jack Rabbit had a very tender heart. Yes he did, most certainly and positively, as you will see if you read a few words more of this story and remembered what happened in the last.

"Let him go," by and by begged the bunny boy, after gaining courage enough to peek out of the Ragged Giant's jacket.

"Not yet," answered the giant, still holding Mr. Wicked Wolf by the tongue and tail. "I've got a good mind to pull 'em both out."

"No, no!" cried the little rabbit.

"Let go of his tongue and hear what he has to say."

"Don't know about that," answered the Ragged Rabbit Giant, allowing that to hold a wolf by the tail is no easy matter. "He can't now without cutting his tongue off."

"Let go and swing him around and around by the tail," advised the tiny Yellow Bird.

"Ha, ha!" laughed the giant, stepping into a clear space between the trees. "Good idea, little bird," and letting go of Mr. Wicked Wolf's tongue he swung him around by the tail with his strong right arm. The minute the old wolf's tongue was loose, he shouted:

"Let me go, I beg of you.
I'll not bite the leg of you.
Nor your little pinkie toe.
Please be kind and let me go."

Well, as the giant didn't care to spend the rest of his days swinging a wolf around by the tail, he let go, all of a sudden, just like that, and whacko, cracko! came the old wolf against a tree trunk, a mile away. Then the Giant strode off again and, in a short time came to the dear Old Bramble Patch.

Leaning over the bushes, he rumbled the big stick of the lollypop into the ground right in the middle of Lady Love's pretty flower garden. Then, standing up straight, he smiled at the big immense lollypop growing like a great strange flower in the midst of tulips and roses.

Still smiling, the Ragged Rabbit Giant pulled the bunny boy out of his pocket and, pushing the lollypop still deeper in the ground, exclaimed "Now you can reach it. Every day you can hop out for a lick or two, and maybe three or four. Perhaps it will last for a year and a day. By that time the bees will have made another for you. Goodbye. Come to see me soon again," and off he strode in his seven league boots with the tiny Yellow Bird, to his castle on the Sky-High, Tip-Top Mountain.

"Come and see my lollypop," shouted the little rabbit, hopping into the kitchen where Lady Love, his pretty bunny mother, was busily at work. Dearest me, wasn't she surprised when she opened the kitchen door and saw that big immense lollypop growing, as it were, in the midst of her pretty garden. Well, I just guess she was. And so would your mother have been surprised, little reader if such a wonderful thing had happened to you.

To Save Wild Water Fowl

According to Dr. W. B. Nelso, chief of the Bureau of Biological Survey of the U. S. government, the number of wild water fowl is gradually decreasing, but there are still more wild water fowl today than there are feeding grounds for them. Ducks get about 93 per cent of their food from vegetation and wild geese get 97 per cent. A move is on to establish feeding grounds in the sloughs and marshy grounds for them. Owners of such tracts are urged to sow wild rice, pondweed, red head grasses, wild celery, spatterdock and muskgrass for the benefit of these fowl.

Motorcycles may not be taken into Austria without special permission by the government.

Electricity From Mineral Veins

F. R. Wuendward, for the last 38 years active in mine development in Colorado, has worked out a method of extracting electrical energy from the mineral veins of the earth, he says. By his system inexhaustible supplies of the energy, enough for the billions of people of the civilized world, will be available through storage batteries of gigantic proportions which his plan encompasses. His plan also involves long distance transmission of the power by wireless. His discovery was accidental through finding electrical energy in gold and silver ore. His theory is that it comes from the sun.

Favorable Attitude to Electric Plant Offer

After a meeting that lasted nearly three hours Friday evening in the mayor's office at the court house it was apparent that very favorable consideration had been given to an offer made through Bodell & Co., of Providence to buy the Norwich gas and electric department for $2,250,000 cash or $2,500,000, of which $1,175,000 would be in cash and the balance in notes, payable in 15 years at the rate of $50,000 per year.

Mr. Bodell, accompanied by his attorney, Arthur M. Brown, met the special common council committee comprising Mayor Milo R. Waters, Alderman Henry Gebrath and Edward Crooks, together with corporation counsel William H. Shields, Jr., chairman James L. Case of the gas and electric commissioners and general manager C. W. Taggart of the gas and electric department. The whole matter of the offer was gone over and it was stated by Mayor Waters after the meeting that Mr. Bodell had agreed to put up any guarantee that was required and had convinced the committee that the proposed purchaser was fully able to carry out any contract that would be made.

The name of the proposed purchaser was disclosed to the committee but Mayor Waters declined to make this public after the meeting. He stated that he felt personally that the offer was a very fair proposition, as the price was about what he thought the city plant was worth and that he considered the question might eventually hinge upon whether municipal ownership or private ownership would be the better plan.

The committee went as far as to discuss the necessary steps that would have to be taken if the city plant were sold, which included securing permission from the legislature for the city to sell and the purchaser to buy as well as a referendum vote by the citizens upon the proposition.

OBITUARY.

Godfrey A. Geishardt

After being in failing health for some time, seriously ill for about six weeks, the life of Godfrey A. Geishardt, 91, came to a close at 5.30 o'clock Friday morning at his home in Preston City.

Mr. Geishardt had been a resident of Preston City for many years and always took a deep interest in the affairs of his town. Always a republican in politics, Mr. Geishardt held the office of selectman for several years and also served his town in other offices. His kindly manner made it easy for him to retain the respect of his towns people and in his death the town has lost a respected citizen and his family a loved one.

Mr. Geishardt was born in Germany, the son of Paul and Elizabeth Barbara Geishardt, but came to this country when a young man, most of his life being spent in Preston. He was united in marriage, in Germany, with Rosalie Phauer, who survives him with three children, Charles Geishardt of Preston, Miss Emma Geishardt also of Preston and Mrs. Guy P. Dorsey of Omaha, Neb., also three grandchildren.

Mrs. Dennis Driscoll.

The death of Mary Driscoll, widow of Dennis Driscoll, occurred at 4.30 o'clock Friday afternoon at her home No. 38 Cliff street, following an illness of some duration. The news of her death came as a shock to her many friends in this city and sympathy is expressed for those left to mourn the loss of a loved one.

Mrs. Driscoll was born in Ireland, the daughter of Jeremiah and Ellen Haggerty Lucy, and came to this country when a young woman. In January 1870, at St. Mary's church, in this city, she was united in marriage with Dennis Driscoll, by the late Rev. Daniel Mullen. Her husband passed away in this city, June 30, 1901.

Mrs. Driscoll is survived by two sons, Timothy J. Driscoll of Norwich and Daniel F. Driscoll of New Haven; three daughters, the Misses Nellie M., Mary F., and Annie J. Driscoll of this city. There are also six grandchildren.

M'ALL SUNDAY WILL BE OBSERVED IN CHURCHES

Associated with the memories of Armistice Day, McAll Sunday will be observed tomorrow by the churches of Norwich in common with the churches throughout the United States, as an acknowledgement of religious ties that unite this country to France. This setting apart a day devoted particularly to religious activities in which people of the two republics co-operate is a matter of wide interest in America, for the American McAll Association is interdenominational. The same is true of La Mission Populaire as the McAll Mission is known in France, for its impartially seconds the work of all Evangelical churches of that country and aids them in every way possible.

Robert McAll established the mission in Paris in the year of the Commune, more than half a century ago, and it is now one of the recognized institutions of France and one which people of otherwise divergent opinions unite in pronouncing a powerful moral and constructive force.

All-year schools have been discontinued in Newark, N. J. The attendance at summer sessions does not warrant the additional expense.

CITY WILL INSTALL PUMPING PLANT ON TRADING COVE BROOK AT ONCE

Two immediate steps to save water and to reinforce the supply for the city were decided upon Friday night at a special meeting of the water board at the courthouse, with all members present, to consider the situation created by the dry times and the water shortage. President J. J. Corkery presided, Arthur E. Story was clerk pro tem., and in attendance were the other commissioners, R. S. Bartlett and Frank H. Quinley, with Mayor Milo R. Waters and Civil Engineer Shepard B. Palmer.

It was voted to have an immediate and thorough inspection of all fixtures in the city to determine leaky conditions and orders to householders and others will be issued to have repairs made at once on pain of having the water shut off. It will require an increased force of employes to make this inspection.

It was also decided to prohibit the use of hose for any purpose whatever, this including not only sprinkling but the washing of automobiles.

The board was assured by Mayor Waters that the common council would stand behind the board to a man in any expenditures that might be necessary in the present emergency, and it was then voted to proceed at once to install a permanent pumping station at Trading Cove brook near the present 24-inch main from Stony Brook reservoir. It will be possible to pump directly into the main or into the reservoir, and as the water will enter beyond the chlorinating plant it will be fully chlorinated when it enters the city service. Probably only about 25 feet of pipe will need to be laid.

The station will be maintained permanently to meet any future emergency.

All watering troughs and fountains in the city were shut off Friday, which makes a material saving of water, and places where there are elevators were requested to use them as little as possible. All expressed themselves as perfectly willing to cut down their use of elevators.

President Corkery said Friday evening that the Norwich state hospital is co-operating with the city in saving water by arranging to use their own supply during the daytime and draw from the city pipes only at night.

President Corkery gave the advice that householders in high places where there is no water should be careful about their hot water boilers, but their homes will be safe if they leave the faucets open to allow an outlet for the steam.

GLEANERS CLASS PRESENTS PLAY WITH CLEVER CAST

Leave It To Polly, a play in two acts was cleverly given Friday evening at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church by the Gleaners' Class, teacher Mrs. Ernest M. Newbury. A goodly sum of money was realized by the presentation, one half of which is to be donated to the church toward the organ fund, the remainder to go to the Gertrude H. Lippitt Scholarship in India, a scholarship raised each year by the Gleaners class.

The story of the play centered in the Tracy Select Seminary for Girls the time being Hallowe'en, the place being the girl's study hall. Reita Greenlaw, who played the part of Polly Meredith, a western ranch girl who was always leading the girls into trouble, handled her role nicely and was ably supported by the remainder of the cast, indicating careful training under the guidance of Mrs. Ernest Newberry, teacher of the class.

Those who took part in the play were:

Polly Meredith, a girl from the west, Reita Greenlaw.

Miss Priscilla Kitten, principal of the school, Mary Boardman.

Miss Bedelia Kitten, sister of the principal, Fay Hill.

Miss Octavia Harding, instructor in the school, Laura Odgers.

Annie, the maid, Evelyn Wheeler.

Marion Esterbrook, Mary Sautter; Hilda Mason, Josephine Plaskitt; Lillian Martin, Mary Phillips; Ina Sinclair, Grace Murphy; Vivian Winthrop, Henrietta Prink; all pupils of the school.

The Burglar, Laura Levander.

A special feature of the evening was a group of soprano solos rendered in fine voice by Miss Mary E. Gray, her selections being God Touched the Rose (Mary Helen Brown) and Rose in the Bud (Dorothy Forster).

GAS STOVE BLEW UP, MRS. WEYMOUTH INJURED

Mrs. J. Nelson Weymouth was severely injured about noon Friday at her home, 32 Slater avenue, when the gas stove blew up as she was preparing dinner. The blast of flame singed her eyebrows and hair and the force of the concussion so affected her knees that she has lost the use of them temporarily and she is confined to her bed although fortunately she was not struck by any pieces of the flying metal.

The gas from the city plant was so poor as she was preparing dinner that she called up the gas office to register a complaint and was advised to leave the cocks open for a while before trying to light the stove again. This she did, with the doors of the stove open and the doors and windows of the kitchen open at the same time, according to Mr. Weymouth's statement Friday night. When she then attempted to light the oven there was an explosion that blew out the front and side of the stove and knocked her flat on her back. She happened to be at one side of the stove as she tried to light the oven and so escaped the oven door and other pieces of metal that went flying past her.

A doctor was summoned to treat her injuries which it is hoped will not be serious.

It was learned that there was a flood of complaints to the gas department over the quality of the gas Friday morning.

HIBBERD NORMAN ELECTED BY BAR ASSOCIATION

At a special meeting of the New London County Bar Association, held Friday morning shortly after 10 o'clock at the superior court room in this city, President William H. Shields, presiding, Hibberd R. Norman, formerly assistant clerk of the superior court, was named clerk of the bar association, upon nomination by Attorney Arthur M. Brown. The appointment was made to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. Lucius Brown.

The members voted to have President Shields appoint committee of three members each to commemorative action on the recent deaths of the following members of the bar association; Judge M. Thayer, Thomas M. Waller, Hadlai A. Hull, Lucius Brown, Frank R. Brandegee, Frank Q. Quinn, and Henry H. Burnham. The memorials will be given at a session of the court in the city where each of the deceased attorneys resided.

Mr. Norman was also chosen secretary of the Law Library association of New London County as successor to the late Hon. Lucius Brown. Charles Hadlai Hull was appointed to the library committee to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hadlai A. Hull, former state's attorney.

MUST BE IN LINE BY 1.40 SHARP TUESDAY

Major Charles A. Hagberg, marshal of the Armistice Day parade, announced Friday evening that all organizations which are to march in the parade must be in line at 1.40 o'clock sharp, so that the various divisions will be in readiness to fall into their places in the line. Announcement was also made that the parade will proceed through Main street to Burnham square on the northerly side of the street and after countermarching will proceed back through Main street on the southerly side. This is necessary so that the divisions will be able to fall into their proper places without holding up the line. Major Hagberg has selected as his aides Major John A. Hagberg, Lieut. F. B. Craven, Lieut. F. Russell Smith, Lieut. Edward McKay, Lieut. Harry W. House, Lieut. Webster D. Copp and Lieut. Charles Bentley. Each of the aides will have charge of a division while the division is forming and will then proceed to the head of the line and march with Marshal Hagberg.

Another feature of the parade will be the World war medical unit. This will include Dr. David Sussler, Dr. William T. Driscoll, Dr. John W. Callahan, Dr. Frank Holme, Dr. N. B. Lewis, Dr. Paul F. Gadle and all other medical men who were in the service and who wish to march.

The parade will be reviewed by the city and town officials and distinguished guests from a reviewing stand to be erected on the John C. Morgan property on Washington street. After viewing the parade they will fall in line at the rear and proceed to Chelsea parade for the exercises.

Howard L. Stanton, chief of the Norwich fire department, has arranged to have all the World war veterans of the fire department in the parade. They will ride on Engine No. 6 and will be ready to handle any calls for fires that may come in during the parade hour. On the apparatus will be Driver Peter O'Neil, who served in the navy and who will be in charge of the apparatus; Edward Carey of Squad A, who served in the navy; Patrick Coleman of Squad A, who served in the army; Thomas Tracy, Engine No. 8, of the navy; Julian Gale of Engine No. 1, who served in the army, and Henry Armstrong of Engine No. 1, who served in the army.

Provided no fire calls are received they will go over the line of march and when the parade is dismissed at Union square will report back to the stations. All men in the department will be on duty that day in case of emergency.

A rich field of sapphires has been discovered in Ceylon.

DESCRIBES TRIP WITH AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION

With an attendance of about 150 the men's club of the Central Baptist church held their bi-monthly supper Friday evening at Bushnell Chapel. The supper was served at 6.30 o'clock with the following menu:

Grape Fruit
Roast Beef
Mashed Potatoes Turnip
Gravy Cranberry Sauce
Rolls Squash Pie
Cheese Coffee

During the supper music was furnished by Swahn's orchestra and a number of well known songs were sung by all present. Edward Y. Messenger led in the singing and Joseph E. Adams assisted at the piano. At the conclusion of the menu a brief business session was held with President Shephard B. Palmer presiding. John Mitchell was delegated a committee of one to convey the thanks of the club to the women of the church for the splendid menu they provided. Mr. Palmer then turned the remainder of the meeting over to Henry H. Pettis, chairman of the entertainment committee.

At a suggestion from Judge Pettis there was a general introduction around the tables. As Mayor Milo R. Waters, who was present as a guest, was introduced he was given three rousing cheers. Following the introductions My Old Kentucky Home and Smiles were sung by the club and Judge Pettis then presented as the speaker Judge Allyn L. Brown who in an interesting way described his visit to London last summer with the American Bar Association, which has 30,000 members of whom 356 live in Connecticut.

Judge Brown described at some length the week's programme arranged by the English Bar Association for the entertainment of the American guests. The programme included Sunday morning service at Westminster Abbey, a formal reception to the American Bar Association with over 2,000 people present, a visit to the houses of parliament, suppers at the inns of court, and a garden party at Buckingham Palace given by the king and queen, besides numerous other social events. Judge Brown told of attending a criminal court session at the "Old Bailey" and contrasted the English court procedure with the procedure of American courts. At the conclusion of his address Judge Brown was given a rising vote of thanks. The meeting came to a close about 8.45 o'clock. Mrs. Henrietta Tefft was chairman of the committee in charge of the supper.

LIEUT. COMMANDER FLANIGAN TO COMMAND 1ST DIVISION

As the ranking officer of the United States army and naval companies participating in the Armistice Day parade, it is very probable that the first division will be commanded by Lieutenant Commander H. A. Flanigan of the Submarine Base. The lieutenant commander of the navy is on a par with a major in the army and as he will be the highest officer participating in the parade, it will of course be his duty to command the division.

Secretary O'Rourke and Captain Colberg held a conference with Captain King of the Submarine Base Friday morning relative to a pilot for a submarine boat to be located near the Thames River Line dock at the foot of Shetucket street and which will be open for public inspection from 12.30 until 5 p. m. The submarine detailed for this part of the celebration is the N-3 under the command of Lieutenant G. K. C. Reilly, U. S. N. Captain Colberg who has over thirty years experience of navigation on the Thames river will pilot the N-3 to Norwich and return to the base on the following day. It is noteworthy in this instance that it will be necessary to have this submarine come up at high tide and return at high tide because of the shallow depth of the river. In fact the government boat would not proceed to Norwich unless a competent pilot was furnished the sub base officials. Herein lies another necessity for the deepening of the Thames river from Allyn's Point to Norwich.

The following additional contributors have been sent in their contributions to Martin E. Jensen at the Bankers Trust Co.:

Tyler D. Guy, Smith, the Florist, John M. Lee, Joseph Pysyk, G. B. Prentice, Joseph Panek, Charles H. Benjamin, Joseph S. Adams, Turner & Stanton Co., F. B. Ricketson, Chas. W. Taggart, N. MOTOR LAW VIOLATORS FINED IN COURT

Seven violators of the motor vehicle laws were brought before the police court Friday morning by State Policeman Watson, on various charges, on evidence he had secured against them during the past week. Three were charged with driving their automobiles with the cutout open, the other four being charged with reckless driving, three of them facing an additional charge of passing a schoolhouse without slackening speed. Pleas of not guilty were entered by the last three.

The three men charged with driving with the cutouts open, pleaded guilty and paid fines of $5 and costs, amounting to $14.73 each.

Three men charged with reckless driving without mowing down, were fined $5 and costs, the charge of reckless driving being nolled.

The arrests followed complaints to the Groton state police baracks that motorists were speeding through the main streets of this city. Judge Libby stated that he did not like to see these men lose their licenses on a charge of reckless driving, stating that although they had driven at a rather good rate, it was about the average of that of other drivers on the main streets.

However, be warned against violation of the speed laws indicating that the violaters would be severely dealt with in the future if the "Go Slow" warnings on traffic beacons were disregarded.

BIG ARMORY CARD PARTY FOR BACKUS HOSPITAL

The Backus hospital benefit card party given at the state armory Friday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of the W. W. Backus hospital proved to be a great success and a considerable sum of money will be realized. The affair was under the direct management of the finance committee of which Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert is chairman.

The success of the affair, however, was due to the work of all committees and the many friends of the auxiliary residing in Norwich. The donations and the willingness to assist, shown by people of all classes, made it impossible for the affair to be less a success. The assistance and courtesy of Captain Dennison and Sergeant Malcolm of the state armory were also deeply appreciated by the committee in charge and the committee expressed gratitude for the assistance given by many public spirited citizens of the city.

In all there were 65 tables in play during the afternoon. A majority enjoyed playing bridge but there were also tables for whist and mah jongg. HARVARD-PRINCETON GAME LOOMS AS BIG GAME TODAY ON EASTERN GRIDIROUS

New York, Nov. 7.—(By The A. P.)—The first of the east's outstanding gridiron classics will be enacted tomorrow at Cambridge when Harvard will go into battle against Princeton in the opening fight for the 1924 "Big Three" championship.

The Crimson, with a heavier, more experienced line and more capable array of backs, will be a decided favorite but the Tigers, resourceful and fighting their hardest when facing the heaviest odds, will not go down to defeat without making a brilliant stand.

On the season's record to date, Harvard figures to have an advantage of about two touchdowns over Princeton. The Crimson tasted its only defeat by the margin of a touchdown at the hands of Dartmouth, while the Tigers were tied by Lehigh, barely beat the Navy and were decisively whipped by Notre Dame. But past performances have seldom been an accurate barometer in these "Big Three" clashes.

Close to 50,000 will witness the Harvard-Princeton spectacle while several hundred thousand more will see the remaining features of the East's Gridiron schedule, which included five games of intersectional interest and the second of the New England "Little Three" series, in which Williams will be favored to down Wesleyan at Williamstown, Mass.

Yale encounters her third international opponent in Maryland. The southerners gave the Elis their principal scare of the 1923 season, losing by two points after a great battle, but the Bulldog looks to have a decided edge this season.

Army, tackling its fourth intersectional rivals, is expected to repel the invasion of the strong Florida eleven, which held Georgia Tech to a tie several weeks ago, while the odds also are with the east in two clashes with middle western foes, when Brown meets the Haskell Indians at Providence, and Marquette marches into the Boston College stronghold. The Redskins were beaten decisively last week by Boston College, which now seeks to avenge last year's one-point defeat at the hands of Marquette, whose three-year winning streak was broken last week.

Colgate's invasion of Morgantown, W. Va., for battle with West Virginia has attracted keen intersectional interest. Each eleven has tasted defeat once this season and figure to wage a close fight, with the odds, if any, favoring the mountaineers.

Dartmouth and Cornell, preparing for their renewal of their feud next week at the Polo grounds, will take on comparatively easy opponents, the green meeting Boston University while the Ithacans, who staged a come-back last Saturday by downing Columbia, take on Susquehanna.

Pennsylvania, the only major eastern eleven which has been neither beaten or tied, figured to have little difficulty conquering Georgetown, while Rutgers tied but not defeated so far, will endeavor to keep her slate clean against the onslaughts of the powerful Lafayette array in a game transferred to Princeton's stadium from New Brunswick, N. J., because of ticket demands.

19 COLLEGE CROSS COUNTRY TEAMS MEET TODAY

New York, Nov. 7.—(By The A. P.)—A field of 265 hill and dale runners, representing 19 eastern institutions, has been entered for the 1924 intercollegiate cross-country race over the six-mile Van Cortland course on November 24, when Syracuse will defend the championship the Orange has won for the past two years.

This was revealed upon the closing of entries today with the intercollegiate A. A. A. A., under whose auspices the varsity event will be run for the sixteenth time. The fifth annual freshman title race, which will be run a threemile course, has attracted 218 entries from fifteen colleges.

Johns Hopkins, which produced the individual winner last year in Verne Booth, will not be represented in the 1924 varsity race.

The champion Orange harriers have four veterans of their victorious 1923 squad as a powerful nucleus for their bid for a third straight crown. As a result, Syracuse probably will start a favorite but faces keen opposition, particularly from Columbia, runner-up last year, which has a veteran team; Dartmouth, winner of the recent quadrangular race with Columbus, Pennsylvania and Cornell; and Yale, which has a strong squad with an individual ace in "Mac" Smith, freshman winner of 1923, who captured the recent Springfield meet in 31 minutes, 59 seconds. This performance for a six-mile race eclipses the record for Van Cortandt Park, set by Booth last year at 32:10.

Cornell, winner of 17 of the 24 championship races held since 1899, has a veteran leader in Ed Kirby, who will be a strong contender for individual laurels; but Jack Moakley's squad apparently is not up to former standards. Pennsylvania also has an ace in Elmer McLane, but does not figure as a strong team contender. Harvard has two capable men in Chapin and Christeson, while Holy Cross has an Olympic team star in Leo Larrivee.

Yale, Maine, Syracuse and Pennsylvania, with 20 entries each, have nominated the largest available lists for the varsity race. Only seven are permitted to start under the colors of any one college, however, while only the first five figure in the team scoring. Cornell has nineteen entries while the others are as follows: Columbia 16, Bates 15, Harvard 15, New York University 17, Rutgers 13, Dartmouth 13, Princeton 12, Massachusetts Tech 12, City College of New York 12, Colby 11, Holy Cross 10, Pittsburgh 9, Lafayette 7, Swarthmore 1.

The freshman entries are: Maine 30, Cornell 26, Pittsburgh 18, Syracuse 18, Penn State 15, Pennsylvania 15, City College of New York 14, Yale 14, Princeton 13, M. I. T. 13, Columbia 12, Dartmouth 11, New York University 10, Rutgers 9, Bates 6.

CHAPMAN TECH CONFIDENT OF BEATING WINDHAM

Special to the Bulletin.)

New London, Nov. 7.—While Bulkeley is attempting to gain a victory at Norwich this (Saturday) afternoon, Chapman Tech will travel further up the state to meet the undefeated Windham High school eleven at the Thread City. With two undefeated teams facing each other with deliberations and coolness to remain an undefeated eleven, the contest is expected to be one of the best fought in this section of the state over the week end.

A good deal of Chapman Tech's hopes are pinned upon the offensive ability of both the dusky Johnny Brown and the heavy line plunging fullback, Kannenberg. If Windham can stop the advances of these two men it will be an easy matter to come out ahead. But both Brown and Kannenberg are two players who will refuse to be stopped and for that reason the game is expected to be a merry battle throughout. But neither of these two players can expect to play like eleven men and must receive cooperation from their team mates.

The Tech weakness lies in her ends and it will be easy to round her wing positions with ease and facility. Aquillo who at present occupies right end is to light to offer any resistance for fine interfering backs of Windham's type. The weakness of Tech's ends were demonstrated by the not to powerful Westerly eleven. The only thing that saved Tech from and ignominious defeat was the effective boring in of the halfback, Brown. But Windham will easily see a chance to throw a pass over the head of the over-zealous Brown in his attempt to stop the play dead. The line is not any to strong, for the linemen usually and very frequently play out of position. These openings can be converted for a gain by a brainy quarterback.

A defensive expected to combat the forward pass game was perfected durported for duty, and the quarterback for the week. Every regular has requestion reats with the Tech mentor. Courbois who has been suffering from a wrenched ankle, has rejoined the squad and it was under his guiding hand the Tech was able to win from Stonington last Saturday. But whether he will receive the call over Everts is not known, but in case Everts gets the call over Courbois, the latter will get into the game before the end.

GRANGE GETS HIS REAL TEST AGAINST CHICAGO TODAY

Chicago, Nov. 7.—(By the A. P.)—Whether Illinois, outstanding favorite to win the 1924 western conference football championship, is a superteam, impossible to stop, or whether it is a team of remarkably drilled players, against who no suitable defense has been evolved, will be determined on Stagg field tomorrow when Illinois and Chicago clash in the day's ranking game in the west.

Illinois tonight was a top-heavy favorite, largely through the efforts of Harold Grange, who has not been successfully stopped since he stepped on a conference gridiron last fall. There is little doubt in the minds of neutral football observers that Coach Stagg, for thirty odd years a builder of football machines at Chicago, is a master in developing defense against powerful teams. Whether he has succeeded in developing one to stop Grange was a Question that could not be answered tonight. With everything to win and nothing to lose, the 62 year old coach of the Maroons has been on the chalk lines himself, directing the practice of his team.

Michigan and Iowa, as far as man power was concerned, were considered to have the best opportunities to stop Grange. Against the Wolverines, however, the Illinois wildcat ran wild and against Iowa he consistently gained from five to ten yards almost every time he started in outback runs off tackle.

HARVARD AND PRINCETON READY FOR BATTLE TODAY

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 7.—The "Big Three" championship football series of 1924 will be opened in the Harvard Stadium tomorrow with a Tiger team from Princeton opposing the Crimson. The game will be seen by 53,000 persons. It should find the teams well matched.

With two sets of backfields available, one heavy and the other light, Coach Roper at the Tiger rest camp at Belmont this evening indicated the likelihood that choice at the start would go to Williams, Slagle, Gilllican and Weeks, the lighter quartet. This is a combination of speed, with Slagle as the kicker constituting a triple threat.

ARMY-NAVY GAME MAY BE PLAYED IN CHICAGO

Washington, Nov. 7.—Representative Britten of Illinois, who called at the White House today to congratulate President Coolidge upon his victory, said he had taken up with the war department the advisability of playing the 1925 Army and Navy football game in Chicago. He said that Chicago would make arrangements to cover the expense of the contest, including that of transportation of the entire West Point Cadet corps to that city.

DIVER THINKS HE FOUND LOST CITY OF VINETA

Off Arkona, at the northern extremity of the Baltic island of Ruegen, deep-sea fishermen have discovered on the sea bottom the remains of a large medieval warship, with many of her old guns still on board. From their workmanship it is thought that the vessel was a Danish warship.

The diver who brought up the guns maintains that near the ship he saw dimly the remains of immense walls. This has started the theory that the site has been discovered of the long-lost city of Vineta, which was swallowed up by the Baltic 825 years ago, about the time when the North Sea engulfed the Isle of Lomea and formed the Goodwin Sands.

The legend of lost Vineta has been sung in German verse. Fishermen on calm nights often say they can hear the sunken city's bells.

Hayal, Azores, and Emden, Germany, are to be connected by cable.

ANNUAL GAME BETWEEN BULKELEY AND ACADEMY AT CAMPUS THIS AFTERNOON

Football interest in the eastern part of Connecticut centers on two games today—the Academy-Bulkeley game at the Academy campus this afternoon and the Chapman Tech-Windham game at Willimantic, where two unbeaten teams will meet. The local game is the annual classic which draws the banner crowd of the football season, and this year will be no exception.

Bulkeley comes to Norwich today with a seasoned team of veterans, a team that is claimant of state honors, and a team that has tasted defeat only once this season, and that at the hands of the powerful New Britain eleven. Bulkeley goes into the game here today the favorite to win by virtue of its record as a fine football machine. But several times Bulkeley in years past has come to Norwich just as full of confidence and has gone back with the small end of the score, and today may see the mighty pulled from their throne.

On the other hand, the Academy realizing that it is up against the toughest test of the season, is not undaunted and will go into today's game determined to beat the Whalers. Such spirit goes a long ways in football, for, as Coach Bill Roper told his Princeton players, "A team that never says die is never beaten." Every player of the Academy team is going into today's game with that feeling of never being beaten until the final whistle, and it will be a hard fought game.

The Academy team suffered a severe setback last week, when Hagberg and Gilman, both guards, were injured in the Westerly game. Polsky and Stefano have been playing the guard positions during the week and have been showing real football talent, both getting in and breaking up plays. Polsky with his 200 pounds' weight is a tower of strength in the line and it will be a hard task to drive plays through his side of the line. Stefano is a rugged boy who plays close to the ground and is a tenacious tackler. Another shift that should work to the Academy's benefit is the switching of Scott from end to tackle and Hollander from tackle to end. Scott has played end all season but his showing has not been impressive. Last year Scott played a great game in the tackle position and very few plays were made through him. Hollander has been playing a good game at tackle this season but plays a better game in the end position. Coach Aitken, anticipating that Bulkeley will use Rice on a number of end plays, has spent much time with Hollander and Carlin in breaking up interference and tackling. Hollander is a sure tackler and very elusive, being very fast on his feet. Both Carlin and Hollander can handle the forward pass. Much time this week has been spent on perfecting the defense and Bulkeley will meet with some unexpected opposition this afternoon, and it will be no bed of roses for the Whalers, either.

The Academy lineup will be: Hollander le, Sukowski lt, Polsky lg, Haslam c, Stefano rg, Scott rt, Carlin re, Williams qb, Higgins lhb, McGowan rhb, Hinrichs fb.

BULKELEY PREPARING LINE PLAYS TO USE AGAINST N. F. A.

(Specila to Te Bulletin)

New London, Nov. 7.—Armed with a number of new formations, Bulkeley High with Capt. George Sheflott, the brilliant Walter Rice and Edward Henkle leading the attack and with such capable linemen as Jerry Dillon, Joe Watterson, Tillie Daniels and Buck Gavitt leading the line attack, the Bulkeley football team is fully prepared to take on the Norwich Free Academy eleven at Norwich this (Saturday) afternoon. It will be a team that is not over confident of a victory, but a team with that ripping tearing backfield, and that strong line which has won commendation from nearly all the leading sport writers in the state.

Without a possible exception, this year Bulkeley eleven will be the strongest combination that has invaded the Rose City to engage its traditional rival. With the Bulkeley team on its last lap for State honors, and some of the individual players receiving all-state mention, it will be a combination once set going hard to stop even with a stone wall. The Orange and Black team possesses every good quality that a team in order to be in the running and to defeat such a team as Crosby High of Waterbury by a 24 to 0 score has hope to possess. Speed in the backfield which has been lacking in theothers elevens to oppose Bulkeley this season and a line wheih can make holes in the opposing line as though it were made of paper will be two of the big reasons why Bulkeley is expected to bring home a victory.

Nearly a thousand followers of the Bulkeley eleven will wend their way to the Rose City, that number, half will be made up of Bulkeley students. It will be the last possible chance for all Bulkeley admirers to view the locals in action this season, for the remainder of the schedule will be out of town.

Expecting that Norwich will attempted to stop an end run game which has been Bulkeley's best means of advancing the ball this season, Coach W. R. Canty has drilled the team to use more line bucks, and formations to make this kind of play practical were added to those already used. It will be a varied attack that will be unleased upon the Red and White machine with all the dynamic fury which has characterized the Bulkeley advance this year. So in order to not only stop the offensive ability of two real grid stars—Rice and Sheflott—Norwich will have to stop a perfectly balanced forward pass game.

For the first time in over three weeks, the Bulkeley varsity has shown a willingness to work and work hard. For over two hours, one of the most strenuous of drills in fundamentals and signal drill was given the elevens by the Orange and Black mentor. And then after explaining the new plays and giving enlightment upon several subjects which have perplexed the team about the way the new plays should be worked, Coach Canty let the first and second teams go to it. It was with vim and vigor that the Bulkeley tornado unleashed itself upon the seconds and before anyone knew what was happening, seven touchdowns in a comparatively short time wear made. Long runs by Rice and Sheflott featured and passes each for a touchdown also helped to swell the score materially. Bulkeley of the long variety with Le Blanc and Daniels running about sixty yards went to work against the seconds as though it were some team other than students at the local institution.

Friday afternoon was well spent fimostly in signal drill and the three teams which reported for practice were given but a short drill. But the backs of the first team and the second team were busy either catching punts or kicking them. It looked as though Coach Canty expects to replace his first team players with substitutes as the game draws to a close. He paid unusual attention to the starts and positions used by the second team backs.

Two radical changes in the lineup which are expected to be improvements over last week have been evident for the past two days. Collins was placed in the fullback position, relieving Norcey who assumed that place since the injury of Joe Barry. Another change is in the line, and a wing position is effected. Graves who played a fine game at New Britain last Saturday and who received the only pass Bulkeley completed, which was good for nearly forty yards, will be seen at left end in place of Hutchison who is still out with a weakened ankle. There are other able substitutes for the wing positions and these men are Le Blanc and Davis. There are linemen in abundance of the rangy type to, in case substitutions are made as anticipated. For the first time in four weeks, Joe Barry regular fullback will get into a uniform but will not probably perform. His injured leg which was broken in the game with Springfield Tech on Oct. 10 has not healed completely to the satisfaction of Coach Canty.

FEEDING CABBAGE GIVES MILK OBJECTIONABLE FLAVOR

Succulent feeds in the ration of dairy cows have come to have such importance that many crops not grown primarily for this purpose may enter into the ration. Cabbage and potatoes, though not generally grown for dairy feeds, are often fed to dairy cows as a means of supplying succulence and disposing economically of products that are otherwise unmarketable.

Like other succulent feeds, cabbage and potatoes may have a tendency to impart undesirable flavors and odors to the milk, says the United States department of agriculture, if fed under certain conditions. Tests have been conducted by the department to determine the extent to which these crops affect the flavor of milk and how they may be fed and the milk handled so as to minimize such effect.

It was found that on the average when dairy cows consume as much as 143 pounds of cabbage within one hour before milking time, abnormal and objectionable flavors are produced in the milk. An increase in the amount of cabbage fed intensifies these flavors. An average of 25 pounds of cabbage may be consumed immediately after milking, however, without having objectionable flavors in the milk become noticeable. Some of these flavors may be eliminated by proper aeration of the milk, and others greatly reduced.

The feeding of 14.5 pounds of potatoes an hour before milking may flavor the milk to a slight extent, but hardly enough to be detected by the average consumer. Increasing this amount of potatoes does not increase the abnormal flavors and odors produced in the milk. Dairy cows may be fed as much as 28 pounds of potatoes immediately after milking, with no resultant off flavors in the milk.

DEWBERRY GROWING

Although suited to many types of soils, the dewberry is most extensively grown on coarse sandy loams, says Farmers' Bulletin 1465, Dewberry Growing, recently published by the United States department of agriculture. Its deep rotting system enables the plant to obtain moisture from such soils better than many other crops.

The dewberry, also called trailing blackberry, is extensively grown in a small number of localities in North Carolina, Michigan, New York and New Jersey where, because of the growers in using special methods of training and culture, it is very profitable.

The bulletin calls attention to certain of these operations that have been found essential. In the North Carolina dewberry section of operations of greatest importance seem to be the removal of all canes, old and new, as soon as the crop is picked; the application of large quantities of fertilizer in early spring and again in midsummer immediately after the canes have been cut out; and the training of the canes to tall stalks.

In the Michigan section the covering of the basal part of the canes in late fall to prevent winter is considered of primary importance. In the New York section protection from winter injury by allowing weeds to grow and cover the canes is thought to be necessary.

BIG INCREASE IN SOYBEAN ACREAGE

The acreage of soybeans grown for the grain in the northern states, where the crop is rapidly gaining in favor, has increased about 25 per cent this year, according to the federal crop reporting board. The total United States acreage grown for the beans, rather than for forage, this year is estimated at 534,200 acres compared with 452,000 acres last year.

Kentucky and Tennessee show increased acreage of 10 per cent grown for grain, Ohio 18 per cent; Illinois 20 per cent; Indiana and Michigan 25 per cent; Iowa and Alabama 40 per cent and Missouri 50 per cent. General increases occurred in the Gulf states, but decreases are reported for the Carolinas, a reduction of 6 per cent being shown in North Carolina which is the leading producing state for this crop. The October 1 average condition of the crop for the United States was 79 per cent of normal.

Land planted to cowpeas for the peas has been greatly decreased, the present area being 810,000 acres compared with 1,218,000 acres last year. The October 1 condition of the crop for the United States is reported as 59 per cent of normal.

Velvet bean average shows a slight reduction to 558,000 acres compared with 601,000 acres last year. The condition of the crop October 1 in Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas below 50; Georgia 62; South Carolina 65; Alabama 73; Florida 84. The condition for the entire crop is 65 per cent.

SYSTEM FOR THE MARKETING OF POULTRY

Farm women belonging to a home demonstration club in Anson county, N. C., with the help of the home demonstration agent, according to a report received by the United States department of agriculture, have developed a system of marketing their poultry in an organized way, enabling them to place their dressed chickens on sale with the least possible delay and to realize immediate profits.

The marketing was organized first by securing a list of every woman in the county having hens for sale and the number available. Next a meeting was held in each community represented on the list at which the members interested were instructed in dressing, packing, making out bills, and other selling details. Each community was given a special time for its shipment to Wadesboro, the country market. Wednesday of each week was set aside as "dressing day" and Thursday as "packing day." The hens were brought to a central point, usually a club member's house or the schoolhouse, and everybody helped with the work of killing, picking, and after the hens had been cooled overnight, packing in barrels. If, as frequently happened, the extension agent received telegrams calling for an increased number of chickens, the local leader in some community farther down the schedule was notified to have her club members get their supply ready.

People had a good time at these community "hen parties." The husbands and often the whole family came and helped. The value of receiving a check for all one's poultry at one time was greatly appreciated. Orders from individual housewives and from grocery stores, hotels, and tea rooms were also filled by parcel post. Through selling dressed chickens, orders from individual housewives and from grocery stores, hotels, and tea rooms were also filled by parcel post. Through selling dressed chickens, orders were also secured for other products, including turkeys, fig preserves, pickles and butter.

POULTRY HOUSE CONSTRUCTION

It never pays to overcrowd hens—they need a comfortable house, dry and roomy, with plenty of fresh air and sunshine. How to give them all this is told by the United States department of agriculture in Farmers' Bulletin 1413, Poultry House Construction, just issued.

A plain shed-roof is most economical, and most satisfactory. It should be so arranged, says the bulletin, that it will be easy to clean and for general convenience.

It is easier to keep the birds healthy and to reproduce the stock under the colony system, if the birds are allowed free range. Breeding stock, especially growing chickens, should have plenty of range. Hens used solely for the production of market eggs may be kept on a very small

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

There is so much to be said for The Fast Set, William de Mille's film version of the famous Broadway stage play, Spring Cleaning, which makes its local debut tomorrow night at the Broadway theatre, that the only way to prove it to yourself is to see this Paramount production.

The intelligent direction of Mr. de Mille, the surpassing artistry of each and every member of the flawless cast, the inspiring settings of Wilfred Buckland, the smooth scenario of Clara Beranger and last but by no means least, the novel and amusing story, all deserve outspoken commendation.

We won't spoil the picture for you by telling you how the husband wins his wife back, suffice to say that the method he uses is undeniably original. We heartily recommend this film to all tired business men who wonder why their wives are so restless!

Mr. de Mille has assembled a cast that leaves nothing to be desired. Betty Compson, as the wife, gives a marvelous performance. Miss Compson proved her histrionic ability in previous pictures but in many scenes of The Fast Set she reaches a new high-water mark in dramatic acting. Adolphe Menjou impersonates the "great lover" and is more fascinating than ever. As for Elliott Dexter, who portrays the husband, and Zasu Pitts, the fourth featured member of the cast, these two artists are too well known to expect anything but an admirable performance from each. Needless to say they add fresh laurels to their former triumphs.

All in all, The Fast Set is mighty likeable film fare. By all means see it!

Short subjects include a comedy and Kinograms, News of the World.

Monday Tuesday and Wednesday —a great vaudeville program.

Connecticut College Concert.

Josef Hofmann, one of the world's great pianists, is to visit New London, Nov. 18, to give the second concert in the current college series. A brief sketch of his life, therefore, may be of interest.

It is one of the greatest of Ingram's pictures, worthy in every way of the man who produced The Four Horsemen and Scaramouche, and superbly acted by a cast that includes Ramon Novarro and Alice Terry.

The picture was filmed in Algiers and Tunis, and it affords the most convincing of all arguments why pictures should be screened on the exact locale of the story, instead of at Hollywood studios. For Mr. Ingram, in going to the east, has brought back with him to the screen all of the glamorous enchantment that has beckoned to travelers through all the ages.

The Arab gives you the Orient in all of its wonderful color and exotic life; an authentic background for a drama that holds the spectators tense with excitement.

Ramon Novarro appears in the title role, as an Arab guide who falls in love with an American missionary's daughter, played by Alice Terry.

Larry Semon in Horseshoes, Topics of the Day and Hodge Podge make up the remainder of the bill.

Today's bill consists of Tom Mix in The Trouble Shooter, William Duncan in The Fast Express, an Imperial comedy and the Pathe news. Continuous show today 1:30 to 10:30 P. M.

Palace Theater

Judging from the number of people who literally had to force their way into the Palace theater yesterday, Harold Lloyd is more popular than ever. His latest feature length Pathe comedy, Hot Water, opened to a storm of riotous laughter and it is perfectly safe to say that this is the greatest and funniest comedy Harold has ever made. Indeed, anyone who can see this picture without laughing long and hilariously, must be a queen specimen of humanity.

The great thing about seeing a Lloyd comedy, is that you never know what is coming next. He is the most original comedian that we know of and his work is characterized by a certain quality of sparkling freshness that is most delightful.

Nothing too good can be said of Harold Lloyd and the pictures that he puts out for the entertainment of an admiring public. And he certainly hasn't disappointed anybody with this, his latest release. His humor, always versatile, always clean, rises to new heights of hilarity in Hot Water. If you want the treat of a lifetime, don't miss it!

Pathe news, Maud Muller special, and Five Episode of the sensational western thriller Ten Scars Make a Man with Allene Ray.

Palace Theater

Many claim that the eyes are the greatest factor in motion picture acting.

A most remarkable demonstration of the power of the eyes may be seen in the M. C. Levee production, "In Every Woman's Life," the First National feature to be presented at the Palace theatre four days starting Sunday.

Throughout half the picture Marc MacDermott plays the role of a paralytic—unable to move the muscles below the eyes. He cannot even speak. Every thought must be registered through the eyes alone. His expressions on the screen are so clear that many titles were eliminated as being unnecessary.

If the actor is skillful he can tell everything in such a manner that the audience will scarcely have to read titles. This is what MacDermott registers in "In Every Woman's Life."

He shoots the man who seeks to attack his wife. His confession to the police, which he makes completely with his eyes, can be read from them unmistakably. Virginia Valli enacts the wife's role. George Fawcett, Stuart Holmes and other screen favorites are in the cast.

Added attraction, Sunday night only, fourth episode of the sensational police serial, Into the Net, with Jack Mulhall. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Pathe news, and Mack Sennett's latest real

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

News of general interest filled the columns of the Bulletin a half century ago. Perhaps the item of most interest was that which told of the coming dedication of the new Park church, this being scheduled to take place on November 17th.

Other items of interest, taken in part from the files of the Bulletin for 1874 are as follows:

Monday, Nov. 2, 1874—The fish way at the dam of the Water Power Co., as we have already mentioned, is nearly completed. Apropos of the doubts felt as to whether it will answer the purpose intended, a story is current that out of seventy-five shad placed at the foot of one of the fish ways on the Connecticut river, and confined to the vicinity by a wire range, only a few ascended the way; the rest dying after a brief time.

The fall catch of menhaden has struck on and two parties at least made a good thing of it two days last week. The Mystic Press says that Wilcox & Lennen's boats of the Mint Head company caught $60,000 and Allyn & Co.'s $60,000, in those two days, yielding twelve gallons of oil to the thousand.

The silver trowel used by the late Bishop McFarland in laying the corner stone of the new Catholic church in Willimantic, has been handsomely framed and is to be hung in the new church. The trowel bears this inscription: "Corner stone of St. Joseph's church, Willimantic, Conn., laid Aug. 17, 1873, by Rt. Rev. F. P. McFarland, D. D." The frame also contains the pictures of Bishop McFarland and the Rev. Mr. De Bruycker, pastor of the church.

Tuesday, Nov. 3, 1874—The Boston Journal of Commerce says: The Willimantic Linen company commenced the manufacture of linen goods in Willimantic in 1845, with a capital of $75,000. Spool cotton soon engaged their attention, as giving a wider field for their efforts. They have recently added 12,000 spindles and contemplate adding 10,000 more. In all they are now running 60,000 spindles and employ 600 hands and are turning out over two and a half million spools of cotton per year.

In one large factory in town at least there is activity and prosperity. This is at the car shops of the Norwich & Worcester railroad where they are running on full time and with a full force. They are now employing some few men who have left other shops because of lack of work. The car shops are at present manufacturing a hundred new dump cars for the large coal trade of the road.

The horse railroad track in the vicinity of Bean Hill is being raised and filled in for nearly a quarter of a mile. The improvement which is being superintended by Nelson Vergason is much needed.

Wednesday, Nov. 4, 1874—The Colchester soldiers' monument is to be of native or Scotch granite and is nominally to cost $3,000, but will cost the town more than that before they get through with it.

The United States surveyors found the depth of water at one point between the steamboat wharf and the opposite shore to be sixty-seven feet.

The extremely dry weather recently has caused the water in the Shetucket river to reach new low marks.

Capt Whaley and three other gentlemen went hunting one day this week and by noon time had bagged thirty-two squirrels. During the afternoon the hunting was not as good but when the party returned at nightfall a total of 43 squirrels had been shot.

Thursday, Nov. 5, 1874—It is believed that the parties on the new wharf will not be obliged to move by reason of the new railroad improvements. Probably it can be arranged so that the engineering operations will not abstruct travel on the wharf road, leading to the wharf. The parties in occupation are Henry L. Clark, coal dealer; Getchell & Sisson, coal and lumber; and Rogers & Co., of Worcester, coal.

At a meeting of the Caledonian club Tuesday night officers were elected as follows: chief, James Gilmour; first chieftain, Allan McPherson; second chieftain, Thomas Balfour; third chieftain, William McKenzie; fourth chieftain, James Murray; steward, Frank C. Halliday; trustees, Duncan McKenzie, Archibald Torrance, James Cherry; investigation committee, William Buchanan, John Cochrane, Robert Dunsdale; auditors, Alexander Balfour, James Hislop, Robert Barnerston; library committee, James Gilmour, William McKenzie, Allan McPherson, Archibald Dorrance and James Murray. Books, magazines, newspapers and reading matter of an instructive character forwarded to any member of the library committee by persons who feel interested in this society, will be duly acknowledged and placed in the library reading room. The committee expect to have all their arrangements completed so that they will be able to make a formal opening some evening next week.

Owing to a panic in oysters at Westerly the price has come down to 50 cents instead of 60 cents.

Friday, Nov. 6, 1874—Among the appropriation for Connecticut harbor improvements recommended by the engineer department of the government, is $96,000 for Stonington harbor, in addition to $25,000 now available.

Windham county is in danger of losing a large part of its French Canadian residents. Trains on the Norwich & Worcester line are taking these people north every day, bound for home, the exodus being occasioned by the dull times at the mills.

Ladies and gentlemen of the village of Colchester are getting ready to raise money for preparing the site of the soldier's monument.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Waunecute Hill Gold Silver and Nickel Mining company was held yesterday. The Rev. J. Fillmore and William H. Wilson of Providence and George M. Roberts and Reuben Safford of Norwich and P. R. Safford of Glastonbury, were re-elected directors. At a meeting of the directors, Rev. Mr. Fillmore was elected president and William H. Wilson, secretary and treasurer.

Saturday, Nov. 7, 1874—The event to which so many are looking forward with great interest, in which our whole community is in fact more or less interested—the formal opening and dedication of the new Park church, is now fixed for Tuesday evening, November 17th. The arrangements of the different parts and the preacher, in connection with the services on the occasion, will be announced in due time. The last work on the church is now being done and all promises to be in readiness for the public opening service.

The city court of Norwich is the only one in the state that has civil cases coming before it. The jury trial which is before it today is quite an important one in its way, employing some of the best legal talent in town.

The old Roath house near the corner of Main and Hamilton streets, Preston, the frame of which is one hundred and fifty years old, is being torn down.

A reduction of wages of all employes of the New London Northern Railroad, of 10 per cent, was effective yesterday.

Oysters are selling at twenty-five cents a quart in Norwich, the cheapest in any city in the part of the state.

Thornton, chaplain, Lawrence G. Dresscher, S. D., Harold R. Field, J. D., Robert J. Guy, S. S., Tyler Gilbert, J. S. Worshipful Norman B. Parkhurst, marshal, Enoch B. Cheney, tyler. For many of the guests this was their first visit to the Quinebaug, colony, thus making the rare beauty of these attractive camps an added pleasure. Long tables were laid in the living room of Mero, which from its elevated site on the eastern bank, overlooks the river, with a sweep from High Banks to Butts' Bridge, and off to the west into Canterbury, that is unsurpassed. The first recommend to the excellence of the dinner, was when Mrs. Arba rowning, the doctor's mother, placed a 15-pound Berkshire shoat in the oven, stuffed out to even a greater fatness than he first possessed, with savory walnut dressing, nothing is left to be said, when it is told that "Gordie" Willis and "Bill" McCluggage, were the chefs at the camp. Such helpings as they brought forth from the kitchen, were never seen before. Waists bands tightened as the table ceased its groaning.

Twelve men registered themselves in a unanimous vote, that the dinner was wonderful. It was wonderful, and more than that grace was said by the chaplain.

The entertainment for the evening was as pleasing as varied. While some enjoyed cards, others listened in on the camp radio, or strolled down the paths to the river. There were stories old and new with heated political discussions and opinions as to what punishment should be meted out to defaulting bank cashiers.

The tyler, a speechmaker of renown discoursed on the horrible failure of the Volstead act. The secretary reputed to be ace-high, among the chalk talk artists in this end of the state, drew several entertaining pictures. George said he was a little rusty on drawing faces, but he was finally induced to produce the late President Roosevelt, also "Gordie" Willis. The audience didn't seem to be able to distinguish which was which, but George was forgiven, because the camp lantern swinging from a brace beam above, kept hitting him on the head, while in front, near his paper, a recently removed skunk's skin was pinned up to dry.

The last picture, A December Evening, seemed to challenge the skill of Bill McCluggage as a chalk artist, so he removed his coat, rolled up his sleeves, spat upon his hands and drew a touching picture of September Morn. The audience agreed to it being some sort of morning but there was nothing by which one could determine what month it was.

Along late in the evening, with both hands of the camp clock getting together at the top of the dial, a thick fog moved over the Quinebaug, and settled down among the great pines. The way is croked to reach the highway, so the automobiles were filled for the return trip.

Mrs. John Wanagie, who lives on the old Carpenter place, in Lisbon, was severely burned Thursday. The woman had a 10 quart milk can, partly filled with water and with the wooden stopper driven in, heating on the stove. The water boiled, which created a considerable steam pressure, as these wood corks fit tight and remove hard.

Just as Mrs. Wanagie approached the stove and thought of removing the stopper, it blew out. She was caught squarely in the face by the jet of steam. A local physician, hurriedly summoned, found her burns severe, and painful, with reports of improvement, Friday evening.

HOW THIS WOMAN GOT STRENGTH

Put Up 300 Quarts Fruit, 500 Glasses Jelly and Took Care of Four Children

Norwalk, Ia.—"I have been meaning for some time to write and tell you how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and your medicine has done me. When I started to take it I was all run down and had female troubles. I had four children and all that I did I had to do myself. I had been sick for a long time when I started using your medicine and I can say that I owe my health to it. I was so weak before that I was afraid to undertake it, and often if I knew an ailment was coming on I would take it and it would drive it away. I have done my work all alone, the support, and all for four children, and I canned a quantity of fruit and made 500 glasses of jelly, so you see I must be strong. I am pretty good all the time and I am glad to tell others about the medicine."—Mrs. C. J. WINGERMAN, Box 141, Norwalk, Iowa.

THOUSANDS of users have wondered at the quickness of the action of Resinol Ointment and Soap. The reason is that it is not a surface treatment, but one that reaches the depths of the pores and attacks the source of the disorder, starting the healing right.

The first touch relieves the itching, burning and soreness and a few days' persistent use rarely fails to clear away the trouble.

When the skin is once restored to its normal condition, the daily use of Resinol Soap is generally sufficient to keep it healthy. Ideal for baby, whose tender complexion it keeps fresh and clear. All druggists supply you. Write for generous sample, also for booklet about the Resinol products.

The Ruling Passion

He owned a handsome touring car,
To ride in it was heaven.
He ran across some broken glass—
Bill $14.97.

He took some friends out for a ride—
'Twas good to be alive.
The carburetor threw a fit—
Bill $30.85.

He started on a little tour,
The finest sort of fun.
He stopped too quick and stripped his gears—
Bill $39.51.

He took his wife down town to shop,
To save carfare was great;
He hammered into one lamp-post—
Bill $268.

He spent about all that he had,
And then in anguish cried,
"I'll put a mortgage on the house
And take just one more ride."

He Ran the Night Express

I met a little girl, one day,
Beyond the railroad bridge,
With pail of berries she had picked
Along the bank's high ridge.

"Where do you live, my child?" I said,
"And what may be your name?"
She looked at me with eyes askance,
And then her answer came:

The house upon the bluff is ours;
They call me Bonnie Bess;
My father is an engineer,
And runs the night express."

A sparkle came into her face,
A dimple to her chin—
The father loved his little girl,
And she was proud of him.

"Ten-forty-nine, on schedule time
(Scarce e'er a minute late),
At quite a fearful rate,
Around the curve his coming comes,

"We watch the headlight thro' the gloom
Break like the dawn of day—
A roar, a flash, and then the train
Is miles upon its way.

"A lamp in mamma's window burns,
Placed there alone for him.
His face lights up, for then he knows
That all is well within.

"Sometimes a fog o'erhangs the gorge,
The light he cannot see.
Then twice he whistles for mamma,
And cleans the bell for me."

"And you are not afraid," I asked,
"That he may wreck the train?
That there may be a sad mishap,
And he no wise to blame?"

A paler crept into her cheeks,
Her red lips curled in pain;
Then parted, then serenely smiled—
Her heart was brave again.

"God watches over us," she said,
"And He knows what is best;
So we have but to pray and trust,
And leave to Him the rest."

How great that childish faith of hers!
It made my own seem weak;
I bent my head, with throbbing heart,
And kissed her on the cheek.

I said to her, in cheery tone,
"God bless you, Bonnie Bess!
God bless your mother and the man
Who runs the night express!"

FOUND FRIENDS AND A NICE TIME

Friends of the Social Corner: I attended your October meeting as a guest and am sending a few lines to express my appreciation of your hospitality on that occasion.

Your club is certainly rightly named. I was surprised and pleased to meet a number of friends from my own town as well as others farther away, although I should never recognize them by their pen names.

Am planning to attend the next meeting and be counted as one of your members. Hoping you will find me true to name.

KILLING CORNS

Dear Social Corner Sisters and Editor: I ought to have answered the roll call weeks ago. Every time I have thought about it I have felt like a "slacker," because I was one that asked for a list of the members. But had no idea there were so many or what a task I was giving the editor putting us all on file. It all reminded me of the class meetings I used to attend when the leader would call on us to give out Christian experiences, also of the Gospel song. When the roll is called in Heaven and the hosts are mustered there, I will take my place among them and my joys and triumphs share. Angels call the roll up yonder muster day in Heaven proclaim. Call the roll and at the summons I will answer to my name. Only I hope it won't take me so long to answer or I might get passed by.

I wonder if A. Corn has got rid of her troublesome corn. I have been experimenting with two that were opposite each other on two toes. I think I have succeeded in killing them. I used zino ointment on them every day for a month or more, soaking and trimming them down every three or four days and have had no signs of them for months, and think it is well worth trying.

I was disappointed not to meet with the sisters in October, but sickness prevented. I wish to thank the sisters who sent me cards when I was sick and on my birthday. I think the sisters are not only social but very thoughtful. I wish I had something better to offer the Corner page than a corn cure, but don't know of anything that gives more relief than to get rid of them.

Wishing the Corner the best of success, I remain the LITTLE SISTER. (Aug. 26.

TRUE AND TRIED RECIPES

Dear Cornerites: Sometime ago a sister asked for preserved citron. I will send in my recipe now it not too late. I think the other sisters' recipe sounds good.

Pare citron, cut into slices 1 1-2 inches thick, then into strips the same thickness, leaving them the full length of the fruit. Remove seeds, and weigh. To each pound of citron allow 1 pound of sugar (white). Make your syrup. To ten pounds of fruit or citron put 1 pint of water, boil 20 minutes and drain. Then put your syrup on, let it get hot and add your citron. Boil just one hour—then it is glassy and tender. Before removing from the fire, add 2 lemons, sliced thin, seeds removed, add 2 ounces of root ginger but do not boil long after adding lemon and ginger. Do not stir while boiling. This is certainly delicious.

Pear and Pineapple Preserve: Wash pare and slice pears. Cook with five pounds of sugar until thick. Then add 1 can of shredded pineapple, also juice and rind of one lemon, continue cooking a few minutes. Can as usual.

Quince Preserves: To one pound of quince allow 3-4 pounds of sugar. Peel and quarter your quinces, leave the seeds in for they readily impart their mucilage to water and thus help thicken the syrup. Put the sugar and fruit into a preserving pan and half a teacup of water to moisten the bottom of the kettle. Stir the fruit and sugar frequently and when it commences to boil keep it boiling rapidly until it is soft and a clear red color. I think it takes about an hour. I reckon from the first boiling up. Put into jam pots and cover when cold.

Watermelon Preserves: Made from white rind watermelon. Pare the rind and cut in cubes. Boil in water to cover with the skin of one lemon to color them yellow. When tender take out and place in dishes. Make a syrup of one pound of sugar to each pound of melon. When sugar is dissolved and hot put in the melon and also one lemon sliced to flavor. Boil until melon looks transparent. Can while hot. This rule is for half a melon, medium size and makes three quarts and one pint.

Canned Husk for Soups: Get five pounds of husk or shank for soup, cut out the tender part and eliminate all fibers, put through chopper and use that for steak by putting through grinder. It is so sweet and tender. The remainder of the husk place in the fireless cooker pan and cook six hours, take out and put in quart or pint jars. 1 teaspoon of salt to one quart jar of stock, half seal, put over and boil 20 minutes. Your stock is just like jelly and any time you wish to make soup you have the stock. The steak beats any round steak you can buy anywhere for, 45 cents a pound. The two quarts and a pint jar of stock, your steak the bones and meat for your hash only cost you 55 cents. I can afford to buy the steak by the pound if I wanted to but this is certainly delicious. The above are all true and tired recipes having been tried out and approved by the Lasell seminary, domestic science department, Auburndale.

White Rose Sugar Cookies: 1 1-4 cup sugar, 1 cup butter or lard, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon soda, 1-2 cup sour milk, 3 teaspoons nutmeg, 1 teaspoonful baking powder, flour to roll.

Cream sugar and butter, add egg, sour milk, flour into which soda, salt and baking powder were sifted, add nutmeg. Roll out and cut medium thick.

These cookies are the nicest I ever made. They are the cheapest too.

UNCLE SAM'S DAUGHTER.

CHOCOLATE FILLED COOKIES

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I had the pleasure of attending the East Killingly Social Corner picnic, and I enjoyed it very much. Was glad to meet Twice Twenty, Primrose, Chauffeur, Rosalind and others. I was glad Cactus Blossom could come with her potato salad.

How fortunate the sisters are that can attend the meetings this winter at Norwich and Willimantic.

There are several new writers and I know they will want plenty of room, so will broadcast the cookie recipe requested and sign off.

Chocolate Filled Cookies: 1 egg, 1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup butter, 1-2 cup milk, 2 cups flour, 2 tablespoons cocoa, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons cream tartar, a little salt, vanilla or spice. Roll out thin and put 1 teaspoon filling to each, cover and bake.

Filling: 1 cupcsanut, 1-2 milk, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 tea spoon flour, cook until thick, use when cold.

Best wishes to all.

PEGGY ALDER.

HOW TO OPEN A NEW BOOK

Dear Corner Members: To open a new book hold the book with its back on a smooth or covered table; let the front board down, then the other, holding the leaves in one hand while you open a few leaves at the back, then a few leaves at the front, and so go on, alternately opening back and front, gently pressing open the sections till you reach the centre of the volume. Do this two or three times, and you will obtain the best results. Open the volume violently or carelessly in any one place, and you will likely break the back, and cause a start in the leaves. Never force the back. If it does not yield to gentle opening, the back is too tightly or strongly lined.

A book binder says: "A connoisseur, many times years ago, an excellent customer of mine who though he knew perfectly well how to handle books, came into my office when I had an expensive binding just brought from the binders, ready to be sent home. He, before my eyes, took hold of the volume, and, tightly holding the leaves in each hand, instead of allowing them free play, violently opened it in the center and exclaimed, 'How beautifully your bindings open!' I almost fainted. He had broken the back of the volume and it had to be rebound."

ETHELYN.

WHEN THE HAIR FALLS OUT

Dear Sisters: Note this conversation.

Jane gazed ruefully into the mirror. "I don't know what is the matter with my hair," she sighed, hastily bundling it up, fastening it into the careless coil so becoming to her.

"Dandruff?" queried Katherine lazily, from her comfortable place on the chintz couch by the window.

"Oh, not enough to worry about. But my hair is falling out so that's what bothers me. Something must be wrong."

I wonder if you haven't used very much the same words about your hair; and whether you realize what Jane didn't—that the dandruff which wasn't "enough to worry about" was really responsible for the falling hair.

The health of the hair depends largely on the free action of the oil glands, and the unimpeded circulation of the blood in the scalp, and as soon as either is interfered with the hair is deprived of nourishment, gets dry and brittle, breaks and falls off and out; or, on the other hand, the little oil glands by heat and irritation, are incited to over activity. And the hair and scalp becomes excessively oily.

Therefore if your hair is thin, faded dry or brittle, coming out in discouraging handfuls, or is oily three days after washing or shampooing, ask yourself whether your scalp is free from dandruff.

I know the answer without waiting for you to tell me—it isn't.

The first thing give your scalp a thorough shampooing. Use 3 tablespoons of soap free bark to one quart of water the "soap free bark" you can buy at a druggists. I have told in these same columns several times how to use it.

Loosen the hair and rub this into the part with the tips of the fingers; make another part an inch further on, and rub this with a cloth until the whole scalp has been generously gone over.

Then use what you have left and shampoo vigorously with the finger tips. Squeeze off the water from time to time and pour over warm water to rinse off. Finally dip the head in a bowl of water and loosen all the hair shampoo after which the scalp is clean on inspection. Rinse the hair many times in warm water. I hope you have a bath spray, because water which comes with force is best for rinsing; if you haven't use a large pitcher, held high and pour it over the head many many times. After every particle of shampoo is out of the hair, rinse in cool and finally very cool water to stimulate the scalp. Dry the hair in the sun.

Having made your scalp perfectly clean, you must see that your brush and comb are if not equally so. Dandruff is infectious and your brush if not spotlessly clean can start up a nice new crop. Shake the brush in hot water to which ammonia has been added; then place it, bristles down, in a shallow dish of water to which a boric acid solution has been added, a teaspoon to each pint. Dry in the sun standing on its side, after letting the brush remain in it for ten minutes.

If you haven't a comb cleaner pass the middle of a long coarse thread around a door knob, holding both ends in your left hand, while with your right hand you run the teeth on it; wash in hot water and ammonia, and sterilize in boric acid.

Do this once a week and always shake and beat the brush thoroughly after every using, never use another person's brush nor use your own brush on the hair of the children of the family. Shampoo the hair once in two weeks; and, the night before annoint the scalp thoroughly with white vaseline to loosen up any scurf or dandruff. Heat the vaseline and use a medicine dropper to apply the heated vaseline to the scalp, running it along one part after another. Bundle the hair into an oil skin cap, after this treatment, or in a turkish towel, else pillow cases will suffer.

Dandruff is at the bottom of a large percentage of hair and scarp disorders and nobody can continue to have healthy hair who fails to keep her scalp free from it.

"Isn't dandruff natural?" some one may ask. Yes the scalp throws off tiny scales, or scurf, just as does the rest of the body. But they need to be removed from the arm, legs and trunk. If the tiny scales are allowed to remain, they clog up the little sebaceous glands and disorder the functions of the scalp, besides forming an excellent hot bed for the germs of scalp diseases.

As an auxiliary treatment, a prominent dermatologist recommends applying to the scalp, alcohol. To each tablespoon of alcohol add three tablespoons of witch hazel and apply directly to the scalp with a piece of cotton or tiny sponge, the hair being parted in many places.

If the hair is dry use instead this ointment:

Dandruff ointment: Vaseline, 1 ounce, sulphur, 60 grains. At intervals of three days, rub this into the scalp with finger tips, at night.

Scalp massage is the best friend of the hair in cases of dandruff, as in all other hair ills: I have given directions heretofore for the scalp nightly but will be glad to repeat them by mail for any who have failed to preserve them.

I have not room to write any more about the hair. I think this is the sixth letter on the same subject of massaging the scalp.

PEP JOINS CORNER

Dear Editor and Social Corner: May I join you? I have been reading your letters in The Bulletin for about a year. Last spring a friend of mine asked me to go with her to one of the meetings but something happened to prevent me. I had another invitation to attend the one held at East Killingly Oct. 30. I enjoyed myself very much. I wish I had gone before. I was surprised to find a near neighbor there who belonged to the Corner. I would like for my pen-name. PEP. (July 23.)

GREATLY ENJOYED EAST KILLINGLY PICNIC

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: I was glad to be with the sisters at East Killingly picnic and meet some I hadn't seen for years though not living more than ten or twelve miles away. They all did so much to make the other sisters have a good time.

Caro: Can you remember when I use to go and see you and you would get out a little trunk filled with doll clothes with a big doll? One afternoon we called on 1492. It doesn't seem so many years ago. But it is when we look back.

Peggy Alder: Won't I be glad to see you, too! Don't think I would have known you if you hadn't been talking with Cactus.

Blossom, Lilac Lady I met for the first time at Twice Twenty's picnic and she has a little Lilac Lady come up to be a social worker.

Esmeralda and Mary Gusta had a very nice program for the afternoon.

I think Keziah Doolittle must have gotten her thinking cap on in her last letter.

CANNING SQUASH AND PUMPKIN

Dear Social Corner Sisters: To can pumpkin or squash I first take out all the seeds, peel the outside of squash or pumpkin and then I cut it in small pieces and cook with water enough to cover. When done mash real fine, use same juice take a spoon and stir it good and fill up jars. Each must be cooked separate and do not mix the juice. Squash will take more juice as they are more dry. Pumpkins are more watery and stringy but both need plenty of juice. They will keep till April or longer and then are ready for use any time. This is the time for canning squash and pumpkin.

Canned Pumpkin No. 2: Slice and peel the pumpkin cut it into pieces, put the pieces in jars, put the covers in place loosely without the rubbers, stand the jars in a wash boiler on a false bottom, surround them with a few inches of warm water and steam them until the pumpkin is tender. Remove one jar put a new rubber in place and seal the jar at once and proceed like wise with the other jars.

Marie: Why not come and see me? I will shake hands with you. Take your machine and come right along.

EGGLESS HEALTH MUFFINS.

Dear Social Corner: There are so many trying to get into this one Corner of late that I am almost afraid to ask for admittance, but then there is the ever yawning waste basket at the editor's right hand, so here goes. Will some of you who have lazy hens or do not care to pay the present high price of eggs try my Eggless Health Muffins: Two cups of whole wheat flour, 1-3 cup corn meal, 1-2 cup bran, 1 large tablespoon brown sugar, 2 rounded teaspoons baking powder, pinch salt, 6 tablespoons rich buttermilk.

Use enough sweet milk or water if you are out of milk to make regular muffin batter. Bake 25 minutes in muffin tins. It makes one dozen.

If this escapes the waste basket, I may have something real interesting to write by this time next month.

I know a number of the Cornerites and talk with some of them every day and a great many know me, but who knows

A CHRISTMAS BOOK-MARK

This attractive little book-mark is decorated with a bright colored parrot, and solves the problem for the small remembrance which is easily sent through the mail in an envelope. These book-marks are quickly made, and a series of them would make a charming gift for a teacher to make to a Sunday School class. The marker is made of heavy drawing paper or of celluloid. If drawing paper is used the painting is done with water colors, and if celluloid is chosen oil paints must be used. Trace the outline given here to the drawing paper or celluloid. Trace also the shading and eye of the bird, and the inside line which makes the flap of the book mark. With a sharp knife cut on this line so that a flap is formed. Paint the parrot's head and breast red. Part of the wing may be red and part yellow. The long tail feathers which fall down the left side are blue and red. The eye should be black, and the beak and claws brown. The shading and feathers may be outlined with black paint. If water colors are being used do the outlining with India ink and a pen. To make the drawing paper stiff a coat of white shellac should be applied to both sides when all the paint is dry.

The Intermediate C. E. meeting Monday night in the church was well attended.

The harvest supper and social held in Palmer hall last week Friday night was well patronized and very successful.

The Benevolent Union is to meet Wednesday, Nov. 12th with Mrs. Eliza Stockett at her home in Yantic, for an all-day session.

The illustrated lecture, A Trip to Palestine given at the Baptist church last Sunday evening was both pleasing and instructive.

An exceptionally large number of voters took advantage of the pleasant weather Tuesday and cast their votes for their favorites at the Bozrah polls. The polls opened at nine o'clock and Miss Mary Kingberg of Putnam received ballot No. 1 followed closely by Charles Pillar with No. 2 and J. J. Sullivan with No. 3. As usual most interest was centered on the choice for representative. John K. Proctor, the democrat nominee who represented the town in the last general assembly had for opponent Frank L. Lathrop, the republican nominee who was the successful candidate for selectman at the recent town meeting. Mr. Proctor was elected by a majority of 46, the largest majority received by a representative candidate in Bozrah for several years. The Australian ballot was used. Much praise was given on the counters for the capable manner in which they performed their duties. The polls were declared closed Tuesday at six o'clock and by 7.45 the count was being announced—which is record time for a presidential election count in Bozrah.

The counters for the democratic party were Francis P. Gribbin, Michael F. Sweeney, John F. Fields and Miss Nellie Lynch; and for the republicans, Leroy Lathrop, Nathan Gillman, John Beswick and Mrs. LeRoy Lathrop. J. J. Sullivan who was moderator.

Miss Helen Chapman and Alton Chapman of Norwich spent the week end with their aunt, Mrs. Carrie Kelly.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gribbin have returned to Hartford after spending a few days with local relatives.

POETRY

SOLITUDE.

I will fly from the place where the voice of man,
Re-echoes 'neath temple and dome,
Where the tramping of hunger are never still,
In that shade for children call home.

I will choose me the land where the hills tilt high
And muffle the night hawk's scream,
Where the froth of confusion has not been spilled,
And its people are what they seem.

Where the soft breath of dawn from the fragrant grass
And the notes of the woodland choirs
Accord with the fumes of the offering trees
And a worshipful prayer inspires.

O them speed me afar from the city streets,
From the halls where the mighty greed,
And find me a place where the truth un blurred
Will point me the way toward God.

—Fannie Hunter Clark, in Outdoor America.

AUTUMN BONFIRES.

Bonfires in the streets:
Boys with fire-tipped sticks
Dash to and fro;
Girls dancing in the flame
Join madly in the game
Their figures silhouetted
In the glow.

Tang of the burning leaf,
Wafted by sharpish winds,
Drifts here and there;
Embers of floating fire
That in the dark array
Like fairy ships sail on
The pungent air.

Memories of boyhood
Live in the flickering blaze—
Tramp, tramp of feet,
The torches' smoky glare,
Flags flashing everywhere,
Shouts, cheers and music down
The leaf strewn street.

God! let the flame mount high
Red on the murky sky;
Ever the patriot cry
"Live the Republic!
It cannot die!"

—Richmond Herbert Gosner, in Boston Transcript.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Franz Liszt was a pianist of note before he was in his teens.

A Dutch syndicate is to make an attempt to recover the treasure sunk in the frigate Lutine off the Dutch coast in 1799. The value of the treasure consisting of gold and silver bars and specie, has been variously estimated at sums up to $5,000,000 and only $400,000 has been recovered. Going contrariwise to manufacturers of preparations that make human hair lie close and sleekly to the head, a chemical concern which makes a speciality of things for the fur trade has brought out a preparation to make the hair of certain short-haired pelts stand up. It is meant for use particularly on natural muskrat, marmot and Hudson seal. In addition to making the hair stand up, the preparation is said to add to the luster of the pelt without affecting the color. The same concern has brought out a preparation for glossing such furs as Persian lamb, caracal and broadtail. It is claimed for this preparation that it imparts a fine gloss to the pelt without disturbing the curl, and also that it dries quickly.

NEW LONDON SILK BUSINESS HAS BEEN MOVED TO PUTNAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Nov. 7.—The property of the H. K. & H. Silk company, corner of Hame and Hempstead streets, has been put on the market and with the plant and site being offered for sale all hope of the silk company resuming operations there has been abandoned. The fact that the property is for sale was revealed today when a six-foot square sign was placed in a conspicuous place on the grounds telling that a purchaser was wanted. The building is vacant also, the entire equipment for the manufacture of silk having been removed to Putnam from the two floors. The plant has been idle several months, but it was believed that operations would be started shortly. When the plant was running on full time it employed 200 hands.

James J. Smith, master of the launch Patrolia, hailing from Newport and which was seized off Block Island yesterday morning by the destroyer Downes and brought into port with her cargo of 616 cases of alcohol, succeeded early this morning in obtaining a surety on his bond of $1,500 for his hearing the 17th inst. Following his arraignment yesterday afternoon before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson of Norwich, at the customs house, Smith was remanded to jail because of the failure of a bondsman to appear. Late in the evening two residents of Newport came to New London and secured Geo. H. Beck to provide surety on Smith's bond, the bail being secured. Commissioner Mathewson was communicated with and came to New London by automobile in order to accept the bond, Smith leaving for Providence immediately after being released from custody as he was presented in the Hartford city court this morning on a charge of violation of the liquor law.

Holt is contemplating selling the ferryboat Mohican, plying between this city and Groton and with the knowledge that such a plan is projected residents of Groton have caused a petition to be circulated in the borough, which will be given to the selectmen of that place within a few days, remonstrating against the discontinuance of the ferryboat and the substitution of a smaller craft. The position has already been signed by nearly 200 Groton residents.

The ferryboat Mohican is not a paying proposition to the city due to the fact that practically all the motor vehicle traffic is across the Thames river highway bridge. Besides the vast number of users of the bridge the Groton & Stonington trolley company carries several hundred passengers across the bridge daily.

City Manager Holt is of the opinion that the smaller type of boat would answer the requirements of the traveling public but Groton residents do not agree with him, declaring that only foot passengers would be carried by the smaller boat an deven women operating baby carriages would be unable to obtain passage on a smaller boat.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

MARKET WAS ACTIVE

New York, Nov. 7.—An extraordinary demand for railroad shares, 46 of which soared to new peak prices for the year, today gave Wall street one of its most active stock market sessions in recent years, total sales exceeding two million share mark for the first time since April 17, 1923. Transactions took place in 511 separate stocks or only six below the previous record established December 28, 1923.

Industrials, which had displayed considerable irregularity in the early dealings as a result of further profit taking, eventually joined in the upswing under the leadership of United States Steel common, which touched 112, the highest price since 1919. More than a score other industrials also attained new 1924 peak prices, including United Drug, American Smelting preferred, LaClede, Gas, Loose Wiles Simmns Petroleum and Chino Copper.

Buying orders for the rails poured into the market from all sections of the country and embraced both the low-price and high grade shares. The remarkable demand for the carrier stocks was due to the unusually favorable dividend and earnings prospects of most of the principal systems, together with the growing speculative belief that the roads are assured of a long period of immunity from radical legislation, permitting them to go ahead with important consolidation and development plans.

New York Central touched 116, the highest price since 1913, and 5 points above last night's close. Southern Railway sold at 72 1-4, the highest price in its history. Baltimore & Ohio sold at its highest price since 1917. Other issues to break through their previous peak prices for this year were Missouri Pacific common and preferred, Atchison, Atlantic Coast Line, Louisville & Nashville, Frisco common and preferred, Chicago and Great Western, common and preferred, "Katy" common and preferred and Wabash and Rock Island issues.

Oils, which has been lagging behind the rest of the market in reflection of unfavorable trade news this summer, showed signs of strength in belated reflection of the recent increase in Gulf Coast crude prices. Pacific, Associated, General Asphalt, Phillips and several other oils showed net advances of 1 to 2 1-2 points.

Other individual strong spots in the industrial group were American Sugar Refinery, United States Industrial Alcohol, American Ice, Loose Wiles Biscuit and United Drug, all of which closed at net gains of 3 points or more.

Considerable switching from the industrials to the rails was reported during the day with the odd lot business, or less than 100 share lots, assuming wide spread proportions, indicating a market revival of public interest.

Call money renewed at 3 per cent., but dropped to 2 1-2 in the afternoon, closing at that figure. Time money rates were firmer, 60 to 90 day funds being quoted at 3 1-4 to 3 1-2 instead of 3 to 3 1-4 with borrowers apparently willing to pay the high rates. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

The foreign exchange market developed several points of strength. Demand sterling touched a new record high for the year above $4.58 and new peak prices were also attained by the Swiss, Dutch and Swedish currencies. Trading started here today in the new German reichsmarks, which sold at a slight premium above their parity of 23.80 cents.

BOND MARKET

New York, Nov. 7.—Bond prices today staged an impressive rally under the leadership of semi-speculative railroad issues. Trading, following the pace set by the stock market, expanded as prices were bid up, total sales of about $24,000,000 representing one of the heaviest days dealing this year.

Spirited buying of the low and medium priced rail liens, pushing many of them to the year's highest levels, was the market's outstanding feature. The demand apparently was based on the same development which contributed to the unprecedented scramble for the rail stocks, namely, that with the danger of radical legislation minimized by the makeup of the new congress, the carriers would be free to carry out contsructive merger and dividend programs.

Gains of one to three points were registered by the Seaboard adjustment 5's, refunding 4's and Consolidated 6's all reporting new top prices, St. Paul and Erie issues, Westerly Maryland 4's, Chicago and Alton 3 1-2's, Chicago Great Western 4's, "Katy" adjustment 5's and Missouri Pacific 4's, the last named also selling at the year's high price.

New York Central 6's, mounting to a new peak at 103 3-4, led an upward movement in the higher priced rail bonds, which embraced New Haven 7's, up 4 points to 92, the road's franc 7's, up 2 3-4 to 90 1-8; Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 5's, Louisville & Nashville 4's and Wheeling & Lake Erie 4 1-2's

The trend of public utility and industrial bonds also was upward, with Maryland 5's developing conspicuous strength, gaining almost 4 points. The only weak spots were the Wilson & Co. issues influenced by reports that the next interest payments were in doubt, and Bethlehem Steel 6's, which yielded 1 1-4 points.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Wheat rose rapidly in price today and reached to within two cents of the season's top record for the May delivery. Buying was on a big scale, owing a good well as to unfavorable crop conditions deal to activity of export demand as both in Argentina and Australia. Closing quotations here on wheat were strong, 1 7-8 to 3 1-8c net higher, December 150 to 150 1-8 and May 155 1-8 to 155 3-8. Corn finished at 1 cent to 1 3-8c gain, oats showing 3-8c to 5-8c up, and provisions unchanged to 27 cents advance.

Broad buying power made itself felt in the wheat pit today from the beginning, and despite huge sales to realize profits the market exportable surplus 110,000,000 bushels and with sterling exchange above $4.58 for the first time this year and wheat prices at Liverpool showing a sharp advance, sentiment favoring higher prices in Chicago became more and more pronounced.

Corn and oats deprived their upturns chiefly from wheat strength. At first, the corn marke tended downward on account of cold weather and prospective enlarged receipts.

CURB MARKET

New York, Nov. 6.—Demand for individual issues of curb securities affected by favorable news developments, carried prices into higher ground in today's broad and active trading.

Transactions in the oils were overshadowed by an advance of 4 1-2 points in Vacuum Oil on a turnover of 12,500 shares, the stock responding to the extra one dollar dividend declaration and prospects of record earnings this year. Standard Oil of Indiana also was dealt in heavily, nearly 13,000 shares changing hands. The stock closed 1 1-8 points higher. In sympathy with the vigorous buying of railroad acshares on the Stock exchange the new nickel plate issues forced ahead, the common gaining 3 1-2 points to a new high of 78 and the preferred closed a point higher at 83 3-4.

Mixed price changes marked trading in the public utility issues, American Gas and Electric standing out with a gain of 3 points and Cities Service common losing 9 1-2. Others in the group moved within narrow and irregular limits.

The radio shares were heavy on profit taking but Dubilier showed strength, scoring a gain of 1 7-8 on the day.

WORK WITH SCHOOL CHILDREN BY RED CROSS NURSING ACTIVITIES COM.

The annual report of the nursing activities committee of Norwich chapter of the American Red Cross for the year ending October 22, 1924, shows an important work done for the health of school children in the town, this feature being the chief activity of this department.

The following is the report made by the chairman, Mrs Frances E. Tingley:

Emergency Service.

One of the most important duties of the Red Cross in each community is to be prepared for emergencies in case of epidemics or disasters.

The present plan is the same as reported last year and provides for emergency hospital facilities, nursing care, motor and canteen services.

Norwich is fortunate in not having had anything in that line since the influenza epidemic of 1918, when an Emergency Hospital was established at Bushnell chapel, and nursing care provided by the Red Cros chapter.

Home Nursing Classes.

No classes in Home Nursing were held last year.

This course is for educational purposes only, and teaches young women and busy mothers the simple methods of caring for the sick in the home and prevention of contagious and other diseases.

The committee on nursing is ever ready to give information or help any who wish to form classes.

Public Health Nursing.

Regular monthly meetings of the advisory board of medical inspection of schools have been held throughout the year.

During the past month important changes in the personal have taken place.

Dr. Brophy, who, as town health officer, was automatically chairman of the advisory board and served its best interests faithfully for two years, resigned in September and was succeeded by Dr. Harrison Gray, newly appointed town health officer. Dr. Brophy, as city health officer, is still a member of the board.

Dr. A. C. Freeman was appointed by the Chamber of Commerce to fill the vacancy existing from that organization for the past year, so that the members of the board at present are as follows: Drs. Harrison Gray, Edward J. Brophy and A. C. Freeman; E. J. Graham, superintendent of schools; Mrs. Albert H. Chase, representative of the United Workers; and your chairman of the Nursing Activities committee, representative of the Red Cross chapter.

A very complete report of the school nurse's and dental hygienist's work has been published in the 1924 Town of Norwich annual report book.

It is not the intention of your chairman, therefore, to duplicate this, but only to mention a few of the outstanding steps of progress of the past year.

A great drawback in carrying out the health programme in the schools is the number of children who go on from year to year with no attention paid to the physical defects found by the physicians in their annual examinations in the schools. This may be due to indifference on the part of parents or to temporary or permanent financial straits. Greater efforts are made every year by the nurses in their follow-up work in the homes to overcome the former, and in order to reduce the number of the latter the sum of $500, appropriated by the local chapter last fall, was used as a loan fund. This was of great service to the children, especially those needing tonsils and adnoid operations and corrective dental work, and the fact that there work were 125 tonsils and adenoid operations during the summer months alone, as compared to 40 the summer before, is significant. This, however, is a very small percentage of the whole, and a great need in Norwich is the establishment of a school clinic, so that chilaren would have advice and treatment for small cost who cannot otherwise receive such attention.

Nutrition.

The work started last year along nutrition lines, namely, the placing of milk in the schools having the largest number of underweight children, so that any child could have a glass of milk at recess at a small cost, was continued on a larger basis, one more school being added to the list, making a total of four.

A hope of the committee for the future is the establishment of a summer day camp for the underweight child, for, while the placing of milk in the schools has improved the condition of the children in those schools, the combination of proper diet, plenty of rest and sleep, with moderate exercise and fresh air, for those who cannot get it otherwise, would produce results threefold and enable the underweight child to start school in the fall on a par with the rest.

The addition of scales to the Elizabeth Street school provided by the Red Cross last fall, means that every school in the system is equipped to weigh and measure children systematically, the key to the whole nutrition problem.

For the past three years a dental hygienist has been examining the teeth of all the school children and cleaning those of the second and third grades and daily giving talks on the care of the teeth and mouth. A dentist visits the schools on an average of once a week and does corrective work for a nominal fee for those who would not otherwise have any attention.

The benefits derived from having dental hygie as part of the health programme are very far reaching, but cannot be fairly estimated in two or three years.

In connection with this activity it might be interesting to read a small part of an article on Dental Hygiene written to the editor of the New York Times last spring by Henry W. Gillett, president New York Academy of Dentistry:

"Of course relief of suffering must come first in a dental programme, and repair of established defects seems hardly less urgent. If, however, the children of the lower grades can have adequate training in the establishment and maintenance of mouth hygiene and knowledge of its value, the oncoming wave of oral disease will be effectively checked. As these children progress in grade they will need so much less repair work that there will be time for the real preventive work; that is, adequate teaching of Dietetics as well as Sanitation."

In February, upon the invitation of Dr. Brophy, Dr. Lamphere of the state department of health gave a very interesting talk and demonstration of the Schick test and Toxin-anti-toxin for the prevention of diphtheria. The meeting was held at the health office and was well attended by members of the medical and nursing professions and the advisory board. Dr. Lamphere demonstrated upon three husky school boys and several nurses.

Mr. Graham arranged to have the talk given to parents and teachers the following week. Circumstances were not favorable to start the campaign then, however, but it is hoped it can be carried out this year.

It is not intended to force this treatment upon the children in any case, but because of the preventive measures now at hand it is considered a disgrace for any community to have an epidemic of small-pox or diphtheria. The health board feel it is their duty to co-operate with the state department of health in making the necessary preventive treatment for both those dreaded diseases available to all who wish to take advantage of it.

Five years have elapsed since the Red Cross has been actively interested in the health of the school children. It is interesting to note that while during that time the number of school children has increased from approximately 5,200 to approximately 6,200, the nursing staff has remained the same, it being necessary for the supervising nurse not only to supervise and develop the work, but to shoulder a third of the routine as well. It is with great appreciation, therefore, that, through the increased appropriation voted at the annual town meeting in October, the board is enabled to engage a fourth nurse for the coming year.

SPECIAL TRAFFIC RULES FOR ARMISTICE DAY

Special traffic regulations for Armistice Day at the time of the big parade in the city were drawn up and promulgated Friday by Chief George Linton in conjunction with Harold T. Robinson, chairman of the traffic committee for the celebration.

The local police will have a big job on their hands that day to handle the traffic so that it is Chief Linton's hope that all will learn and regard the special regulations in order to avoid all possible congestion. State police officers will be assigned here for the day to assist the local police.

The following are the special regulations:

There will be no parking on Main St., between Burnham square and Washington square from 1.45 p. m. until after the parade has passed.

All traffic during this time will be diverted over Talman Street and Water Street or Park, Cliff and Oak St.

There will be no traffic on Main St. Parking will be allowed on the west side of Washington street, south of Sachem St. and on the east side of Broadway from Williams avenue south during the parade.

No traffic will be allowed down Broadway or up Washington St., during the parade.

Broadway from the intersection of Washington Street to Park church and Williams avenue, full length, will be closed absolutely to parking or traffic from 2 o'clock until after the parade has gone down Broadway.

Crescent Street from Broadway to Williams avenue will be kept clear of traffic and parked cars.

Traffic through Norwich from the north will be allowed through Washington street after the parade has arrived and placed on Chelsea parade.

Previous to this all said traffic will be diverted through Williams, Lafayette, Starr streets and the New London turnpike or Asylum street.

FORMER NORWICH BOY IN JERSEY LEGISLATURE

Andrew D. Donovan, of Kearny, N. J., has been elected to the New Jersey legislature from Hudson county on the democratic ticket with a vote of 105,774 votes, which was a majority of 40,000.

Mr. Donovan is the son of the late Hannah Tobin and Daniel J. Donovan, both of whom lived practically all their lives in Norwich, moving about twenty years ago to Newark, N. J., of which Kearny is a suburb. Daniel Donovan will be remembered by the older residents for his active work in connection with the old volunteer fire department. Both Mr. Donovan and his father attended the Broadway school. Mr. Donovan has been in the electrical contracting business in Kearny for the last five years, and has been very successful in his chosen profession, and has a very successful future assured him in politics.

He visits his old birthplace very often, to see all his relatives who still reside in Norwich, including Misses Mary and Anna Donovan of Mulberry street, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Barry of Greeneville, R. W. Tobin of Franklin street, Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Desmond of Cliff street; Mrs. Annie Casey and Mr. and Mrs. Driscoll of High street, Mr. and Mrs. John Donovan of Main street, Cornelius Tobin, now of New London, and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Donovan of Putnam.

His many relatives and friends in Norwich will wish him all success with the law makers of New Jersey, and Norwich again looks forward to supplying one of the successful men to other sections of the country, as some of our native sons have done.

JUDGE PRENTICE MODEST AS HE WAS ABLE JURIST

Concerning a native of North Stonington, the current issue of The Catholic Transcript (Hartford) says editorially:

Judge Samuel O. Prentice was one of the builders of Connecticut. We are always building and rebuilding. When we cease our constructive works the commonwealth is in danger and the return to chaos is direct and inevitable.

Judge Prentice was pre-eminently a public servant, not conspicuous and noisy but dignified and retiring. He was learned in the law, and was proud to acknowledge himself beholden to the law. The Supreme Lawgiver claimed and received his cordial homage and service. Nor did he ever undertake to administer justice without recurring reverently to Him who is the Author and Source of all justice.

Judge Prentice was long a useful and respected citizen of Hartford. The community was stronger and safer because of his presence. He wore his honors with meekness, and those who could claim only a passing acquaintance with him learned to respect him for his probity, his benignity, his native and unostentatious kindness and his high consecration to the public welfare. The city and the state are bereft in his passing. But his example remains an inspiration making for interrity and for the highest citizenship.

SEN. HENRY CABOT LODGE DIED AT 11.14 LAST NIGHT

Had Suffered a Stroke Last Wednesday—Had Been in a State of Coma a Greater Part of the Time Since—Had Served Continuously in the United States Senate Since 1893—As a Statesman, Publicist, Author, Lawyer and Historian Mr. Lodge Had Made a Wide Impression.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 9.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge died at the Charlesgate hospital at 11.14 tonight. He suffered a stroke on Wednesday.

Stricken at about noon on Wednesday, the senior senator from Massachusetts, in his 75th year, lingered for four and one-half days before the end came. During the greater part of the time he had been in a state of coma but after nearly 48 hours of unconsciousness, he aroused for a time to take a little nourishment and recognized persons in the room.

The hope that revived for a time faded, however, as he lapsed back into unconsciousness and gradually grew weaker. Never, from the outset, did his physicians offer encouragement in their bulletins. They did, however, comment upon the vitality that enabled him to live on for days when death was expected momentarily. The illness that led to death was similar to that of President Wilson, the original complaint being similar, and the stroke that brought on the end much the same.

The senator had attended the republican convention at Cleveland at which his former leadership of the state forces was divided between Speaker Gillett and Governor Cox, but within a month he suffered a condition that required an emergency operation on July 27. Recovery was surprisingly good and three months later a second operation was performed. Again the senator's stamina stood him in good stead and he was out of bed Oct. 23, three days after the operation. With the reopening of congress only three weeks ahead, Senator Lodge was planning to leave the hospital in a few days and get ready to take his seat when the stroke came. It left him unconscious and is a condition so critical that death was considered likely at any time. Senator Lodge had four years still to serve in the United States senate, where he had represented this state continuously for 31 years. His place will be filled by appointment. Governor Cox having authority under a legislative act passed two years ago, to name a successor until the next general election. That will not take place until 1926.

SKETCH OF THE CAREER OF HENRY CABOT LODGE

Henry Cabot Lodge had served continuously in the United States senate since 1893, as republican leader since August, 1918, and was one of the most prominent members of his party for a generation.

Statesman, publicist, author, lawyer and historian, Mr. Lodge's manifold activities made a wide impression on contemporaneous events. Chief prominence, perhaps, came to him as leader of the senate opposition to the league of nations and the treaty of Versailles during 1918, 1919 and 1920. As chairman of the senate foreign relations committee and republican floor leader he led the contest with former President Wilson in the fight against ratification. He was the author of the "Lodge reservations" and was credited with a large part in molding the policy of the Harding administration against American entrance into the league.

He was born in leisure, but always worked. A principle laid down by him in early life was: "The first thing for a man of leisure to do, if he really wishes to count in his day and generation, is to avoid being an amateur." Although he apparently had no intention of practicing law, he worked hard and won a degree in that branch at Harvard, and then worked on a thesis on Anglo-Saxon land laws, which won him his Ph. D. In the three years that followed he was lecturer at Harvard on American history and at the age of 30 was recognized as an authoritative historian. Among the score of books he wrote were biographies of Washington, Hamilton and Webster.

It was his theory that every man should "take of his leisure, more or less, to politics; for it is simply good citizenship for him to do so," and along with the historical researches he became interested in contemporary politics. His public career began with election to the Massachusetts house of representatives in 1879.

He was unsuccessful in his first attempt to go to Washington as a national legislator. In 1882 he was a candidate for the republican nomination for congressman and the contest was so close that 130 ballots were required to decide the nomination of his opponent by the congressional convention. In 1886, however, he was nominated and elected to the national house of representatives, where he served six years before his election to the senate.

His oratory was distinguished by his practice of sketching in an historical background and his facility in quoting apt historical incidents. In an interview in 1922, summing up his career, he said: "I have nothing to say about by opponents, for I have never made personal or abusive attacks on anyone opposed to me. It has always seemed to me that a man in public life stood more strongly if he stood on his own merits rather than on someone else's defects. I think I may say that I have done a great deal of difficult and responsible public work. On that public work and on that record I am content to stand."

Mr. Lodge from the outset of his public career was an enthusiastic republican and an intense partisan. He was honored often by his party. An ambition to be chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, on which he served for many years, was realized when the republicans regained control of the senate in 1919. He then also was chosen majority leader, having served the republican minority previously as floor leader.

Twice Senator Lodge was temporary and permanent chairman of republican national conventions—at Philadelphia in 1900 and at Chicago in 1920. Former President Roosevelt, a lifelong friend, urged Mr. Lodge's nomination for the republican presidential candidacy in 1916, when Mr. Roosevelt declined the progressive party's nomination. As chairman of the 1920 republican convention, Senator Lodge was prominent in conferences which led to President Harding's nomination.

In addition to conflicts with partisan opponents, Senator Lodge had several inter-party contests.

He was severely criticized by independently inclined members of his own party in 1884 when, on his return from the republican national convention, at which he had joined with other members of the Massachusetts delegation in strenuously opposing the nomination of James G. Blaine for president, he announced that he would give his support to Blaine in his campaign for election.

As a member of the committee on resolutions at the republican national convention in 1896 he wrote the words which committed the party to international bimetallism. Immediately after this convention, Senator William E. Chandler of New Hampshire announced that he would give $100 to whoever could prove that he was the author of this plank. It was not until 1902 that the proof was disclosed, when Senator Foraker, who had been chairman of the resolutions committee, found the original draft of the platform with the interlined amendment to the bimetallism plank consisting of the words "which we pledge ourselves to promote," written on a telegraph blank in Mr. Lodge's handwriting. Senator Chandler thereupon arranged a dinner at which he presented Mr. Lodge with a silver cigar box valued at $100.

Mr. Lodge's seat in the senate was not seriously threatened until the campaign of 1910, when rival candidates presented themselves for the republican nomination and waged a bitter contest against him. In that campaign he was charged with having built up a powerful machine to control party affairs in Massachusetts. He secured the nomination, however, and was re-elected by a margin of six votes in the Massachusetts legislature. He was re-elected in 1916 for a term expiring in 1923.

Seeking re-election in 1922, he was faced with a determined opposition within and without his party. In the primary campaign Joseph Walker, a former speaker of the Massachusetts house of representatives, and a former progressive, was a candidate for the republican nomination for senator. Mr. Walker attacked Senator Lodge as being reactionary and as not properly representing his party, but when the primary votes were counted it was found that the senator was an easy winner. To oppose him in the election the democrats nominated William A. Gaston, Boston lawyer and banker, who made a vigorous campaign. Mr. Walker announced his support of Gaston, and certain other republicans came out for the prohibition candidate, John A. Nicholls. The vote ran close throughout the state and although Senator Lodge's re-election was assured by the returns, it was not until after a recount of the ballots, demanded by both parties, that his plurality over Gaston was fixed at 7,336.

Soon after leaving college Mr. Lodge formed a close friendship with Theodore Roosevelt. This was fostered by their joint interest in history and politics, and during Mr. Roosevelt's administration as president, Senator Lodge was invariably a factor in conferences at the White House.

During the Harding administration he also was a prominent figure in party councils and politics.

The establishment of international copyright, the regulation of immigration, the reform of the consular service and numerous other items of notable legislation were largely credited to him. As a member of the foreign relations committee it fell to him to take charge in the senate of the second Hay-Pauncefote treaty, and of the treaty establishing the Alaskan tribunal—a tribunal of which he became a member. For years he was a member of the senate finance and naval committees, active in framing tariff, taxation and naval as well as international policies. The navy was his special interest.

His knowledge both of naval affairs and of international relations, together with his position of leadership in the senate, led to his appointment by President Harding in 1921 as one of the four American delegates to the American arms conference. In that capacity it fell to him to present to the conference the four-power treaty which he later piloted to ratification in the senate.

Mr. Lodge traveled often abroad and had the friendship of many prominent European statesmen. He spoke French fluently and was a student of its art and literature, his library being filled with busts of Napoleon and French volumes. He also had one of the largest collections of Roosevelt letters.

Senator Lodge's father, John Ellerton Lodge, was engaged in trade with China and owned many ships. The senator once remarked: "I never went to sea, but I knew every part of a ship." His great-grandfather, George Cabot, was a senator from Massachusetts from 1791 to 1796 and was appointed by President Adams as secretary of the navy when that department was created, but declined the nomination.

Senator Lodge made his home in a picturesque mansion on the cliffs of Nahant jutting out into Massachusetts bay. There as a boy he became an expert swimmer and master of a sailboat with a retired fisherman as instructor and companion. During his service in congress he spent his summer vacations usually at his Nahant home, and, as he was an ardent horseman, was often seen cantering along the beaches and through the villages. In his later years he found horseback riding too strenuous and got most of his exercise in walking, although he continued to enjoy an occasional swim in the ocean. He was passionately fond of the sea, which he once said "conveys most nearly the idea of infinite space."

For many years Senator Lodge served as moderator at the Nahant town meetings, and in August, 1918, he made a special trip from Washington to preside at a special town meeting called to consider the question of building a new schoolhouse. A fellow townsman wrote: "His attitude in town meetings is liked by the townspeople. His opinions are not always approved, but he is interested in all details, however small, and is considerate of others' opinions."

In September, 1922, the Nahant townspeople, irrespective of party, tendered him a reception and presented him with a silver plate inscribed as "a token of affection and esteem."

Mr. Lodge's wife, who was Anna Cabot Mills, daughter of Rear Admiral Charles H. Davis, of the United States navy, died in 1915. He had two sons, George Cabot Lodge, who died soon after his graduation from Harvard, and John E. Lodge, a Boston lawyer, and one daughter, Mrs. Augustus P. Gardner, widow of Congressman Gardner of Massachusetts.

Admiral Fiske Sees Menace in Ja[illegible]

Urges the United States to Take Adequate Precautions.

New York, Nov. 9.—Asserting that "our probable enemies are becoming stronger to attack and we weaker to resist" and that New York was "the most vulnerable city that ever has existed," Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, retired, today urged that the United States take adequate precautions to achieve "that higher destiny for which we shall have to fight" by understanding better "what this wicked world actually is."

The admiral spoke at a service of flags at the Church of the Heavenly Rest, which followed a parade of military and patriotic organizations.

"Certain other nations are becoming stronger militarily, while we are becoming effeminized," said Admiral Fiske. "We can see, for instance, that in Japan the people are sternly repressing all tendency to luxury, and that a nation-wide movement almost feverish in intensity, is acting to aggrandize its air force, even working women and little boys and girls contributing their mites. We, on the contrary, are becoming more and more addicted to luxury and pleasure, while gaudy fashion shops almost monopolize our grandest avenue."

The ZR-3, if it had come on a mission of destruction, could have done a billion dollars of damage in an hour, said the admiral, adding that "this means that in not many years it will be possible for a score of similar craft to fly over New York, coming from almost any part of the world, and do to New York what other enemies did to Babylon and Carthage and Nineveh and Rome."

Admiral Fiske argued that competition among nations, while often leading to war, was also the stimulus of progress, and that "from this law it would be illogical to expect human beings could escape." He said the United States was surrounded by virile, ambitious and intelligent, but poor, nations, and mentioned Germany, Russia and Japan as representing this type. These countries, he said, "cannot justly be blamed" if they envy America's wealth.

Plot Against The Spanish Dictatorship

French Secret Service Make Arrests on French-Spanish Frontier.

Paris, Nov. 9 (By the A. P.)—French secret service officials are positive that the Spaniards arrested in the last few days at Perpignan, Cerbere, Banyuls and other points on the Franco-Spanish frontier, were all concerned in a plot against the Spanish dictatorship.

On Thursday night fifty or more individuals arrived at St. Jean-de-Lus from Bordeaux and met later at a village named ascain for a conference. Then in small groups they are said to have crossed the frontier, arriving at 3 o'clock Friday morning in the village of Vera, Province of Navarre. A night watchman at Vera, seeing the strangers in the peaceful village, crept stealthily to the barracks which quartered the civic guard. A corporal and a private proceeded to meet the strangers and when demands were shouted as to the motive of the visit, they were answered with a volley of shots.

The corporal and private fell dead and the report of the rifles brought out more civic guards. These received bullet wounds, in the furious firing which followed. The commandant of the civic guards was aroused, he hastily summoned all the men available. A running fight was started, the strangers taking to the hills.

Shots were exchanged throughout the day, and guerilla warfare lasted until early evening when the civic guard reported that it had shot five of the alleged conspirators and arrested twenty others. The commandant's report added that a number of fugitives were seen in the direction of the French frontier.

French gendarmes then took up positions at strategic frontier points and early Saturday morning nine men were caught trying to cross the frontier. They were surrounded. Another group of eight was captured close to St. Jean-de-Luz. This band was armed with guns, each man carrying a hundred or more cartridges.

When the prisoners were brought before the examining magistrate and he asked them for their identity papers, most of them replied that they had been lost during the chase. They said they had arrived from Paris. All were charged with carrying prohibited weapons.

MERRITT ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY FOR SENATE

Stamford, Nov. 9.—Congressman Schuyler Merritt, representative in congress from this district, announced today that he was a candidate for United States senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Brandegee, declaring that he will accept "if the republican party, by its delegates, should decide that it would be to the advantage of the state and of the party to nominate me."

Congressman Merritt's statement follows:

"If the republican party, by its delegates, should decide that it would be to the advantage of the state and of the party to nominate me as a candidate for the United States senate, I would accept the nomination with full appreciation of the honor conferred and the responsibility involved.

"And if elected I should be governed in my action and my votes by the principles of the constitution. President Coolidge has admirably set forth these underlying principles and perhaps the most important is that the constitution was intended to found and did found an indestructible union of indestructible states in which the people elect a government which is their servant, and is not, through bureaus or otherwise, their master. With these views I find myself in full accord as my votes in congress have shown.

"I should view with suspicion any proposal looking to the further extension of the power of the federal government at the expense of the independence of the states, or which would have a tendency further of putting the government into business."

Mr. Merritt, who was re-elected last week, has been a member of the house of representatives for seven years, succeeding the late Ebenezer J. Hill in that capacity. He is a member of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce.

FUNDS FOR LIBRARY OF LOUVAIN UNIVERSITY

New York, Nov 9.—Replying to a cable from Cardinal Mercier expressing the anxiety of the Belgian people at the failure of the American committee for the restoration of the University of Louvain to raise funds for the completion of the university's new library, Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University and chairman of the committee, today assured the cardinal that the drive for funds will be continued with renewed vigor.

One wing of the library, which will replace the historic structure destroyed by German armies during the World war, is already complete, and foundations for the remainder of the building are laid.

Cardinal Mercier's message inquired whether "the inauguration of the library would be possible at the 500th anniversary celebration of Louvain next May."

Dr. Butler reported that $501,925.22 has been collected. Of the states, New York leads with $204,000. The District of Columbia is second with $155,000. Among the universities and colleges, whose alumni and students have contributed most heavily are:

WIDESPREAD DROUGHT IS CAUSING GREAT ANXIETY

Forest Fires Are Raging and Many Cities Fear Exhaustion of Water Supplies—In California Alone From Jan. 1 to Oct. 22 There Have Been 2,439 Forest, Brush and Grain Fires, Covering a Total of 827,000 Acres and $5,000,000 Loss—Four Fire Fighters Have Perished.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Drought in many parts of the country, breaking records of a half century in some places, is causing considerable anxiety because of forest fires and exhaustion of water supplies.

Government officials, especially those of the forest service whose duty it is to protect the national forests from fire and all other dangers, are watching the situation in places where the drought has reached serious proportions. They have expressed gratification with the action of some state authorities to curtail hunting in the excessively dry woodland and forests.

Farmers in some sections are hard hit by the long dry period. In some sections where all grains already have been planted there is a lack of moisture to start germinations of the seed and where the grains are above ground they are not doing well for want of rain.

The sections of the country where the worst drought conditions prevail are the New England states and southward to Virginia; the Gulf states, with Louisiana hardest hit; Michigan and surrounding states, and the far southwest.

Need for care of the dry forests and woods is shown. The forest service officials say by the record of California.

The fire season in that state is now considered closed but from January 1 to Oct. 20, there had been 2,439 forest, brush and grain fires. A total of 827,000 acres, an area larger than the state of Rhode Island, was burned over, causing an estimated loss of $5,000,000 and the lives of four fighters. Of the fires, 32 per centfi was caused by lightning and 68 per cent. were due to careless acts of men. It cost the government $920,000 to fight the California fires and the state and private corporations spent large sume in addition.

New England: Rain needed for fall seeding, for streams and to control forest fires.

New York: Ground very dry and hard, making plowing difficult. Many forest fires.

New Jersey: Meadows and forests dry; some forest fires. Rain needed for late seed..

Pennsylvania: Rain badly needed.

Virginia and North Carolina: Rainfall light.

Georgia: No rainfall. More moisture needed for germination.

Florida: Absence of moisture detrimental.

CONNECTICUT PRACTICALLY FREED OF FOREST FIRES

New Haven, Nov. 9.—Due to a close guard by hundreds of fire wardens and volunteers, Connecticut has been practically freed of forest fires, but due to the tinder-like condition of the woods, more than 2,000 acres have been burned over during the past week and the menace still continues.

The most recent fire was one in Fairfield county, in the southwestern part of the state, which was brought under control last night after 700 acres on the west side of Green Pond mountain had been burned. Other fires in Fairfield county during the week have raised the total acreage of woodland destroyed to 1500 acres, the damage being roughly estimated at $15,000. The other fires in that county were in Danbury, Easton, Trumbull, Huntington and Brookfield.

A fire in the Winsted-Torrington section Thursday was extinguished after it had burned over several hundred acres and a fire which was fought for five hours last Sunday in the Middletown section destroyed 200 acres. A similar fire in the Bristol areas also covered 200 acres before it was extinguished.

The game wardens, following a proclamation by Governor Templeton, making it illegal to hunt in the woods while the present dry period continues, have received instructions to arrest all hunters on sight but thus far have found but few men with guns in the timberland.

The dry spell is proving a hardship to the dairymen in the eastern part of the state. It was reported from Oneco yesterday that if the rain holds off for another week, it will be necessary to raise the price of milk three cents a quart and that many shippers to Boston and Providence will be forced out of business if another week goes by without rain.

REPORT OF FOREST FIRE SITUATION IN NEW YORK

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 9.—More than 15,000 acres of timberland and woodland throughout New York state tonight were burnt and blackened after nearly a month of forest fires in various sections of the state, and with two major fires still burning. The conservation commission estimated tonight that the loss will reach hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Fires were burning tonight near Cropseyville and near Taborton, born in Rensselaer county.

TEN BUILDINGS WERE BURNED AT THE WEIRS

The Weirs, N. H., Nov. 9.—The heart of this summer resort had been wined out early today when firemen brought under control a fire which destroyed 10 buildings, causing a total loss estimated at $275,000. The flames were discovered at 11.10 p. m., in a building used as a dance hall. Three hours later the fire had destroyed among other structures, the Methodist Episcopal church, a business block housing three stores and the post office, the casino, a restaurant, the Third regiment building, the new Hotel Weirs, and the Auditorium. No injuries were reported.

Firemen from the city of Laconia, of which this village is a part, were aided by apparatus from Meredith in fighting the flames which were driven by a strong wind. The fire, after breaking out in the ball room, from an undetermined cause, leaped to the new Hotel Weirs, a huge rambling four-story structure, which had cost $200,000 to build. Driven by a stiff wind, the hotel was soon a roaring furnace and the firemen were barely able to save a colony of summer cottages menaced as the flames spread to other buildings.

The police tonight were investigating the cause of the fire which had made strong headway when discovered. A recent series of forest and brush fires on the hills in the rear of The Weirs has been ascribed by the police to incendiaries.

NEW ENGLAND FIRE WARDENS HOPE FOR RAIN

Boston, Nov. 9.—With New England's forest tinder-dry as a result of 31 rainless days and with only ceaseless vigilance holding in check the fires that have broken out through the length and breadth of the territory, the fire wardens of New England were hoping for rain to bring to an end one of the most menacing of forest fire situations in a generation. Many thousands of acres of woodland have been burned over, causing losses totalling untold thousands of dollars.

The worst of the fires, a woodland blaze on Hoosac mountain between Adams and North Adams, in the Berkshires, today was reported to have been brought under control after two companies of national guard had augmented the forces of citizens, firemen, wardens and foresters already on the the scene. A total of more than 600 acres of tall stands of timber was burned over, driven during part of the time by a wind that attained a 65 mile velocity.

In Massachusetts the situation was the worst in New England with fire in the woodlands of Northfield, Montgomery, Southwick, and Attleboro, giving fighters continued trouble and with a menacing blaze in progress in the forest of the New Hampshire state line near Fitzwilliam. New Hampshire, Drastic measures, including strict bans on hunting in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts, have been in effect for a week as a means toward averting wholesale conflagrations. In Maine and Vermont the situation remains least threatening, but states being faced with only occasional outbreaks which have been quickly extinguished although loss has at times been heavy. Yesterday a 50,000 loss was reported from Cornish, Me., where flames from a forest fire burned over a tract on which 100,000 feet of sawed lumber was stocked.

Fires in Massachusetts which yesterday called for hundreds of fighters in Northboro, Fitchburg, Athol, Concord, Quincy and Mansfield were reported checked. The latter was or Massachusetts-Rhode Island line. Other fires were checked at Canton, Sharon and Stoughton. At the latter place more than 400 acres were burned over before the flames were brought under control.

1,500 ACRES OF LAND BURNED OVER IN FAIRFIELD COUNTY

Bridgeport, Nov. 9.—Approximately 1,50 acres of timber land in Fairfield county have been burned over with a damage roughly estimated at $15,000 by forest fires during the last week.

More than 700 acres in lower Sherman and on the West Side of Green Pond mountain were burned. It is explained that no timber has been taken from the burned area in years because of the trouble in reaching it, and that a fair estimate of the land value there would be between $15 and $20 an acre.

The fire on Green Pond mountain was the worst one of the week and was brought under control last night after 400 men and boys fought it for 24 hours.

Other forest blazes occurred in Danbury, Easton, Trumbull, Huntington and Brookfield. In these towns, the burned areas are valued at $8 an acre, according to owners.

No fires were reported in the county today and a close watch is being kept on sections where there have been fires to prevent a recurrence.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 9.—Damage estimated at more than $50,000 was caused by fire sweeping through an entire city block and for three hours threatening to communicate with Santer Brothers, the city's largest clothing house.

Three buildings were destroyed while two others were slightly damaged. Eight business firms, including clothing, furniture and jewelry establishments, were wiped out, and several business places damaged by smoke.

John Hanson of 349 Valley street, former railroad employe, was caught manufacturing liquor, early Sunday morning, when Chief of Police McArthur, who held a warrant for his arrest, and Lieutenant McLean called at the man's home and found a five-gallon still percolating in great shape. The warrant for Hanson's arrest was for violation of the liquor law on an actual sale charge and Chief McArthur wisely delayed the serving of the warrant until such a time as he could locate Hanson in his home. The coil was disconnected from the still and the complete apparatus, still steaming hot and containing the full makings of several pints of liquor, was taken as evidence, with about two quarts of what remained from a supply made a few days ago. Two empty gallon jugs, smelling strongly, were taken along as evidence that Saturday night's business must have been a booming one. When discovered, the distillde liquor was dripping merrily into a tin can. A smell of the captured liquor gave one the impression of taking a whiff of household ammonia. Hanson will be presented in police court this (Monday) morning on several charges for violation of the Volstead act.

After two days of straw-hat weather Thursday and Friday, the mercury began to drop Saturday and Saturday forenoon fitful little flakes of snow came as what is believed to be a final warning that the overcoat season has come to stay.

Parties interested are making strenuous effort to have the continued case of Max Scheinmann of 54 Center street, charged with breach of the peace settled out of court. It is alleged that during a verbal argument in the hallway of the Hebrew synagogue on Bank street on the evening of Thursday, October 30, Scheinmann applied a bad and insulting name to Mrs. Cecelia Chasen, the complainant in the case. The case was to have been resumed in police court Saturday, but after a conference was again allowed to go over, this time for one month. According to Hebrew custom under such circumstances Scheinmann and Mrs. Chasen were taken before a tribunal of members of the congregation with Joseph Peck acting as judge. Proceedings identical with those of a court were followed, including the hearing of evidence. It was decided that the word used by the defendant against Mrs. Chasen was not a vile or defiling, but the former was found guilty of a mild breach of the peace within the walls of the synagogue. A slight fine was imposed and paid. In the presence of the court Scheinmann and Mrs. Chasen agreeing to drop the matter, but the next day Mrs. Chasen changed her mind and elected to continue to force the complaint.

EARLY REGISTRATION OF 4,000 MOTOR VEHICLES

Approximately 4,000 motor vehicles have been registered by the state motor vehicle department for the year 1925. In an effort to avoid unnecessary rush and confusion for registrations during the closing days of this year, the department is encouraging early attention to the matter of registrations for next year. Applications have been received and filled for over two weeks, but are not as numerous as was expected. The department is equipped to handle a big increase in registration work at once.

The period during which the department will reserve for next year the numbers which applicants have held this year will close December 1.

The motor vehicle registration markets for 1925 are finished in blue and white, the combination for passenger cars being white numerals on blue background and for commercial cars blue numerals on white background. Over a quarter million markets have been ordered in anticipation of an increase of at least 20 per cent in the 1925 registrations over the number for this year. DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

Hail the Snow King! His advance agents of whistling cold, blustering winter days and drifted countrysides made their appearance Sunday noon and fluttered down intermittently during the early afternoon. But the whole show was a fake, like so many other things, these dizzy times. Winter isn't here and isn't going to be here for some time to come. A man who knows all about the weather, though he is not in the employ of the weather bureau, says that no real cold weather is coming to remain until the drought of long duration is thoroughly broken and the ponds and rivers are holding about capacity. This man talks like a friend of humanity. He can't see a winter in a lazy swirl of snowflakes, nor a season's steam heating bill in one chilly Sunday morning. There are more balmy days ahead, he says, and not so very far ahead, either. Rain, he figures, should come in copious quantities this week, so get out from among the spinning wheels and other things in long disuse those old fashioned contraptions in use by a former generation and known as umbrellas and galoshes for you are going to have need of them. All of this might be based on a long distance weather report from C. B. M. O. radio station at Oneco, but it isn't. The prophet wasn't recovered from the election yet, but his will be back soon in all his power and vigor. And then—watch out!

And after all of this it may be certified for the record that thee first snow of the season appeared here on November 9, an assurance that there will be but nine snowstorms during the winter, this based on what another old-time saw suggests.

This town will pay on the morrow tribute to those of the nation who served in the World war. Tomorrow—Armistice day—will be the sixth anniversary of the event since fighting ceased "over there."

Business houses here, following favorable action by the chamber of commerce, will close Tuesday noon for the day. It is possible that the manufacturing concerns will do likewise. The plant of the Quinebaug company is closed for the week, other manufacturers have signified their willingness to close their plants if a general agreement can be arrived at as to closing. The matter will be worked out today.

In the meantime plans for the Armistice day observance here are complete. A parade is scheduled for 7 o'clock Tuesday evening. But members of the American Legion and all ex-service men hope that Danielson will do more toward making the observance a success than mere watching the parade and applauding those who are in it.

The request from a Legion source has been made that every factory whistle, every bell and every noise-making device in Danielson and thereabouts as well as throughout the town be brought into service at 11 a. m. tomorrow (Tuesday) to mark once more the historic hour when fighting came to an end in the World war. The clamor may be thoroughly discordant, but it will recall the joy that welled up in every heart when such a tumult sent a nation frenzied with joy on the first Armistice day in November, 1918 for the frenzied celebration meant life and future happiness to hundreds of thousands of American boys who had been facing death in the country's name.

Surely Danielson will not forget in a period of six years! Surely Danielson will mark the hour of 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. Let the former service men hear something approaching at least the demonstration that this town staged when it learned that the fighting was over and that those of its sons who still lived were coming home.

This town demonstrated Saturday that it appreciates the Civic Federation and the splendid work the organization is doing. Good-hearted people gave of their funds in Saturday's Tag day for the federation in the amount of $518.86, topping last year's Tag day drive, which netted about $470, and with more money yet to come, it is promised.

Members of the federation and a battalion of young and active workers in its interest put in an active day and will be delighted to know of the degree of success that has crowned their efforts. Few people declined to give when solicited. In fact, a great many found it a pleasure to give. As establishing this, it may be cited that numbers of people bought not one tag, but many. They paid as consistently as a sum machine and found pleasure in the process.

The success of the drive was another tribute to the Civic Federation, another demonstration that people in all walks of life are appreciative of its aims and efforts.

Mention in this column that the practice of dimming headlights on motor vehicles is illegal in this state proved a decided surprise to many drivers. They have followed the practice, it appears, as a matter of courtesy or custom—doing what they have seen many others do. Now that they know that the indulgence is condemned as illegal in Connecticut, they will abandon it, desiring no conflict with the law. Drivers from the states where dimming lights is in general observance may be peeved when they get no responding dim.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

JEWETT CITY

Postmaster William T. Crumb was delightfully reminded of his birthday Saturday with a surprise that was a surprise to his family as well as to himself. Mr. and Mrs. Crumb and their daughter went to the movies in the evening, and found their home in darkness when they returned, just as they had left it. On opening the door they were greeted with shouts of welcome, and when the lights came on, discovered a party of relatives from Springfield, Mass. A table all set with the appetizing supper the visitors had brought with them, and a big birthday cake, properly lettered, placed in the center, besides a mahogany smoking cabinet for the master of the house, capped the climax. The party included Mr. and Mrs. William Larcher, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Larcher, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Edward Haskell and daughter Doris, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Johnson and Charles Larcher, all of Springfield.

West Hartford has recently dedicat-ed a $525,000 new high school, the institution being named after William H. Hall. Mr. Hall is well remembered in town as a state Sunday school official. He is a cousin of Mrs. G. W. Robinson. He frequently visited the home of Dr. William Soule. Prof. Curtis M. Geer, a native of Colchester, now a member of the Hall High school board, said that it had been decided that the school should be named for a man who had long identified himself with the things that were best in the community and who had interested himself in all that was good in the political, religious and social life of the town; he should be one who had long been identified with the educational life of the town and one who loved children and with a heart big enough to take in the children of the town regardless of race or color. There was just one such man, and the school was accordingly named for William H. Hall.

Armistice day in Jewett City bids fair to be very quiet as the mills and stores will be closed all day. The schools of the town close at noon. There will probably be a general exodus to Norwich to see the big parade and dedication of the World war memorial. PENDLETON HILL

Next to election the event of the week was the Hallowe'en masquerade. Again the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Thompson opened to sixty or more of their friends and neighbors. The house was beautifully decorated, the dining room in orange and black, with calendula for floral decorations, the dance hall in yellow, the living room in red and the entrance in white. The guests were received by a ghost who met them at the top of the cellar stairs as they entered. The house was lighted by Jack o' lanterns, outside doors were locked, upside down posters bearing the inscription "Try the cellar door." This door the guests were assisted in reaching by ghosts, goblins and witches, who further assisted the guests through winding passages and up the stone stairs. Nearly all the guests were completely and most successfully masked. Dancing in masquerade was the feature of the entertainment until the refreshments were served. Then the masqueraders promenaded before the judges who awarded first prize to Charles H. Roode, representing a southern mammy. The guests then unmasked and again promenaded to a cafeteria lunch of doughnuts and cheese, coffee and marshmallows. Again the guests danced and did Hallowe'en stunts until 12 o'clock when the ghost walked around the house, finally wagging its rattling bones up the cellar stairway. A group of brave spirits met the ghost. Those who followed the spirits' directions exactly will have good luck throughout the year. Those failing must be prepared to suffer the consequences until another Hallowe'en.

Patrolman Vernon A. Burdick and Francis J. McMahon of Pawcatuck on Sunday investigated the accident in which J. C. Underwood of Yenson was involved on Liberty street, shortly after midnight, Sunday morning. Harry Cunaizzaro of Liberty street turned his automobile from Smith street to Liberty, just as the Chalmers touring car, driven by Underwood, came down Berry hill, and the latter to avoid a collision swung to one side striking the fire hydrant, breaking it off so that a flood of water followed. As a result of the officers' investigation Underwood has been summoned to appear in a session of Stonington town court this (Monday) morning before Judge William A. Wilcox to answer to a charge of driving an automobile without an operators' license and without having the car properly registered. Fish pole, line, hooks and sinkers will probably be added to the equipment of the liquor raiding squad of the Westerly police department, which already lists in its equipment spades and shovels. The new equipment is a result of a raid Saturday afternoon on the old south road, where it was necessary for Officers Champlin and Madison to procure a pole to fish a five-gallon alcohol can from the quarry hole into which its alleged owner hurled it at the end of a 200 yard dash, in which Hezekiah Briggs of the South road outdistanced the fleet-footed patrolmen. Spades and shovels have been used on several occasions in the Central Park section, to uncover sought for contraband.

Complaint and warrant to search for liquor was secured by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown of the Westerly police force and Saturday, November 8 at about 4 o'clock in company with Patrolmen Michael J. Curtin, George H. Champlin and George Madison the premises of Hezekiah and Adriana Briggs, west side of Hopkinton road, between the Norman farm and Red Stone quarry was visited. It was alleged that intoxicating liquors were taken from the premises and persons of notorious intemperate habits have been seen entering and departing from the premises. While Officers Madison and Champlin were in a shed a man went behind the building and secured the two gallon can of alcohol, which was concealed there and with it in his clutches made record time to the quarry hole, where he threw the can into the water. The pursuing officers saw the can and Officer Madison descended the pit to its lowest recess to retrieve the "alkie." Meanwhile the late possessor hurled rocks at the floating can that he might sink it and destroy the evidence. The can containing about two gallons of alleged alcohol was brought to the Westerly police station, along with about one quart of gin in a one quart bottle and about one and one-half pints of whiskey contained in one quart bottle. The alleged owners are summoned to the district court November 14th.

Wilcox, in Stonington town court and the charges were continued for 30 days to allow time for Perry to recover. Surety for the bonds was furnished by Perry's wife, who owns their home at 9 Diving street. The storehouse in which the liquor was kept belongs to Perry. He underwent an operation Friday morning at the Lawrence hospital, where he was taken after the accident. The right leg in which two bones were broken was set.

FILLING VACANCIES.

With the announcement of the serious illness of Senator Lodge following a stroke of paralysis, one Boston report showed that there had often been thought concerning the situation that would develop in case of his death, for reference was made to the fact that Massachusetts has provided for such an emergency.

It appears that at the time of the removal of both of Pennsylvania's senators within a short time of each other there was reason for Massachusetts anticipating what might be done under such circumstances in its own case. The result was that the legislature empowered the governor to make an appointment for the unexpired term in case a senator should die in office. Thus the procedure in that state is established, the state will have representation at all times and there will be no hastily called and expensive special election to meet such an emergency.

Connecticut has recently found that while such a method is desirable it is not to recieve the benefit of it. It lies within the power of the legislature to authorize the governor to make such a vacancy appointment, but no such authority has been conferred. It would have been possible to call a special session of the legislature to obtain it, and that would have been far less costly than a special election, but it wasn't done. Neither was there a willingness to let the matter go over, in the case of a successor to Frank B. Brandegee, to be dealt with by the next legislature or the governor-elect. Connecticut therefore faces a special election next month, a matter of only about three weeks before the general assembly will be on the ground ready for action, and with the election will go an expense of several hundred thousand dollars.

Massachusetts has guarded against a situation which is not unlikely in any state. It means a huge saving to that state, or any state, whenever conditions which require it develop. Connecticut may some day see the advisability of following the course pursued in other states.

NATIVE APPLES.

Possibly the observance of Apple week hasn't caused you to invest in apple orchards, to devote your land to apple raising purposes or to consuming a greater percentage of the apple crop. Perhaps it has awakened in some minds the opportunities which are presented for the cultivation of the apple, and of doing so in a way that will permit of eastern demands being supplied by eastern markets.

Step up to a fruit stand and try to buy a Connecticut, or a New England grown apple. Possibly the response will be, "Oh, you want pie apples!" or you may get the laconic reply, "can't get 'em." It is taking no chances to say that this has been the experience of a great many people who would like to obtain native apples, who know what has been produced in this part of the country and who are not satisfied with the product of the western orchards.

Go through the country and there will be noticed many old orchards. It is much more difficult to pick out young apple orchards, and yet there is a demand for home grown fruit, and it is becoming more and more apparent that this demand is not being satisfied. This is a situation which cannot fail to be brought to attention by Apple week. It discloses the chances that exist for entering the business of apple production in a manner and on a scale that will meet the western competition. With the markets near at hand, instead of on the other side of the continent, and with plenty of available land for the growing of apples, and giving them the attention they require, there are good reasons why this part of the country should make a response that is in keeping with the demand, or even to go out and demonstrating what can be done here with the assurance that Connecticut grown fruit, or that which is produced in New England, will find a ready market. If there is also a marketing problem it should be realized that the quicker it is tackled and solved the better it will be for all concerned. This of course applies to other fruits as well as apples.

THE BRITISH CABINET.

Following the overwhelming victory of the conservatives in England great interest was bound to attach to the new ministry. Premier Baldwin, leader of the tory party, is no stranger to the office. He has had previous experience, and he has made mistakes which he is not likely to repeat. He brought about the defeat of his own ministry by his protection policies. His lesson in that respect can be expected to guide him on his return to office.

In the selection of his cabinet, however, he has not only sought to obtain strong men, a number of whom worked with him before, but he has given recognition to the fact that there are those outside his own party who can render good service to the country. It is in fact not beyond the bounds of possibility that when he selected Winston Churchill for chancellor of the exchequer he figured that it was no more than fair in view of the support which had been given by liberals to the conservative candidates in the election. Likewise when he calls such a recognized leader as Austen Chamberlain as foreign minister there cannot fail to be applause for his coalition views.

The British have had a chance to observe the type of government that resulted from a coalition cabinet. It has witnessed the administration under a labor government, which the liberals made possible. In the tremendous support given to the conservatives after the latter experience it is not an overdrawn view that considers such a result as a demand against the return of a labor government. At any rate Premier Baldwin is acting in a manner to gain and retain the good will of the liberals. Some of the rock-ribbed conservatives may not like it, and may chafe under the indications of a coalition, but it is a move that is calculated to develop the least discontent, and there can be no escaping the admission that those brought into the cabinet from other parties are eminently fitted for the positions for which they have been picked. The present British government seems to be headed for a long period of service.

HUGHES IS NEEDED.

While straw ballots are not resorted to for the purpose of getting a line on the members of the president's next cabinet, there is already much guessing as to what may happen. Rumors are frequent and sometimes they are difficult to deal with.

It would not be difficult to imagine reasons why all the members of the present cabinet would not return. Perhaps that is the way that much talk and not a few rumors get under way, but imagined reasons and the actual facts are quite often far apart.

It is being said that Secretary Hughes would be a serious loss to the cabinet. He has developed a strong foreign policy, saw the plan which he suggested at New Haven concerning the settlement of the European situation put into action under the Dawes plan and has developed other efforts which the country would like to see carried out before he concludes his duties as secretary of state. The country as well as the president, has confidence in him. He is a sane and wise adviser, and it is to be hoped he stays, together with Secretary Mellon, while the value of Secretary Hoover as a cabinet member can be fully appreciated.

In connection with the possible resignation of some of the other members it is to be remembered that four years is a long time to give to such service unless the members happen to be men of means as well as wisdom, for it must be realized that such places, like the vice presidency, do not provide an income that makes them attractive.

It can be appreciated that there will be members who will feel they have given all the time they can, others who will have a desire for other activities, but speculation neither breaks nor makes a cabinet. The president will in due time make known those he desires for his official family, and knowing Calvin Coolidge it can be anticipated it will be a strong and able body.

DON'T START A FIRE.

States which have any woodland are experiencing their share of the forest fires. In view of the drought this means the calling into action of emergency forces for the purpose of stopping the menace which is involved and for the purpose of checking the loss.

Preventing hunting has undoubtedly prevented many woodland fires. Whatever keeps those with firebrands out of the woods lessens the danger, but it becomes apparent that this is the time to forego the starting of brush fires that in any way can communicate to the fields or the underbrush or other property.

In this connection it is also well to remember that numerous forest fires have been started by those who travel the highways by automobile, or other vehicles, and throw to the roadside the remains of smoking material. This is a serious danger in the wooded regions under present day conditions. It is a careless act, quite the same as that of the hunter, but it may lead to serious consequences.

Lookouts which are maintained for the purpose of discovering new fires and furnishing information to the firefighters of that locality as to their location render a most valuable service, but an even more important one can be performed by those who refrain from carelessly or intentionally starting a fire.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Celery tops may be used in soup.

Green soap is very good for shampooing.

Use raisins in pudding whenever possible.

Corn fritters can be made from canned corn.

Narrow loaf pans insure thorough baking.

Use vinegar to soften the bottle of dried bluing.

A northern exposure is the best for a kitchen.

Keep track of the condition of your gas stove.

Scraps of bread may be toasted in a corn popper.

Before using a clothesline boil it for a few minutes to keep it from stretching.

Pulverized chalk moistened with ammonia will remove yellow stains from porcelain.

Tumblers used for milk should be rinsed in cold water before washing in hot water.

Rancid butter may be used for cooking if it is heated to boiling point and boiled slowly for six or eight minutes.

Don't throw away small bits of soap or try to use a piece till it is entirely gone. Melt them together with a little water and a soft soap is obtained that is very convenient to use.

When cooking very sour fruit, such as cherries or cranberries, add a very little salt to each quart and it will take about one-half as much sugar.

Often, when boiling eggs, the white comes through the shell and spoils the taste of the egg, through its appearance. This may be prevented if a teaspoonful of salt is put into the water before boiling.

If, after washing and drying your fruit jars, you will put a small piece of paper in each jar before screwing on the top, they will not have that musty smell when opened. The paper collects all the moisture.

OILCLOTH APRON

To keep one's dress clean around the sink, have a small oilcloth apron made of a part-worn piece of oilcloth. Keep it hanging near the sink, so it will be easy to get.

DESTROY PESTS

To destroy the silver fish (bugs) cover bits of cardboard with boiled starch paste poisoned with arsenic and lay them on the book shelves, behind mantles and in bottom of drawers. Take great care that this paste is not within reach of children or pets.

CLEANING POTS AND PANS

To clean pots and pans, take one ordinary clothespin, split in two. The soft wood will not scratch them as metal does, and it can be burned when soiled.

If you need to keep cheese any length of time, you may prevent mould from appearing on the cut surface by coating it thinly with butter.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

One woman keeps a small bottle of linseed oil in the bath room cabinet and rubs in a few drops thoroughly before washing her hands, to soften and whiten them.

Very shiny nails are now regarded in the same class with highly varnished, glittering furniture! It may be true, as of diamonds, that "them as has 'em wears 'em," but a soft luster is in much better form.

Most sufferers from rheumatism don't drink half as much water as they need. And almost invariably they use far too much sugar. Saccharine should be used to sweeten food instead of sugar when one is rheumatic. Strawberries and all acids should be avoided as much as possible.

There are any number of excellent preparations which make it possible to keep the cuticle soft and loosened from the nail. The light emery boards are generally used in preference to the metal file and scissors, for shaping the nail and removing dead cuticle, and orange-wood sticks are greatly preferable to surfaces of metal for loosening the cuticle.

VEILS COMING BACK

Veils of somewhat more moderate dimensions than those grandmother used to wear are being brought back into fashion by the queen and Princess Mary. Even the flappers are taking them up, finding them useful to keep in place the rough edges of the coiffure that always annoy those who have decided to give up the shingle and let it grow out again.

Princess Mary has enjoyed the freedom of wearing any kind of hat she prefers, and these seem always to be larger.

The queen, as all rotogravure readers know, almost always wears a toque, or at any rate a hat of small dimensions. Over these she now frequently fixes a veil, tautly drawn.

Since her departure from the palace and its close regal supervision of the habiliments of its occupants, Princes Mary has adopted veils of a different type than worn by the queen. Similarly the veils that Mary now has taken to are usually worn more loosely than her mother's, and often match the color of the hat.

To enable the average girl or woman to wear veils and thus keep up with the palace-born fashions, hat brims, which for some time have been of cloche design, now are taking an upward turn, so that the veilings can have a definite fixed stopping place.

The shops for the most part are showing black or flesh-colored veils, but for those of debutants or sub-deb age there is a variety of vivid shades of blue, red, violet and even two-colored veils with a decorated border to fit around the hat.

TO SOFTEN LEATHER

To soften boots or shoes rub a little oil into the leather. Any other kind of oil will do, but castor oil is the best, and one needs to use only the tiniest drop or the leather will be too greasy to polish.

DICTATES OF FASHION

An unusual coat is of quilted taffeta trimmed with gold braid and very narrow bands of ermine.

Linings of silver cloth are lovely in the more elaborate three-piece costumes and for evening wraps.

Gray squirrel and white ermine are combined very effectively this year and give a very original effect.

A charming dance dress shades from a vivid green skirt to a bodice of cloth of silver with exquisite shaded fringes.

Brilliant blue satin bands embroidered in gold in Chinese design make attractive trimmings for a black satin gown.

Amber pins are used effectively in black satin or black velvet hats and are much newer than brilliant studded or pearl pins.

A very charming evening dress of white georgette has panels in the front and back composed of silver sequins, and wing draperies that fall below the hemline.

A very Frenchy costume consists of a tunic of white satin over a black skirt worn under a black satin coat trimmed with brown fur.

The neckline of the new fall dresses seem to hug the neck very closely, the round collar being particularly liked by younger women.

Some of the loveliest tunic outfits are of black and white satin and the white overtunic comes to within six inches of the black hem.

Many shorter waisted dresses are being shown for the younger woman. The short waist, it is well known, is infinitely more youthful than the long one.

A trimming of braid is chic on a tunic costume just now. But the braid is still more chic if it is ribbon of some bright hue, appliqued in four to a dozen rows.

The pajama negligee is much smarter than the lace-trimmed affair for the slender woman. It comes in the most gorgeous colorings and fabrics and has an irresistible appeal.

Linings of plaid wool in very bright colors are seen on dark coats with fur collars and cuffs. Frequently they come in two-piece combinations with a dress of the plaid to match.

IN YOUTHFUL FAVOR

Next to having an English polo player wrapped up in one, the best thing in flapper circles is to be all wrapped up in an English barberry coat of waterproof tweed with a plaid pattern. These promise quite to eclipse the raccoon coats which have been the fall standby of the college boy and girl for the last two or three years.

SILKS IN POLO DESIGN

An event of such importance as international polo was bound to have a considerable influence upon fashion and besides the coat-dresses and topcoats inspired by the sport coat and doublebreasted jacket affected by the prince of Wales, we have silk whose design consists of white figures of most realistic-looking polo players. It comes in a number of autumn colors and is used for dresses as well as scarfs.

LAUNDRY HINTS

To remove powder stains from your suit or dress collar, sponge with turpentine.

Iron rust may be removed with oxalic acid, the same as ink stains, or a paste made of lemon juice, salt, starch and soap, may be spread on the stain and placed in the sunlight. This method is usually effective if time enough is given.

To wash handkerchiefs so that they do not discolor, put them in a tub of cold water to which a handful of salt has been added. The next day wash them out and boil them with one tablespoon of orris-root. Rinse in cold water and hang out to dry.—The Designer.

If you would wash taffeta, soak it in water in which 2 tablespoons of salt have been dissolved. Then wash with white soap in warm water. Add half teaspoon borax to the rinsing water to bring back the stiffening. Do not wring, but hang on the line to drip. When almost dry remove from line and iron.

MODERN BEDROOM

The modern bedroom prides itself on being charming, restful in manner, suited to the personality of the occupant and, above all, becoming to that occupant.

Dainty wallpapers, rugs of thick pile and plain color, graceful furniture, lovely curtains and even becoming bedding, are now the right of every self-respecting bedroom. Color schemes may be carried out in the minutest detail, from lighting fixtures to perfume bottles and rouge pots.

Not the least important item in fitting out the modern bedroom is bedding which shall make slumber comfortable, and these past chilly days have turned the homemaker's thoughts quite definitely to the question of bedding.

The ugly, practical blanket of gray or even red, which comforted our shivering ancestors, is now a thing of the past, save for camps or country homes. Nor is the woolen blanket supreme in the field, since some housewives prefer cotton weaving, supplemented by comforts and throws.

NEW LAMP SHADES

Lamp shades in some houses are looked upon as a means for individual expression of taste. They are all specially made. Shields for the side lights are made of old engravings deftly mounted in metal frames. In the bedrooms all shades are made of the hangings used in the rooms. Cretonne figures are cut out and mounted on the inside of paper parchment shades. In library and music room, appropriate quotations are lettered as borders on parchment shades. Each lamp shade has individuality and meaning as well as beauty. The nursery lamp shades show silhouettes of the children at play.

FILET NET CURTAINS

A well-made, simple lace curtain is the filet net, which comes in good ranice of simple designs in various tones of ecru and white.

BABY CLOTHES

The clothes for a baby 1 to 3 years are dependent primarily upon daintiness for their charm. Fine wash fabrics are always the first choice when materials are under consideration. Dimity is one material that is good year in and year out.

RECIPES

Deviled Eggs: Four hard-boiled eggs, 1 teaspoon of mustard or mustard to taste, 1-2 teaspoon of salt, 1 tablespoon of finely chopped parsley, a dash of cayenne pepper, a dash of paprika, 3 tablespoons of melted butter of oleomargarine or salad oil, 1 tablespoon of vinegar. Cut the hard-boiled eggs in half lengthwise, remove the yolks, being careful not to break the whites. Powder the yolks with a fork, then add the mustard salt, pepper, paprika and vinegar mixed together, add the butter or oil and mix until smooth; or 1-4 cup of mayonnaise dressing may be used, instead of the seasoning. Fill into the whites of eggs and rough the top with the fork. Sprinkle with the chopped parsley.

Banana Cream Pie: Beat the yolks of four eggs and the whites of 2 with 1-2 cup of sugar. Add the pulp of 2 ripe bananas pressed through a sieve, 1-2 saltspoon of salt, 1 pint of hot milk and 1-2 teaspoon of vanilla, turn into a pie tin lined with paste and bake in a slow oven until firm in the center. When done, make a meringue of beaten whites and 2 tablespoons of powdered sugar, flavor slightly with lemon juice, spread over the pie and brown delicately in a moderate oven. Serve cold.

Briand's Many Ups and Downs

While on his way to success, Aristide Briand had very positive ideas of the drastic things that should be done by those in authority, but when he reached the heights of responsibility he learned that his plans not only were wrong but threatening to his country.

Son of the proprietor of a small hotel at Nantes, France, his progress through the Nantes Lycee and the College of St. Nazaire was beset with difficulties. With an interest in the poor about his home and a love for oratory he drank in the fervid thoughts of the Socialist orators and openly advocated the "general strike" as a means of "social revolution."

After completing his studies in law he established himself in practice at St. Nazaire. Taking an active part among the advanced Socialists of the Loire Department, he was elected general secretary of their party. Warmly advocating harsh measures for the government, his fame as an orator spread and he became a journalist in order to broadcast his views, writing for La Lanterne and other Socialist organs.

After several attempts he was elected member of the Chamber of Deputies by the miners of Saint-Etienne when he was 39. His report of the bill for separation of the church and state won his appointment and public worship in M. Sarrien's cabinet. At 50 he became the first Socialist premier in history—and his success brought his expulsion from the Socialist party.

In his new position he could see the threatened German invasion made possible when the Feredation of Labor called a general strike, and he drafted the strikers as soldiers, then ordered them back to work. And after a nation-wide debate his action was sustained by the Chamber.

President Fallieres to form another ministry. After that he was in and out of office many times. During the World War he was twice Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Following the declaration of peace, he has served as Premier three times, his last administration ending after he was recalled by President Millerand because he did not carry out Poincare's policies.

And he was again victorious over Poincare in recent elections.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

James A. Patten of Chicago, who has donated $1,500,000 to Presbyterian colleges and other institutions, was nationally famous some years back as "the wheat king," his grain speculations at that time being conducted on an enormous scale. He gained the knowledge that proved the basis for his extraordinary manipulations during his youth, spent as a "hand in Illinois grain fields, as clerk of a country store where farmers came to do their trading, and as an inspector in the state grain department between 1874 and 1878. He entered the corn market with $2500, his entire savings, in 1879, buying "calls" which he closed out with a profit of $25,000. By 1890 he was recognized as the leader of the Chicago board of trade, although it was not until many years later that his spectacular attempts to "corner" the market attracted world-wide attention. Mr. Patten's success in the grain market is attributed chiefly to his expert knowledge of all phases of the grain business.

CHILD TRAINING

Laura B. Gray

In this day of small, convenient houses, it sometimes seems impossible to devote one room to the children, but why not build houses with a room for them?—a nice, bright, comfortable one off the kitchen, where Mother can keep an eye on it, not up three flights of stairs in the garret.

Living as we do, in a four-roomed bungalow, it seemed impossible to have a children's room, until the following idea came to me: We have a veranda, of fair size. Half of this we screened with canvas, and here the children have slept the year round. We live on the Pacific coast where the climate is moderate, although we sometimes get zero weather. This arrangement left one nice, sunny bedroom for the nursery.

The difference this room has made to the entire household is astonishing. I kalsomined the walls yellow, painted the woodwork white, hung some pretty curtains and varnished the floor with three coats of good varnish. A floor treated in this way makes a surface that is easily cleaned and nice to play on. Then I cut out suitable pictures from magazines, mounted them on brown paper and put them on the walls. In this room I put the toy chest, which had previously been in the living-room, all of their toys, two tables and their own little chairs. Here my little girls seem very happy. They have taken a great interest in the room, themselves, and in keeping it tidy. It has given them a new interest in their home. They feel that this room is their very own. Every human being has that love of possession, whether it be for a bedroom, a bookshelf, or only a box—some spot to call his own. A few suggestions given by me, while busy in the kitchen, as to a good place to put dolly's cradle or into which drawer to put dolly's clothes, are training these little girls to love orderliness and to be useful. After they have been out in the afternoon they are keen to come back to their room, and sometimes they bring a little friend to play with them. Here they can romp without disturbing anyone.

A children's room is also a blessing to the rest of the family. After a hard day's struggle to get the wherewithal to buy bread for his little brood, the father returns home, his heart longing for the sweet peacefulness of his own hearth. It is hard for him to have to jump up immediately after supper and set himself to amuse the children with their exuberant spirits; it is equally hard on the children to be continually subdued and told to be quiet. This, I think, more than anything else, tends to make children seek their pleasures outside the home.

Having all the toys in one room makes it easier for the mother, too. The children are contented and self-amused, and the busy mother has not to answer quite so often that difficult question, "What shall I do?"

Of course every house cannot have a children's room, but some corner should be theirs, a portion of the living-room or the kitchen. They should have a table, a book-shelf, and a box for toys. I have been in houses where there was a drawing-room, a dining room, a den and a sewing room, but the children's toy box was in the kitchen, and the "help" refused to have the lid opened for the toys to be taken out. The children wandered all over the house, getting into everybody's way, or went out and bothered the neighbors. Children must have something to do they should be interested in what they are doing and they need a place in which to do it. I have found a children's room a great help towards this end.

Stories That Recall Others

Easily Explained

Two small children were making their way from school. They talked, as children will, about all the exciting things that had been happening in their respective homes. Then:

Gladys—"My daddy sold our dog last week and it came home yesterday afternoon."

Ivy—"How funny! I wonder how it found its way back?"

Gladys—"Why you silly, it looked on its collar of course."

His First Experience

A young couple, recently married, had been riding with some friends. On reaching home the bride hurried the new husband up to the apartment with orders to start the coffee boiling, while she made a few necessary purchases at a neighboring store. Her consternation at the absent-minded and well meaning husband was beyond bounds when on hurrying into the kitchen, she found the coffee boiling in the new electric percolator on top of the new gas stove, well surrounded by a high flare.

The most extensive forest fire that has visited the region of North Adams Mass., in a score of years was still raging on Hoosac mountain this morning, apparently without anw sign of abatement. The fire covered an area of several hundred acres.

WHAT ARMISTICE DAY SHOULD SIGNIFY TO ALL AMERICANS

New Haven, Nov. 8.—Rev. Cornelius Woelfkin, D.D., of New York city, speaking at the chapel exercises at Yale university today, stressed the significance that Armistice day should have for all of us who call ourselves true Americans."

"The signing of the armistice in France Nov. 11, 1918," he said, "stands not only for the ending of the great World war, but also for the beginning of an era of perpetual peace and friendship among nations. For all the great victories of the future will be in the field of peace and war will some day become as obsolete as is the armor of the ancient knights of the feudal days.

"War is now a relic of the past, for war and civilization are incompatible, and the forces of civilization have always gone forward, and I believe will always continue on the road of progress. If any war is to come, men will be driven into the machines of death; women, children and old men will be slaughtered mercilessly by the devices for killing which are ever increasing in their deadliness. War has lost entirely the noble aspect of chivalry which it once bore. There is no field for heroism such as that displayed by the great men of old in the conflicts of their day.

"What have we gained from the war? Let me cite to you a little creed of mine which I have evolved since Armistice day, Nov. 11, 1918. It is founded on four definite propositions. The first is 'I believe in myself.' The second is 'I believe in my fellow men.' Then 'I believe in God.' And the last one is 'I believe in the integrity of the forces that make for progress.'"

TORONTO CHARGES AUTOCRACY AGAINST N. Y. COMMISSION

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 8.—A charge of autocracy on the part of the New York state boxing commission is contained in a report of the Ontario athletic commission which controls professional boxing and wrestling in the province.

In connection with the affiliation of the Canadian Athletic bodies with those in the United States the report expresses the dissatisfaction of the commission with the attitude of the New York body and comments on the lack of cooperation given the Ontario organization in dealing with boxers who perform under the auspices of both bodies.

"It is plain," says the report, "that the New York organizations destroys of making every other body subject to its will."

FRENCH DO NOT ENTHUSE OVER BASEBALL GAME

Paris, Nov. 9.—(By The A. P.)—The New York Giants today defeated the Chicago White Sox 1 to 0. It was a fast game of baseball. There was much excellent fielding and team work which aroused enthusiasm among the American spectators; but, as during Saturday's game, the French spectators were cold and puzzled over the intricacies of the game. The weather also was cold—almost wintry—and the spectators drank "grog American" instead of eating peanuts.

In 1922, $1,580,671,296 was expended for public elementary and high school education in the United States. Reports for 1924 from seven states show an increase in expenditures of 15 per cent over 1922. If this rate of increase holds good for all states, the total expenditures for 1924 will exceed $1,900,000,000.

FURTHER STEPS IN HUGE MERGER OF BAKING CONCERNS

New York, Nov. 9.—Further steps in the impending merger of a number of leading concerns in the baking industry were revealed today when George G. Barber chairman of the board of directors of the Continental banking corporation made public letters to stockholders of the United Bakeries Corporation in which stock in the new baking concern was offered for United Bakeries shares.

Mr. Barber wrote to George B. Smith chairman of the board of directors of the United Bakeries concerning the matter and Mr. Smith wrote his stockholder endorsing the exchange. He told them that he was exchanging his own stock and that the new corporation would be officered by executives of the United Bakeries. Stockholders were told that the first payment of stock in the new organization would be made January 1, 1925.

The exchange of stock will be effected on the following basis: For one share of preferred stock of United Bakeries the stockholders may obtain one share of preferred stock and one share of class "B" common stock of Continental, while one share of United common stock may be exchanged for one share of class "A" common stock and two shares of class "B" commonstock in Continental.

Mr. Barber said that it was the intention of the Continental Bakeries Corporation to pay regular quarterly dividends at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum on its preferred stock and also to pay regular quarterly dividends at the rate of $8 per share per annum on its class "A" common stock. The first quarterly payment on both both classes of stock would be made January 1, 1925, he said.

MOTHER AND SON ARRESTED WITH LOAD OF WHISKEY IN AUTOMOBILE

Four cases, each containing two dozen pint bottles of whiskey, and 42 other pint bottles were seized by the police Saturday night when Mrs. Helen M. Clark, 43, of 14 Cliff street, and her son, John A. Clark, 23, now of New York city, were arrested in Mrs. Clark's Maxwell coupe on Dunham street on the charge of illegally transporting liquor. The whiskey was all labeled "Bottled in Bond," and was said to have been brought here from Providence Saturday. It was stated by the officers that Mrs. Clark admitted he had been to Providence Saturday. The current prices the seized liquor would bring over $400. The seized automobile, registration N-8361, is held by the police.

The arrest was made by Sergeant Thomas Murphy of the local police force, County Detective William Lewis and Special Officer Butler, after Detective Lewis had trailed the Clark car around the city on a route that led up to Greeneville, then out towards East Great Plain and along Dunham street towards Thamesville, till the Clark machine came to a stop in Dunham street near Thames street.

At that point the detective concluded the people in the car knew they were being followed and there was nothing to be gained by trailing them any further so that the three officers placed Mrs. Clark and her son under arrest as soon as they had found the four cases in the back compartment of the coupe. The 42 bottles were found in a space behind the back seat. It was the officer's belief that the consignment of liquor was to be delivered somewhere in the city, but they were unable to locate the place.

Mrs. Clark and her son remained under arrest until Sunday night when $2,500 bail for each of them was given before U. S. Commissioner Earl Mathewson by John Driscoll of 58 Lafayette street. Mr. Driscoll was fined $200 and costs in the city court last Thursday morning for driving an automobile while intoxicated.

DESCRIBES SKY PILOTS WORK AMONG LUMBERJACKS

Rev. R. C. Hartley, sky pilot to the lumberjacks in the timberlands of the state of Washington, gave a very interesting talk on his work among the men of the logging camps Sunday evening at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of the church, led the service.

Rev. Mr. Hartley began his talk with a description of the operation of a modern lumber camp in the southwestern part of the state of Washington. He told of how the camps are moved over night, and went on to describe life as it is lived in the average camp. Speaking of the way the men spend their evenings the sky pilot by way of example said:

Supper is over. There are no magazines, and no places to buy a magazine. There is no theatre. The men can't go to church because there is no church. They can't visit their neighbors because there are no neighbors. What would you do in a case like this? I have given you the whole problem of the lumberman and why he is a problem. As a rule they are homeless; they are voteless; they belong to no organizations, social, religious or fraternal. They drift from camp to camp.

The sky pilot told how he establishes contact with the men in the camps. Clergymen and missionaries are as a rule not very welcome. It is hard work to gain the confidence of the men, as they have an idea that strangers are after money, through contributions. Mr. Hartley said he makes his first approach by establishing a friendship with the cook. The cook is king of his domain—the kitchen and dining room. It is the dining room which Rev. Mr. Hartley selects as the only suitable place in the camp to talk to the men. The dining room secured, the men are invited in to hear his talk.

Then Rev. Mr. Hartley says he tries to convince them that he is not after their money. No contributions are taken. Thrift is one of the things he endeavors to teach them, and he generally succeeds in getting them to start bank accounts. We are there to bring the gospel of Jesus Christ to these men, he said. He went on to tell of some of the results of his work. The church is beginning to make itself felt, he said, and the men are glad to see us coming to the camps. There is one language they all understand, and that is the language of loving service. I want you folks to pray for these men out there and to pray for we missionaries who are trying to bring the gospel to the men in the camps.

The service closed with the benediction by Rev. Mr. Hartley.

TWO SMALL FIRES CALL CITY DEPARTMENT

At 5.54 p. m. Saturday the fire department answered an oral alarm for a fire on the city dump off Falls avenue. A five-gallon can of water was dumped on the blaze.

Sunday at 8.40 a. m. the department answered a telephone call for a roof fire at 38 School street. Persons going by saw the blaze. Octave Morrel and his two sons fought the fire themselves with pails of water and then called the fire department to see if the fire had all been extinguished. The roof rafters were charred as was a space of about four feet square on the roof. The house is owned by John E. Hawkins and the fire was caused by soot in the upper part of the chimney, and sparks from the burning soot set the roof on fire.

An official of the fire department pointed out Sunday evening that people should be especially careful of fires at the present time when the water in the reservoir is so low. They should call the department immediately and not wait until after they have fought the blaze themselves. A prompt call to the department will prevent damage to property and prevent the necessity of drawing on the already depleted supply of city water.

CUT ON THE HEAD IN HIGH STREET ROW

About 9.30 Sunday night Michael Essemol of No. 35 West Thames street, showed up in police headquarters with a cut head and a story of having been hit by something while he was in the house at No. 32 High street occupied by Antonio Chasezin. Essemol said he was in the house and there was some trouble and in the fracas he was hit on the head. Dr. Louis T. Cassidy was called to police headquarters and took three stitches in the man's head to close up the cut. Dr. Cassidy said it looked as if the man had been hit with a bottle.

After hearing Essemol's story and to a rather garbled version of the affair as told by witnesses of three nationalities, Sergt. Thomas Murphy started a search for an Italian who is said to have personal knowledge as to just what it was that Essemol was hit with and by whom he was hit.

EXPECT ANOTHER OFFER FOR GAS AND ELECTRIC

Another offer to buy the Norwich gas and electric department from the city is expected from the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., as a result of a letter which Mayor Milo R. Waters sent Saturday to General Manager H. D. Larrabee in reply to a letter from Mr. Larrabee.

The general managers letter was as follows:

THE EASTERN CONNECTICUT POWER COMPANY
Norwich, Conn.,
November 7th, 1924.

To the Honorable Milo R. Waters,
Mayor of the City of Norwich,
Norwich, Conn.
Dear Sir:

Confirming our conversation of Nov. 6th, 1924, relative to the Gas and Electric property, we beg to say:

At the meeting which we had with your committee on August 22nd we were told that, while there was no objection to offers being made, the property was not for sale. We were also told that your committee did not feel that they could consider a different proposal from us, because the instructions were to report upon the proposals as submitted rather than to investigate the whole subject.

Consequently when the report of your committee was made public, we felt that, inasmuch as the committee's opinion seemed to be that the property be not sold, we should take no further action along that line.

Now, however, we understand that in view of recent offers which have been made, you propose to submit the matter to the voters. This you propose to do by special election using the voting machine upon the question as to whether or not the property shall be sold.

We believe that because of its location in this territory, and from other favorable conditions, the Eastern Connecticut Power company is the logical purchaser; and we are in position to make a proposal for the purchase of this property which will be at least as advantageous to the city and citizens as that which any other bidder could safely make. If, then, the property is to be sold, we would like to be heard further, and on this question you stated that the Eastern Connecticut Power company would be considered as a possible purchaser and would be given equal opportunity to present proposals.

Yours very truly,
H. D. LARRABEE.
General Manager.

To this Mayor Waters has made the following reply:

MAYOR'S OFFICE
Norwich, Conn.,
November 8, 1924.

The Eastern Connecticut Power Co.,
Norwich, Conn.

Gentlemen: Replying to your letter of the 7th, if your company has any new proposals to make regarding the purchase of the city gas and electric plant, they will be considered by the special committee of the council if you will send them to me. As I have informed you in the past the city has never placed this plant on the market, but good business sense demands that any proposals made to the city for the plant by financially sound and substatnial interests, and which seems advantageous to our city should in the final analysis be placed before the citizens of Norwich, who are the real owners of the plant for their decision.

Respectfully yours.
MILO R. WATERS.
Mayor.

FIRE CONSUMED VILLAGE INN AT WEST CORNWALL

West Cornwall, Nov. 9.—Fire here early this morning destroyed the Village inn, a three and one-half story wooden frame structure, a two-story frame office building containing the post office and the law offices of Judge L. J. Nickerson, two barns and a shed. The Masonic hall and the general store of Putzler and company caught fire but were saved. Judge Nickerson tonight estimated that the damage would total approximately $15,000.

The hotel, the office building and one of the barns were owned by Judge Nickerson and the other barn destroyed was the property of George H. Beck. He used this barn as a garage but there were no machines in it at the time of the fire.

Coffee is being husked and cleaned by machinery in Colombia.

THREE MACHINES DAMAGED IN BROADWAY COLLISION

About 12.30 Saturday afternoon a Chevrolet coupe driven by David Lyon, Jr., of Sunnyside avenue, was overturned on Broadway in front of the residence of George W. Carroll in a three-cornered mixup. Mr. and Mrs. Lyon were driving up Broadway and Mr. Lyon said he was driving rather slowly. A Packard machine, owned by Mrs. F. S. Camp of Broadway and driven by her chauffeur, Albert Karkutt, was proceeding south. Behind the Packard was a Hupmobile touring car driven by Mrs. Stanton L. Briggs of Willimantic, and containing four other women and a child.

The Packard slowed up near Mr. Carroll's residence, and the Briggs' car, in turning out to pass the Packard looked into the left side of the machine and going across the road hit the Lyon coupe, upsetting it and wrecking it quite badly.

As Mrs. Lyon complained of an injury to her back she was taken to the Backus hospital in the ambulance and was accompanied by Mrs. Briggs. An examination revealed some strained muscles but no serious inury. She was later taken to her home. Mr. Lyon received a cut on his right hand and a strained left leg.

The passengers in Mrs. Briggs' machine were Miss Vera Briggs, Miss Doris Briggs, Mrs. T. K. Manley and Mrs. William Pultz. They all returned to Willimantic by trolley car.

The Lyon car was an almost complete wreck. The left mudguards and wheels were ripped off, the right rear wheel collapsed, the top was smashed and the glass smashed.

The damage to the Briggs car consisted of a collapsed rear wheel, a broken spring, a bent axle and the right front mudguard was damaged. The left rear mudguard of the Camp car was bent.

NEAR EAST SPEAKERS IN NORWICH CHURCHES

There is a world wide interest in the work that is being carried on among the refugees of the Near East. Norwich people, including school children, have co-operated in this great humanitarian effort ever since the war years by their annual donations of money and clothing. In several churches and Sunday schools speakers were heard Sunday who told of what they had seen, not only of the salvaging but of the saving, the educating and training toward useful citizenship of the children who found themselves at the wars and without homes, parents or country.

Captain Frank Connes, a Frenchman by birth, interpretor to the supreme court of New York, occupied the pulpit of the United Congregational church. Called by his government to that region, he saw something of the Russian Caucasus of the terrible sufferings of the children and he there pledged himself to arouse the sympathy of the American people in their behalf. In Greece, Syria, Palestine and the Caucasus 50,000 orphans are now studying and working under American leaders and with our own boys and girls making the world of tomorrow. The cost of providing their very simple foods, clothing and shelter is great. There are many waifs and hungry wanderers yet outside the orphanage gates. The Norwich Near East Relief committee is planning for observance of the Golden Rule Sunday on December 7th, when they will appeal to the people of this city and surrounding towns for continued maintenance of this work by their gift of personal sacrifice.

BULKELEY SMASHES THROUGH THE ACADEMY TEAM TO A 33 TO 0 VICTORY

Before one of the largest crowds witnessing a game on the Academy campus Saturday afternoon the Bulkeley High School team overwhelmed the N. F. A. by a score of 33-0.

Bulkeley, aspirants for the state title began their march to victory in the opening quarter. By continual line plunging they made the first of a series of touchdowns against a weaker and unexperienced, but fighting Norwich eleven.

One thing may be said of the local bos and that is that they fought hard for their Alma Mater, but were overcome by a great Bulkeley machine.

The Red and White team was no match for the heavier gridiron stars of the Whaling City school and the Bulkeley team ran wild through the Academy defense and immediately checked the local offense before it started.

Bulkeley, despite its overwhelming victory was not up to the calibre of which it was thought to be. Whether the Orange and Black were too overconfident is not known. The Academy team knowing that they were opposing one of the greatest teams in Connecticut, fought gamely and with determination to hold Bulkeley to a low score. Sportsmanship on both sides were the main issue of the game and the spectators saw many thrilling dashes and plays. Moreover each man on both teams was in the game every minute, trying to add further glory to his school.

The Orange and Black eleven should rejoice in their victory over their traditional rivals, whom they have only been able to overcome in the past few seasons. The state title is their aim and this should be easy to attain after their spectacular playing Saturday.

The Academy is not disheartened in their defeat. As they know that they have held a great team to a score which followers thought would only be a fraction of what it really was.

Captain Sheflott, Rice, Daniels and Henkle starred for the Bulkeley eleven. Rice by his open field running was a real Red Grange. Henkle came into the limelight by making one of the longest runs ever seen on a high school gridiron.

For the Academy, Hinrichs, Higgins and Williams were the outstanding backfield players and Carlin, Lukoski and Hollander distinguished themselves on the line.

Game by Quarters.

Daniels, of Bulkeley, kicked off to the Academy. It was the Academy's ball on her 20 yard line. On the next play an Academy back fumbled the ball and it was recovered Graves of Bulkeley on the 20 yard line. Bulkeley was penalized 5 yards for offsides. Academy could not get through for any gains and was compelled to kick on the fourth down. Bulkeley's ball on her 33 yard line. After four line plunges Bulkeley made first down. Daniels of Bulkeley kicked off to Academy. Higgins received the ball on the 10 yard line and ran it back — yards. Half ended at this point.

Third quarter: Hinrichs of Academy kicked off to Henkle of Bulkeley, who made a sensational run of 95 yards for a touchdown. Rice failed in try for point. Bulkeley kicked off to Acadamy, MacGowan caught the ball on the 3 yard line and ran it back 17 yards. Academy failed to make first down and surrendered the ball to Bulkeley on her 20 yard line. Bulkeley tried two passes, both being incomplete. Another forward, Henkle to Daniels, netted 20 yards and first down. Rice took the ball over again for a touchdown, but failed in try for point. Bulkeley kicked to Academy. The Academy man who received the ball fumbled and Bulkeley recovered it on the 20 yard line. Bulkeley for the second time in the game was penalized 15 yards for slugging. Henkle of Bulkeley fumbled the ball and it was recovered by Higgins on the 25 yard line. Bulkeley line held here and the Academy kicked on its fourth down. Henkle received the ball on the 50 yard line and ran it back 20 yards. Bulkeley lost the ball after four attempts to get through and it was the Academy's ball on the 13 yard line. Carlin caught a forward pass netting first down for the Academy. Quarter ended with the Academy having ball on the 23 yard line.

Fourth quarter: A forward pass, Williams to Hinrichs, netted first down. Hinrichs of Academy kicked on fourth down. Bulkeley's ball on the 56 yard line. Bulkeley made three successive first downs. Dunn of the Academy went in for Polsky. Bulkeley made another first down. Academy holds Bulkeley for four downs on the 5 yard line. Carpentier of Academy went in for Higgins. Hinrichs kicked the ball on the fourth down to Bulkeley. Bulkeley made first down. Here the Academy's line held and it was the Academy's ball on her 7 yard line. Hinrichs on the next play kicked the ball to Bulkeley. Bulkeley's ball on 45 yard line. Holdridge of Academy went in for MacGowan. Rice went through for first down. Game ended here. The summary:

All New London Wins.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Nov. 9.—One of the best pro football games seen on Morgan park was played this afternoon before a fairly large crowd. The All-New Londons by adding the extra point after the touchdown, and that by the forward pass route, gained the decision over the Shamrocks of Manchester. Each team made a touchdown, but when the All-New London line broke through the Shamrock defense to block the point after touchdown, the players did not know that the game was lost to them. The final score was 7 to 6 or the All-New London eleven.

PRINCETON'S DEFEAT OF HARVARD BIG UPSET OF EASTERN FOOTBALL

New York, Nov. 9.—(By the A. P.)—Out of the greatest array of football upsets any day this season has witnessed, Princeton's sensational comeback yesterday to a victory of unprecedented proportions over Harvard stands out as the miracle of 1924 gridiron annals.

The Tiger reversal, the sudden ascension to dazzling form of a team that had seemed of Mediocre mold, came out of a clear sky. This newfound Orange and Black thunderbolt swept through the bewildered Crimson from start to finish and its followers now are confident that, on top of this triumphant wave, it will smash Yale and ride to the "Big Three" championship.

Princeton will enter the fray a favorite against Yale Saturday in the Tiger lair. But the Blue, while not up to its brilliant 1923 standard, apparently also brought its attack to high pitch yesterday when Maryland was trounced at the New Haven bowl, 47 to 0, and will be ready to give the rejuvenated junglers the battle of their lives.

There is no question but that Princeton has found itself after early season disappointments, but Yale partisans are confident that the Tigers will not repeat next week his rough-shod victory of yesterday. Against the Crimson, which had entered the fray a strong favorite, Princeton was invincible after a brief early stand, Harvard broke ground and then fell into full retreat before a team that uncovered a whirlwind collection of ripping, tearing backs, headed by Ted Williams and Jake Slagg, and a line impengnable on defense. And charging on attack. But against Yale, Princeton will encounter great varsitility—one of the Tiger's own assest—and more powerful scoring potentialities.

Explanation of the Princeton transformation probably involves a host of reasons and factors but to many observers it seemed that the Tigers had profited immesurably from his losing conflict against Norte Dame. Two weeks ago, against the Hoosiers, Princeton seemed headed nowhere on attack or defense, but yesterday it exhibited a polished, speedy machine that resembled Knute Rochne's western cyclone. Princeton, supplying its own speed, vurage and wits, employed much of Norte Dame's deception and dazzling repertoire of plays. Modern football history recalls no instances of such complete reversal of form in the short span of two weeks.

But Princeton's startling victory was not the only upset of yesterday's program. Scarcely less notable was the victory of Rutgers over Lafayette by a margin of 43 to 7, a game played in Princeton's stadium, and the downfall of Syracuse, sustaining the Orange's first defeat of the season at the hands of West Virginal Wesleyan, 7 to 3.

Rutgers' triumph over Lafayette, which has been rated as one of the most powerful in the east, was a curious analogy to the Princeton-Harvard game, for it was the most decisive victory the scarlet has hung up over its rival since they first met in 1882. That year, Rutger won 54-0.

Pennsylvania retained its place at the top of the eastern football heap as the only major eleven undefeated or untied, but the Quakers, in chalking up their eighth victory, were hardpressed to take the measure of Georgetown, 3 to 0, a field goal by the Red and Blue backfield star, Kruez, saving the game in the last period.

Other surprises were the decisiveness of Boston College's triumph over the vaunted marquette team, of Wisconsin, 34 to 7. The upsetting victory of the Haskell Indians over Brown, 17 to 13, and Army's close call with Florida, 14 to 7, in three of the five intersectional battles of the afternoon

Yale's victory over Maryland and West Virginia's clean-cut triumph over Colgate, 34-2, completed the intersectional fray, in which the east came off with three victories and two defeats.

Cornell and Dartmouth, sharpening their weapons for their annual battle in New York next Saturday, came through with decisive victories over Susquehanna and Boston University. the Ithacans rolling up 91 points, one of the highest totals in the east this season.

GRANGE SAVES DAY FOR ILLINOIS TEAM

Chicago, Nov. 9.—(By The A. P.)—Illinois' aspirations to capture the 1924 western conference gridiron championship is slightly dented tonight but the prayers of A. A. Stagg, 62 year old coach at the University of Chicago, for eleven inspired football players, have been answered to the satisfaction of every admirer of Stagg, proclaimed by them the greatest of all defensive coaches.

The inspiring spectacle of Stagg's Maroons, figured as certain losers, fighting the brilliant Illinois eleven to a 21-21 tie, and blotting the Illinois registered the greatest upset of the western conference season yesterday.

From the first kickoff, the game developed into a race to score. Chicago could not stop "Red" Grange, but Illinois could not stop Chicago's plunging attack and the contest resolved itself into a question of which team could produce scores the fastest.

Grange suffered no loss of prestige. He was almost irresistible around ends; everyone of his three touchdowns was the result of an end run and on none of them did the Maroons lay hands on him.

The sensational tie leaves Illinois still the outstanding favorite in the race.

Chicago's inspired stand against Illinois, while the biggest upset of the day, was but one of three surprises The crumbling of Ohio State before Indiana and the tying of Minnesota by Ames were the others.

The 12 to 7 defeat of Ohio was a heartbreaker for them, but a welcome victory for Indiana, which had previously been defeated by Chicago and Northwestern. The Hoosiers displayed a driving and versatile offense but their defense was about the best revealed by an Indiana eleven in recent years.

Th Iowa and Minnesota definitely joined the ranks of the weak teams Saturday. The Hawkeyes escaped with a 7 to 0 victory over Butler. But only after a desperate contest. The Gophers snatched their chance to avert defeat at the hands of Ames as a result of a lucky break.

Nortwestern, smothered 27 to 0 by Michigan, simply was outclassed.

Notre Dame administered a terrific defeat to the Wisconsin eleven, piling up a 38 to 3 count. Coach Rockne, of the Hoosiers, possibly could have doubled the score if he had chosen to keep his back field of "shock troops" in the game, but the battle carried on by reserves.

WINDHAM HANDS CHAPMAN A TERRIFIC BEATING

Willimantic, Nov. 9.—A Red and Black host with an unbroken string of victories encountered a tartar in the undefeated Windham High School eleven, at Recreation Park, Saturday afternoon before the banner attendance of the season and emerged from the conflict second best after its record of not having been scored upon previously had been trampled in the mire. Chapman Tech did not have the semblance of a chance with the Crimson and Blue machine which gave frequent evidences of its superiority throughout the tilt and the Chapman Tech lads returned to the Whaling Town defeated in every sense of the word 40 to 0.

The score at half time was 12 to 0. The opening half was hardly fought and although the local gridironers' team play was too much for the opposition still it was sluggish and not until the third period did it come up to the expectations of the fans. The final two periods were literally converted into a walkaway with the Windham team doing most of the running.

Fumbling was frequent on both sides during the afternoon and to the vast semblage the play of the locals generally was not as good as it has exhibited in its games to date. Despite the fact that they were hopelessly outclassed the visitors fought back during the hostilities and several of their stars were carried off the field with leg injuries, Wilkinson, local, fullback, retired from the game in the first half from a shoulder bruise and was replaced by Lariviera, whose ground gaining propensities were very much in evidence.

Tommy Meikle, flashy backfield star, played the best game for Windham, and he was closely followed by Storrs, Captain Burton and several others.

The victory strengthens Windham's claims for the right to contest for the state championship. Chapman, before meeting the locals, had bowled over every team in the Eastern Connecticut league, and was considered a worthy opponent for the Crimson and Blue. The results proved otherwise. As the score would indicate, Windham was easily Chapman Tech's superior both defensively and offensively, despite the fact that the Whalers met her on a day when Coach Callahan's machine did not exhibit her full power.

Windham closes her season at home next Saturday afternoon when Manchester High appears here. The local management has written to several of the "leading" high school teams of the state with the idea of arranging a post-season game but as yet no replies have been received.

On the threshold of another undefeated season, Windham reigns supreme in Eastern Connecticut scholastic football as far as the writer can determine notwithstanding what Bulkeley High may say to the contrary. A team falls or stands on its record since this is the only criterion and that's just what Windham is doing and has done since the season of 1922.

STRONG BASKETBALL LEAGUE TO PLAY AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London Nov. 9.—One of the strongest basketball leagues in the city is expected to get under way shortly. The league which will be a continuation from last season will be greatly strengthened to the extent of several new basketball fives filing their intentions of entering. The league which was called the Y. M. C. A. house league wil retain that name and either six or eight teams will comprise it.

Among those teams to enter are quintets from the Submarine Base, and the Coast Guard. There is to be a meeting of the team managers this evening for those who wish to enter the league, officials will be also elected at this meeting. The number of teams which will be allowed to enter the league will also be discussed, and with the assurance that the Sub Base will enter a team, the league will be one of the fastest sponsered in this city outside of the war league, when basketball was such a success in this city.

Representatives of the teams expecting to enter will have to be present at this (Monday) evening's meeting, as rules and other matters of vital importance will be discussed. The teams to make up the league last year were the Clerks, Dermats, Acme, Leather Pushers and the Mebs. All these teams with the exception of the Clerks are expected to enter a team in this years league. The meeting will get under way at 7:30 promptly so in order to avoid delays it would be advisable to be on hand on time.

SUB BASE HAS EASY TIME WITH UTAH TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Nov. 9.—With quarter back Kelly leading the attack with three touchdowns, and with the remainder of the team playing winning football, the Submarine Base easily routed the highly touted U. S. S. Utah eleven at the Base grounds Saturday afternoon. The visitors were completely outplayed to the tune of 31 to 0, and with the Base play improving in the succeeding quarters, the locals gobs easily added their fifth service team victim to the list.

Turning momentarily from team play, the Base today hinged upon an individual's performance rather than the concentrated play of eleven men. Quarterback Kelly with three touchdowns to his credit and his remarkable judgement upon the field of battle was more than responsible for the success that the Base team was crowned with. Kelly's individual spurts in the first second and third quarters gave the Base three touchdowns and the game. The remaining scores which followed were not needer to insure a victory.

The punting was poor on both sides, and a high wind played havoc with the ball as it remained suspended in the air on its travels from one kicker to another. The rival field generals had to think and think quick to pursue one policy or another. But the Base did not have to kick immediately upon receiving the opening kick off the before two and a half minutes and elapsed of playing time, the ball was resting over the Utah's goal line with Kelly carrying it over the final chalk mark. It was merely a steady march through the line with an occasional off tackle play that put the local tars in position for their initial score.

But the visitors recovered their equilibruim sooner than the spectators regain their state of normalcy. The Utah players held their own in the remaining time of this period, but failed to slow up the Base attack in the next period, which finally terminated in another touchdown for the gobs with Kelly again carrying the ball over.

The second half found every thing which the Base had unleashed upon the unsuspecting tars from Boston. It was a pass, cleverly aided by some fine short runs which netted the Base three more touchodnws in this third period. Kelly added the third touchdown and Brooks with fine interference sweeping all before him ran 31 yars for the fourth touchdown. A series of overhead heaves netted from 15 yards on, culminated in a touchdown, Kelly to Compton. It was the longest run made, for Compton ran about 18 yards for the final score. The pass from Kelly zipped its way through the open spaces for nearly 30 yards before Compton gathered the speeding sphere and crossed the goal.

The offense ability of the visitors was nothing to bray about, and nothing less that a budge could be extracted out of the local gobs line, so well did it hold. But on the defense the visitors were more stubborn and offered resistence in several places when the crossing of the goal line was imminent; to say the least inevetiable. Substitutions in the final periods kept the Base score down to 31 points. The only extra point being made by Baldy Locke.

ACADEMY ELEVEN PLAYS PLAINFIELD HIGH TODAY

The Academy team which fought a good fight against overwhelming odds Saturday against Bulkeley will clash at the Academy campus this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock with the Plainfield High team. This game was scheduled for Armistice day but was set ahead so as not to interfere with the Armistice Day exercises at Chelsea Parade.

The Academy squad came through Saturday's game without casualties although the Academy men were at times roughly handled by the Bulkeley huskies. The regular lineup with the exception of Gilman and Hagberg will play in today's game. Polsky and Stefano showed up well in Saturday's game in the guard positions. Scott played a nice game at tackle and Hollander showed well at end.

Plainfield has a hard fighting team which is built around Allard the star backfield man of last season's team. The plainfield team is practically made up of new material but have been playing exceptional football this season.

West Ends Defeat Rovers

Sunday afternoon at the fairgrounds the fast West Ends football team defeated the Rovers football team by the score of 18 to 0. This gives the West Ends the series, 3 games to one, and a claim to the 130 lb. championship of Norwich. D. Blinderman and Hollander made touchdowns. Blinderman making two and Hollander one. McGrath of the Rovers was the shining light of his team. Every time he took the ball he was good for not less than eight yards. Next week the West Ends will journey to New London to play the New London Newsboys. The lineup for the winners.

Hollander, center; Green, Baldigini, guards; Butona, Frink, tacklers; R. Blinderman, D. Sodivicky, Butchick, ends; Vapt. A. Hyatt, quarterback; D. Blinderman and H. Sodivisky, halfback; L. Hyatt, fullback.

The West Ends challenge any football team in Norwich for a championship series. If we don't get an answer the West Ends claim the city championship.

Breed Theater

Rex Ingram, producer of Scaramouche and The Four Horsemen, has made another wonderful photoplay in The Arab, the Metro picture which opened yesterday at the Breed theater. Ramon Novarro and Alive Terry have the pricipal roles, that of a Shiek's son and a missionary's daughter. The young Bedouin falls in love with the Christian girl, and through his tribe saves her and her father from intended massacre by the Mohammedans.

The story, taken from the stage play written and acted by Edgar Selwyn, is ideal for the famous trio, for Ingram shows his genius in an entirely new form of picture, and Miss Terry and Mr. Novarro look and act better than ever. The film was made in Northern Africa, and the natural locations are worth a trip to the theater alone. John P. Seitz was the photographer.

Seldom has a picture gripped an audience as The Arab did; its story angles were so clearly woven that the climax was developed to a remarkable action sequence that had the spectators pop-eyed with excitement.

Other victures on the bill include Larry Semon in Horseshoes, the Pathe news and Hodge Podge.

At the Armory.

The S. S. Leviathan orchestra, directed by Keith Pitman, won the hearts of the 1,000 or more music lovin- people who attended the concert and dance at city hall last night. The event was successful in every way and the program of jazz de luxe as given by the ten versatile artists created a wonderful impression upon the audience as throughout the concert and the dance that followed, remarks of complimentary nature were heard on all sides.

The clever leader Pitman, won a warm spot in the hearts of those who came to listen and to dance. His direction was masterful and under his guidance the Leviathan players had time and rythm that carried the audience into complete captivity.

The men presented a fine appearance dressed in white tailored uniforms and in their concert and dance numbers featured the best and latest of the popular numbers of the day. Among them were Somebody's Wrong, Suppose I Had Never Met You, What'll I Do? It Had to Be You, Stealing a Kiss, June Night, and many others that were all well received.

The Leviathans have come and gone but their memory will linger longer and to them we say, thank you.—Bangor Daily News.

Broadway Theatre.

A specially selected Armistice Day holiday program has been arranged for the Broadway theatre, starting today.

The Great Johnson, the silent entertainer is the opening act. He offers hazardous contortionist feats in mid-air.

Tommy Russel and Ernie Marcon present a musical comedy skit entitled Little Bits of Big Hits. It is a fun bit and musical hit oddity.

Bewley Lynch & Co. consists of three people who offer a fine comedy sketch.

Comedy talking, song and dance is included in the Nifty Nonsense which Al and Mabel Joy offer.

The Lorner Girls, Marguerite and Rhea, assisted at the piano by Phil Sheppard. The Lorner Girls are called the two dancing sweethearts of vaudeville.

Faultless scenes, artistic direction and an absorbing story all act as a background for a superb cast in William de Mille's latest Paramount picture, The Fast Set, which came to town last night at the Broadway theatre. Clara Beranger adapted the photoplay from Frederick Lonedale's stare hit, Spring Cleaning.

The originality of the plot is something that deserves honorable mention. The story unfolds the manner in which a husband saves his wife from a gay Lothario who makes a hobby of making love to married women. The husband, a famous author, surrounded by his high-brow friends, doesn't realize that his wife, young, beautiful and full of life, is bored to tears with her commonplace existence. It is when he wakes from his fool's paradise to discover that he is in danger of losing her that events begin to happen thick and fast.

There is no lack of acting talent. Betty Compson, Adolphe Menjou, Elliott Dexter and Zasu Pitts, the four featured players, are a screen quartette with whom film-goers will find no fault. And the supporting cast is more than adequate in their respective roles.

Palace Theatre.

Something new in triangles, with three men creating a situation unique in cinematic drama, makes the First National offering, In Every Woman's Life, with Virginia Valli and a notable supporting cast, one of the unusual offerings of the season.

There is plenty of variety of locale in In Every Woman's Life. Some striking shipboard scenes and a reproduction of Sherry's famous night life center of New York, at the height of an extravagant millionaire's party, are among these.

Besides the singularly gifted Miss Valli, the cast comprises Lloyd Hughes, Marc McDermott, Stuart Holmes, George Fawcett, Ralph Lewis and Vera Lewis.

Irving Cummings directed the production for M. C. Levee.

Short subjects—Pathe News, Aesop's Fables and Mack Sennett's latest two-reel comedy, Sky Plumber. Continuous showing tomorrow, Armistice Day, 1.30 to 10.30.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

Extract From "The Fairies of Caldon-Low"

"And where have you been, my Mary,
And where have you been from me?"
"I've been to the top of the Caldon-Low,
The mid-Summer night to see!"

"And what did you see, my Mary,
All up on the Caldon-Low?"
"I saw the blithe sunshine come down,
And I saw the merry winds blow."

"And what did you hear, my Mary,
All up on the Caldon-Hill?"
"I heard the drops of water made,
And I heard the corn-ears fill."

"O, tell me all, my Mary—
All, all that ever you know:
For you must have seen the fairies
Last night on the Caldon-Low."

"Then take me on your knee, mother,
And listen, mother of mine.
A hundred fairies danced last night,
And harpers, they were nine;

"And merry was the glee of the harp-strings,
And their dancing feet so small;
But, O, the sound of their talking
Was merrier far than all!"

"And what were the words, my Mary,
That you did hear them say?"
"I'll tell you all, my mother,
But let me have my way.

"And some they played with water,
And rolled it down the hill;
And this," they said, "shall speedily turn
The poor old miller's mill;

"For there has been no water
Ever since the first of May;
And a busy man shall the miller be,
By the dawning of the day!

"O, the miller, how he will laugh,
When he sees the mill-dam rise!
The jolly old miller, how he will laugh,
Till the tears fill both his eyes!"
—Mary Howett.

The Coral Grove

Deep in the wave is a coral grove,
Where the purple mullet and goldfish rove,
Where the sea-flower spreads its leaves of blue,
That never are wet with falling dew,
But in bright and changeful beauty shine,
Far down in the green and glassy brine.
The floor is of sand, like the mountain drift,
And the pearl-shells spangle the flinty snow;
From coral rocks the sea-plants lift
Their boughs, where the tides and billows flow;
The water is calm and still below,
For the winds and waves are there.
And the sands are bright as the stars that glow
In the motionless fields of upper air.
There, with its waving blade of green,
The sea-flag streams through the silent water,
And the crimson leaf of the dulse is seen
To blush, like a banner bathed in slaughter.
There, with a light and easy motion,
The fan-coral sweeps through the clear deep sea:
And the yellow and scarlet tufts of ocean
Are bending like corn on the upland lea:
And life, in rare and beautiful forms,
Is sporting amid those bowers of stone,
And is safe when the wrathful spirit of storms
Has made the top of the wave his own.
And when the ship from his fury flies,
Where the wind-god frowns in the murky skies,
And demons are waiting the wreck on the shore:
Then, far below in the peaceful sea,
The purple mullet and goldfish rove,
Where the waters murmur tranquilly,
Through the bending twigs of the coral grove.
—James Gates Percival.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Nearly every boy and girl has seen and listened in over the radio. Many of you have radios right in your homes and perhaps some of the older boys have small sets of their own. The radio is a wonderful invention and is daily being put to more and more practical use. It may be that the day will come when the radio will be counted a necessity as are the telephone and telegraph today.

Although nearly all of us have seen a radio and have heard the daily programmes it brings to us with a turn of a dial from cities far and near throughout the country and even from Canada and Cuba few people realize the tremendous speed of the wireless waves. It is by these wireless waves that the music and songs and addresses are brought to us from the sending stations. These wireless waves move with a velocity of 186,000 miles per second. Think of it! Over seven times around the earth in one second or some 420 times around the earth in the space of one minute! Sound waves themselves move with only a velocity of 1,100 feet per second. While the sound of a cannon is traveling one mile, radio waves, which start from a sending station at the same identical moment as the firing of the cannon, will have traveled something like 1,000,000 miles.

If the sending instrument at the transmitting radio station is one foot away from the singer, it takes 1-1000 of a second for the sound to travel from the singer to the instrument. If the concert room is 100 feet across, people sitting on the opposite side of the singer will hear the sound in about one tenth of a second whereas you, with a wireless set, have heard it in about 1-50 of a second, or in other words the sound took fifty times as long to reach a person actually sitting in the room within 100 feet of the singer, as it took to reach, by wireless, a person perhaps 200 miles away.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

The Ball on the Flagstaff

Dear Uncle Jed: May I tell the Wide Awake boys and girls why we see a ball on almost every flagpole and flagstaff?

If we go through an American city on Memorial day, or on the Fourth of July, we see many flags. There is a flag on every public building. On every flag pole or flag staff, there is a ball. Sometimes this ball is gilded. This is the story of the ball on the flag staff.

Many years ago the Romans held a feast which they called the Feast of Saturnalia. This feast was held every year and lasted for several days. The Roman people had many slaves. During the Feast of Saturnalia, the slaves were given their freedom and were allowed to come and go as they pleased. No one was allowed to interfere with them.

As a sign or symbol of their freedom, the slaves wore on their heads, a round cap which resembled a ball. In our time the ball has come to stand for freedom almost as much as the flag itself and that is why we see the ball on the flag staff.

Learning Song in School

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about our records that we are learning this year. Now I will tell some of them. Spring Song by Mendelssohn was a string quartet. Cradle song. This was a voice solo. I am sure you will enjoy hearing them.

BLANCHE GOULET.

Robins Ate the Cherries

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. One day a farmer put a coat on his cherry tree because the robins ate them all up. So the robins went and built nests in the pockets and had all the cherries. That was a joke on the farmer.

My Pet

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing to tell you about my pet kitty. She likes me very much. Each morning mother lets her in the room and she makes me by biting my chin. She also tries to follow me to school and mother often has to call her back. Her name is Tabby.

My Visit to Cape Cod

Dear Uncle Jed: I am a pupil in fourth grade. This summer I went to Orleans on Cape Cod. There I stayed at my grandmothers. The second day I was there I went down to the cove with a little boy and girl. We were running around the shore and I cut my foot. After that I could not walk on my foot for one week. But after my foot got well, my mother and I went to the beach. The day we went to the beach was the day after the storm. I think the storm was on Tuesday and we went to the beach on Wednesday. The breakers were so high that they would knock a man down. That night I was very tired when I went to bed. The next morning we all got up quite early and got ready to go to Highland Light. We had a very good time that day too. But the next morning I had to get up early for we had to go home. But I had a very good vacation.

An Early Caller

Dear Uncle Jed: I hope you will enjoy my story. This morning as I was getting dressed, a friend of mine who was visiting us came in our room. She saw a bird on the tree near by. She thought it was a quail and she told my mother. She said it was a partridge. We think it was either scared or resting on a near tree looking for bugs. After a few minutes it flew away. It was rather a strange place for a partridge, don't you think so.

Our Hallowe'en Party

Dear Uncle Jed: Last week on October the thirty-first the fifth grade of Occum school had a Hallowe'en party. The party began at 2 p. m. and ended at 3 p. m.

Our teacher, Miss G. Enos, decorated our room. She bought the refreshments for the party. Pumpkins were also lit up. We invited the sixth and seventh grades to entertain our party. We played games, sang and said poems. One of the games was to take a bite of the apple while the apple was hanging on a string. I tried three times but did not succeed. Later refreshments were served. The sixth and seventh grades enjoyed our party and they thanked us very much for inviting them.

ROSE BROWN, Age 8.

The Little Fisherman

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about The Little Fisherman.

George is a little country boy. During the summer he wears a large straw hat, a light blouse and stripped overalls turned up nearly to his knees. He does not wear shoes nor stockings but goes about in his bare feet. His favorite sport is fishing. Often during the hot summer days he spends the afternoon at the brook. Sometimes he fishes from the shore and at other times he stands on an old log nearly halfway across a deep pool. On his way home from fishing George follows a path that lies along the side of a hill, between the brook and the woods. He whistles as he goes along, swinging his string of fish and feeling proud to think that his pleasure for the afternoon has produced fish enough for the family dinner.

He sees many wild flowers near the path and at a short distance just in the edge of the woods he hears the evening songs of the birds and the chatter of the squirrels as they all prepare for the silence of the night.

The First Flying Lesson

Dear Uncle Jed: I would like to tell you about the first flying lesson. The mother eagle was teaching her little one to fly. Now over, now under him she hovered on tireless wing. When she was out of sight, he called, "Mother, are you near?" and her answering voice gave him courage. Suddenly the fear of the awful depths below overcame him. He lost his balance and fell. Down he plunged, faster and faster. "Mother, mother, save me!" he cried in agony. Swift as a flash the old eagle shot under him and his feet rested upon her broad shoulders. For a moment only she supported him; then, as he regained his poise, she again dropped away, saying, "Finish your journey on your own wings, my son."

The Sackville School

Dear Uncle Jed: Many of you have heard of George III of England, during the time the Revolutionary war was going on. This is when the Sackville children lived. Lord George Sackville was secretary of state for the colonies also, in charge for England of the conduct of the Revolutionary war in America.

Lord Sackville loved his children dearly. One day while he was to the kings palace, the king was having a portrait painted. It was of his son so Lord George asked John Happner to paint his children's picture. You can see by the picture the boy has on long pants, and a lace collar. You can see that the little boy is holding his sister to have the portrait painted.

I hope the Wide Awakes will like my story. I have not written for a long time.

RUTH BOSWORTH, Age 12.

A Rainy Day

Uncle Jed: One morning I arose and found it was raining. I dressed myself and ate breakfast. I started for school. It was raining hard so I raised my umbrella and went to the road. The road was very muddy. The school was half a mile from my house. It took me half an hour till I reached there. When I came home my school shoes and stockings were wet. I dried them above the stove. When they were dry I put them on and I went to the table to eat supper. I finished my supper. My sister and I went outdoors. The rain was pouring but it soon stopped. Then we went for a walk. On the road it was muddy and wet. When we came home we went into the house. We both sat down and drank tea. Then we both went to bed.

A Snowy Day

Dear Uncle Jed: One winter morning I arose and found it was snowing. I dressed, ate my breakfast and started for school. When I came home from school I was playing with my brother. While I was playing with snowballs my friend came along and said to me. "Today is snowy day so we can fight with snowballs." She was going to her aunt. I asked her if I could go along with her and she told me yes. On the way we met somebody coming. He said, "Where are you going?" We answered him that we are going to our aunts. We asked him where he was going. He said that he was going to his cousin. Then he walked away. We both walked until we came to the place. We came in the house and sat down. We drank tea. The girl's aunt had a little daughter and we played with her. When we finished playing we both went home. The girl had to go a long distance. When I came home it was dark so I went to sleep.

Our School

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing to tell you about our school. In our room we have 35 pupils. I am in the fifth grade. I am ten years of age. Every Monday morning I look in the paper and they have many stories in it. I read them and I enjoyed reading them. I hope I will get my name in the paper and get a prize like the other girls.

Dog Killed Snake

Uncle Jed: One day I was playing in my yard. All of a sudden I heard a hissing noise. I looked at the place from where it came. Then I screamed for I saw a black snake. I stood looking at him for a minute. Then I called my dog who was near. She came running to me. Then I pointed out the snake to her. When she saw it she jumped on it and killed it.

My Kitty

Dear Uncle Jed: It is a long time since I wrote to you last. I wish to get acquainted with you again. I am going to tell you about my kitten.

Her name is Snookie. She is very playful and she is also very clean. She is very daring and when she plays with me I sometimes tease her. She gets angry and scratches me. But this is very seldom for I do not plague her very much.

She is very cute and I like her. My friend Charlotte likes her too. She goes out in the road. She is about two months old.

I am in the seventh grade in school. I will write again soon.

SOLUTION FOR SATURDAY'S PUZZLE

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Thrifty Miss Mousie

Uncle Lucky Lefthindfoot, the old gentleman bunny rabbit, was out in the garden picking cabbage leaves. Just in front of him, along the fence, a long line of sunflowers stood, their big yellow heads turning on their tall stalks to follow Mr. Merry Sun as he traveled through the blue sky. On rainy days when Mr. Merry Sun stayed at home, or behind a big cloud the sunflowers peeked through the kitchen window to watch Little Miss Mousie, the old gentleman bunny's tiny housekeeper, mend his socks or bake Angel Cake.

"Dear me," sighed dear Uncle Lucky, "I must store a good supply of cabbages in the cellar for the winter," as he watched Little Miss Mousie scamper down the old stone steps outside the house that led to the cellar.

"What's all the fuss about?" enquired the old gentleman rabbit, looking over the garden wall as Little Miss Mousie, her bobbed hair flying in the wind, returned in a few minutes with a pan of milk in her hands.

"Don't you know?" she answered, with a smile and a toss of her pretty head.

"Wouldn't have asked it I had," replied dear Uncle Lucky, coming up the path with his arms full of cabbages.

"Don't you know the day of the month?" she asked as she disappeared through the kitchen doorway.

"Goodness gracious meebus!" exclaimed the perplexed old gentleman rabbit. "I'm getting full of rheumatism and forgetfulness. It's November, or is it October? I declare, my eyeglasses have been broken for a week and I've not read the paper once," and he tried to scratch his head, letting the cabbages roll all over the walk.

Just then Little Miss Mousie, who had been peeking through the window, scampered down the porch steps and began to help him pick up the cabbage heads. Some had rolled behind the old well and others under the grape arbor.

"I can't reach this pesky one under the doorsteps," cried the old gentleman rabbit, stooping down on all fours. "Let it go. There are plenty more in the garden."

"Nothing of the kind," answered Little Miss Mousie. "We shouldn't waste anything," and the next minute she had pulled out the stray cabbage as quick as a wink, her bobbed hair tickling the old gentleman rabbit's nose as she leaned down beside him.

"Ker choo!" sneezed nice Uncle Lucky, taking out his blue silk polka-dot handkerchief, "your hair looks like a Sunflower but it smells like a rose. It made a little tickle go right up my pinky nose," and he smiled at his tiny housekeeper so kindly that she scampered into the house without another word.

"Dear, dear!" thought Uncle Lucky. "Maybe she thought I was provoked," and he tiptoed up to the kitchen window and taking a cough drop out of his waistcoat pocket, laid it on the sill.

"There's a candy on the sill, Don't mistake it for a pill," he shouted, hopping back into the garden. And in the next story I'll tell you what happened after that.

POETRY

AT NIGHT.

How often when the day is overwrought
So that I long for night and seek my bed
Resting my tired head with grateful thought,
Knowing refreshed tomorrow I'll be led—
I smile remembering how the little child
Was loath to leave the fireside for the night,
Went slowly coaxed to bed, but half-beguiled
By pledges of more play in morning light!

How real it was, the terror of the dark;
The shadows in the hall, the lonely bed;
Yet always I was wakened by the lark
To find that night and fright alike were fled.

O long, last sleep! Shall I not welcome thee
If loving, old home faces smile on me?
—Elizabeth West Parker.

THE AMBITIOUS GOLFER.

Golf is a game I love to play,
No matter what may be the season;
For hieing forth on any day
It is not hard to find a reason;
And when I top from off the tee
I often think—ah, vain contriver!—
O, what a wonder I would be
If I could only use a driver!

Along the fairway smooth I stroll
And see a lie that looks enticing;
I could be high up by the hole
If I were not forever slicing.
My bosom would be filled with glee,
I should be ranked among the classy;
O, what a wonder I would be
If I could only use a brassey!

If I attempt a neat approach
Without intending to, I pivot;
In spite of how my friends may coach
I dub or dig—and there's a divot!
No sixes on my score you'd see,
They would not wear a look that's trashy;
O, what a wonder I would be
If I could only use a mashie!

When finally I reach the green
That with its velvet sward lies sunning
I am too prone to lift my bean,
I'm either short or overrunning.
It's rarely I can sink a three;
I scowl and in disgust I mutter—
"O, what a wonder I would be
If I could only use a putter!"
—Clinton Scollard, in Saturday Evening Post.

Miss Laura Chadanais, a country school teacher at Manistique, Mich., earned enough money by splitting wood to buy an oil stove so that she could serve hot lunches to her pupils at noon. A supply of wood delivered to the school had to be split before it could be used. It was customary for the school board to pay about $8 for such work, and Miss Chandanais applied for the job and got it, spending the money for the small stove.

He lives alone and keeps his house in immaculate condition, does all his own cooking, which can not be excelled by the women folk in Fryeburg, and attends to his farm work in addition.

The doubloon, that famous coin of romance, is still in circulation. The Isabella doubloon, worth $5, still remains current in Cuba. The doubloon is so called because, when first coined, it was double the value of a pistole—that is, it was worth $8. The name was given later to a double doubloon current in the West Indies. Pieces of eight, with which readers of fiction are familiar, are also in circulation. They are simply Spanish dollars. A doubloon dated 1787—there are said to be only six that date in existence—sold not long ago for $6,200.

Dr. Otfried Foerster, professor of psychiatry and neurology at Breslau university, who attended Lenine in his last illness, writes of this in a recent issue of the Vienna Neue Freie Presse, translated by the Living Age. "Lenine's illness," says Dr. Foerster, "was arteriosclerosis, probably due to an inherited tendency, for his father died relatively young of a similar arterial disease. Undoubtedly his abnormally heavy responsibilities and duties and the life of constant excitement he led decidedly encouraged the development of this predisposition. So insistent were the demands upon his time, as he himself told me, that for weeks and months he had scarcely two hours' sleep out of the 24."

Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolman Howard Sloan this morning raided the "restaurant" 137 North Bank street, conducted by Andrew Mikel and as a result of the raid Mikel was arrested charged with violation of the liquor law and with employing a minor female. He was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $1,000 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning, John and Mary Lewski qualifying on the bond. The officers were attracted to the place by the element that frequented it and after watching the entrance some time, Mary Kozuwosky, 14 of 9 1-2 Harrison street, emerged and stood upon the curbing a considerable time, evidently watching for some one. Finally she returned to the store and as she did so the officers entered and questioned her as to the business done there. Although the place pretended to be a restaurant, there was hardly any edibles in the ice box and but little to show that it was an eating place. The officers decided to make a search and found several receptacles containing gin of the alcohol and water variety, which were seized as evidence and the girl taken into custody in the absence of Mikel. She was later turned over to the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. Mikel was arrested when he put in an appearance at the place. The fates were kind to Murry Cascio when he ran his car so close to a street railway car that was discharging passengers at Pacific street, a fortnight ago that the automobile struck Miss Dorothy Little and injured her so that she was away from her business as a store clerk for more than a week. The young women sustained a bad shaking up, but was not injured seriously. Cascio was arrested and held for trial. In the meantime Miss Little recovered. She did not want to appear in court. Then it was claimed that the trolley car either stopped a few feet before it reached a white-banded post that marks a stopping spot, or that the trolley car ran a few feet past the post before it stopped. Anyway, Miss Little did not show any anxiety to punish Cascio for the example it would have set for others, so the case was nolled as the prosecution without the assistance of Miss Little would be useless.

Peter Brady of Groton, a good natured laborer, was fined $5 in the police court Saturday. Before either driver could bring his machine under control, they crashed, the being driven against an electric light pole and the other against a tree.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

New York, Nov. 9.—A sensational outburst of strength in railroad stocks, the general price average of which touched the highest point in seven years, was the overshadowing development in this week's financial markets. Practically all the active rails broke through their previous high levels of the year, many of them attaining the highest prices in history, with net gains on the week running from 3 to 10 points.

The almost unprecedented demand for rails was generally construed as being due to the belief that the outcome of the national election assures the railroads of a few years' freedom from adverse legislation, enabling them to carry out important consolidation and development projects. Industrials were held in check by heavy profit taking, although United States Steel common, American Can and several other standard shares held at the highest prices in years.

The republican victory Tuesday, following close on to the conservative triumph in Great Britain, stimulated an enormous demand for sterling exchange, which soared above $4.60 to the highest price in more than a year. Dutch, Swedish and Swiss currencies also attained new peak prices, while the new German reichsmarks, traded in the first time, sold at a slight premium.

OPPORTUNITY FOR SECURITY SALESMANAGER OR SALESMAN IN NORWICH.

On or about Nov. 18 an old established New York bond house will place its Norwich dealership. This will represent an opportunity for some salesmanager or salesman to set himself up in business on his own account. No investment of money is required; no underwriting or other commitments need be made.

We have many successful dealers throughout the country who thus established themselves in the security business in their home communities, gradually building themselves up to where they occupy a suite of offices, handle a sales force of their own, and make a full dealer's profit on their personal sales and an attractive overriding on the sales of their men.

The man we are seeking is probably now a successful security salesmanager or salesman, on a salary or drawing account, who has for some time been trying to find the answer to that annoying question: "What future is there for me in this business?"

There is no salary, drawing account or salesman's commission, but the man we select will be given a liberal dealership contract with full dealers spread. Address Vice President, P. O. Box 84, Trinity Station, New York. nov10d

MOTORCYCLE RIDER IN HOSPITAL WITH SEVERE SKULL FRACTURE

A man supposed to be Joseph Kutis of Montville is in the Backus hospital, unconscious, with a fractured skull from injuries received when the motorcycle he was riding was in collision with an automobile Sunday evening about 8 o'clock near the foot of Derry Hill, on the road between Norwich and New London.

The automobile bears the registration number N-7722, which is listed in the state register as belonging to Lawrence Beally of 16 Willow street, Mystic. Three men were said to have been in the machine, which was a Hudson sedan, but it could not be learned Sunday night who they were or whether Beally was driving. After the collision, the Beally machine left the road, shot up a bank and landed with its front wheels on top of a stone wall. The machine was little damaged but the motorcycle was badly wrecked.

The injured man was brought to the hospital in the ambulance when a telephone call was received there from an unknown person who reported a man badly injured on the Montville road. From papers in the injured man's pockets and from the registration number of his motorcycle, 3668, it is believed he is Kutis, but up to a late hour Sunday night he had not been positively identified.

SOCIETY FOUNDED 1 N1821 APPEALS TO CATHOLICS

"America was the only country which benefitted by the war," declared Rev. Francis P. Keough, of Hartford, speaking from the pulpit of St. Patrick's church at the three masses Sunday. Father Keough, who is assistant chancellor and secretary of the diocese of Hartford (the state of Connecticut) is also director of the Mission Aid society and of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith in the diocese. He was making an appeal for additional workers for the cause, proving to his auditors that, while up to 1914 France and Germany, particularly France, did the most for foreign missions, the results of the World war had left these two nations so crippled that the duty now devolves largely upon America, the one country whose material resources were increased, following the great conflict.

Father Keough's text was the commission of Christ, from Matthew XXVIII, "Going therefore, teach ye all nations, baptising them in the name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost." He cited statistics to show that while every one out of five persons on the globe is a Catholic, there are over 300,000,000 people who are pagan—have never known the gospel of Christ. The Catholic church has 15,000 priests and more than 22,000 Sisters, laboring in foreign fields, but the call for many additional workers is insistent. The society which he represents, organized in the United States in 1821, at the outset aided American missions and parishes. In fact as late as 1870 it had given $55,000 to the Connecticut diocese alone, which since that era has grown and flourished and comprises now 560,000 members in 252 parishes. Consequently, gratitude as well as zeal should inspire liberal giving on the part of the well to do state Catholics.

Catholic missionaries who go to China and Japan go to labor till death —will never return. He cited one young priest, who of a Connecticut family of six children, five of whom have given themselves to religion, while at St. Thomas' Seminary was taught by Father Galvin and was a companion of Father Guerriero, of St. Patrick's church. His diocese is as big as Texas; he has baptized 15,000 Chinese Catholics; now he is dying of tuberculosis, but will not return to his beloved land, rather is going to Japan, to labor on if possible, in case the change of climate restore his health. Such are the workers who need moral and financial support of the prosperous Catholics of the state. The Society for the Propagation of the Faith has already spent $11,000,000 in the United States alone; Father Keough explained the plan to divert its revenues more to foreign lands, including the Philippines. He invited volunteers promoters, each to secure nine associates, all to pledge daily prayers and an annual contribution of $1 toward the work of the society.

Following the three masses, a large number of women and men volunteers to act as such promoters.

NORWICH TOWN

The sale and supper under the auspices of the Home Missionary society of the First Congregational church Friday afternoon and evening in the chapel was a success, as evidenced by the large attendance. It was estimated that 140 or more sat down to the following delicious menu: Meat pie, mashed potato, rolls, pickles, cold meat, doughnuts, cheese, cake and coffee. Those in charge of the supper included Mrs. Charles P. Learned, Mrs. Fitch L. Allen, Miss J. M. Case, Mrs. Edwin Hutchinson, Mrs. Michael Buckley and Mrs. Charles Schwenk. The waitresses were Miss Mary Wattles, Miss Katharine D. Smith, Miss Elizabeth Avery, Miss Ida Beebe, Miss Minnie Durr, Miss Doris Browning and Miss Dorothea Buckley. Preceding the supper and during the evening there was a sale of aprons and fancy articles, including towels, runners, etc., Miss Helen Avery was in charge.

The supper was furnished by those women whose names commenced with the first half of the alphabet. At the New Year's supper the entire parish will provide and at the society supper in the early spring the members included in the last half of the alphabet will furnish. The net proceeds from this first supper, and including the sale, was about $54.

A social hour followed with vocal and instrumental selections. Miss Bernice Underwood, soprano, sang, playing her own accompaniments, and duets were given by Miss Ruth Sterry, violin, and Miss Louise Sterry, piano. A number of songs were given by a quartet—Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lovett, Mrs. Charles Schwenk and Frank E. Sterry. Miss Katharine D. Smith provided much merriment for those present with her timely jokes.

MARVELOUS
Mighty Healing Power

"I wish I could publish all the grateful letters I get every week," says Peterson. "I don't believe anyone on this earth has such a happy time at work as I have. All I do is make Peterson's Ointment and read letters like these that come right from the heart.

"I had an ulcer on my ankle—had it 30 years and could not get it healed. For the last six years I had several doctors. I got one box of your ointment and it almost healed it and it was entirely healed before I had used the second one. I don't think there is a better remedy on earth." Mrs. J. C. Henderson, 520 Sprague St., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Peterson's Ointment is just as good for piles as it is for old sores. It stops itching of eczema almost instantly. There isn't anything in the way of pimples or face blemishes that it won't chase away, and for sore feet, chafing, sunburn, scalds, cuts and bruises there is nothing nearly as speedy. 35 cents.

BEGINS ENGLISH SERVICE AT GERMAN CHURCH

Rev. H. Hunzinger, pastor of the First Evangelical Lutheran church on Franklin street, instituted an evening service in English there Sunday, which had a good sized congregation. Speaking upon the topic, "Why Is Our Lutheran Church a World-wide Church," he said in part:

"Our congregation must not only hold its own. That is only a part of our task. We must also fight the battles of tomorrow and win them. The Lutheran church is a world-wide church, because it is conservative in its teachings and progressive in its practice. We are conservative in our teachings. What does tht mean? It means that we continue to build on that old foundation; the perfect union between God and the soul brought about by Christ Jesus our crucified and risen Saviour. And it means that we will not allow any inventions of the human mind to play havoc with that foundation. Nobody dare to touch our dear old faith, the faith of our fathers and forefathers, which has led them safetly through their dark and stormy days to a perfect end of the old and a glorious beginning of a new life.

One of our great heroes of mind was very ill. When he felt that the end of his life was near, he summoned some of his friends to his beside. For a while he wept bitterly, he called his whole life a failure. Finally he explained, "O give—give me one great thought, that my soul may live by it." There was a loud voice, "God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have eternal life." There a smile of satisfaction flushed over the pale face of the dying. "That is enough" he said, and his soul went Home.

"Brethren, the world of today—after the deadly blow of the great war—is also very ill. This world too complains that its whole life, its whole civilization is a failure. That poor dying world Do you hear it cry? "O ye Christians of today, cannot ye save me, cannot ye give me one great thought that my sould could live by it?" There is only one great thought containing in itself the life which the world of today needs; God has so loved, the world that he gave his only begotten son to save us. Here is eternal life for the poor dying world. God and soul, the soul and God, that is a great task accomplished by Dr. Luther and the reformation of the sixteenth century. Our father Luther has not invented a new religion, but he has cleared the way back to the old. He has done away with all the sideways and byeways of religion. He has said to the soul, "This man of God, this man-god has atonement for all your sins, and has delivered you from all your transgressions." We rejoice in the fact, that we hold fast to the one gospel. Listen to us, all ye enemies of Christ, of the old style and of the new style; if you want to destroy the gospel of Christ, you have to kill it twice, once in the first century and again in the sixteenth century. This was tried a good many times over and over again, but it can't be done. For the gospel of Christ founded in the depths of God's love, stands erect amidst our restless times pointing upward into the unseen world of God as the only refuge for all those poor souls who are tossed hither and thither by the storms and wild waves of sin and death."

Concerning the progressive practice of the Lutheran church, Mr. Hunzinger said: "Our church would not hold its position as a world church of hundred millions, it would not hold the third place among the Protestant denomination of this country, if it would not be wide awake in its actions. In our time with its absolute religious indifference and its fierce hatred of God on one side, and its strong church life and religious competition on the other—we cannot happily stay at home, but we have to be happy fighters. If we really love our church, we must pray for it, fight for it, give for it and testify for it.

"In the assembly hall of one of the old sea-faring cities of Germany there can be seen the image of an old ship masterly carved in wood. When you come near to it you find on it an old inscription in Latin: Navigare necesse est vivere non necesse. In English, there is no need to live, but there is a need to sail. Transforming this wonderful inscription for the purpose of our great task, we may say, There is no need for us just to live and to despair but there is one great need for us to preach and to testify."

A similar service will be held on the second Sunday evening of next month.

"MEMORIES" WAS TOPIC AT Y. M. C. A. MEETING

The parlors of the Y. M. C. A. were crowded Sunday with men and older boys and all present were delighted and impressed with the several reels of moving pictures, especially with the reels on "The Old Oaken Bucket" which portrayed scenes that brought back the memories of the old home of other days. The children of the family wanted the folks to build a new house, but the father and mother were so bound up in the old home that they could not think of leaving it. The picture story was beautifully told on the screen and it was apparent that the memories quickened by the picture were such as to make men wish they were back again in the old home before there were any vacant chairs. Hugh Kinder rendered several solos, among them The Old Oaken Bucket.

Between the reels Secretary Hill made a brief talk and said in part as follows: I never hear the song pictured today, but that it brings back precious memories, and so the topic today is "Memories." In the old testament, we read, calling to remembrance the days of my youth and in the new testament we find these words: "I have remembrance of thee in my prayers." The first passage suggests that we think back over our lives, and the second passage suggests that mother often prayed for us, when she was with us. What a wonderful thing memory is; it has two sides, one pleasant and the other unpleasant; we remember friends of other days; some of them were true and noble and others, alas, lived lives of sin, and perhaps some of them sleep tonight in drunkards graves Some of them have achieved real success and we are proud to count them our friends. Memory calls to mind the mean things we did back there; the unworthy things, and the things that can justly be termed "secret sins" which only God and we knew; we would give the world if we could forget them, but memory persists and insists, and we just cannot forget We remember when we decided to leave the wrong life and come into the right life, and enthrone Jesus Christ in our hearts and we think of this with great joy, for it is the most blessed experience one can ever have. Then some of us remember mother and father; how they were anxious that we should do right and succeed and especially do we remember the tenderness of mother; we ran to her then with all our troubles, and you boys do well to go to her now. The best human friend we who are older ever had was Mother, and the best you boys have today is Mother; be true to her and love her fondly. Let all be sure that we are true to Mother and to Mother's God.

The service was an impressive one. Emery H. Davis operated the moving picture machine.

COLLECT $356 PER MILE IN MOTORIST FEES

Motor vehicle fees per mile of highway are $33 higher in Massachusetts than in Connecticut, according to figures given out by the motor vehicle registry of Massachusetts. For every mile of highway in the Bay state, fees of $389 are annually collected from motor vehicle owners and operators while in Connecticut $356 is collected.

Motorists of the country pay in the form of gasoline taxes and registration fees an average of a quarter of a cent a mile, it is shown by statistics given out by the United States Bureau of Public Roads. That is what the fees paid in a year amount to when divided by 6,000, which is believed to be the average motorists' annual mileage. The average license fee per miles traveled is one-fifth of a cent and the gasoline taxes paid make up the difference of one-twenty-fifth of a cent.

"The motorist or truck operator," says the bureau, "is assured of a good return from the taxes he pays, since the receipts are largely devoted to road construction and maintenance." In Connecticut, such fees are entirely devoted to such purposes. In 1923, 81 per cent. of the motor vehicle license revenues of the country and 58 per cent. of the gasoline taxes were turned over to the state highway department for expenditure under their supervision and a considerable portion of the remainder was spent by counties for road purposes.

"Consideration of the gasoline tax is of special interest to the motor vehicle operator," the bureau statement continues. "Thirty-five states have this form of tax, ranging from 1 to 3 cents, with the exception of one state, which has a 4-cent tax. A one-cent tax increases the cost of operating the average vehicle by less than a tenth of a cent a mile." On a trip from Hartford to the heart of New York city, or from Stamford to Springfield, the tax would amount to about 10 cents. A trip across the continent over the Lincoln highway from New Haven to San Francisco would be taxed $2.50.

A comparison of these rates with the toll charges which motorists formerly had to pay on toll roads, is made by the bureau showing that on six different turnpikes in Virginia and Marland, tolls amounting to $5.05 were charged for a total of 187 miles, which is equivalent to 2.7 cents a mile. The bureau concludes that "if a state attempted to charge this same rate for the use of the public highways by automobiles it would have to establish a gasoline tax of 36 cents a gallon."

ASSISTANT MANAGER IN NEW HOTEL AT MIAMI

H. H. Bottomley, formerly of this city, who has been in Miami, Florida, for the past five years in the hotel business, has just been appointed assistant manager of El Comodoro hotel there. The hotel is the newest one at Miami, and the tallest building in the city, twelve stories high. It opened the first of this month and was erected at a cost of about $1,500,000.

With Mrs. Don Houghton and Miss Nellie Crowe as hostesses, the regular meeting of the Philathea class of the United church was held at the home of Mrs. Houghton Friday evening.

The president, Mrs. May Young presided and final plans were made for the Sunday school social to be held on Friday evening.

After the business a social hour was enjoyed. The members responded to the roll-call with funny stories, riddles, poems and games. The winner of the cake in the cake guessing game was Miss Helen Spalding. Refreshments of pineapple salad, rolls, coffee, cake and ice cream were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. J. Sinay of Spring Garden avenue.

NOTABLES TO ATTEND THE FUNERAL OF SENATOR LODGE

Secretaries Hughes and Weeks and Captain Andrews, the President's Aide, Are to Represent President Coolidge—Bishop Lawrence, a Lifelong Friend of Mr. Lodge, is to Officiate at Simple Services at Christ Church, Cambridge, at Noon Wednesday—Details of Funeral Arrangements.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Grief at the death of Henry Cabot Lodge was voiced in Washington today by publishers and friends of the Massachusetts senator.

President Coolidge in a formal statement spoke of him as "one of the great man of our time," while members of the cabinet and colleagues in congress in expressing regret at his passing referred to his attainments and to his long career in senate and house.

Arrangements were at once made by Mr Coolidge to be represented at the funeral, he requested Secretaries Hughes and Weeks, and Captain Adolphus Andrews, his naval aide, to attend in that capacity. At the same time, officials of the senate and house made plans for delegations to represent those bodies officially at the services.

The senate committee, designated by Senator Cummins of Iowa president pro tem, was announced as follows:

Walsh, Massachusetts; Curtis, Kansas; Borah, Idaho; Swanson, Virginia; McLean, Connecticut; Smoot, Utah; Ashurst, Arizona; Pittman, Nevada; Sterling, South Dakota; Underwood, Alabama; Wadsworth, New York; Fernald, Maine; Watson, Indiana; Gerry, Rhode Island; Hale, Maine; Moses, New Hampshire; Spencer, Missouri; Ball, Delaware; Edge, New Jersey; Keyes, New Hampshire; Pepper and Reed, Pennsylvania; Copeland, New York; Edward, New Jersey; Greene and Dale, Vermont.

Speaker Gillette appointed the sixteen members of the Massachusetts delegation in the house as a committee to represent that body at the funeral.

Although the passing of the veteran leader is recognized as requiring a new appraisal of conditions which will confront the senate upon its convening for the short term next month, because of the absence from Washington of many republican spokesmen at the capitol, definite plans for a reorganization of the republican party structure there are expected to be delayed for a longer period than might otherwise be the case. In the determination of questions surrounding the problem of leadership in the senate, however, President Coolidge, through the mandate given him at the elections of last week, will have an opportunity to wield the dominant power. Any advice he may care to give is expected to be a powerful factor in deciding whether the old guard, of which Senator Lodge was a veteran, is to remain as the directing force of the senate or whether new elements will come into the position of command.

DETAILS OF ARRANGEMENTS FOR FUNERAL OF LODGE

Boston, Nov. 10.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who in life was a figure apart from the mass of the nation's legislators among whom he moved with distinction, will have funeral services in which old associations will be maintained to the end and in which his simplicity of tastes will be preserved. The services at Christ church, Cambridge, on Wednesday, at noon, with Bishop Lawrence, his playmate, schoolmate and classmate at college, officiating, will be more nearly those of the man for whom friends of a lifetime mourn than of the United States senator who passed after a notable career.

Although it was suggested by Governor Cox that the bier be brought to the capitol on Beacon Hill to lie in state under military escort, the senator's family decided to make no change from the home on Beacon Street of Dr. Sturges Bigelow, his boyhood chum, where it has rested since a few hours after death came last night. Dr. Bigelow, himself, is seriously ill, and cannot attend the funeral, but the thought that it was there the senator would choose to lie, within a block of his father's home, prompted the decision.

With word that provision should be made for the president's official representatives, Secretary Hughes, Secretary Weeks and Captain Andrews, his naval aide, for Governor Cox and the members of the executive council for delegations from the national senate and house of representatives, from both branches of the Massachusetts legislature; committees representing the town of Nahant, which he had served as moderator for years, of the Massachusetts Historical society, which he had served as president; of Harvard university; of various other national and state organizations devoted to literary or political activities, the family felt that opportunity for the tributes that these delegations seek to show may still be afforded in Christ church, with its limited seating capacity of 420 at the same time that the senator's personal associations are preserved.

It was at Christ church, which lies on the edge of the Harvard college group of buildings where he spent his college days, that Senator Lodge was married, the day after he was graduated, to Anna Cabot Mills, and it was from Christ church that the senator buried his wife in 1915. He would have it so, his family decided, and Christ church, accordingly, will hold within its ancient walls, set up a century and a half ago, and in its old box type pews a distinguished group of mourners. Its rector, Rev. Prescott Evarts, will assist Bishop Lawrence.

Pall bearers and ushers alike will be drawn from the senator's personal friends rather than his associates in public life. The pall bearers will be Dr. Frederick Shattuck, John T. Morse, Jr., Henry T. Walcott, James Ford Rhodes, William E. Endicott, Clayton Johns, George MacKay, and George P. Gardner, his classmates in college, contemporaries in letters or friends in other connections. The ushers will be James T. Williams, Jr., Francis L. Higginson, Jr., Louis A. Coolidge, Charles F. Redmond, W. Gordon Means, and George C. Lee, men whose lives touched his in personal or public activities, but more nearly in the personal than in the public.

Tributes and messages of condolence poured in on the family today from all parts of the country and of the world. President Coolidge sent his message of sympathy and made public a tribute that placed Senator Lodge as "one of the great men of our time." These testimonials came from all sides, covering a range as wide as Senator Lodge's activities, as historian, literaturer, politician, statesman, fellow townsman, and friend.

Governor Cox, in a formal proclamation issued today, said:

"A great man has gone from us. The character of his long public service may be measured by the highest standards, and it will not be found wanting. For a generation it made him a national figure. He never avoided a struggle for the principles which he embraced and he met such contests with the vigor and grasp of an outstanding statesman. His broad culture and intellectuality were known not only to his countrymen, but all over the world. His talents would have made him eminent in any walk of life.

"In recognition of his eminent services and as a sign of mourning for the passing of one who so richly contributed to all that is noblest and best in the traditions of Massachusetts, it seems fitting that the state departments be closed during the hour of his funeral, that the flags throughout the commonwealth be placed at half-staff from now until after his body has been laid to rest and that our citizens by all appropriate methods show their respect for his memory."

Governor-elect Alvan T. Fuller sent word, by radio from a trans-Atlantic steamer that "one of the greatest statesmen of the world has passed away." The town of Nahant, through its board of selectmen, directed that bells be tolled every 15 minutes all day, and expressed the sympathy of the town in his loss as it expressed the pride of the town in his greatness.

SENATOR LODGE OCCUPIED HISTORIC DESK IN SENATE

Washington, Nov. 10.—Historic memories cluster around the desk which Senator Lodge occupied on the floor of the senate. Two former distinguished sons of Massachusetts, Charles Sumner and George Frisbie Hoar had occupied it, and unauthenticated report is that it at one time was used by Daniel Webster.

When the senate vacated the chamber now occupied by the Supreme Court, and moved to its present quarters in the new wing of the capitol, the desks, including that which Senator Lodge used and which had long seen service, were retained. As new states were admitted into the Union and new senators entered the chamber, desks of the same style were constructed for them.

These relics are highly cherished by the senate and it has been the unbroken rule, so far as the memory of the oldest senate employes run, to refuse permission for the removal of any of them.

While duplicates are in storage to replace any that might be in need of repairs it would require the consent of the committee of rules, which has charge of the property of the senate, to take any of them out of the capitol. Heretofore, the committee has consistently refused to sanction all suggestions that the senate part with any of its heirlooms.

Although common use of snuff is no longer prevalent the senate persists in its time honored practice of keeping two filled snuff boxes in the chamber and would as quickly give up one of these as it would part with any of its historic desks.

FOREST FIRES IN N. Y. STATE UNDER CONTROL

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Forest fires throughout New York state tonight were extinguished or under control and the first time since Nov. 1, the conservation commission has experienced the passing of a day without receiving reports of new fires. Reports did indicate that nine new fires broke out over the week-end, but prompt attention placed them under control, it was said.

Commission officials asserted, however that danger of new fires still threatens and that until the woodland section of the state are drenched thoroughly by snow or rain the danger will continue.

The officials said it was impossible at the present time to lift the ban on hunting and camping in the state preserved, or to determine when it might be lifted. It was explained the future of hunting for this season at least, depends entirely upon the weather.

GEN. GARIBALDI ACCEPTS CHALLENGE FOR DUEL

Rome, Nov. 10—(By the A. P.)—General Pippino Garibaldi, grandson of the Italian patriot, today named Deputies Bencivenga and Cimarra to act as his seconds in a duel with Dr. Italo Balbo, commander-in-chief of the Fascist national militia, who on Friday sent a challenge to Garibaldi. Balbo's seconds are Deputy Barnaba and General Gualtieri.

The seconds met today to discuss arrangements for the duel, but the control committee of the Free Italy Organization still objects to Garibaldi taking part in the combat. The challenge was the outgrowth of a protest made by Garibaldi against an attack by Fascist militiamen on unarmed former Italian soldiers in Rome during the celebration of the anniversary of the Armistice with Austria.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Belgian Bourse Open

The governing commission had decided to keep the change close in honor of Armistice Day and also to make a [illegible] holiday beginning yesterday. The city authorities, however, ordered the bourse to remain open. Every employe was at work and the tickers ticked, but only a few brokers stood around and smiled and refused to do any business.

PORTCHESTER WOMAN INDICTED FOR FORGERY

New York, Nov. 10.—Miss Jennie Fava, 22, daughter of Rovvo Fava, street commissioner of Portchester, N. Y., and popular among the young set there was charged with a series of thefts from the Steiger-Schick department store, by which she was employed in Portchester, totalling thousands of dollars.

An indictment charging forgery in the third degree was returned against her by the Westchester county grand jury and bail was arranged by her father.

According to the evidence presented to the grand jury on which the indictment is based, Miss Fava carried on her alleged operations by making false entries in the store's books and by destroying charge slips made out for goods she had ordered for herself.

She was employed as a bookkeeper and according to the indictment handled the charge accounts of the store. When a customer paid a bill of $21.60 for example, it is charge that Miss Fava would enter the amount received as $1.80 upon the cash book, and keep the balance of $20. In order to conceal the theft it is charged she would then enter the full amount of the bill upon the ledger. Her receipts were said to total as high as $1,000 a week.

The shortage was discovered by accident last August. Previous audits of the firm's books had failed to rouse the suspicions of the auditors.

When they began checking up Miss Fava's accounts last August, however, they alleged they found a shortage of $15,000 of the firm's accounts for the year immediately preceding. Two of the firm's books covering transactions prior to that time have disappeared, it was said yesterday, and the firm is unable to state the exact amount of its losses, although it is thought they probably amount to $30,000 or more.

Miss Fava, according to the testimony before the grad jury explained the fine clothes she was wearing and the automobile she and her sister owned by stating that she had a rich uncle who had died and left her a lot of money.

KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS AND ROBBED IN HOTEL

Greenwich, Nov. 10.—Miss Martha Meeker, who has made her home at The Maples here for several years, was knocked unconscious and robbed of a pair of diamond earrings and a diamond ring at the hotel early this morning by a stranger who stopped her in the upper hall of the building, it became known today. The value of the stolen jewels was not given out.

According to Miss Meeker, she was passing through the hall when the man confronted her and in a struggle that followed snatched the ring from her fingers and the stones from her ears. He then struck her violently, she said, and she fell to the floor unconscious.

The noise of the struggle awakened other guests in the hotel, but the man had made his escape before aid could reach her. The police are of the opinion that Miss Meeker was followed to the hotel by the man, who hid in the hall whil awaiting his opportunity to grab the jewels.

Congressman's Test Case of Volstead Act

Government Has Closed Its Case Against Representative Hill of Maryland.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 10.—After placing only two witnesses on the stand, the government late this afternoon closed its case against Representative John Philip Hill, and defense testimony was begun in the congressman's trial in federal court on indictments charging violation of the Volstead act through the manufacture and possession of wine and cider of more than one-half of one per cent alcoholic content.

George F. Beyer and Richard Ryan, government chemists, testified for the prosecution. Beyer said he was sent to Mr. Hill's home here in September, 1923, to take samples of the congressman's home-made grape juice for analysis. The question "was certain liquor in a five-gallon keg at Mr. Hill's home, wine?" put to the witness by District Attorney Amos W. W. Woodcock, was objected to by defense counsel.

Mr. Beyer then testified that the beverage he tested contained "around 11 per cent." of alcohol by volume.

Ryan testified that the cider made this fall by Mr. Hill contained 2.75 per cent alcohol.

The defense opened its case by putting Dr. John J. McGinity, a pharmacist, on the witness stand. Dr. McGinity was asked if he had attended the "party" given recently by Mr. Hill, at which the congressman furnished his cider to several hundred guests. The doctor replied that he had.

"Did anybody get drunk?" asked defense counsel.

District Attorney Woodcock objected to the question, which he said was irrelevant.

Judge Morris A. Soper, presiding, then asked Mr. Woodcock if it were his understanding of the law, "that any beverage containing over one-half of one per cent contest is forbidden?"

The district attorney replied that it was. The defense took issue with him, and the jury was dismissed until tomorrow morning while the point was argued.

Judge Soper asked Mr. Woodcock if it were not his understanding of the prohibition act that congress, in referring to cider and fruit juices, meant the word "intoxicating" to mean intoxicating in fact, without reference to the one-half of one per cent alcoholic limit placed on other drinks.

Mr. Woodcock replied that this was not his understanding of the law, and said the government had the right to seize fruit juices with no alcohol in them if they suspected that they would be converted into intoxicating beverages. He cited the fact that prohibition agents may seize sugar if they think it is going to be used for manufacture of liquor.

Arthur W. Machen, of defense counsel, then read a quotation from a decision by Judge Augustus Hand, of New York, issuing an injunction against a New York district attorney, unnamed, to restrain him from interfering with the business of a New York manufacturer of sweet apple cider. In his complaint, of which the injunction was issued, the manufacturer had declared that it was practically impossible to manufacture a sweet cider, the alcohol contents of which would not occasionally go above one-half of one per cent even at the moment of manufacture, Mr. Machen said.

Court adjourned until tomorrow, with opposing attorneys still arguing the exact meaning of the word "intoxicating," as used in the Volstead act.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST TONG WARFARE IN CONNECTICUT

ARMISTICE DAY

Over the earth from gray branches are falling
Leaves that are faded and crumpled and sear,
And through the vast stillness voices are calling—
Voices of loved ones our hearts held so dear.

Like conquered giants the cannons are sleeping,
Gone is the sulphurous smoke from the hill,
And over battlefields angels are keeping
That sacred trust our boys died to fulfill.

Faint streaks of light, like flickering embers,
Dart through the clouds which are somber and gray,
But through changing years each heart still remembers
THEIR VALOR—before the first ARMISTICE DAY.

Down through the ages an anthem is ringing—
Nearer and clearer, O, harken again,
Countless the choirs of angels are singing—
"PEACE—PEACE" on earth, O, ye children of men!"

God of our fathers, with renewed submission
To Thee we come, though we've oft gone astray,
Impregnate our hearts with sincere contrition
And keep there the meaning of ARMISTICE DAY.

—Marie Collins Houghton, in Boston Globe.

HOW GREATER NEW YORK WILL CELEBRATE ARMISTICE DAY

New York, Nov. 10.—Two minutes of silence at eleven o'clock, the hour when the armistice became effective six years ago, a mammoth parade in Manhattan, less pretentious celebrations in each of the five boroughs, and religious services in the larger services in the larger churches, will mark the greater city's observance of armistice day tomorrow.

The most colorful event scheduled is the parade arranged by the city. Led by Mayor John F. Hylan, it will start at half past one from Madison Square Garden and move up Fifth avenue to the Mall in Central Park, where patriotic exercises will be in line with an escort of 2,000 police.

The uniformed forces will be led by the West Point cadets in full dress uniform. Following the uniformed marchers will come members of the G. A. R., Spanish War veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Military Order of the World and several other organizations.

At 10 a. m. there will be a memorial mass of the Gold Star Association of America at two different churches. In the evening the association will hold its annual meeting at the 7th Regiment armory.

Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army tonight issued a statement calling for religious rather than "militaristic" observance of the day. The Women's Peace Society, sent a telegram to President Coolidge, calling for the abolition of the army and navy as an example to other nations.

AMERICAN VIEWPOINT ON REPARATIONS DISTRIBUTION

Paris, Nov. 10—(By the A. P.)—The American government's point of view on the distribution of German reparations, particularly as it affects the payment of the American costs of occupation, was presented by James A. Logan, Jr., American observer with the reparation commission, at today's meeting of the experts who are preparing a program for the forthcoming meeting of finance ministers.

No actual proposals on reparations allotments, however, will be made until the finance ministers themselves assemble. The present meeting is merely a gathering of experts, representing the different countries, to prepare work for the ministers.

To Request Publicity Status of Income Tax

Treasury to Call Upon Congress to Either Repeal or Make Clear Provisions.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Congress will be asked by the treasury in the forthcoming short session either to repeal or make clear provisions of the tax laws relating to publication of income tax returns.

Although the publicity provisions in the present law are to be left by Attorney General Stone for judicial interpretation, the treasury, it was said today, feels that the reaction since the recent publication of returns has been of such a character as to show conclusively that the country is opposed to such publication. If a repeal of the provisions is not possible then the treasury proposes that definite legislation be enacted to clarify the present law and avoid a repetition of the recent controversy.

Secretary Mellon's position with respect to publication of the returns was represented as unchanged and he will strongly favor a full repeal of the provisions which were included in the last tax law. Mr. Mellon said today he understood that bills would be introduced early in the session looking to a repeal of the publicity section.

The reaction on the recent publication of returns has been distinctly unfavorable to a continuation of that policy, according to treasury officials who base their views on thousands of letters from taxpayers discussing the question. Many of the writers, not knowing the terms of the law, placed responsibility for publication of the figures on the treasury itself but the secretary said that a great majority of the protests received contained legitimate arguments against continuation of the publicity features in the law.

POTATO CROP A BUMPER; CORN BELOW THE AVERAGE

White Potatoe Crop This Year is Estimated at 454,119,000 Bushels, Exceeding Slightly the Big Crops of 1917 and 1922—Merchantable Quantity of Corn of This Year's Crop is the Lowest in Thirty Years With the Exception of 1917—Apple Crop Slightly Above the Average of the Last Few Years, But Smaller Than Last Year.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The smallest corn crop since 1913 was the reward of American farmers this year who planted the fifth largest acreage to that crop in the history of farming. Not only was the harvest substantially below those of the last four years but the merchantable quantity of this year's crop is the lowest in 30 years, with the exception of 1917.

Preliminary estimates of production, issued today by the department of agriculture, placed the crop at 2,477,538,000 bushels the acreage at 105,604,000, or 1.4 per cent. more than last yeard, and the merchantable quantity of the crop as 63.2 per cent. Corn production during the last four years has averaged more than 3,000,000,000 bushels.

The white potato crop, estimated at 454,119,000 bushels is slightly larger than the big crops of 1917 and 1922, yields in northern states running far above earlier expectations because in some regions the crop escaped frost and continued growing far into October. Per capita production this year is 4.08 bushels compared with an average of 3.76 bushels per capita during the last 20 years.

There will be an ample supply of good potatoes at moderate prices, government officials declare, and because of low prices in some western states so good potatoes will be fed to livestock. There are indications that some of the crop may not even be harvested. The average yield ran 121.0 bushels per acre as compared with 99.1 bushels, the 10 year average.

Drought in important southern producing states general reduced the sweet potato crop, which is estimated at 75,620,000 bushels, or about 25,000,000 bushels below the average of the last five years and the smallest crop since 1916.

Flaxseed production returned this year to the high level of the period from 1902 to 1908 and a total crop of 30,652,000 bushels ise estimated, passing the record crop of 1902 by more than one million bushels.

Tobacco production is 261,000,000 pounds less than last year, with a total crop of 1,213,975,000 pounds estimated. Bright tobacco showed a decrease of 115,000,000 pounds, cigar types 63,000,000 pounds, and Maryland and eastern Ohio export 1,317,000 pounds.

Quality of the crop varied in New England, is good in Pennsylvania, and so good in the Miami Valley, of Ohio and poor in Wisconsin. Quality in Kentucky is uncertain as yet, andwill depend upon rains during the remainder season. Maryland export suffered some from frost. Bright tobacco in the main producing regions is slightly better in quality than last year, though still low.

Corn production averaged 23.5 bushels per acre this year as compared with 282 bushels last year and 27.5 bushels, the ten year average. Over most of the corn belt, weather during October was very favorable for maturing and drying the crop. Sections that were not frosted made material gains over earlier expectations and an increase of about 10,000,000 bushels in the total crop over last month resulted. The favorable weather improved the quality of the crop much more than seemed possible. Much corn that was frosted in early the largest producing states, and other states had dried out with a minimum of souring and molding, though much of the frosted corn is chaffy, shriveled and loose on the cob.

The apple crop, estimated at 177,238,000 bushels, is slightly above the average of the last five years but smaller than last year. Prospects are particularly poor in Washington, Idaho, Michigan, and in commercial sections of Pennsylvania, and Maryland. The total commercial crop is estimated at 27,188,000 barrels.

The harvest of pears this year has been exceeded only once in 1920. Production has about double since 1909. California leads this year with 4,667,000 bushels.

Peanuts suffered from unfavorable weather and the smallest crop since the government began to keep record of them in 1926 is the result, the estimate being 582,535,000 pounds.

WOMAN OBTAINED BABY UNDER FALSE PRETENSES

New York, Nov. 10.—A six weeks' old boy was the chief actor in a domestic drama revealed before Supreme Court Justice Gavegan today that had as its main theme the deception of a wealthy former husband.

Confronted by evidence gathered in Kansas City, St. Louis and Hannibal, Mo., Mrs. Lydia Locke Marks admitted she had obtained the baby under false pretenses and brought him here in an attempt to persuade the husband she recently divorced that the child was hers and that he was the father. Her former husband, Arthur Hudson Marks, millionaire organ and automobile tire manufacturer, was responsible for today's court action, which ended with an order for the return of the child to the Willows sanitarium in Kansas City.

Marks was divorced by Mrs. Marks in September, 1923, when it is understood he settled on her $300,000 in cash and placed $100,000 in a fund to behold in trust for her. They were married in December, 1917. Mrs. Marks, the former Lydia Locke, concert singer, previously had been married to Lord Reginald Talbot of England and Orville Harrold, grand opera singer.

Mr. Marks, according to his attorney, employed private detectives, who learned that Mrs. Marks had obtained the child in the Kansas City sanitarium by representing herself as Mrs. Ina Johnson of Hannibal, Mo., and presenting letters which apparently established her as a woman of responsibility.

TO DECIDE STANDING OF REV. HARRY E. FOSDICK

New York, Nov. 10.—The future status of Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, whose resignation as associate pastor of the First Presbyterian church here was accepted recently after he had declined to join the presbytery, will be decided at a meeting of the presbytery next Monday afternoon, it was announced today.

Rev. Dr. Edgar W. Work, former pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church, was to have presented an official report on Dr. Fosdick at today's meeting of the presbytery, but did not do so because most of the session was concerned with the admittance into the church of Rev. Charles G. Fuller, recently ordained Baptist clergyman. Dr. Fosdick in the meantime has been invited by the First church to preach in its pulpit as a "guest" minister.

Dr. Fuller was admitted into the fellowship of the Presbyterian church by a vote of 69 to 23. This action followed discussion over a minority report made to the presbytery asserting that he had failed to make clear his belief in three miracles, the resurrection of Lazarus, the walking of Christ upon the water, and the virgin birth.

GOVERNMENT FORMALLY ACCEPTS ZEPPELIN ZR-3

Washington, Nov. 10—An order formally accepting the ZR-3, German built Zeppelin, on behalf of the American government, was signed today by Secretary Wilbur.

"KING OF BEER RUNNERS" SHOT DEAD IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Dion O'Banion, Chicago gangster, and often termed "king of the beer runners," was shot and killed today amid the quiet respectability of his florist shop, by three unidentified men.

Tonight the three Miller brothers, Herschie, Max and David, all sworn enemies of O'Banion, were released after satisfying investigators they had heno connection with the murder.

Herschie is the owner of a cleaning and dyeing plant which was twice bombed some time ago after an attempt had been made on the lives of Herschie and Max in front of a downtown theatre. O'Banion was accused in both instances, but their assault charge was the only one to reach the status of a police court arraignment. David Miller is a prominent boxing referee in the Middle west.

Orders were dispatched immediately after the shooting for the arrest of Earle Weiss, Johnnie Torrio, "Yanke" Schwars and "Dapper Dan" McCarthy, all of whom have been involved in hijacking and beer running scandals in the last few years and all of whom have been arrested in connection with recent beer feuds slayings.

O'Banion was working among his plants and blooms in his north side shop shortly before noon when three men entered. In the rear of the place was William Critchfield, negro porter, and in an ante-room, Victory Young, manager, and Vincent Galvin, bookkeeper.

O'Bannion greeted his callers with an "Hello boys". Then, according to Critchfield, who was taken into custody tonight for questioning, the four walked over to a corner of the room and conversed in low undertones. This continued but a minute, being cut short by the simultaneous firing of three revolvers. O'Bannion fell into a bed of roses, dead.

The killers, running two or three blocks to a waiting automobile. Many pedestrians saw the man running and later were able to describe them, but none attempted to stop them as the report of the shots were not heard in the street.

It was developed late today that Davis Loftus, employed as a chauffeur by O'Banion had commandeered a passing automobile and set out in pursuit of the killer. Several hours after the murder he had not returned to the shop nor reported his whereabouts.

RECOUNT CUTTING DOWN BROOKHART'S MAJORITY

Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 10.—Senator Smith W. Brookhart's unofficial majority over his democratic opponent for the United States senate in Tuesday's election had dwindled from 1933 to 674 when more than one-half of the election boards in Iowa's 99 counties completed their official canvass of the vote today. Returns from these official surveys are not expected to be completed until late this week.

The loss and gain of each candidate had fluctuated widely on the reports so far received. In 50 counties the results was a gain of 96 votes for Senator Brookhart while his loss totalled 200 votes. Steck had gained 470 and lost 22.

HEAVY PENALTY FOR VIOLATION OF LIQUOR LAW

New Haven, Nov. 10—Mrs. Ida De Francesco, of Savin Rock, was fined $1,000 and sentenced to three months in jail by Judge John R. Booth in the criminal common pleas court today for violation of the liquor laws. The woman was released on $2,000 bonds, however, pending an appeal to the supreme court. She was found guilty last week.

It is probable that there will be no petition for a recount of the vote in the town of Ashford, as it is evident that the admission of the three rejected ballots which some claim were valid would not change the result. The representatives stand elected as announced November 4th—Edwin A. Buck, democrat and Allan B. Lincoln, republican. Mr. Buck is grandson of the late Edwin A. Buck of Ashford and Willimantic, for many years a democratic leader in eastern Connecticut, holding office as representative from Ashford and later from Windham, also a state senator, state treasurer and bank commissioner. Mr. Lincoln, formerly active with the prohibition party, has been independent in politics for many years, though a supporter of President Coolidge. It is understood that he made a statement of his political attitude to the republican caucus at Ashford before his nomination was made unanimous. Ashford has been considered a democratic strong hold for many years, but the recent town election went republican and the result of November 4th was somewhat mixed.

Officers elected at the 100th rally of the Willimantic Christian Endeavor Union held in this city at the First Baptist church are: President, Rev. James H. Graham of Windham; first vice president, Herbert Thompson, of Andover; second, Miss Inez I. Paton, Willimantic; secretary, Jessie Inman, Mansfield Center; treasurer, Ellen C. Cook, Windham; honorary vice presidents, presidents of the local societies. Committees: Pastoral advisory, Rev. Herbert Deck, Scotland; junior work, Mrs. J. C. Tatem, Essiford; good citizenship, Rev. F. F. Foshay, Willimantic; program, pastor and president of the entertaining society and the president of the Union; missionary, Mrs. Harry Tatem, Eastford; stewardship, Miss Mildred Davoll, Mansfield Center; finance, J. C. Tatem, Eastford; intervisitation, officers of the Union.

The annual Red Cross roll call starts today (Armistice Day) and continues for two weeks under the supervision of the headquarters at Washington, D. C. Lieutenant James J. Lee, also alderman of the city, has been appointed chairman of the local roll call and plans to make a determined drive to reinforce the ranks of the Red Cross membership here. The people of the town will receive personal letters asking them to contribute to the cause of this deserving organization.

Presented on two charges of violation of the liquor law, that of keeping liquor in his possession with intent to sell, also of actual sale, John Hanson of 849 Valley street, pleaded not guilty in police court Monday morning, but was adjudged otherwise and Judge Foss imposed a fine of $200 and costs on both charges, taking on a ten day jail sentence. The assessment came to $208.15. Hanson was caught with the goods Sunday morning, when Chief McArthur and Lieutenant McLean of the police department called at his home to arrest him on a warrant charging actual sale to Albert Sturo, of Brickton road. Hanson had a five gallon still in operation at the time and nearly two quarts of "kitchen liquor." Hanson apparently made a pretty good living from his moonshine trade business as he has not done any work since last June. He kept house by himself. The police officials and Sturo testified against Hanson, who contended that he had made moonshine only for his own consumption, although he admitted passing a little out to his friends. Sturo said that he bought two drinks at 35c apiece from Hanson last week. There were two men in the room and one of them tripped him onto the other who neatly extricated over $100 which Sturo had with him and missed, shortly after he had left the house.

The water supply in Willimantic is being sustained at a normal depth, in the distributory reservoir on Hosmer Mountain, at a cost of $100 a day, the expense being entailed by the necessity of keeping the steam pumps at the pumping station in Mansfield in steady operation. The supply at the storage reservoir in Mansfield is holding up remarkably well, according to Superintendent Bowen who points out that the water is even with the dam and that he cannot account for its volume. The two ponds at Ashford, purchased five weeks ago, have now been drained.

Mrs. Joseph Chlebos Makara, 29, died at St. Joseph's hospital early Sunday after a brief illness. She leaves her husband, three daughters, Mary Sophie and Katherine, a son, Frank; her father, Jacob, Chlebos, a sister, Miss Katherine Chlebos, and a brother, Joseph. All reside in this city but the father, who is a resident of Poland.

William G., the infant son of Samuel R. and Delia Gelinas Dilworth, died Sunday afternoon at St. Joseph's hospital. The funeral was held Monday afternoon at three o'clock with burial in the Gelinas family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery.

At two o'clock Monday afternoon funeral services for Mrs. Ruth C. Wood were held at the Congregational church house on Valley street, Rev. Arthur C. Wheelock officiated. Burial was in Windham Center cemetery. There was a large attendance at the funeral and beautiful floral tributes. Avery and Van Zandt had charge of arrangements.

Mary E., the three year old daughter of Amos and Mary F. Breault, formerly of this city, died at Johnson hospital, Stafford Springs Sunday. Besides her parents she leaves two brothers, Arthur and Wilfrid Breault.

Armistice Day exercises were held in the eighth grade of the Natchug grammar school Monday afternoon with the seventh and sixth grades present as guests. Mrs. Nellie A. Gager presented the flags offered by Jane Wood Elderkin Chapter, D. A. R., for use in the new annex. Dialogues, recitations, essays and an historical pageant made up the program for the afternoon.

Dog Warden John T. Meikle was called out by First Selectman Russell A. Andrews to kill a mongrel shepherd dog owned by Mrs. George Rondeau of 9 Arnolds Lane which fell in a fit and appeared to be suffering intensely.

Civil proceeding against Charles H. Russell have been instituted by Jackson & Summer and Leonard Brothers Garage, both firms claiming one hundred dollars damages.

Willimantic will pass today (Armistice Day) without any special program to commemorate the great event. Announcement was made late Monday afternoon that the entire plant of the American Thread company would close for the day as will also the Rossie Velvet company, the Quidnick-Windham Manufacturing Co., the Windham Silk Company and possibly one or two other plants. At noon word came from the school committee that all schools of the town would suspend classes and the same is true of the two parochial school. The banks and the postoffice will close at noon. The carriers are to make but one morning delivery. According to a decision reached several days ago the business houses in the city will not open their doors during the day.

The thirty-third day of the dry spell closed Monday night with the only promise of rain being that made by the weather man who predicted that a tropical disturbance of moderate intensity was headed north from Cuba and should reach Connecticut some time today (Tuesday) just in time to make the day-off a dull one.

Acting Mayor Hickey made it known Monday afternoon that the board of aldermen would defer the appointment of a city sheriff to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Thomas J. Killourey, from the regular meeting Monday night to some later date when a special meeting would be called. There is little likelihood of the office remaining vacant for want of candidates. Joseph Peck defeated for nomination to that office one year ago in caucus by Killourey, has redoubled his efforts to become sheriff. Constable and Dog Warden John T. Meikle also announces his candidacy and mention is made of Constable Gilbert P. Flynn and Lyman Maine as candidates.

Rev. Father Payne performed the ceremony. Miss Catherine Moriarty, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Frederick Adams, formerly of South Windham, now of Lynn, Mass., was best man.

The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine and wore a veil and wreath. She carried white roses. Her maid wore an orchid gown with pearl trimmings and carried yellow roses. Breakfast was served at the home of the bride, with guests present from several cities. Among those from Willimantic were the parents of the groom, his grandmother, Mrs. Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Spellman and the Misses Louise Van Zandt, Elsie Sherman, Ethel Perkins, Edith Knott, Nellie McCarthy and Miss Moran, members of a sewing circle of which the bride was a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Paulhus are motoring to points of interest in Massachusetts and New York state. They will reside at Jersey Heights N. Y., where the groom is employed as a soliciting agent for the General Electric Co.

Mr. Paulhus is a graduate of St. Mary's school, Windham High School and the General Electric School at Lynn, Mass. While at Windham high he gained much popularity locally as a minstrel man and his services became much sought after for amateur theatricals. He was prominent in all school activities, including managership of athletic bodies. While at Lynn he was not only a high average student but became a leader in institution events.

The bride has been a resident of this for about six years and has won a large circle of friends. She was employed in the main office of the American Thread company.

At the November meeting of the common council, held Monday evening, with Acting Mayor George W. Hickey in charge, the first business was the hearing of a petition by Alfred Lis, Frank Phillip, Dominic Menditto and Dr. Charles H. Girard, property owners in the vicinity of Ivin Hill street, to have trouble with overflowing water from a brook remedied. It was pointed out by City Engineer Mitchell and others that the course of the water had been blocked by the dumping of rubbish, including a delapidated Ford in the brook. The discussion was finally settled by an agreement that the city remove rubbish which city trucks had dumped there upon permission of the owners and that the proprietors install a drain pipe at their own expense. Alderman Jackson of that ward sponsored the agreement. Reports of the superintendent of streets, chief of the fire dpartment and chif of police were read and accepted. A special meeting will be held the first of next week to appoint a successor to City Sheriff Thomas J. Killourey, recently resigned. Corporation Counsel Thomas J. Kelley reported progress in a movement to have a red flag signal installed at the Ash street crossing of the New Haven railroad. An ordinance presented by Alderman Lee fixes the speed limit within 200 feet of the crossing at 15 miles per hour as an additional safeguard. The Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company is to be consulted with, in an effort to secure a general improvement in the street lighting system. Adjournment was taken at 5.10 o'clock.

Miss Margaret Gates, daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Andrew F. Gates of Hartford and Willimantic was united in marriage at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Asylum Hill Congregational church with Rev. Francis Cremer of Huntington, Va., by Dr. William H. Butler and Dr. Remson Ogilby. The full Episcopal service was used. Miss Mary Philips Enskin of Windsor and Mrs. Harold Paton Small of Longmeadow, Mass., were the bridesmaid and matron of honor, respectively. William M. Cremer, a brother of the groom was best man. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, 12 Willard street, Hartford. Local people who attended were Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gates, Mrs. Helen B. Gates, Mrs. Hattie Gates, Mrs. Henry R. DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

John I. Bryant, long ago a resident of this town, is visiting here for a few days. Mr. Bryant the past week was again elected a member of the board of county commissioners of Bristol county, Mass., where he has served in the same office for 33 years, and is now the chairman.

It was from this town that Mr. Bryant went forth as a mere stripling to fight on the Union side in the Civil war. Periodically he returns to Danielson, usually for a period of recuperation after the strenuous duties that his official positions entail.

In a reminiscent mood Monday morning, he recalled from the days of his early youth an incident, a la Paul Revere, when he rode horseback from Elmville, where he was living in the Dexter family to Danielson, to warn the people that a dam had broken at East Killingly and was threatening this valley country with flood.

If this town fails to make a noise on its factory bells and whistles, with a sort of obligato by the church and school bells following two minutes of silence at 11 o'clock this morning it will be what real enthusiasts over the World war veterans will declare derelict in its duty. The boys that wore a uniform in Uncle Sam's service during the World war and the women who served in various capacities in the interest of the allied cause are entitled to a flash back here at some of the effervescence that marked the activities of the public when it learned that the great conflict was at an end. Killingly can make the welkin ring this morning if it only sets out to do it. The occasion is worthy of the effort. Let the eagle scream for five minutes—for he's a bigger bird than ever now!

Incidentally, honor can be shown the service men and women by a generous display of flags and by making brilliant with light the route of the evening's parade. This town did everything that was asked of it in aid of winning the World war. It is not within the probabilities that it will slack any, in honoring those of its sons and daughters who helped to win it.

A hunter and a thorough woodsman of many years' experience had something to say Monday about the official ban on hunting during this open season because of the unprecedented drought. He was well worth of attention.

"A hunter of the school to which I believe is no menace in the woods. He is as careful of every man's property rights as he is of his own. He does not smoke cigarettes and throw lighted stubs away. He builds no campfires and idles about them in dreamy mood. He is out for love of life in the open and the exhilaration of stalking game—and getting it if he can. I think this applies to most hunters, though, without doubt there are a few who are careless and wanton.

"I really believe the motoring parties are a greater danger, as to causing forest fires in this day and age, than are the hunters. Members of such parties flip cigarettes out of machines running through the countryside. Lighted matches also get a thoughtless toss where they are apt to do the greatest harm. Many a fire has been traced to such thoughtlessness. Yet no one hears of the automobile drivers' licenses being suspended during the dry spell. I guess a hunter's license isn't worth much any more. It hasn't been worth much this fall, anyway."

For the first time since his recent severe illness, Judge W. L. Fenner Woodward presided at a session of the town court Monday morning. William A. Ferreault, a resident of Rhode Island, was fined $25 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a reckless driving charge, this growing out of his driving his machine into another car that was off the traveled part of the highway while its driver was engaged in changing a tire. Ferreault, a stranger in this territory was arrested and brought into court after an investigation by a state police officer.

While turkeys are not raised in what might be considered wholesale quantities in this vicinity, there are a surprising number of the birds about this year. Some splendid flocks are owned within half a dozen miles of Danielson and the majority of the members of these will find their way to tables here for the Thanksgiving day feast. Turkey raising has been ventured into in this territory during the last few years by a considerable number of persons inclined to experiment with that form of investment. With small flocks they have experienced a considerable degree of success.

At his home in Dayville Monday morning at 10 o'clock uneral services for Ray E. Johnson were conducted by Rev. William Swainson, pastor of the Congregational church at that place. The body was taken to Arlington, R. I., for burial. At the service at the grave members of the lodge of Odd Fellows at Arlington were in attendence. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Another of the many improvements that Rev. Ignatius Kost has carried out during his pastorate at St. Joseph's church involves the construction of a retaining wall of concrete blocks along the frontage of the church property and a new sidewalk.

Business in Danielson will be suspended at noon today (Tuesday) in observance of Armistice day. The stores will close in accord with a vote taken by the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting held Friday evening.

Purchases of certain supplies by cotton mills in eastern Connecticut are taken to indicate there is prospect for improved business and that the winter period promises to be a busy one in these plants.

An account by radio: Music as an art—was selling on the Chicago market this afternoon—for halfback in next Saturday's game—between the time of the election and the inauguration of president next spring—because our bedtime stories are always interesting. Station MXUP signing off at 5.30 p. m.—1-2lb.

Of interest to bankers here will be the opening of two commercial banks, recently organized, in Putnam tomorrow. Danielson's commercial bankers have served in the Putnam field since the closing of the First National bank of that city early in August, having office quarters there. The local banks will now be largely relieved of the Putnam work.

Danielson post office will close at 12 noon, in respect to Armistice day. There will be one delivery by carriers. The lobby will be opened until 6 p. m. All mails are to be dispatched as usual, by orders of Postmaster Edwin H. Keach.

A display of toys in Danielson suggests to busy minds that Christmas is not so far away.

John C. Merle of Meriden was a visitor with friends in Danielson Monday.

Henry O. Crosby was at Oakland Beach over the week end. A fishing trip netted a supply of flat fish.

The benevolent society of the Westfield Congregational church has a meeting scheduled for Wednesday afternoon.

On account of this being Armistice day, the meeting of the W. C. T. U. has been deferred from today to November 18th.

Mrs. E. E. Wilbur, of Broad street, had members of the Ladies' Reading circle at her home Monday for a regular meeting.

Mrs. Raymond Allen, who has been quite ill at her home on Broad street, is gradually recovering.

Many in this town may have forgotten that Goodyear has a fire department, but the fact is recalled by the announcement that the Williamsville Fire Engine company recently held its 90th annual ball. Goodyear formerly was Williamsville.

Several minor accidents in which motor vehicles figured marked the week end in this territory, but there was no casualty list. The damage is largely represented in well distributed garage charges.

A full moon tonight (Tuesday). After that those who watch the water supply gradually diminishing are sure some rain will come. But it is said, all signs fail in a dry time.

Buyers came here from many surrounding towns Monday to attend an auction sale of cows conducted for John Flood at his piwace of business on Furnace street by Witter Brothers.

PUTNAM

There were two marriages at St. Mary's church Monday morning. At seven o'clock Miss Rose Alma Dumas of this city became thebride of Joseph Baptiste Trembley of Providence, Rev. Arthur Routhier performed the ceremony, also singing the nuptial high mass. Miss Dumas is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Dumas of Woodstock avenue. For several years she has been a clerk in the store of S. Kaminsky. She has a wide circle of friends who will miss her as Mr. and Mrs. Trembley plan to make their home in Providence.

At 8 o'clock Miss Lottie Riendeau was united in marriage with Levi Dugan of Jewett City, Rev. Adrian Dykeman officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Almedase Riendeau of Providence street. The bride wore a gown of brick colored chiffon with brown traveling coat trimmed with fur. She received many beautiful gifts of silverware, linen and other articles. At two o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Dugan left for New London where they took the boat for New York, expecting to spend a week. They will make their home in Jewett City.

Miss Estelle McGee, who has been a teacher of history and mathematics in the Putnam High school, tendered her resignation Saturday. Mrs. W. R. Barber is taking these classes until a new teacher is secured Miss McGee's home is in Boston, but she taught in the south and in western cities. Her health has been somewhat impaired during the fall.

Mrs. Mary E. Copeland of Grand View, 88, cast her second vote for president at the election of November 4. She was made a voter four years ago and her first ballot was for Warren G. Harding and this time it was for Calvin Coolidge. Mrs. Copeland rode to the municipal building in an automobile but she ascended the steps without assistance and needed no aid in marking her ballot.

Edward H. Burt, who was taken ill while in Worcester last week, when it was feared for a while that an operation would be necessary, is rapidly recovering. He is at his home on Grove street.

Mrs. A. Tait Hope was the guest of friends in Putnam over Sunday. Mr. Hope was superintendent for several years of the Dayville mills. He is now the head of another mill owned by the same company at Potter Hill, R. I.

An automobile, evidently a truck, crashed into the front of the Kent wood working factory Sunday, demolishing the doors and breaking the glass in the windows in that side of the building. No one saw the occurrence and the driver on the car, which evidently was not damaged, got away as quickly as possible. The matter was reported to the police.

Stanley Novark, of Danielson, created a disturbance in a store on Front street Saturday afternoon and was ejected by the proprietor. He had evidently been drinking prohibition liquor and after a little while he came back to find out why he had been put out. The police were called and he was taken to the city prison to sleep it off. In court Monday morning he paid a fine of $20 and costs, listened to a lecture on the sins of intemperance, promised to be good in the future and departed for his home.

John Sylvester of Putnam, charged in the city court Monday with recklessly driving an automobile, pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $25 and costs of $13.97. On the Providence road, just this side of Chepachet, a week ago, he passed a large truck and ran into a Ford touring car in which there were four passengers. None of them was hurt but the car was almost wrecked, one wheel being torn off, an axle bent, and the top badly damaged. The complain was made by the state police.

H. A. Brown, familiarly known as "Pa" Brown, was taken ill Saturday and is believed to be in a serious condition. He is 77, but up to Saturday had been in the best of health. For several years he has served as official messenger when the superior court is in session in this city. He is at the home of Mrs. Jane A. Leonard on South Main street, where he has lived for a long time.

A Ford car driven by Jesse Lyons and in which a 19-year-old son of Eli Vangel was a passenger was run into, on School street, Sunday, by a car from Moosup. They came together at the intersection of two streets. The Ford was considerably damaged but the occupants of both cars was unharmed.

Israel Putnam school, which was closed last Tuesday for the remainder of the week, reopened Monday morning. There are no new fever cases among the students at this school and those who were ill are getting better. The attendance, however, is much below normal and will result in all of the pupils being behind in their studies. The state board of health will be asked to send a member of their staff here to look over the situation and advise the school authorities what is best to do.

Arthur S. Macdonald has been elected secretary of Putnam Chamber of Commerce, to succeed A. S. Ralston, resigned. Mr. Ralston has been associate editor of the Patriot, also the very efficient executive officer of the association. He is leaving this week to become editor and manager of The Sentinel at Franklin, Mass. Mr. Macdonald will also take Mr. Ralston's place on The Patriot, of which he was formerly owner and editor.

AMATEUR SKIPPER BLAMED FOR BLOSSOM'S FAILURE

The incompetence of Capt. George Finlay Simmons, youthful master of the ill-fated schooner Blossom, which sailed from New London last October and is now returning, is the cause of the failure of the proposed two-year scientific voyage, according to a communication from F. Herbert Fowler, of Hartford, who with others left the ship at Dakar, Africa, several months ago.

Young Fowler, who had just gotten out of college when he signed on the ship, is now in Paris, determined to see Europe before he returns home. But letters received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Fowler of 286 Windsor avenue, Hartford, give an inkling as to where lay the blame for the lack of harmony and the high feeling between master and men that caused the crew to desert the captain in the small African port less than a year after they cleared New London.

Every day Fowler wrote in his diary the happenings and the complete story of the turmoil on shipboard is contained in the small volume which he carries with him. He is now employed by Alfred Fanti, Inc., and when he is satisfied he has "done" Europe he will take a ship home.

Fowler had just graduated from Clark university when he heard of the expedition. He applied at once for a place and was requested by George Finlay Simmons, the youthful captain, whose sea-going experience is said to have been confined to piloting ships sailing the Gulf of Mexico, to write him a letter and make it as long as he desired. Fowler acted accordingly and mailed a 31-page letter setting forth all the reasons why he desired to make the voyage. He was accepted.

The first misfortune to overtake the expedition was a fever which incapacitated members of the crew and the captain. Conditions did not improve, difficulties multiplied, and so when the ship reached Dakar, eight of the crew left. With the help of the American consul they were able to break their seaman's contracts and return home, according to their own choosing.

Some of the experiences related in Fowler's letters tell of bad food and lack of variety on the trans-Atlantic voyage; salted meat was the daily fare most of the time. The water was bad because the kegs had not been thoroughly cleaned. Storms for 16 days, sleeping in wet clothes and constant watch on deck were a few of the other discomforts that the crew were obliged to undergo. Then, to can the climax, the captain and the sailing master began to quarrel. To quote from Mr. Fowler's letter: "Captain Simmons has continually, since New London, blamed everything that has been wrong on to Captain Gray, the sailing master. We have proved to our own satisfaction that nine-tenths of the faults in the way things have been going and that were blamed to Captain Gray, such as loading of the ship, the water, the delays in port, the lack of harmony, etc., were actually, purely and simply traceable to Captain Simmons' own incompetence."

World Wide Guild Meeting

The first meeting this year of the World Wide Guild of the Central Baptist church was held at the home of Miss Lenora Chapman, last week. The meeting was opened by the singing of several of the W. W. G. songs, after which reports from the girls who attended the conference at Wangeem were heard and the coming year's work was discussed. At this point the business meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next World Wide Guild will be held at the Central Baptist church November 21, at 7.30. All girls of Academy ages will be welcome to attend.

THIS WEEK'S CAUCUSES.

When the republicans assemble in town caucuses Friday it will be for the purpose of selecting delegates to a state convention, the object of which gathering is to name a candidate for the office of United States senator, due to the vacancy caused by the death of Frank B. Brandegee, and who will serve for the remainder of the unexpired term.

Because the duties of this convention involve only the making of one nomination does not mean that it should fail to get proper attention. It is to be realized that it concerns an office of great importance, one which means much both to Connecticut and to the nation.

For years Connecticut has had the benefit of the able representation of Senator Brandegee. In just so far as it is possible Connecticut must name another who will assume those duties with due regard for the responsibility involved and who can be relied upon to render faithful and conscientious service. It is not a selection that can be treated lightly.

While the election of a successor rests with the voters, the choice of candidates likewise rests to a large degree with the voters. It depends to a great extent upon the delegates named as to what a convention may do. The coming town caucuses therefore mean much in connection with the successor to Senator Brandegee for his unexpired term.

What the convention will do remains to be seen. Thus far the two republican congressmen who have announced themselves as candidates for the office are men of high ability and with years of experience in Washington. They have been loyal to state, nation and administration as representatives. When it comes to picking the nominee it is to be remembered that what the convention decides will in all probability get the endorsement of the voters of the state in December.

TACKLING FARM PROBLEMS.

Some weeks ago, when the question surrounding the agricultural situation was more acute than it is today, it was declared that the conditions required a thorough investigation in order that the facts might be ascertained and whatever remedy is required might be applied just where it is needed. Likewise if it is a situation where the farmer can do much to help himself that also can be fully set forth.

The president announced his policy in this respect, but to avoid the possibility of having it interpreted as a campaign effort, adopted for political purposes, the members of that commission were not named until after election. Having declared his purpose it was the president's intention to carry it out regardless of the outcome on election day, and he has.

The commission is made up of men who stand high in the estimation of those who are directly concerned. They are men who understand farm conditions. They understand the economic situation which the farmer has to face and they know his marketing problems. They are admirably equipped to wrestle with the complicated situation and as the result of their digging into the various phases of the problem to furnish some wholesome advice and to clearly set forth what is wrong and what is needed to make the correction, without of course working an injustice upon others.

No one questioned for a moment but what President Coolidge would carry out his promise. Yet the fact that he has done so and done it immediately after the election is over shows the country what importance he attaches to promises. That, however, is no revelation concerning Calvin Coolidge. Repeated are the instances where he has endeavored to carry out promises only to encounter the opposition of congress which, through bloc control, was successful.

The situation in the agricultural fields should be settled right when settled. It deserves more than hit or miss treatment, and the course that has been adopted is calculated to secure the fairest results.

COLONIZING IN MEXICO.

Perhaps there is no question over which a certain number in this country became inflamed at the least provocation than that regarding the menace of Japan. It is certainly easy to keep that situation thoroughly alive. All that seems to be necessary is to mention it periodically.

A few years ago there was much alarm over the indicated probability that Japan was planning to colonize the western coast of Mexico. It was a revival of the yellow peril agitation and in time quieted down. We have since then adopted an exclusion act in our immigration law which does away with the gentlemen's agreement between this country and Japan and excludes the Japanese. The manner in which it was done hurt about as much as what was prohibited, and recently there has been revived the stories that the Japanese are planning to colonize in Mexico. Knowing how it is possible to get across the borders in violation of the laws the effect of such a colonization scheme upon the western part of the country can be appreciated.

That Mexico might be expected to have something to say about such colonization is natural. It has been seeking immigrants to aid in meeting its problems but it has not sought the Japanese. In fact the governor of Lower California's northern district has been quoted as declaring that Mexico is unalterably opposed to such a scheme or to the entrance of Orientals. That is in keeping with the Pacific coast sentiment of this country, a position that seems not illogical, and would indicate that the neighbor to the south is prepared to travel hand in hand with this country relative to the colonization of those from across the Pacific.

Mexico cannot be disposed to encourage the Japanese in any plan that would have for its purpose the upsetting of United States legislation. Even if the friendship of neighbors is none too strong it must be regarded as wise enough to avoid any such complications.

ARMISTICE DAY.

Armistice day, on its sixth anniversary, finds Norwich enthused and gaily decorated for the dedication of the permanent honor roll for those who participated in the World war. It is a day when business and industrial activity is being suspended for the purpose of doing justice to the demonstration and exercises that have been arranged.

When it is anticipated that the parade will be the largest that has been witnessed here for years and gives promise of breaking records, it discloses the spirit that is back of the celebration this year and the hearty cooperation which is being given to insure success.

Armistice day marked the close of the war. It is an anniversary that will never be forgotten by those who experienced the joy and witnessed the demonstration November 11, 1918. Having brought to an end the greatest struggle the world ever experienced, what other event could produce greater rejoicing! It meant victory on the side of right and it meant peace.

And as the years roll by it is impossible to overlook or to forget the valiant services that were rendered by those who fought, those who gave their lives in the great struggle, those who died from sickness, those who were crippled and those who were ready to fight had their services been required.

As the permanent honor roll is dedicated today Norwich joins hands in a partial expression of its gratitude, and its eagerness to discharge a debt to its patriotic sons which it knows can never be paid. To the Boys in Blue are now added the Boys in Khaki.

HENRY CABOT LODGE.

An outstanding national figure has passed in the death of Henry Cabot Lodge. His long service in congress and the leadership which he displayed, especially during the past ten years in the senate, have brought his name and activities to the attention of the entire country, and up to the last one his presence and influence in republican national conventions has been equally conspicuous. Outstanding, however, was the fight he conducted against the ratification of the Versailles treaty.

Senator Lodge was a man of high literary attainment and while Massachusetts was aware of the kind of representative it was sending to the lower house it was not long before he was demonstrating it at Washington and being called upon to serve on many prominent committees. It was not, however, until nearing the end of his service that he reached that much coveted post of chairman of the foreign relations committee. His has brought great distinction to his state and to his country for the service he has rendered. His leadership has not always had endorsement at home, but when the time came to reelect him or to name a successor there was never any faltering on the part of his constituents. They knew his worth in the national legislature.

He was a leader of the old school of politicians. His views carried conviction and he knew his job. Coming so close after the removal by death of Senator Brandegee it means the loss of two strong New England minds from the upper house of congress and with them goes much prestige.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

What do you do to your hat when the flag goes by?

Armistice day. Don't fail to let your flag be seen.

A resumption of industrial activity is indicated. The election result had the expected effect.

Now that election is over Muscle Shoals, which has been having a rest, can bound back into prominence.

November is doing its best to make up for that loss of heat that resulted from the closing of the political campaign.

What has become of all those spectacular bet payments that used to be made as the result of a presidential election?

The man on the corner says: Cold weather is one of the effective dampers to automobile congestion on the highways.

The manufacture of ice cream and candy during last year, totaling $1,000 a minute, shows what a big sweet tooth this nation has.

Is the weatherman going to give us a mild winter just because some of the prophets have been telling how hard it is going to be, or just to relieve the coal bill?

Perhaps some will be surprised at administration talk about continued reduction of taxes but that is only what the majority expected. That is one thing that made Calvin Coolidge the issue.

Senator-elect Beckwith of the Shoestring district, expresses his appreciation to the voters for support given him. The voters, it would seem, were fully appreciative of the chance to get such a representative in the upper house of the general assembly.

CONTRARY TO NATURE

"That Portulaca Bounce is an awfully fine girl and I can't see why you don't take her out some evening!" reproved the mother who likes to arrange things. "She is very remarkable because she doesn't chatter like most girls whom you complain about Oswald! Portulaca never talks unless she has something to say, and I should think the young men would fight for her company."

"Keep still, Oswald!" ordered the clever uncle, who was listening in from the sun porch. "I can think of a lot more things than you can to say to your mother, and it doesn't matter what happens to me anyway so I am completely unrestrained in expressing my sentiments. I am very much surprised at you, Hortense! Here you are trying to take away Oswald's sense of superiority and everything! What fellow wants a girl to be a model of common sense?

"Three-fourths of a courtship consists in a man's endeavoring to beat some sense into the girl's head. Of course he enjoys the occupation and calls her a dear little goose and thinks she's the cutest little peach out of captivity and what would she do if it weren't for a big, strong wise creature like himself to save her from her own foolishness?

"A man likes to hear a girl gurgle words over nothing. Her flow of words forms a musical background against which the evening stands out brightly. After he is married he learns to say 'for heck's sake, let me read my paper in peace, woman,' but previously it sort of amuses him. It is wonderful how quickly a strong man can train himself not to hear one single word that falls from the lips of his wife if he doesn't care to listen.

"If a woman never talks unless she has something to say their dinner parties are going to be awful frosts, and when the relatives drop in on duty calls the husband is going to be absolutely worn out by the time they have gone. And every time she opens her lips he jumps six feet, nervously wondering what can have happened now instead of having that comfortable feeling that it is only Juliet talking as usual and it doesn't mean anything at all.

"A woman who knows how to keep quiet can never be sparkling and vivacious, and a man would rather she be that than to grab off all the first prizes for stocking darning and breadmaking. When he takes a girl out he has a sneaking delight in knowing that she is attracting every one's attention by her looks and her pep. He can't abide feeling that folks are wondering where he plucked that dumbDora who looks like a marble statue and is about as lively.

"A young woman who spends nine tenths of her time in meditation sort of stops the wheels of progress and makes a man restless. He begins looking around the room, which is just the same as advertising in three-foot type that he is bored solid. When a man is deeply interested in the girl his vision won't take in anything farther away from her than about one inch, and he wouldn't see even a horde of bill collectors descending upon him, a blue alligator or a busy tornado.

"The way Portulaca is, is no doubt the way all of us should be—but the most tiresome person on earth is one who is as he ought to be, if you get my meaning.

"This explains the mystery which occupies the attention of the whole world spasmodically—it supplies the reason why this man ever picked out that woman to marry and what that woman ever on earth could have seen in this man. They were escaping from some paragons, that's all, and grabbed the first life-preserver handy."

"Thanks awfully, dear uncle!" said Oswald, unwinding his six-feet-two and grining largely. "I couldn't have done better myself if I had not been rudely interrupted. And now I think I must go call up that cute little Peony McFish before nineteen other fellows get a date ahead of me!"

"I hope she marries you!" said his subdued mother with dark emphasis. "It would just serve you right!"—Exchange.

Barnes' Idea Costly to His Employer

While struggling along as a clerk, Julius H. Barnes conceived an idea to make his firm's business expand, won his arguments with his employer—then saw the plan cause the loss of a vast amount to the organization.

Soon after his birth in Little Rock, Ark., he was taken to Duluth, Minn., and was educated at the public schools there and in Washington, D. C. In all of his early life he had to earn his way, and his hardships were many.

While attending school, he carried newspapers and did extra tasks. Leaving school at 13, he obtained a position as office boy with the Ames-Brooks Grain Company at a salary of $20 a month. The death of his father made it necessary for him to earn extra money. He ran a folding machine for a newspaper several hours before breakfast each morning receiving $1.75 a week, and the night job of usher at the theater brought 25 cents a performance.

Although so busy at 20 that he had only a few hours sleep each night, he formed the idea that the Ames-Brooks company should enter the export grain business. After many arguments his suggestion was accepted. At the end of the first year it was shown that the plan had caused a great loss to the concern.

Fleeing his employer, Barnes persuaded Ames to try the project again. At the end of the next year, figures showed that all previous losses had been recouped and that success was ahead.

Married at 23, he was taken into the firm and his rise was rapid. He was made president of the Barnes-Ames Corporation, which became the largest exporters of wheat in the United States.

When the European war started in 1914 he, at 41, faced what loomed as complete failure without any escape. Conditions cleared, but when the United States entered the war he suspended his business. Made president of the United States Food Administration Grain Corporation he had charge of the government's grain operations for three yeas.

Barnes also was interest in shipbuilding and other concerns. He has been decorated by foreign countries and was made president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Tomorrow—Bacon's Success Came Late.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Knud Rasmussen, who has undertaken to write a complete history of the Eskimo race, is far better equipped for this task than many other Arctic explorers, because of the breadth of his interest in social and economic phases of the life of the inhabitants of the far north, as well as in the mere facts of physical nature which his explorations have brought to light. Rasmussen began his career as secretary of an association of Danish business men and natural scientists with Arctic exploration as their avocation and fad. They paid the bills and Rasmussen and his adventuresome compatriots ran the risks. Rasmussesn won international reputation as a polemicist by his able, bold, and prompt attack on the legitimacy of Dr. Cook's claims to discovery of the North Pole. A year ago he was awarded the Founders Medal of the Royal Geographical Society of Great Britain for his explorations and research in the Arctic, extending over a period of twenty-five years.

CHILD TRAINING

By Mary Collins Terry

As the Thanksgiving season approaches, it behooves us to think about children. Shall we let them look forward to that day as one in which physical and social indulgence alone will be the outstanding feature—a big dinner, lots of fun, and company, or shall we make an effort to instill in them gratitude, a real thankfulness for the things which come to them day by day? A child is not a grateful little animal by nature, and the mother must by untiring guidance and care form the virtue in him if she would have him be a useful and happy member of society.

"Muvver, where milk tum from?" asks three year old Danny, stopping in the midst of his cooling drink on a warm August day. "Why, Mrs. Moore's black and white cow gave you the milk, dear. You remember we watched her going down the road last night. Tom brought the milk over and put it on our porch."

"What do you say to him for bringing your milk?"

"Tank you," said Danny triumphantly.

"And what shall we saw to the good old cow?"

"Tank you." He waved happily in the direction of the Moore's barn and lane where he had spent many blissful evenings watching Tom drive in the cows.

Little by little our children can be led in this simple way to see the chain of workers behind the food they eat, the clothes they wear, and in fact any and all of their material blessings.

It is only one step more to the loving Father who gives the rain and sun, who causes all growth, to whom our gratitude must go out for His care.

Let Thanksgiving day, then, be a day our children remember in thought all those who have helped in gathering together the fine dinner for the day and further still express this gratitude. No virtue is worthy if not outwardly expressed.

Perhaps there is a needly family who will not have so much for Thanksgiving day, and the children can help pack a basket and deliver it to them. The mother can sum up her little lessons and say, "So many people have helped us to have Thanksgiving dinner, now we must someone else to have one." Thus she will turn the little one's spoken gratitude into service.

"Tom has brought our milk every day let us save this big red apple to give him to show how thankful we are."

Thanksgiving is a fitting preparation for the beautiful festival day which follows so soon, Christmas. It is when a child truly feels and expresses gratitude that he in turn is ready to give and do for others. Loving and giving—will make sunshine in our world. God so loved—That He gave."

Stories That Recall Others

Even Youngsters Knew.

The mother took her six year old boy to the movie and when they were seated a man appeared on the screen picture and took a letter from his pocket read it and scowled.

"I guess it's his income tax, mother," the youngster said.

Extravagance.

A man went to his lawyer, seeking a divorce because of his wife's extravagance. He said she asked for $3 one day, $1 the next and 50 cents the next. Then she would repeat the request for money, first asking for $2, then $1, and the 50 cents.

"Well," said the lawyer, "this is extravagance. But I suppose you have investigated. How is she spending this money?"

"Oh, she ain't spent any of it, yet," he replied, "'cause I ain't give her none."

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

The Surprise Discovered

"Wonder what Little Miss Mousie is up to?" thought the old gentleman bunny, as he walked towards the cellar door, his arms filled with cabbages and turnips. "Guess I'll store away these vegetables and then take a peek into the kitchen." So down the stone steps to the cellar he hopped, very carefully, for the rheumatism in his little left hind pinky toe had been bothering him of late, and placing the cabbages and turnips on a bed of leaves in a dry corner, he hopped softly up the steps and over to the window just above the slanting doors that covered the stone steps.

Dear me, the sight that met his eyes made a tear roll down his cheek. Maybe two tears for first he rubbed one eye with his left paw and then with the back of his right. On the table stood a great big frosted cake, into which his tiny housekeeper was sticking pretty candles.

"Fifty-two!" sighed Little Miss Mousie, as the last one stood up straight in the center of the beautiful cake. "Wonder if I've made a mistake," and she began to count all over again: "One, two, three."

"One, two, three," began dear Uncle Lucky, under his breath, doing his best to keep his hind feet from slipping down the sloping cellar door, "Fortyeight, fortynine, fifty, fiftyone, fiftytwo, and then with a shout, "fiftythree. You've made a miscount. You have one too many."

Poor Little Miss Mousie! The surprise she had planned for the old gentleman rabbit had been found out, and, with a little cry of disappointment, she scampered into the sitting room.

"Now what have I done," exclaimed the distracted old gentleman rabbit, sliding down to the ground. "And now what shall I do?" scratching his left hind ear with his right foot. "I've gone and spoilt the birthday surprise she planned for me. That's what I've done," and he slowly hopped to the garage where the Old Red Rooster was cleaning the Luckymobile.

"What do ladies like most now-a-days?" he asked, much to the surprise of that industrious old fowl, who, instead of answering, merely stood with his mouth wide open.

"Everything going wrong," sighed poor Uncle Lucky, and hopping into the Luckymobile, he drove away without another word.

"Cock-a-doodle-do,
My master seems quite blue.
I hope he knows where he is at
And will notlose his stovepipe hat."

Crowed the perplexed Old Red Rooster, as he watched the dear old gentleman rabbit turn down Lettuce Ave— and on to Carrot street.

"Whatever is the matter?" twittered Mrs. Sparrow, peeking in through the sitting room window at Little Miss Mousie curled up in dear Uncle Lucky's old arm chair, her feet drawn up under her skirt and her bobbed head pressed into the soft cushion which she always tucked in behind the old gentleman rabbit when he read the Bunnybridge Bugle. And in the next story I'll tell you what happened after that.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

HALIBUT

An "armistice" agreement with Canada—an armistice which establishes a closed season for halibut of North Pacific waters—has just been signed by the United States.

John Oliver LaGorce, in a communication to the National Geographic Society, writes:

"The halibut is the largest fish of the flounder family and one of the most widespread in its range. It claims almost as for its habitat, in regions north of Havre, New York and San Francisco.

"A strange fact concerning this and other cold-water species is that they have eyes and color on the right side, while species inhabiting warm water have eyes and color on the left side.

"The halibut usually frequents offshore banks and exists in great numbers in many localities but is sought after with such eagerness that it is gradually decreasing in numbers. It grows to a large size and fish weighing 200 or 300 pounds are often taken. A record weight was established when in June, 1917, the Eva Avina, fishing 50 miles off Thatcher Island, Massachusetts, caught a halibut 9 feet, 2 inches long and 4 feet 3 inches broad, weighing 625 pounds dressed.

"The seaward movement of the halibut has been noted by American fishermen. When the taking of halibut first began, it was most abundant on Georges Banks. Later it gradually disappeared from those banks and went farther out to sea. It is now found mostly in the deep gullies between the offshore banks and on the outer edges of those banks, in water 100 to 350 fathoms deep.

"A voracious eater, the halibut feeds upon the skate, cod, haddock, menhaden, mackerel, herring, lobcusk, etc. Crabs and Mollusks also to its liking. Instances recorded where it has attacked Codfish and stunned them by the flip of its tail. One was so busy putting a big cod hors de combat that it allowed a dory to steal up and capture it before it had become aware of its peril.

"The female halibut becomes heavy with roe in July and August, and instances have occurred where such a large quantity was taken from one of them that a good-sized man could scarcely carry it."

Autoists Carry Goat

Goat milk en route was enjoyed by a Colorado motor party recently. The camping party fixed a stall for a milk goat on the running board of their medium sized auto and consequently had a supply of the milk on their transcontinental trip. The goat would eat leisurely even while the car was in motion.

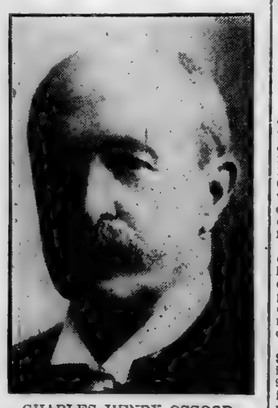
OBITUARY.

Charles H. Osgood.

The death of Charles Henry Osgood, well known business man of Norwich, occurred Monday morning at his residence, 151 Washington street. Mr. Osgood had not been in the best of health for a number of years and for the past several weeks had been confined to his home.

Mr. Osgood was born in Norwich, Oct. 16, 1842, the son of the late Dr. Charles and Sarah Larned Osgood.



CHARLES HENRY OSGOOD

He was twice married, his first wife being Annie Alvord, and his present wife, Jessie E. Harvey.

Mr. Osgood always took an active part in the business affairs of this community, being president of the Charles Osgood Co., president of the New London and Northern Railroad Co., a director of the Thames National bank, a director of the Norwich Savings Society, and a member of the board of corporators of the William W. Backus hospital.

During the early days of yachting Mr. Osgood was an enthusiastic devotee of this sport, being a licensed pilot in which he took a great delight. He was a life member of the Larchmont Yacht club, a former vice commodore of the American Yacht club, and was one of the foremost yachtsmen in the country.

Politically Mr. Osgood never took an active part but his advice was often sought. He was a member of Park Congregational church, where he was a familiar figure at all services. In his death Norwich loses a most valuable citizen and one who had at all times the interest of his community at heart.

Mr. Osgood is survived by his wife, one son, Dr. Charles Osgood of New York, one grandson, Charles Henry Osgood, and one sister, Mrs. Augustus Cleveland Tyler of New London.

WATER FROM TADMA POND IS TO AUGMENT NORWICH SUPPLY

President John J. Corkery of the board of water commissioners has taken the first step to add something to the available Norwich water supply by securing the water from Tadma pond which will be used as needed and as soon as the permanent pumping station can be erected along Salem turnpike near the chlorinating plant on the 24 inch pipe line from Stony Brook reservoir.

The water from this pond, which amounts to 20 million gallons has been bought from Forrest Leffingwell for $100, which is at the rate of $5 per million gallons and this will be allowed to flow as needed, coming down into Trading Cove brook from which it will be pumped into the 24 inch main on the other side of the chlorinating plant. A small dam will have to be built in the Trading Cove brook to make a basin from which the suction pump will draw the water.

In the previous water shortage of 1910 the water from Tadma pond was secured to help out the city supply.

At the present time Trading Cove brook has a flow of from 500,000 to 600,000 gallons every 24 hours and this will be a material addition to the city supply as soon as it can be made available through the pumping station.

Civil Engineer S. B. Palmer is now in New York to secure a pump of 2 million gallon capacity per 24 hours. This will be electrically operated and arrangements will be made at once with the city gas and electric department to have the necessary poles set and wires strung.

There is now about 214 million gallons of water left in Fairview reservoir from which the city is using water at the rate of 4 million gallons per day. The daily rate is about a quarter of a million gallons less than before it became know that the water was short, and it is believed that the warnings issued by the water department and preventive measures taken to prevent waste have already resulted in this daily saving.

Will Make City Inspection

To provide against any waste President Corkery is to have twelve inspectors start out Wednesday morning to make a house to house inspection. Wherever leaks are found, they will give notice that immediate repairs will be made, and they will make a second call in three days to see if the orders have been complied with.

The inspectors will be provided with the following certificate of authority, which they will show upon demand:

The condition of our reservoirs at this time is such that we are obliged to take drastic measures.

We have appointed inspectors to examine all fixtures connected with our water system in every section of the City.

We trust that all consumers will cooperate with us in our efforts to conserve our present supply and will render every possible help to the Inspectors when they call upon them.

Mr. _____ has been apointed to inspect this section and report the condition of the fixtures on your property.

We trust that we will not be obliged to deprive any one of the use of city water but it is also necessary that all waste be stopped at once.

Yours Truly
Board of Water Commissioners
J. J. CORKERY
President

The following are the twelve inspectors: Joseph Peloquin, Richard McCarthy, Alfred Henault, W. J. McKnight, Frank Hartle, Edward Edwards John Sweeney, Timothy Donovan, Felix Keenan, W. A. Buckingham, Arthur R. Blackledge and Joseph Kirschner.

They will report every afternoon at 5 o'clock on their day's work.

YALE BEGINS GRIND TO BEAT PRINCETON

New Haven, Nov. 10—Beginning its week's grind in preparations for the game with Princeton next Saturday, the Yale varsity football squad had a long dummy scrimmage and signal drill this afternoon. The backs gave much attention to running back punts and the whole team in getting down under kicks. The first and second teams will have heavy scrimmage tomorrow and probably Wednesday with lighter work Thursday. The squad will leave Friday for New Jersey.

Three varsity men watched the practice from the side lines today. Bingham been out with an injured knee, was at ham the regular left end, who has the field for the first time in a week. While he was not able to take part in the practice, it is expected that he will be in good shape for the Princeton game. Lindley, who has a muscle bruise as a result of Saturday's game with Maryland, also was out of the lineup today. Noble, whose shoulder was injured in the Maryland game, was able to appear on the field but it is doubtful whether he will be able to take part in the remaining games.

C. D. McCoy, of Roswell, N. M., was moved up to the varsity squad today. He has been playing in the back field on the scrubs. He is a junior and was prepared at Hotchkiss. Burt Benton, who was moved up last week and played in his first game against Maryland, is a sophomore. He comes from South Norwalk and was prepared at Roxbury school.

ILLINOIS HOLDS LEAD IN WESTERN FOOTBALL

Chicago, Nov. 9—(By the A. P.)—When Illinois came from behind to tie Chicago Saturday the Maroons lost their last good chance to win the championship of the western conference. A defeat for Illinois from either Ohio or Minnesota coupled with victories by Chicago in its two remaining conference games would give Chicago a clear title as the only undefeated conference team; but with that chance remote, there remains for Stagg's pupils only the hope that either Minnesota or Ohio will tie Grange and company and thus leave the title divided equally between Illinois and Chicago.

The Saturday tie, coupled with Michigan's win from northwestern and Indiana's upset of Ohio, changed the conference standing considerably. Illinois remains first with Chicago second. Michigan moved up to third place and Ohio dropped from that position to fifth.

Standing of the teams in conference games, with points scores and opponents' points for all contests, follow:

	Won	Lost	Tied	Points	Opponents' Points
Illinois	3	0	1	190	51
Chicago	3	0	2	85	40
Michigan	3	1	0	137	39
Iowa	1	1	1	76	41
Purdue	1	1	0	11	33
Indiana	1	2	0	119	67
Northwestern	1	2	0	103	50
Wisconsin	0	1	1	59	73
Minnesota	0	2	1	48	40
Ohio	1	1	2	34	33

HINRICHS RUNS THROUGH PLAINFIELD TEAM FOR TWO PRETTY TOUCHDOWNS

The Academy football team with only a day's rest after its contest with Bulkeley High school, defeated Plainfield, 14-6.

The game started with the Academy putting its second team on the field. As Plainfield traveled to Norwich for business, the second string players did not last long. However, the Plainfield aggregation scored a touchdown before the first team was completely in the game. In the remaining time of the first quarter the ball went back and forth with both teams nonable to score. It was the same in the second quarter, neither team was able to go over for a tally.

The third and fourth quarters brought out some snappy, flashy, ball playing with the Academy team showing greater advantage over their rivals. The Academy completed two long forward passes, the result of these were two touchdowns and victory.

Plainfield it must be said has a hard working machine which fought for every inch of ground. Allard and Gallup were the main lights for the visitors and went through for large gains.

The Academy eleven also fought hard and displayed a better quality than that of their rivals. For the Academy Hollander, Carlin and Sukowski shone. Sukowski got through several times, stopping plays before they started. Hollander made a brilliant catch that netted 43 yards, the largest gain of the game. In the backfield it was MacGown Hinrichs and Williams throughout. There was some fine playing done by this backfield combination.

NEW LONDON TEAM WINS ITS FIRST SOCCER MATCH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Manchester, Nov. 10.—For the first time in five starts as a member of the Connecticut Soccer league, the New London Rangers have come out a winner. After four distasteful defeats, which would be enough to dishearten any team, the Whalers at last exhibited winning play which will keep the other teams in the league guessing from now on. The Rangers won from the Olympics of this city by a count of four goals to one for the locals.

It was a determined Whalers' eleven that the locals faced and although the first goal was secured by the Olympics when Campbell shot a goal squarely through the uprights, the visitors, fighting an uphill battle, easily overcame that one goal lead and shot three more for good measure. Shortly after the goal scored by the locals, the Rangers' forward line began to get in some fine work. A series of short but accurate passes resulted in a goal that tied the score. With not less than ten minutes left for the period, another offensive for the Rangers got under way and beyond control of the locals and the goal which would have been the winning one was added.

The score was two goals and one for the visitors and they began an earnest drive where they left off in the previous half. Two more goals were made in a hurry and the game, the first for the Rangers in league competition, was realized after four previous unsuccessful attempts to break into the win column. If the Rangers can keep up this brand of play, the other teams in the league will have to fear it.

CROSS COUNTRY RUN AT STONINGTON HIGH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Nov. 10.—Cross country runners will come into their own Tuesday afternoon when the interscholastic cross country run will take place at Stonington. With teams entered from each of the following high schools, which are members of the league: Chapman Technical High, Westerly, Norwich Free Academy and Stonington High, the run is expected to furnish thrills aplenty. The course, which is admittedly a hard one and which will extend three miles over hill and dale, will find seven runners picked from the four schools named above traversing the distance.

The cross country runners at Chapman Tech have been hard at work all last month and this month in preparation for the event, until now there are seven men who are expected to furnish keen competition to the other 21 runners entered in the meet. Howard Vibber, who won the Y. M. C. A. three mile run early last year, is the best bet of the Red and Black. Unless some new star is developed between that time and now, he is figured to finish first if not among the first three.

Besides Vibber, the Tech team will consist of the following, the selection to be made tomorrow: Johnson, King, Streeter, Wiley, Hewitt, Latham, Abel, Carlson, Nash and Smith. There are others who have tried out for the team but will not be selected to run in the meet at Stonington on Thursday.

NURMI MAY NOT MEET RITOLA THIS WINTER

New York, Nov. 10—(By the A. P.)—Prospects that the Olympic rivalry between Paavo Nurmi and Willie Ritola, famous Finnish runners, would be renewed here during the indoor season received a jolt today when it was learned that Nurmi, during his forthcoming invasion, intends to limit his performances to half mile and mile races instead of going the longer distances favored by Ritola.

Ritola is at his best at distances of 5,000 metres or three miles up. Nurmi has shown his ability to break records at distances of one to seven miles but over half mile and mile routes he find American talent as his only opposition would eliminate Ritola as a rival and position.

Whether the feeling which in Paris last summer was said to have existed between Nurmi and Ritola has had anything to do with the former's decision was not revealed in word received here. It was no secret, however, that the two Finnish stars were "out for blood" every time they met during the Olympics.

Nurmi is as well as a great per-letic student as well as a great per-

Nurmi, however, who is a keen athon shorter races chiefly in order to former is believed to have decided upon no risks of "burning" himself out before giving indoor racing his first real test.

Nurmi will have plenty of opposition at these distances. Kirby, Ray, Buker and Hann, among the mile stars, probably will prepare for indoor campagins again while at a half mile. Watson Enck, Helfrich and Larry Brown will be available in addition to Kirby, the Cornell star, who showed his versatility by capturing the national outdoor halfmile crown.

Buenos Aires, Nov. 10.—By winning his sixth successive race yesterday and breaking the Argentine record for 3,000 metres in three minutes, seven and three-fifth seconds, the three-year-old, Lombardo, was hailed today by Buenos Aires racing critics as one of the world's fastest horses.

Thus far Lombardo has won 185,000 pesos for his owner, Pedro Gandulfo de la Serna. The champion three-year-old was sired here by the British racehorse, St. Wolf. He began his career this year and won easily every race he entered. Devota and Nectar, two other sons of St. Wolf, also won races yesterday.

Seven talented musicians comprise the Ladies' Rainbow Saxaphone band and orchestra which will give a concert and dance on Sat. Nov. 15 at the State armory, Danielson. This group is versatile in the extreme.

Mrs. Sue Hewlins heads the Ladies' Rainbow orchestra and has surrounded herself with a group of musicians. Hewlins can play a saxaphone, a trumpet, a slide cornet and drums and each member of her company is almost as accomplished. In addition she is a whistler of no mean reputation, having made records for the Victor phonograph.

The name of the company is taken from the Rainbow Division of the army, for which this group of musicians did extensive entertainment service during the war. The costuming of the group carries out the rainbow idea and electrical effects are given which enhance this coloring.

The concert program includes classical and popular selections and is so arranged as to satisfy and delight every one. Following are examples of the press notices received by Mrs. Hewling and her orchestra on their tours:

"The Ladies' Rainbow Band gave a program so unusual and wonderful we could hardly believe ladies could organize and present such an entertainment."—Lyons, Ohio.

Broadway Theater

A real holiday program is what you'll see at the Broadway theater the first half of this week. The B. F. Keith vaudeville and Paramount picture is all that could be desired.

The great Johnson, is called the silent entertainer. He is a contortionist of first magnitude.

A musical comedy oddity entitled Little Bits of Big Hits is presented by Tommy Russell and Ernie Marconi. A real treat.

Bewley, Lynch and Co. follow in a comedy skit that is one laugh after another.

Nifty Nonsense is the title of the offering presented by Al and Mabel Joy. Comedy talking, singing and dancing as you like it.

The two dancing sweethearts of vaudeville, the Lerner Girls, close the program. They are ably assisted by Mr. Phill Sheppard in songs at the piano. A very pleasing closing number.

Is there a limit beyond which a husband should not go to hold a lovely wife who is fascinated by a philanderer? This is the intriguing question that William de Mille's brilliant Paramount photoplay, The Fast Set, based on Clara Beranger's adaptation of Frederick Lonsdale's tremendous stage success, Spring Cleaning, raises and answers in eminently satisfactory fashion.

The audience last night at the Broadway theater where the picture had its first local showing, was often thrilled. Betty Compson, Adolphe Menjou, Edythe Dexter and Zasu Pitts are featured in the principal roles.

There will be a continous show today starting at 2:30 to 10:45.

Palace Theater

Sara Lansdale was a typical American girl of today. She and her mother had been living together for many years since the death of her father. He had left them sufficient money to keep up appearances but not enough to indulge in the extravagances of the class of society in which they were received. Sara was brilliant, without being smart. She was vivacious, but not fresh. She loved luxury but had good taste. She had taken life by the scruff of the neck and was shaking every innocent thrill out of it when into her life came three men and she was confronted with the serious problem:

"Which one shall I marry?"

These are the three men who came into Sara Lansdale's life. One of them she thought she loved, one of them she did love and one of them she married, in the First National picture, "In Every Woman's Life, which is now being shown at the Palace theater and closing Wednesday evening. Short subjects which completes the program are as follows. Mack Sennett's latest two reel comedy The Sky Plumber, Pathe news and Aesop's Fables.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

TALENTED BUNCH OF PLAYERS AT THE ARMORY TONIGHT

Keith Pitman and the S. S. Lavia than orchestra proved in every way to be just as they were advertised to be, wonderful talented musicians, full of pep and everything. The large crowd that thronged to the City Hall to hear the concert were entertained with the best music and the latest out. All during the entire program the audience was kept spell-bound and did not move an eye until a selection was played. It is without doubt the best orchestra that has ever played in the City Hall. They were not only talented musicians but entertainers as well.

The opening number of the concert was a selection Sunland by the entire orchestra. This pleased the crowded gallery of music lovers and the waves of music fairly touched the spot. The second number was a foxtrot arrangement, Skaters Waltz, and a wonderful selection. They received cheer after cheer and the more they played the more enthused the audience got. No other orchestra ever drew such a large crowd to listen to their music. The next selection was a banjo solo by Ralph Menter. Bon-D Capriaso and this number was the best ever heard from any banjoist in this City Hall. The crowd gave him a glad hand and he rendered another selection in the same masterly fashion.

After the concert was over one of the largest crowds to ever gather on the City Hall floor enjoyed dancing to music that was nothing but the latest. It is judged by the crowd to be the last word in dance music and harmony featuring symphonic style of jazz. This same aggregation will probably be back in this city some time before the snow falls. Montpelier Vermont.

Joseph Hofmann

That the fame of Joseph Hofmann as an interpreter of the great pieces of music for the piano is greater year by year, and that his genius for creating a mood and conveying it to his audience is extraordinary, is attested by W. J. Henderson, the veteran music critic on the occasion of one of Hofmann's New York recitals last season.

Speaking of the pianist's treatment of Beethoven's sonata opus 110, he said: "Mr. Hofmann seemed to delight in showing that peaceful beauty, perfect clarity and the calm utterance of deep sentiment could restore to this work the supreme beauty of melodic line and structural for its creator gave it. In this position the pianist set the key for the whole recital. It was one of the greatest performances of this kind of able work ever heard in New York."

At his New London recital next Tuesday Hofmann's opening number will be Beethoven's sonata opus 111, notable as being the composer's last sonata as well as for its extreme beauty. To hear Hofmann play it is a privilege.

Public sale of tickets opens tomorrow at Starr Brothers.

Breed Theater

The Arab, Rex Ingram's first Metro production since Scaramouche, is the feature attraction at the Breed theater today and tomorrow. Ramon Novarro and Alice Terry have the chief roles, and it is said that both appear to better advantage than ever before. The background and costumes are authentic, since Mr. Ingram took his company to Northern Africa to obtain the real atmosphere.

The Arab is based in Edmar Selwyn's famous stage play. It was photographed by John F. Seitz.

Larry Semon will also be seen in Horseshoes a two part comedy feature and the Pathe news and Hodge Podge will make up the remainder of the bill. Continuous show today from 2:30 to 10:30 P. M.

WESTERLY

The adjourned session of the regular November meeting of the Westerly town council was held Monday morning at 9.30 o'clock and lasted until noon. There were present President Campbell and the entire board, Councilmen Morrison, Utter, Rossi, Fowler, Nichols and Smith, together with Council Clerk Whipple and Town Solicitor John Ferguson, Jr.

George L. Stillman, treasurer of the South Count Poultry association, addressed the council, which he asked to double the usual appropriation for the Westerly exhibition, to make the amount $200. He said that the improvement in the poultry raising in South county since the shows had been held could not be denied. The regular state appropriation was not available this year and it was planned to have a ribbon show with no cash premiums. The association exhibitions had just gotten into working order and the results spoke for themselves and the $200 requested would be well spent. Council President Campbell was of the opinion that the appropriation should be asked for from the financial town meeting which was convened by the town solicitor. For several years past the Westerly council has voted $100 Mr. Campbell said and the miscellaneous fund was the only one it could be taken from, and after examination revealed only $28.30 remaining in the balance.

In reply to the question of Councilman Fowler as to the town's standing on their road bill, Clerk Whipple informed him that $200 was owed and the town authority to pay it with. Attorney Dunn informed the council president that he was present, "listening," and H. A. Dunning said he was present regarding Pleasant View matters. So the council building committee's report was first taken up. Councilman Utter reported a vote of the committee that Railroad avenue from Canal street to High street was a business area and Oak street from High street to the Cottrell farm (so called) later made the brook from Burden's pond to the Pawcatuck river an industrial district. From the committee was reported a petition of Charles L. Fontana to erect a gas filling station on his property, corner of Railroad avenue and High street. Also a petition of Joseph Gabriele to open a store at 30 1-2 Oak street.

Attorney Dunn said that he had been listening for the petition for a street at the junction of Oak and Tower streets and that he appeared for the remonstrants, saying that it was not demanded as a matter of convenience and necessity and should not be granted.

Charles F. Anderson, an elderly man who has lived for many years on the Hopkinton road just beyond the Oak street junction spoke bitterly of conditions and his treatment where he resided. He said that there were already too many of this class of stores and they were nothing but nuisances. He said that the selling of liquor was carried on all over the vicinity on both sides of the streets. When he had complained of being annoyed by people in front of Curtis' (Curtis) had been told to mind his own business. He said that he had just gotten into working order and the $200 requested would be well spent. He said appeal to reason was [illegible] wished to know if the [illegible] could not give them [illegible] of us old people who could not keep their garden stuff from being [illegible] the grounds destroyed?" [illegible] to Saturday night Mr. Anderson said, people come [illegible] and then they want more [illegible] that kind up there, where [illegible] already too many.

President Campbell told Mr. Anderson that any individual was entitled to [illegible]

[illegible] Rossi, a member of the [illegible] committee, asked Mr. Anderson if he had ever complained to Chief Maine and received the reply that he had complained until I'm tired." He said "they want me out like I'm ready to go, threaten my life and everybody else and it's about time something was done." Councilman Rossi said if the police were as represented, he would favor "firing them and getting some one else."

Attorney Ledwidge said that previously permission had been granted Mr. Sicchitano to make additions in the neighborhood at 88 1-2 Oak street and that his client had been told to go ahead and get signatures of property owners favoring his petitioner, who had been a Westerly resident for 30 years and by accident at the quarry was incapacitated for severe physical exertion, therefore desirous of running a store. He requested the addition of the names of Eli Monti and L. J. Havens an approving the petition. The matter was dropped when interested parties were told to secure three-fourths of the property owners' signatures between High street and Tower street, before action could be considered.

Amendment to building laws was asked to make the building line on the Weekapaug road from the Shore road to Weekapaug beach, and on the west side of the highway to the causeway on the pond breechway, 15 feet back from the highway. This action was taken because Harry Coleman was erecting a summer cottage there and wanted a building line. The action of the building committee was approved by the council.

David Smith of Hartford asked permission to erect eight houses on two lots, Nos. 100 and 101 in the name of his wife, Mary. The building committee would only sanction the erection of four houses on the two lots as the other arrangement called for the construction of a 24 foot passway or court from Atlantic avenue to the ocean. By vote the council sanctioned the building of only four houses as granted by the committee. Hugh A. Dunning told the council that his property at Pleasant View beach was on Crandall avenue, where neighboring property had houses on 10 foot streets which not only in his mind depreciated the value of the property, but was a greater fire menace, consequently he was opposed to further construction on there narrow passways.

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

MORE WOMEN PRISONERS GOING TO WETHERSFIELD

The colony of seven woman prisoners at the Connecticut state prison will, within a week or 10 days, be tripled in size by the arrival of about a dozen federal women prisoners from various parts of the country, Warden H. K. W. Scott announced yesterday.

Due to the fact that the federal government has no penitentiary for women, female prisoners are apportioned to various state institutions. At the Wethersfield prison there are accommodations for 20 women, and on the request of Attorney General Stone arrangements have been made to place from 10 to 12 women in the Connecticut prison.

The women who will be sent to the Wethersfield institution have been convicted of various federal offenses but have not been sentenced pending the designation of the prison in which they will serve their terms. The selection in this instance having been made the group of women will arrive at an early date.

What You Should Know about a baby's care

Illness is usually due to constipation. Quickly give half a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

THE young mother should watch which foods the baby relishes most, which foods and their quantity cause distress, and act accordingly.

The good health of a baby is largely a matter of intelligent attention to diet. Nevertheless, in spite of your efforts you will sometimes notice belching, flatulence, wind and symptoms of colicky pain.

Give half a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and thereafter vary the offending food. Syrup Pepsin is a laxative admirably suited to infants and children, as it is mild and wholly free from opiates and narcotics.

If you delay in giving it you will soon find the baby suffering from constipation, and that may lead to more serious illness. Half a teaspoonful promptly given will avoid trouble.

Many thousands of mothers have never given their babies any other medicine but Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and they have successfully raised large and sturdy families. The formula is not a secret, being a combination of Egyptian senna with pepsin, and agreeable aromatics. The ingredients are stated on the package. Mrs. Dewey Walker, Elida, N. M., and Mrs. B. Higginbotham, Otter Creek, Fla., are among the many who are firm believers that Syrup Pepsin has kept their families and themselves in good health.

No family with young children can afford to be without such a household medicine. It is effective, beneficial and safe regardless of your age and has been considered so for over thirty years. In consequence it is today the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, over 10 million bottles being sold annually.

You will find that Syrup Pepsin quickly brings relief in the severest chronic constipation, in biliousness, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, headache, cankers, bad breath, and to stop a cold or fever.

Every druggist sells it, and the cost on the average is less than a cent a dose. It is guaranteed to be effective in these symptoms or your money will be refunded.

Free Sample Bottle Coupon

There are people who very rightly prefer to try a thing before they buy it. Let them clip this coupon, pin their name and address to it, and send it to the Pepsin Syrup Co., 516 Washington Street, Monticello, Illinois, and a free sample bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will be sent them postpaid by mail. NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

Election results were awaited patiently in Norwich in 1849. Slowness of gathering news was shown by the lacking New York and New Jersey vote even after election day had passed by four days.

Items of general interest in those days were in part as follows:

Tuesday, Nov. 6, 1849—A communication received yesterday states that the railroad bridge across the Connecticut was completed on the first inst., that the rails were to be laid through Bolton Notch yesterday and that the cars could run to Willimantic, tomorrow, (Wednesday.)

A locomotive for the New London and Willimantic railroad has just passed through this city for New London. It is a powerful machine and has been christened, The New London.

Thursday, Nov. 8, 1849—The very great improvement which has been made in the art of picking likenesses by the Daguerraen process struck us forcibly upon visiting the rooms of Mr. Webster in this city the other day. The portraits formerly taken were easily defaced and effaced, and, by exposure to the air lost their distinctness. By an important and fortunate discovery the likeness is now rendered unfading and imperishable.

Election returns from New York and New Jersey indicate a whig victory. Twenty-two counties in New York show the whig state ticket leading by 5,520 votes.

The air whistle has been taken off the light-boat at Bartlett's reef and it may be of some importance that navigators should know of the fact.

Finds Kellogg's Bran "Easy way to avoid constipation" after suffering for years

Constipation is a dangerous disease. It can lead to many others. Twenty years' auffering with constipation undermined this man's health. Kellogg's Bran restored it—as it has done for thousands. This is what he says:

"Gentlemen:

After eating Kellogg's Bran twice a day for one month I find it not only an 'Easy Way to Avoid Constipation,' but an easy and most pleasant way to cure it. I have been troubled with constipation . . . for more than twenty years . . . after adopting the milk and bran diet I find my stomach greatly improved, and find it a specific for constipation. . . . I deem it only justice that you should know what your product has done for me, and what it is capable of doing for others."

Kellogg's Bran relieves mild and chronic constipation because it is ALL bran. It brings sure results. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine in nature's own way. Don't experiment. Only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is guaranteed to bring permanent relief—or your grocer returns your money. You should eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

The flavor is delicious—nut-like—cooked and krumbled. Enjoy it with milk or cream, sprinkled on other cereals, cooked with hot cereals, or in the delightful recipes on every package. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by grocers everywhere.

Miss Margarett Slattery of Boston is to give two addresses that day in Norwich. All the Protestant Sunday schools have been invited to assemble at Union Square at the hour in question, and march to Burnham Square and back to the Palace Theatre where Miss Slattery is to give the address of the afternoon, mostly for the benefit of the young people. WOULD PREVENT BATTLESHIP FROM BECOMING A TARGET

Washington, Nov. 10—An effort to prevent the navy from using the dismantled battleship Washington as a target was made today in the supreme court of the District of Columbia by William Baldwin Shearer of New York.

Claiming the ship cost $30.000,000, Shearer, as a taxpayer, asked for an injunction against Secretary Wilbur. He also asserted the action would violate the arms treaty. The navy recently announced plans for disposing of the hulk of the Washington.

This new way works wonders on cloudy teeth

Modern science, by perfecting a new way of combating the stubborn film that covers teeth, now opens the road to whiter teeth, safely.

THAT cloudy teeth, yellowish, discolored teeth can be made whiter is now an accepted fact. Foremost dentists of the world are widely urging this new method. You can have cleaner, prettier teeth if you will start today.

This is accomplished by combating a viscous film that covers teeth. A stubborn, hard to remove film that old type dentifrices do not fight successfully.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel this film. Under it are the clear, attractive teeth you envy in others. Combat it, and your teeth become many shades whiter—more glistening. This offers you a 10-day test free. Mail the coupon.

The great enemy of teeth

Film is the great enemy of teeth beauty. And a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the common cause of pyorrhea. It holds food in contact with teeth, inviting the acid that causes decay.

You can't have prettier, whiter teeth; you can't have healthier teeth unless you combat that film.

Ask your druggist or mail the coupon for Pepsodent. Don't expect the same results from old time dentifrices. Begin beautifying your teeth today.

POETRY

OUT OF THE PAST.

Oft times when even's scarlet flag
Floats from the crest of distant woods
And over moorland waste and crag
A weary, voiceless sorrow broods,
Around me hover to and fro
The ghosts of songs heard long ago.

And often midst the rush of wheels,
Of passing and repassing feet,
When half a headlong city reels
Triumphant down the noontide street,
Above the tumult, of the throngs
I hear again the same old songs.

Rest and Unrest—'Tis strange that ye,
Who lie apart as pole from pole,
Should sway with one strong sovereignty
The secret issues to the soul;
Strange that ye both should hold the keys
Of prisoned tender memories.

It may be when the landscape's rim
Is red and slumbrous round the west
The spirit, too, grows still and dim,
And turns in half-unconscious quest
To those forgotten lullabies
That whilom closed the infant's eyes

And maybe, when the city mart
Roars with its fullest, loudest tide,
The spirit loses Helm and chart,
And on an instant, terrified,
Has fled across the space of years
To notes that banished childhood's fears.

We know not—but 'tis sweet to know
Dead hours still haunt the living day,
And sweet to hope that, when the slow
Sure message beckons us away,
The past may send some tuneful breath
To echo round the bed of death.

—Author Unknown.

FAREWELL! IF EVER FONDEST PRAYER.

Farewell! if ever fondest prayer
For other's weal availed on high,
Mine will not all be lost in air,
But waft thy name beyond the sky.
'Twere vain to speak, to weep, to sigh:
Oh! more than tears of blood can tell,
When wrung from guilt's expiring eye,
Are in that word—Farewell!—Farewell!

These lips are mute, these eyes are dry;
But in my breast and in my brain
Awake the pangs that pass not by,
The thought that ne'er shall sleep again.
My soul nor deigns nor dares complain
Though grief and passion there rebel;
I only know we loved in vain—
I only feel—Farewell!—Farewell!

—George Gordon Byron.

NEW LONDON BOOZE JOINT MAN SOLD MOONSHINE FROM COFFEE-POT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Nov. 10.—Andrew Mikel is in the county jail in this city for a stay of ten days and until he pays some $225 in fine and costs. Oh works out the same at a dollar a day. Mikel was declared to be the meanest violator of the liquor law that ever came to the attention of the New London police court, by Prosecutor Cronin, when he presented a complaint against Mikel this morning in which the accused was charged with keeping a place where liquor was sold and kept for sale. Mikel ostensibly maintains a restaurant at 137 North Bank street, but in reality he keeps the meanest sort of a booze joint—one in which moonshine is sold from a coffee pot that is kept on a stove to blind the police or others who call there, if they are suspected of seeking information to be used against Mikel. To enable the accused to carry on his business he employed Mary Kowoszky, a girl of 16, who has just completed a term in the grammar grade of the city schools to serve what he sold victuals and to dispense booze to those who had the price and who, he supposed, would keep to themselves the fact that they got liquor there. Police Officers Nelson Smith and Howard Sloan were tipped to the place and went there Sunday. They went to the rear of the place and while they were present patrons came after their drinks. One man ordered from the coffee pot on the stove and told the child bartender to "make things snappy" and give service. Then the officers pounced upon that fellow and he had things as snappy as he desired them. The evidence against Mikel was complete. The officers got the coffee pot, the booze, glasses and alcohol in modest quantity, but enough to show the despicable character of the place and its owner. Prosecutor Cronin asked for the severest penalty the law would impose, and then pictured Mikel as a soulless fellow who would destroy the character and the morals of a child who had been instructed at the expense of the city to respect law and to conform to the rules of government as laid down by the state, the nation and the city. He said he despised such a creature and asked the court to rebuke him and his conduct with the stiffest sort of a penalty. Mary had told the prosecutor the whole story of the sale of the booze and of the manner of conducting the "restaurant." When the judgment was announced the attorney for Mikel demurred and gave a bond of $1,000 for appearance of the convicted man in the court of common pleas, but in a few hours the appeal was vacated and Mikel was taken to jail. Mikel got a quarter a drink for the booze and a dollar a half-pint for the stuff in bulk.

I LOST 50 POUNDS in 2 Months This Easy Way!

In Paris I learned a secret for which millionaires have paid thousands. Let me tell it to you FREE OF CHARGE!

If you are one of many who has tried everything to reduce, without success—if you are suffering from a weak heart, high blood pressure, tired feeling, shortness of breath, all due to obesity, AT LAST YOU CAN BE RELIEVED. If your figure is such that you are embarrassed to appear in public with your husband or your smart-looking slender friends, you can now entertain new hopes. Perhaps it is your bust, your thighs or you arms that you want to reduce, or may be only one or two rolls of fat have lately appeared? Whatever your case may be, if you want to reduce only certain parts of your body, or if you are 10 pounds too heavy or 100 pounds, you owe it to yourself to investigate this new discovery WHICH DOES AWAY WITH WEAKENING DIETS, ABSURD CREAMS, TIRESOME EXERCISES, REDUCING GARMENTS.

From experience, I know how many worthless things you have tried in the past and in the effort to help you regain slenderness without being again disappointed, I have decided to give out the secret which relieved me of 50 pounds of ugly rolls of fat and made me feel like a new woman. Simply go to any good druggist, ask for a package of SAN-GRI-NA tablets (remember the name, and do not accept any substitute). SAN-GRI-NA is the preparation of a French physician and the ONLY THING I ever found to reduce my weight—my case was an obstinate one, and I had tried everything known to reduce, without success. It is the first time SAN-GRI-NA is offered to the American public as up to now it had been used in private practice, where enormous prices have been paid for it. UNTIL YOU TRY IT, YOU CANNOT SAY THAT YOUR FAT CANNOT BE REMOVED. Take 2 small tablets before each meal and watch your fat disappear. Remember that SAN-GRI-NA is GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS, AND IS SOLD WITH A MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE. It cannot harm you in any way; on the contrary, the moment you start taking it you will feel yourself filled with pep and energy.

SAN-GRI-NA is now sold at Lee & Osgood's, McLaughlin's, ro Bray's drug stores.

SOAKS RIGHT IN AND LIMBERS UP STIFF JOINTS

Pharmacists call it "Joint-Ease" because it's for Swollore, Painful, Creaky Only.

It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain subduing and swelling reducing agents declared to be the one remedy that almost instantly penetrates through skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed, creaky, pain racked joints as good as new.

They call this new and wonderful preparation "Joint-Ease" because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect some low-priced remedy that would really benefit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.

So "Joint-Ease" is prepared only for people who have a swollen, painful, creaky, distorted or stiff joint, whether it be in knee, elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and whether it is caused by rheumatism or something else.

Of course, it can't help but quickly put an end to such superficial ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stitch in the side, crick in the neck or sore feet because of its penetrating action, but what it is really recommended for is joint ailments of any nature whatever.

Ask for a tube of "Joint-Ease." You can use it several times in one evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds rubbing. It surely is a swift penetrator and when it gets under the skin, it starts right in to clean up all joint trouble.

Lee & Osgood Co. dispenses it daily for about 60 cents a tube, as do first class druggists everywhere.

MARKET WAS UNSETTLED

New York, Nov. 10.—Heavy profit taking sales late today stemmed the swiftly rising tide of stock prices after approximately fifty issues had soared to new peak prices for the year. Considering their enormous volume, the offerings were well absorbed, closing prices showing a curious mixture of gains and losses, with no breaks of any consequence. The day's trading embraced 527 individual issues, a new high record for all time, with total sales approximating 2,275,000 shares.

Railroad shares, the heavy accumulation of which inaugurated the current advance bore the brunt of the selling. However, new peak prices in this group were established by more than a score of issues, including Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Southern Railway, Louisville & Nashville, Frisco common, "Katy" common, and the three Rock Island issues, Lehigh Valley sold at the highest price since the segregation of the coal properties.

A reaction in the rails today was regarded as inevitable after the spirited advance recorded by those issues in the closing days of last week, which carried the general level of prices to the highest point in seven years. Bullish enthusiasm was maintained, however, in the industrials, the general price average of which today recorded a new peak for the year.

Exceptionally good buying took place in the oils and coppers, which have been lagging behind the rest of the list, and in which trade conditions recently have shown marked improvement. American Smelting, Kennescott and Chino all broke through their previous 1924 maximum prices on net gains ranging from 1 1-4 to 2 points.

While most of the oils are still well below the year's tops, substantial progress was made today by Standard Oils of California and New Jersey, the Pan-American issues, General Asphalt, Atlantic Refining and Tidewater, the gains running as high as three points.

United States Steel common was run up to 113 1-2, the highest price in five years, and then fell back a point, closing unchanged on the day. Other industrials to better their previous top prices for the year were United States Cast Iron Pipe, Corn Products, H. R. Mallinson, Savage Arms, United Drug, American Tobacco "A" and "B," Wells Fargo Express, Adams Express and Consolidated Gas.

Some of the motors and sugars developed pronounced reactionary tendencies, Chandler breaking to another 1924 low at 26 7-8 and then rallying a point, while losses of a point or more took place in Cuba Cane Sugar preferred and Cuban-Dominican Sugar preferred.

Unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel corporation on Oct. 31, showing a gain of slightly more than 50,000 tons for the month, was somewhat smaller than expected. Steel trade circles report, however, that the republican victory last Tuesday had released a large volume of orders which undoubtedly will be reflected in the tonnage statement next month.

Call money held steady at 2 1-2 per cent all day. Time money showed a somewhat firmer tone, 60 to 90 day maturities being definitely established on a 2 1-4 per cent basis with loans from 4 to 6 months ruling at 3 1-2 per cent.

A brisk demand developed for the leading foreign exchange, demand sterling standing out with a three-cent advance to $4.63, the highest price in over a year, but reacting 1 1-2 cents from the top late in the day. French francs rallied above 5 1-2 cents and most of the other European rates showed nominal gains.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Nov. 10.—The pressure of profit taking, accentuated by firmer time money rates, checked the upward movement in the bond market today and prices drifted irregularly lower at the close.

Primary interest again centered in semi-speculative railroad liens, with prices of Seaboard, Frisco and St. Paul issues falling from their recent high levels on a very heavy volume of realizing sales. Buying orders were transferred into less active bonds, including Norfolk & Southern 5s, Illinois Central 5 1-2s, Chicago & Western Indiana 4s, and Rock Island 4 1-2s, which scored gains ranging from fractions to about two points.

Greater activity developed in the industrial group, as profit taking impeded the advance of railroad mortgages. Moreland Oil 7 1-2s, with warrants, mounted 3 1-8 points. Renewed accumulation of Copper company issues was reflected in gains of better than a point in Marma 7s and Chile 6s selling pressure against sugar bonds, however, increased, driving Punta Alegre 7s down 2 points.

Reactionary tendencies predominated in the United States government list as a direct result of the dwindling supply of time funds. Treasury 4 1-4s fell 13-32 and most of the Liberty bonds displayed a heavy tone. The principal feature of trading in the foreign group was the result of United Kingdom 5 1-2s of 1929 to a new 1924 high at 114 in sympathy with the advance in sterling to the year's highest level.

The volume of new financing continued light among the issues scheduled for offering later in the week is a $6,500,000 block of Central Iowa Power and Light bonds.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Nov. 10.—A remarkable outburst of buying in the oil shares featured today's curb market. Heavy realizing sales made their appearance during the session but, except in a relatively few industrial shares, they failed to check the general upward movement of prices. Solar Refining soared 9 points to 190 while net gains of 1 to 4 1-2 points were recorded by Imperial of Canada, Northern Pipe, Prairie Oil and Gas, Southern Pipe, Standard Oils of Indiana, Kansas, New York, Nebraska and Ohio and Vacuum, the last named touching a new 1924 peak at 78.

Speculative interest in the industrial group centered in the new De Forest radio shares which opened at 23, or 2 points above the subscription price. Subsequent profit taking carried the price down to 22, the stock closing slightly above that figure. Dubilier and Hazeltine each gained about a point, the others showing little change. The new "Nickel Plate" shares lost about 1 1-2 points each, on profit taking. Wide fluctuations took place in United Bakeries, which opened at 154, sold down to 151, rallied to 159 1-3 and then sagged to 156 1-8, off 1 3-8. Ward Baking B dropped 1 5-8 points to 40 1-2. Lehigh Valley coal certificates gained a point in active trading.

East Penn Electric rallied more than two points, the other public utilities moving irregularly within narrow limits.

Heavy buying of Goldfield development, which touched 19, a new high on the current movement, featured the mining list.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Smashing of high price records for the season took place in the wheat market today as a result of buying rushes due largely to a sharp advance in Liverpool quotations and to continued adverse crop reports from Argentina and Austria. Closing prices here on wheat were strong at 1 7-8 to 3 3-8c. Net gains, December 1.53 5-8 to 1.53 7-8 and May 1.60 to 1.60 1-2, with corn 7-8 to 1 3-8c up, oats showing 3-4 to 7-8 advance and provisions ranging from 20c decline to an equal upturn.

Both the December delivery of wheat and the May delivery as well went quickly beyond any top point heretofore reached this season. Notwithstanding that heavy selling to realize profits was encountered on the bulges in price, the market showed unusual power to absorb offerings and finished either at the day's top level or not to exceed 5-8c down. Most of the selling was based on the fact that values were up about 16 cents compared with 5-8c down. Most of the selling was based on the fact that values were up about 16 cents compared with last week's lowest figures.

Corn and oats appeared to derive their strength from wheat. The government corn crop report issued after the market here had closed gave a somewhat larger forecast of yield than most traders were looking for, but the farm stock end estimate of quality was lower than generally expected.

Provisions were irregular, affected on the one hand by the grain bulge and on the other by a decline in hog values.

STATE'S WATER SUPPLY REACHES DANGEROUS LEVEL

Due to the period of extreme dry weather which has reigned over the state for the past 30 days, many of the water reservoirs in Connecticut have reached an extremely low ebb and the situation which prevails in many parts of the state has become dangerous. Many of the Connecticut Water companies have therefore issued a pressing warning to the public at large to aid in the conservaiton of the state water supply against future needs. In the eastern part of the state, the situation has become so dangerous that the reservoirs now hold a supply barely large enough to last fifty days. According to the State Department of Health, Connecticut is due for a scant water supply this winter unless heavy rains take place during November.

The month of October, which normally has a rainfall of nearly four inches in this state, has been the driest of the year and has had a precipitation of less than a quarter of an inch of rain. Following the drouths of March and July, the October deficiency has made the average total deficiency for the year for the entire state nearly 7 inches and this has forced most of the reservoirs far below the normal level for this period of the year. Fairfield county has fared better than the rest of the state for its total deficiency is less than four inches. Toward the northern part of the state, however, the deficiency is more than 8 inches. The new Haven weather bureau reports a deficiency of 6.66 inches.

Should the dry period prevail, even with light rains, until the water begins to freeze, the situation will be one of the most dangerous ever suffered in the state. Therefore, it has been necessary for many of the water companies to issue their urgent requests for public conservation.

RESOLUTIONS.

At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of The Thames National Bank, held Nov. 10, 1924, to take action upon the death of Charles H. Osgood, the following minute was adopted:

Mr. Charles Henry Osgood, a Director of The Thames National Bank, died at his home in Norwich on the 10th day of November, 1924, at an advanced age.

Mr. Osgood was elected to a directorship in this bank on the 5th day of July, 1919, succeeding the late Charles W. Gale.

A man of large and varied interests, and rare business sagacity, he brought to the service of the bank a ripened judgment which proved of great value to the institution. Frank and honest in his opinion and most congenial in his fellowship, his loss will be keenly felt by the bank which he so well served and by his associates upon its Board of Directors

Resolved, That this minute be spread upon our records as a page devoted to his memory and that this Board attend the funeral in a body.

Attest: - N. A. GIBBS, Secretary.

IN MEMORY OF JESSE B. STEVENS, Who Died Nov. 11, 1923.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
God in His wisdom has recalled
The boon His love has given,
And though the body slumbers here,
The soul is safe in Heaven.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND NEVER SUSPECT IT

APPLICANTS FOR INSURANCE OFTEN REJECTED

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

WAREHOUSE PROPERTY ON COMMERCE STREET SOLD

The business property at 29-31 Commerce Street, has been sold by Hall Bros and Joseph Hall to Jacob and Philip Feldman.

The property carries with it valuable water front rights and the building is a four-story warehouse. The lot measures 42 by 202 feet and was purchased from the late Charles Osgood in 1880. Hall Bros. have since owned the building and site.

Messrs. Feldman came to Norwich some four years ago, purchasing of Schwartz Bros, a valuable piece of business property on Market street where they have since conducted a wholesale grocery business. Their business had grown to such an extent that they now need more room, hence this purchase. It is their plan now to occupy both buildings.

A special table has been provided for the army and navy officers.

As the divisions arrive at Union square for dismissal the various bands will be directed to positions on Union square and when the last band has reached its place all the bands will play the Star Spangled Banner as a grand finale. This will be one of the special features of the parade.

The general committee in charge of the celebration and parade held its final meeting Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the rooms of the chamber of commerce on Shetucket street. All members of the committee were present and the meeting was presided over by General Chairman Herbert M. Lerou. Disposing of the minutes of the previous meeting as read by Secretary John J. O'Rourke, the committee proceeded to get down to business and in a remarkably short time the final details for the parade had been completed. The various sub-committee chairmen reported their end of the plans all ready.

Arthur L. Story, chairman of the parade committee, submitted his final report on the parade plans and it was accepted. Mr. Story brought up the question as to whether the beautiful float arranged and decorated by the women of the Ladies' Auxiliary to Fletcher Post, No 4, American Legion should be restricted to the Gold Star mothers and wives. The committee decided that only Gold Star mothers and wives should ride on the float, this being a special distinction for the mothers and wives of the men of Norwich who made the supreme sacrifice in the World war. This will be the only float in the parade.

Max Hanover, chairman of the entertainment committee, stated that all his plans are completed, and his committee will be ready to serve the supper as soon as the men arrive at the armory. The members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars were extended an invitation by the general committee through their commander, but the veterans' commander informed the general committee that the Veterans of Foreign Wars had completed arrangements for a supper and programme of their own at their rooms after the parade.

William A. Anderson, county commander of the American Legion for New London county, announced that E. Percy Armstrong, first national vice commander and Connecticut state commander of the American Legion, will arrive in Norwich with his staff about 11 o'clock. Commander Armstrong's staff comprises the following:

Major General M. R. Payne, of New London, Roland Sullivan of Waterbury; Dr. W. A. Barnes of New Haven; Dr. Otis of Meriden; W. R. Murray, county commander of Windham county; John Reardon, vice commander of Windham county; William A. Anderson, county commander of New London county; Col. William S. Dorsey of New London; Ira Warren of Danielson, and Dr. James A. Getting of New Haven.

The programme committee presented the official programme and it was approved by the general committee. After disposing of a number of minor details the committee meeting came to a close about 6.15 o'clock. Another meeting of the general committee will be called in the near future to wind up the business end of the celebration and parade.

WHITE WAY OPENING AT 5 THIS AFTERNOON

The $15,000 White Way of Norwich is all ready to be turned over officially to the use of the city by the gas and electric commissioners.

At 5 o'clock this (Tuesday) afternoon the commissioners will officially turn the wires over to Mayor Milo R. Waters and the mayor will turn a switch that will flash the current over the lines and illuminate the principal business district of the city in a way that it has never been lighted before.

All the White Way poles had special decorations of American flags placed on them Monday, a pair of flags near the top of the pole and a banneret running down the pole.

In celebration of the opening Swahn's band will lead a parade at 7.30 from Burnham square to Thames square and then to the city hall on Union square where a concert is to be given. It is the expectation that the people will make the event a gala time to signalize the big advance towards modern lighting conditions for the city streets.

The lights were turned on for a short time Monday afternoon for a test and all but two burned perfectly. These were soon put in order.

DAVIS BAKING POWDER

WILL TAKE MOVIE OF BIG NORWICH PARADE

Through the courtesy of the Breed theatre management the city of Norwich will have a permanent record of the Armistice Day parade and the opening of the White Way. It will be a complete pictorial record that can be shown to the grandchildren of the World war veterans fifty years hence, and will become one of the most treasured records of the city.

The Breed management has secured Joseph F. Reed, camera man for the Fox News reel to make motion pictures of the entire parade, the exercises at the memorial at Chelsea parade, the reviewing stand at Franklin square, close-ups of the celebrities and any other features. The reel when finished will give a complete record of the parade from start to finish. Prominent buildings with their decorations will be shot and everything done to make it a success.

In the evening the new White Way will be photographed. If it can be worked Mr. Reed will endeavor to photograph the present street lights and catch them with the camera as they fade out and then catch the new lights as they flash on. This will give a record of progress in the city's history that will be worth preserving.

The film will be shown at the Breed theatre and at the completion of its run will be given to the city as a permanent record by the management of the theatre. The Breed theatre management is going to a great deal of expense to get this picture which will be the only one made of the Armistice Day parade.

Mr. Reed, the camera man who will grind out the picture, is an experienced photographer, who has photographed great events the world over. During the war he was with the army at the Mexican border and later at a number of the training camps in various parts of the country. He was also an aerial photographer, making motion pictures of important events throughout the country. His equipment includes the very latest in motion picture cameras and is one that was used by the Snow expedition to the heart of Africa.

The picture of the parade which Mr. Reed makes will not be used in any news reel but will be an exclusive picture for the Breed theatre and eventually the property of the city of Norwich.

FINE AND JAIL FOR TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

At a session of the city court Monday afternoon, Judge Arthur F. Libby on the bench, Mrs. Helen M. Clark, 48, of No. 14 Cliff street and her son, John A. Clark, 23, now of New York city, were presented on charges of keeping liquor with intent to sell and with illegal transportation of liquor. Clark pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and costs on each count, a total of $425 and was given ten days in jail on each count, making a 20-day jail sentence. He was taken to jail to serve out his sentence.

Mrs. Clark entered a plea of not guilty and for lack of evidence the charges against her were nolled.

The case was the result of the seizure of about $400 worth of whiskey in a Maxwell coupe driven by Clark and in which his mother was riding. The liquor was brought to this city from Providence by Clark. The whiskey, all labeled "bottled in bond" was found hidden in the coupe. The machine had been seized by the police, but was given over to Mrs. Clark as the local officers cannot confiscate a car on such an offense.

East Side School Building.

Good progress is being made on the new eight-room school building on the East Side. Contractor W. S. Spencer has twelve men employed there. A concrete mixer has arrived and the pouring of cement has begun. A big consignment of stone from Monson, Mass., arrived Monday.

The school will stand on a site next to the present Bridge district school.

Pays Fine in Franklin Court.

John J. Ryan of Norwich Town, whose automobile was in collision Sunday night on Franklin hill with a machine driven by Mrs. Annie Phillips of Willimantic pleaded guilty to the charge of operating an automobile while intoxicated when he was presented Monday evening at 7.30 before Justice of the Peace William Brassill of Franklin. He was fined $100 and costs, which he paid.

Grand Juror C. Huntington Lathrop prosecuted the case, the man having been arrested by State Policeman Bangs.

SHOWER WAS GIVEN FOR MARRIED COUPLE

A shower was held Saturday evening by Mrs. Mabel Swan for Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wilcox at the home of the parents of Mrs. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Benjamin, in Preston City. The gifts included aluminum, glassware, table linen, pictures and money. Refreshments of fruit salad, cake, coffee, and fruit were served. Guests were present from New Haven, Norwich, Lebanon, Ledyard and Preston. There were games and music and the evening was a very enjoyable one for the 60 present.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox were married October 25th and have just returned from their wedding trip to their new home on Hamilton avenue.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

STOCK DEALINGS PORTEND ADVENT OF PROSPERITY

Maximum Intensity of Buying Was Centered in the Industrial Shares—Total Number of Shares, 545, Was the Largest Ever Recorded in the New York Stock Exchange—Total Sales Approximated 2,500,000 Shares—Trading in All Securities Was Suspended For Two Minutes at 11 A. M. in Observance of Armistice Day.

New York, Nov. 11.—(By The A. P.)—All recent stock exchange records were swept off the boards today in a wild burst of bullish enthusiasm that reached its maximum intensity in the industrial shares, net gains in which ran from one to nearly ten points.

The day's total sales, falling just below 2,500,000 shares were the largest since Nov. 12, 1919. The total number of shares traded in—545—was the largest in all time and 23 above the previous record established only yesterday. The general price average of the industrial shares broke through to the highest level since the spring of 1920 while the general rail-road average was the highest in seven years. The number of new 1924 highs established during the day was 68, 52 of which were industrials and in addition 18 other stocks duplicated their maximum quotations of the year.

The first hour's business, while embracing a larger number of shares, was not as voluminous as the corresponding period in the three previous sessions, due to the restraint imposed by a continuation of profit taking in the railroad shares. The ease with which these offerings were absorbed, however, revived public confidence and the rails were soon headed upward under the leadership of Southern Pacific, buying of which was accelerated by unconfirmed rumors that the stock would be placed on a $7 dividend basis at Thursday's meeting of the board of directors.

Meanwhile, steady accumulation was taking place in the oil and copper issues which were regarded as "out of line" with the general industrial list. Bullish enthusiasm soon permeated the tobacco, sugar, equipment and textile shares. After midday speculative interest concerted on the so-called pivoted industrials with the swelling tide buying rising to extraordinary heights in American Can, which rode out the session on the crest of a tidal wave of buying orders that literally swamped the brokers on the floor, the stock soaring 9 3-4 points to 150 3-4, the highest price in its history, and 55 points above the year's low established last April.

U. S. Steel common, the day's transactions in which ran well over 100,000 shares, was lifted up to 115, a new high price since 1919. Other active stocks to attain new peak prices were American Locomotive, the American Tobacco issues, American Smelting, Associated Dry Goods, Corn Products, Pullman, Radio Corporation, United Drug, Savage Arms, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit preferred, Pure Oil, General Asphalt, Texas Gulf Sulphur, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Eastman Kodak, Foundation Company, International Business Machines, Postum Cereal and American Bank Note, representing practically every industry whose securities are listed on the exchange.

The sensational advance brought forth the usual crop of rumors, most of which revolved around dividend possibilities. Wall street heard that American Can stock was to be split up on a 5-to-1 basis and the equivalent of $10 dividends declared on the new stock, that the U. S. Steel Corporation was to capitalize part of its gigantic $600,000,000 + plus, and many others of like nature, all of which lacked official confirmation.

Trading in all securities markets was suspended for two minutes at 11 a. m. in observance of Armistice Day, while the Chicago and other wheat markets were closed for the day.

Heavy profit-taking sales checked the upward swing in the local commodity markets. The cotton market was strong and active, extreme gains of 40 to 59 points, however being cut to net gains of two to 17 points at the close. Coffee futures were 28 to 32 points lower. Sugar futures showed an extreme advance of 7 to 9 points, which was cut nearly in half at the close.

Foreign exchanges, particularly sterling, also felt the force of realizing sales. Demand sterling closed about 1 1-2 cents lower at $4.61 1-4 and moderate recessions also took place in the Scandinavian rates. French francs ruled slightly higher around 5.30 cents.

JUDGE BROWN HEARING MADISON ELECTION CASE

New Haven, Nov. 11.—The Madison election controversy, upon which a hearing is being given before Judge Allyn L. Brown in civil superior court, neared its end today and it is expected that arguments will be completed tomorrow.

The regular republican faction in Madison contends that Clarkson H. Meigs received more votes for first selectman than his independent republican opponent, Clinton H. Theis, but that Meigs was counted out. Charging that there were irregularities in the count, counsel for the regular republicans moved that the ballot box be opened and a new count made. In addition there is a similar contest over the office of second selectman and the registrar of voters.

Frederick H. Holbrook, testifying today, said that five or six of the independents' voters had been challenged and not allowed to vote, and that there was discrepancy between the numbers of votes case and those counted. Asked if the result would have been changed by the five or six votes ruled out in face of the fact that the regulars had a big majority, Mr. Holbrook replied that he thought the results would have been changed had a good many of those who were not entitled to vote been prevented from doing so.

In the arguments that followed, Attorney Philip Pond represented Meigs and the other two applicants and in the course of a long discussion pointed out why in his opinion, the ballot boxed should be opened by the court and a re-count made.

Attorney Francis W. Coe, of Hartford, in reply, said that there was not a bit of evidence to substantiate the claim of the regulars that there were any irregularities. Attorney Coe said that of twelve rejected ballots, only one was improperly cast out, but as the difference in votes for Theis and Meigs was 42 that one vote would not change the results.

HEARING ON SEIZURE OF GERMAN DYE PATENTS

Philadelphia, Nov. 11.—Government allegations that seized German dye patents sold by the alien property custodian for $271,000 to the Chemical Foundation, Inc., were acquired by concern as the result of a conspiracy by its officials while in government employ, were denied today by Joseph H. Choate, Jr., before the United States circuit court of appeals in the suit for the return of the patents to federal control. The case was appealed by the government after the United States district court in Delaware had dismissed its suit to recover the property on the ground that the sale was illegal and the price inadequate.

President Wilson was fully cognizant that A. Mitchell Palmer, while alien property custodian, had appointed members of his advisory sales committee as officials of the foundation, Mr Choate declared, quoting from testimony of Mr. Palmer. Knowing this, he continued, President Wilson appointed Francis P. Garvan, one of the committee members and president of the foundation, to succeed Mr. Palmer as alien property custodian when Mr. Palmer became attorney general.

COOLIDGE PLACED WREATH ON TOMB OF UNKNOWN SOLDIER

Washington, Nov. 11.—The tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National cemetery was the center of the capitals observance of Armistice Day with President Coolidge leading the pilgrimage to the shrine.

Accompanied by Secretary Wilbur and Acting Secretary Dwight Davis of the war department, as representatives of the two military branches of the government, the president placed a wreath on the tomb. He stood with uncovered head for a moment and then turned away. Mrs. Coolidge, before the party left, laid upon the tomb a single white rose, a tribute to the motherhood of the nation.

In making the pilgrimage Mr. Coolidge followed a custom inaugurated by President Harding.

Late in the day services for th nation's wartime president, Woodrow Wilson, were held in the national cathedral where his body is entombed.

Numerous patriotic exercises were conducted by various organizations in Washington during the day and evening, while the day also marked the opening of the annual roll call of the American Red Cross.

WORLD WAR VET, SERIOUSLY BURNED IN NEW BRITAIN

New Britain, Nov. 11. — Michael Cronan, a World war veteran, of 436 North Main street, Waterbury, was seriously burned here tonight when he was examining a gasoline tank with a lantern.

Mr. Cronan, who is 25 years old, is one of a party of Waterbury American Legion members who have been taking a float about the state for presentation in various celebrations. It was passing through New Britain tonight on its way to Hartford where it was to have been entered in an Armistice day parade.

At Clayton crossing on the outskirts of New Britain, the truck ran out of gas. It carried an auxiliary tank, however, and Cronan attempted to inspect this with a lantern. The lantern ignited the gasoline fumes and the war veteran was burned from head to foot and inhaled the flames. He was taken to the New Britain hospital where it is not expected that he will recover.

Two other members of the Legion who were on the truck, were slightly burned.

AUTOMOBILE PROMOTER OF HEALTH AND LONGER LIFE

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 11—The automobile was praised as one of the most potent factors in promoting health and longer life by Dr. Woods Hutchinson, author and lecturer of Boston in an address at a luncheon meeting today of the state committee on tuberculosis and public health of the State Charities Aid Association, which is in semi-annual convention here.

Using for his topic "making health contagious," Dr. Hutchinson declared that longer life and better health which the people of the present generation are enjoying is due in great part to widespread use of automobiles.

A GAS WELL ON FIRE AT CALGARY, ALBERTA

Calgary, Alberta, Nov. 11—The Imperial Oil Company's Royalite Number Four gas well at Black Diamond was still on fire today. The new well, which has been yielding 30,000,000 cubic feet of wet gas a day since October 14, burst into flames Sunday noon and in a few minutes the huge derrick was a mass of blazing timber.

A steam and hose with which to fight the fire are being rigged. The roar of the burning oil geyser can be heard for miles.

ARMISTICE DAY ADDRESS BY HERBERT HOOVER

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 11.—Another war would be the cemetery of civilization, but the United States in the hope to end all wars, must not sacrifice its independence or weaken its strength in defense, Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, declared in an Armistice Day address here today.

"The world has learned many lessons from the war," he said, "but none more emphatic than that its increasing terribleness, will, if repeated again, destroy civilization itself. The mobilization of whole people into the war, the inventions of science turned to destruction and the killing of men, will make any other great war the cemetery of civilization.

"This day of memories should bring to us surer resolution that we omit no proper step in statesmanship to eliminate the causes of war in the world—for never again do we wish our sons to leave our shores in our defense.

"But sure progress in these things requires of us that we shall not sacrifice of our independence, weaken of our strength in defense or slacken our leadership through the example of a nation given to the arts of peace.

"Another sure progress in these things requires of us that we shall not sacrifice of our independence, weaken of our strength in defense or slacken our leadership through the example of a nation given to the arts of peace.

"Another great duty arises from the memories of this day—the duty that we hold to those who gave service that we might, as a nation secure these attainments. Care for the injured and recompense for the loss of those who gave to the nation is an imperishable obligation.

"And greatest of all those solemn duties of which this day is our reminder, is that we honor our dead and the living who gave that America should live—is that we make no failure in holding to those precious institutions and principles for which our men fought and sacrificed."

ARMISTICE DAY WAS FULL HOLIDAY IN FRANCE

Paris, Nov. 11.—(By The A. P.)—Armistice Day this year is for the first time a full holiday in France. Although parliament voted it a legal holiday long ago, application of the law has been suspended hitherto, mainly for economic reasons, with business only interrupted for minutes, of silence.

Today everything is closed except the places of amusement. The main feature of the celebration in Paris will be at the Tomb of the Unknown Poilu in the Arc de Triumphe, with President Doumergue, Premier Herriot and his cabinet, marshals, generals and members of the diplomatic corps in attendance.

Two hundred and fifty tattered flags of disbanded regiments will be carried by reserve officers, headed by General Gouraud and his staff from the Invalides to the Arch, where they will take their place amid delegations representing the French and Allied Veterans' Association and war orphans.

After President Doumergue has reviewed the color bearers, bugle and a volley of maroons fired from the top of the Arch will announce to the city and suburbs a minute of silence, which will be ended by another volley and the playing of the Marseillaise by a military band. The troops of the Paris garrison will then march before the president, bringing the ceremony to a close.

ARMISTICE DAY QUIETLY CELEBRATED IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Nov. 11.—The roar of a city's activities was stilled momentarily at State and Madison streets at 11 o'clock this morning while thousands of Chicagoians bared their heads in chill November drizzle to face east in tribute to the World war dead.

The unnatural quiet was punctuated by three volleys fired by a squad of marines followed by the silvery notes of taps as the thousands faced toward Lake Michigan.

NEW YORK THEATRICAL DISTRICT WAS FLOODED

New York, Nov. 11—Part of the Broadway theatrical district was turned into an imitation Venice, but without the gondolas, tonight when a water main on Sixth avenue burst and flooded the adjacent streets. Impassable corners, the wetting of many a daintily-shod foot, the calling out of the police reserves and increased business for taxi drivers were among the divergent results of the mishap.

The water, coursing down Sixth avenue into 38th street, swept into Broadway, attaining a depth of two feet in some places. Traffic confusion reached such a point that the reserves were summoned and vehicles were diverted from sixth avenue and Broadway to Fifth and Seventh avenues. Women were marooned in the middle of the streets and had to be carried to the sidewalks and theatre crowds found their places of amusement inaccessible. Finally managers had plankings placed from theatre entrances to curbs so that their limousine patrons could step to a dry footing.

CHARGED WITH SELLING LIQUOR FROM PERSON

New Britain, Nov. 11—Angelo Luri was arrested in the doorway of a house in Mertle street today charged with selling liquor from the person. He will be given a hearing in court tomorrow morning.

New England Mourns Senator Lodge

City Halls in Several New England Cities Are to Close During the Hour of the Funeral Today.

Boston, Nov. 11.—The body of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge still rested tonight in the Beacon street home of his chum, Dr. William Sturgis Bigelow, viewed by none but his family, while to the door from time to time came more of the persons who during the past two days have sought to pay personal tribute to his memory at the bier. For the most part they were persons in the commoner walks of life. A few had gained some political advancement. The word to all was that the senator's family wished to be alone with their dead until the funeral services tomorrow.

These services, to be held at noon in Christ church, Cambridge, where Senator Lodge was married and where similar services over the body of his wife were held nine years ago, will be as simple as they can be made, but will be marked by an attendance of mourners probably as distinguished as any that has gathered over the great man of the country, excepting the presidents. With Secretary of State Hughes and Secretary of War Weeks will be a committee of 24 of his colleagues in the United States senate where there is none to match his record of service over the past 31 years.

Committees and delegations will be there also from other bodies of the nation, from the state and city, from Harvard college, and Edward F. Gray, British consul general, will attend under directions of the British ambassador. Sir Esme Howard, and will later place a wreath over the grave, in the Lodge family lot in Mount Auburn cemetery. There his senatorial predecessor, Charles Sumner and other notables are at rest.

Bishop William Lawrence, Lodge's mate and classmate, who will officiate at the services, probably will deliver no eulogy, it was said tonight. Absolute simplicity is planned. The hymns to be sung by the boy choir of the ancient church will be The Strife is O'er and The Son of God Goes Forth to Battle.

By proclamation of Governor Cox, all official state activities will cease during the hour of the funeral. The federal courts in this city will close from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m., and Federal Judges James M. Morton and James A. Lowell will attend the services. President John Donorhue of the city council will represent Boston at the funeral as acting mayor. City halls in several New England cities will close. Flags have been at half staff almost everywhere for the past two days. Bells are tolling at regular intervals elsewhere. New England tomorrow will be in mourning.

THEODORE D. ROBINSON ASS'T SECRETARY OF NAVY

Washington, Nov. 11.—Two developments in the realignment of the official family of President Coolidge were made known today, but at the same time it was emphasized at the White House that no other immediate changes are in contemplation.

Secretary Davis of the labor department, it was learned, has asked Mr. Coolidge to be relieved of his post on March 4 next. At the same time President Coolidge announced the selection of Theodore Douglas Robinson of New York, a nephew of former President Roosevelt, to be assistant secretary of the navy, an office made vacant late in September by the resignation of Theodore Roosevelt.

It was stated officially at the White House that the president has not so far given any further consideration to the reorganization of his cabinet since he had received no intimatinos other than from Mr. Davis that any members wished to retire.

WHAT SAMUEL UNTERMYER THINKS OF ARMISTICE DAY

New York, Nov. 11.—Samuel Untermyer, in an address at Temple Rodeph Sholom tonight, criticized the celebration of Armistice day on the ground that America was tricked by European diplomats in making peace terms. "We are celebrating not only the betrayal of the vanquished but of America," he declared.

Mr. Untermyer characterized the militarism of France as more aggravated than the German militarism it replaced, and deplored what he called the hypocrisy of the United States for the reasons it gives for refusing to recognize Russia.

Emma Goldman Sees Danger in Bolshevism

Seeks Refuge in England to Plead the Cause of Political Prisoners in Russia—Disillusioned.

London, Nov. 11—(By the A. P.)—Emma Goldman, who has come to England from Germany seeking asylum as a refugee, intends to make a speaking tour of Great Britain, according to her London friends. Miss Goldman was deported from the United States to Russia as an undesirable alien and subsequently left Russia for Germany where she has been residing until recently.

A dinner to welcome Miss Goldman will be given tomorrow night in a fleet street restaurant and the guests will include Rebecca West, Bertrand Russell, Siegfried Sassoon and others.

A. Sugg, who is arranging the dinner and the projected speaking tour, told the Associated Press that Miss Goldman is "dead against the Bolsheviks" and intends to plead the cause of the political prisoners in Russia in the speeches she will make in England.

"She says that the dangers of bolshevism are not realized here," said Mr. Sugg, "espcially by the advanced political movement. To her there seems to be an abyss between the Russian people and the bolshevik government."

Miss Gorman is at present living quietly in a middle-class section of London.

ITALY PREPARING TO PAY OFF BOND ISSUE

New York, Nov. 11.—Italy's intention of paying off the bond issue in the United States which will expire next February, was announced by Prince Caetani, the Italian ambassador to the United States, in an address tonight at a banquet of the Italy-America Society. The ambassador cited this as a proof of the economic reconstruction taking place in Italy, and urged that closer commercial cooperation between the two countries be established.

Among the guests was Under Secretary Grew of the state department, who read a message from Secretary Hughes expressing the latter's "keen sense of personal loss" in the approaching surrender by the ambassador of his post at Washington.

Mr. Hughes in his message touched also upon Italian progress toward economic stability.

"Especially do we reloice," he said, "in the new manifestation of Italy's energy and resourcefulness, as she had girded herself with extraordinary unity, vigor and determination to meet the economic difficulties which followed the war and in the high degree of prosperity she has won through the indefatigable industry and skill of her people and her leaders."

M. E. CHURCH LOOKING FOR WAY TO OUTLAW WAR

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 11.—Declaring that the attitude of the Methodist Episcopal church was a demand for the government to find a way to outlaw war, the house of bishops in conference here today issued this Armistice Day statement:

"We share with others in the United States and the world, the sense of the profound significance of this day. We hold in deep and grateful remembrance the service of those who nobly served, many of whom died in the World war, and we also express the earnest hope that the expression by the late President Harding, 'It must never happen again.'

"We agree with President Coolidge that the highest use of Armistice Day as the years go on will be to create in the United States the determination to outlaw war and among nations the will for peace. On Armistice day the sorrow, futility, unreasonableness and brutality of war are brought before us afresh. 'It must never happen again.'"

STATE TO DEMAND THE FULL AMOUNT OF $125,000 FROM DEFUNCT PUTNAM BANK

Hartford, Nov. 11.—The state of Connecticut will make demand this week upon Receiver Coffin of the closed First National bank of Putnam for the full amount of $125,000 shown by state records to have been deposited there by G. Harold Gilpatric, defaulting cashier of the bank, in his capacity as state treasurer.

The state treasury department took up with Attorney General Frank E. Healy today the matter of filing formal proof of its claim to the deposit in order to share with other depositors the 35 per cent. dividend of deposits to be released by the receiver next month.

In support of its contention that it had $125,000 on deposit in the bank at the time it was ordered closed by Federal Bank Examiner Bean, the state will submit different forms of evidence in connection with a final deposit of $20,000 which the books of the bank fail to show.

Prior to June 3, $85,000 was deposited to the state's credit in the Putnam bank. On that date, Gilpatric added $20,000 to the state's account by a state treasury check. Proper entries were found on the books of the bank to support claims to these deposits. A second check for $20,000 was made out to the bank at the state treasury June 27, at Gilpatric's direction, ostensibly to be added to the state deposit at the bank, which then totalled $105,000, more than the 30 per cent. limit allowed by law. That brought the state deposit at the Putnam bank to $125,000, as shown on the treasury department books, but the federal bank examiners have reported inability to find record of the last check being received at the bank.

Attorney General Healy advised the treasury department today to forward to Receiver Coffin, together with its formal proof of claim, the cancelled check of June 27, bearing the endorsement of the Putnam bank and its correspondent, the Merchants National bank of Boston, the state's passbook in which the Putnam bank credited it with the full $125,000, and a record of the fact that the state received interest on that amount.

The attorney general denied today that there was anything irregular about the endorsements on the June 27 check, and contended that it constituted a valid claim against the bank.

The state is the largest depositor in the Putnam bank, but will of course, receive only the same proportion of its full deposit as do other depositors. The tentative time set for the distribution of 25 per cent. of deposits is the week of December 15, and, if the state is credited with the full amount of $125,000 its checks from the receiver at that time will approximate $31,250. No interest will be paid on any deposits.

PROGRESS IN BLOCKADING ATLANTIC RUM RUNNERS

Coast Guard Reports an Increase in Number of Seizures of Rum Running Boats Last Month—Plans of the Guard to Further Combat Rum Running Are Rapidly Maturing—Large Numbers of Norwegian Steamers Are Engaged in the Liquor Traffic — Connecticut Coast a Troublesome Location.

Washington, Nov. 11—The administration is making every effort with the means at its command to break up the rum fleets stationed off American shores and believes it can end the "national disgrace," the treasury declared tonight in a formal statement embodying a report by the coast guard covering operations in October.

The statement announced that there was an increase in the number of seizures of rum running boats last month and added that the coast guard was making satisfactory progress in combatting the rum fleets. Plans of the guard, for which money was provided near the close of the last congress, are rapidly maturing, the treasury said.

Special attention was given in the coast guard's report to the part steamers flying Norwegian flags are taking in attempts to bring liquor into the United States. The coast guard said it was "surprising to note the number," enumerating and naming ten of them as recently lined up in the rum fleet of New York and New Jersey.

"The administration is determined," the statement said, "to make every effort with the material it has to combat and, if possible, to break up the rum fleets which have become a national disgrace off the coasts. The complete routing of rum row will take time but, as increased facilities are put into operation, the end of rum row is forecast."

Announcing the "large increase in the numbers of seizures," the statement said that seven large ships that had been acting as supply ships for the rum fleet had been captured under the authority of the treaties ratified by the last congress.

"One of the largest seizures made during the month," it added "was that of the Norwegian steamed Sagatind, with 38,000 cases of whiskey aboard. This steamer had transferred part of its cargo to a motorboat having a speed of 40 miles an hour before the coast guard seized her, 22 miles off the New Jersey coast.

"It is surprising to note the number of Norwegian vessels engaged in the liquor traffic. "Prohibition is in force in Norway with respect to spiritous liquors. If ten large American vessels were stationed off the coast of Norway, engaged in smuggling liquor into that country, Norwegians might have a different view of the situation. It would seem that steps might be taken by the two guvernment to stop this illicit traffic."

Discussing problems faced by the coast guard, the report said that the "worst localities" were widely scattered and that thus far it had been impossible to attack the problem of stopping the inflow completely in all of them at once. But the coast guard has hopes that when its full complement of boats and men is available, it will be able to send most of the rum runners away with their cargoes still aboard.

Coast guard officials regard as of great importance information that has bene gathered in confiscated papers taken with the rum boats. Disclosures in those documents give, the report said, "a rather complete list of the persons actually financing and directing the smuggling operations." With this information, the coast guard has been able to lay its plans for campaigns against contemplated smuggling operations. All of this information is retained for those directing the fight against the smugglers and its use to date was described as "extremely effective."

The report gave a detailed statement of the troublesome locations in which the smuggling operations have been largest, enumerating among them:

The New England coast, the numerous rivers, bays and channels of Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Long Island, and the long coast line of New Jersey, Delaware and Chesapeake Bay. The run fleet off New York; a fixture of three years, has utilized all of these in sporadic operations, it was asserted.

In the South Atlantic, the report mentioned the Bahama group of islands and the intricate net work of the Florida keys as providing fertile grounds for the bottle fishers, as well as providing ingress and egress for the small and fast motor boats.

TO ISSUE WARRANT FOR ARREST OF MISS SCHNEIDER

New Haven, Nov. 11.—Ward Church, town juror, of North Haven, announced tonight that he will issue a warrant, probably tomorrow, for the arrest of Miss Marjorie Schneider, driver of an automobile in which Charles Rogers, bond salesman, of this city, was killed on the night of Nov. 4. Miss Schneider will be charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

Rogers was killed in North Haven on the night of November 4 while returning to this city from an inn with Miss Schneider after the Yale-Army football game. Following reports that possibly Rogers was a victim of foul play, the officials in North Haven have been conducting an investigation of the circumstances leading up to the young man's death.

Coroner Eli Mix, completing his probe of the death, returned a finding that no criminal responsibility could be attached to the death but that both Miss Schneider and Rogers "were under the influence of liquor."

SUCCESSFUL ARMISTICE DAY PARADE IN HARTFORD

Hartford, Nov. 11.—The most successful armistice day parade Hartford has ever had was held here tonight before a larger crowd than has witnessed any parade in the city in recent years. The crowd was variously estimated at between 125,000 and 175,000 by parade officials. The entire city police force with a special force of national guard cavalrymen was needed to keep the streets clear for the marchers. Scores of beautifully decorated floats and nearly every veteran, civic, fraternal and military organization in the city took part in the parade. Rain interfered with festivities planned for later in the evening, but most of a "carnival" program was completed.

FIVE SUITS OVER CARLOADS OF FLOUR AND FEED

Bridgeport, Nov. 11.—The New Haven railroad, in five separate suits commenced jointly before Judge Booth in superior court today, calls upon the court to settle the ownership of five carloads of flour and three carloads of feed shipped from Minnesota to the National Grain corporation just before its adjudication as an involuntary bankrupt. The cargoes are claimed by the First National bank of this city and by five milling companies of Minneapolis, and are in custody of the railroad company. The railroad asked for a court ruling to save itself from being made defendant in suits said to have been threatened by the claimants.

NO PNEUMONIC PLAGUE IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 11.—Reports of pneumonic plague in New Maine and Hurst, southern Illinois, are "unfounded," Dr. J. J. Every reported case of plague was found to be simply pneumonia, he said.

CENOTAPH IN HONOR OF CANADA'S WORLD WAR DEAD

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION IN GREATER NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 11.—New York halted its affairs for two minutes today to commemorate the sixth anniversary of the signing of the armistice.

There were celebrations in each of the city's five boroughs, varying in size and degree, but the most impressive of the observances was semi-official and wholly voluntary. This occurred at 11 o'clock, the hour of the signing of the armistice, when for two minutes the entire metropolis ceased its humming to pay homage to the day.

At noon, American Legion exercises were held in Madison Square Park, at the eternal light. Here gathered 25,000 men who fought in the war—Americans, Britishers, Canadians, Italians, Frenchmen—for a simple service that opened with prayer and ended with taps. Then the uniformed veterans marched up Fifth avenue to the Mall in Central Park, where addresses were delivered by Mayor Hylan and Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state under President Wilson.

George W. Wickersham, former United States attorney general, the principal speaker at Madison Square, warned that "no nation can long endure that puts its trust in its own prowess."

GANGSTERS IN CHICAGO ARE AT HIGH TENSION

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Chicago's gangland habitues had trigger fingers crooked for action tonight while the police searched futilely for someone to solve the slaying of Dion O'Bannion, notorious gang leader, hi-jacker and bootlegger, who was shot to death by three men yesterday as he stood among the roses in his florist shop.

Upwards of half a hundred well known gangsters have walked in and out of the state's attorney's office since the murder. Some of them came voluntarily, some of them were "sent for," some were pals of O'Bannion and others made no secret of the fact that they were glad he is dead, but all professed profound ignorance as to who killed him and why.

Tonight the police were inclined to the theory that he had been slain as a result of a quarrel among two factions of bootleggers.

ST. MARKS-IN-THE-BOUWERIE TO UTILIZE PSYCHO-ANALYSIS

New York, Nov. 11.—The Episcopal church of St. Marks-on-the-Bouwerie, which some time ago won the disapproval of Bishop Manning because of its rythmic dancing services, will utilize psycho-analysis in the personal and social problems of those who apply to it for such aid, it was announced today.

The church has created a new pastoral office of psychological guidance, which will be under the direction of the Rev. Guthrie Pitblado, who has come from a Pittsburgh church to be assistant to the Rev. Dr. William Norman Guthrie, the rector. It will have experts in psychology, astrology and physiognomy at its call for consultation in the cases which come to it.

Judge William M. Maltbie was on the bench. The case up for hearing was put over until Tuesday morning of next week and Judge Maltbie stated that it would probably be re-assigned at the short calendar session Friday. The trial concerned a horse owned by the defendant, a resident of Columbia, bita, which was roaming on the state highway on the evening of June 2, 1924. When the plaintiff and his family drove by the animal it reared and kicked the radiator of the machine, causing damage. In a civil suit in the lower court judgment was given for the plaintiff; an appeal was taken. The last case was that of Louise Van Durr vs. Christian Lorenson, also defendant's appeal. This case was called off while the court was calling the jury. Attorney Edleson of Hartford, for the defendant, announced the settlement. The case is an old one, dating back to January 13, 1921. The plaintiff alleges that while standing on a street corner in the town of Hampton, the defendant raised his hand and threatened her, also using language which unstrung her nerves. In a civil suit some months later Justice of the Peace William C. Oliver gave a decision for the plaintiff from which decision defendant appealed.

The jury was excused until today (Wednesday) to hear the case of Victor Budzinsky of Brooklyn, N. Y., against The Jones Auto Company of this city. The case involves the burning up of a truck owned by the company and loaded at the time with furniture being moved to Brooklyn for the plaintiff. DEFICIENT FIRE PROTECTION IN PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS

Hartford, Nov. 11. — Immediate changes in fire protection systems and methods, declared vitally necessary at many state institutions, are recommended in the reports of engineers from the Aetna Insurance company, made after investigation conducted during the past three months for the state department of welfare. The most drastic recommendations followed investigations at the Seaside sanatorium at Niantic and the Connecticut school for boys at Meriden, these institutions being set forth in the report as badly in need of more adequate fire protection.

The engineers find that general administration at all institutions is excellent, with high grade sanitary conditions prevailing. The investigations were made at nearly 100 institutions, including state and county jails, state, municipal and private hospitals, almshouses and private charitable institutions. The survey was made without cost to the state, it being made in conjunction with an inspectors' school conducted by the Aetna Insurance company. Reports on about seventy of the institutions have been made to President George C. F. Williams and Secretary Charles P. Kellogg of the department of public welfare.

The reports will be acted upon at coming meetings of the department board, and although they affect each institution individually, it is expected that the board will recommend changes following the suggestions of the investigators with a view to reducing the fire hazards and insurance premium costs at each institution. The survey was carried on under the general direction of John E. Downey, assistant superintendent of the Aetna engineering department.

Among the highest rating institutions in the report in regard to fire protection service are the state prison at Wethersfield, the Connecticut state hospital at Middletown and the Newington home for crippled children. Hospitals in the state that have been inspected are reported in good condition, generally, both as to fire protection and sanitation. The jails that have been investigated have also been reported in safe conditions, with some recommendations for changes bearing on added protection and better sanitation.

The report of the Seaside sanatorium for children at Niantic says that excellent sanitary conditions prevail. It adds that the superintendent appreciates the seriousness of possible fires and keeps his very limited fire fighting facilities in excellent condition. Plans are now made for erection of a modern building to replace the present frame hospital. Even if this building was already in process of erection, the report says, "we recommend that immediate steps be taken to improve fire protection."

The hospitals that have been inspected are as follows: New Haven hospital; Grace hospital, New Haven; Hartford orphan asylum; Bridgeport hospital; Waterbury hospital; St. Mary's hospital, Waterbury; William W. Backus hospital, Norwich; Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospital, New London; Manchester memorial hospital; Griffin hospital, Derby; St. Vincent's hospital, Bridgeport; St. Raphael's hospital, New Haven.

For the Bridgeport General hospital, it is recommended that as part of the main group are old and subject to rapid spread of fire, sprinklers should be installed. Sprinklers are also recommended for the William W. Backus hospital at Norwich.

The Litchfield county jail was found in good condition, with no prominently undesirable features, as was also the New London city jail. Outside protection facilities are recommended for the Haddam jail, Fairfield county jail, Bridgeport, Windham county jail, Brooklyn, and the New London county jail Norwich. The New Haven county jail is listed as a fair risk and extra chemical extinguishers are recommended, together with standard fire doors on cutoffs between main and factory buildings.

The St. Francis R. C. orphan asylum at New Haven is listed as an institution with hazards common to the class. Recommendations: Sprinkling system. Change fire escape on north side of girls' dormitory. Supply tank for oil burner in laundry building should be under ground at least three feet. Provide chemical extinguishers for laundry building. Provide night watchman to make rounds with approved clock. Administration, good. Repair, good. Care of appliances, good.

Special hazards are listed at the Hamden almshouse, where numerous oil stoves are in use, and also oil lamps for lighting. The housekeeping is listed as fair to poor. Numerous piles of rubbish were found in the attic and cellar. Recommendations include the re-roofing of the main building, removal of vines and wires from fire escape on ell and repairing of door in the upper hallway, as exit is now blocked in case of fire. Abandonment of the use of oil stoves is urged, with the installation of electric lights and the providing of an outside fire escape for the main building.

The almshouses and smaller charitable institutions, including private hospitals, that have been inspected were, in general, found to be in good condition, with fire hazards common to institutions of this class. These, in the main, consist of improper lighting systems, lack of metal protection near stoves and furnaces, and, in general, insufficient outside fire protection. Many institutions are cautioned against the practice of allowing rubbish to collect.

Among the institutions of this sort which have been reported upon are the following:

New Haven orphan asylum; Rock Nook home, Norwich Town; Hamden almshouse; East Haddam almshouse; Babies' Emergency home, New Haven; Hebrew Women's Home for Children, Hartford; Jewish Home for Children, New Haven; Protestant Orphans' home, Bridgeport; Manchester almshouse; Bristol almshouse; town farm, New Britain.

Springside home, New Haven; town farm, New Milford; Hillside home, Bridgeport; Hillside home, Ansonia; Middletown almshouse, Middletown; East Hartford almshouse, East Hartford; House of Good Shepherd, Hartford; the Burroughs home, Bridgeport; Sterling widows' home, Bridgeport; the widows' home, Hartford (133 Market street); the widows' home, Hartford (13 South Hudson street); the Erwin woman's home, New Britain (bounded by Bassett, Ellis, Warlock and Edson streets); Mary Ward home, New Haven; Johnson home, Norwich Town; Eliza Huntington Memorial home, Norwich; Harriet Makinster home, Middletown; Little Sisters of the Poor, New Haven; the Trinity church house, New Haven.

Center church home, New Haven; St. Paul's church home, New Haven; Smith Memorial home, New London; the Lawson C. Ives widows' home, Hartford; St. John's school, Deep River; the Children's home, New Britain; the church home of Hartford; St. Mary's Home for the Aged, West Hartford; St. Agnes' home, West Hartford; Florence Crittendon home, West Haven; Guilford almshouse.

Copies of all reports are to be sent to the superintendents and managers at all institutions.

HOW COOLIDGE VIEWS BUSINESS IMPROVEMENT

Washington, Nov. 11.—Improvement in business conditions during the past week is regarded by President Coolidge as due not only to the removal of the uncertainty which always hinges on an election but to confidence inspired by a decisive vote of the people.

He views the result of the election as a plain endorsement of the principle that business be left in the hands of private enterprise.

The release of buying orders held up in all branches of trade pending the election is viewed by Mr. Coolidge as an affronting an important stimulus to business also at this time.

The advance in wheat prices since the election was pointed to by White House officials today as refuting reports that previous advances in the market had been engineered by influences favoring the election of President Coolidge.

MRS. HARDING REPORTED IN "BETTER" CONDITION

Marion, O., Nov. 11.—The condition of Mrs. Florence Kling Harding was reported as "better" tonight in a bulletin issued by her physician, Dr. Carl W. Sawyer. Mrs. Harding deeply appreciated the significance of Armistice day, Dr. Sawyer said, adding that "her heart went out to the soldier boys."

Tonight's bulletin said:

"Mrs. Harding has been exhausted and weak most of the day, but this evening she feels stronger and better. She has been able to take more nourishment during the last 24 hours than usual."

Life is worth living, unless a cruel fate tosses you up against a fashionable boarding house.

Do you remember when you thought that the reason it was called Hard Sauce was because the cold butter was so hard to cream with the sugar?

Snowdrift—creams easily because it's already creamy itself.

Snowdrift never gets too hard nor too soft, no matter what the weather. It is always just the right creamy consistency that you find easiest and quickest to use.

You may have tried shortening that got hard as a candle in cold weather or in the ice-box, and then runny in warm weather.

Snowdrift stays stiff enough in a warm temperature and soft enough in cold, so that it is always convenient to use.

Snowdrift—for making cake, biscuit and pastry and for frying

HARVARD TO HAVE JONATHAN TRUMBULL PROFESSORSHIP

Hartford, Nov. 11.—Harvard university is to have a new professorship, to be known as the Jonathan Trumbull professorship of American government, which is to be the gift of Connecticut citizens. The establishment of the chair is, in reality, reciprocal generosity on the part of Connecticut citizens for the return by the Massachusetts Historical society of the priceless Trumbull papers to this state after more than one hundred years in Massachusetts. Jonathan Trumbull was a member of the class of 1727 at Harvard and was ranked, as was the custom at that time, with regard to the prominence of his family, being twenty-eight in a class of thirty-seven. One of his sons, Joseph, was ranked second in 1756 and two years later, Jonathan, Jr., was ranked first. There is also to be a commemorative tablet, to be executed by Evelyn Beatrice Longman (Mrs. N. H. Batchelder), of Windsor. The movement has the official approval and support of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Colonial Dames and Sons of the American Revolution and among those who are fostering the movement are ex-Governors Everett J. Lake and Rollin S. Woodruff, Roswell P. Angier, dean of freshmen at Yale; State Librarian George S. Godard, State Treasurer-elect Ernest E. Rogers, Headmaster N. H. Batchelder, of Loomis Institute, Mrs. John Laidlaw Buell, David Gibbs, Rev. Sherrod Soule, George S. Stevenson and Dr. George C. F. Williams.

NINE DEATHS HAVE RESULTED FROM ARSENIC IN CIDER

Bedford, Va., Nov. 11.—The number of deaths at the Elks National Home of poisoning believed to have resulted from drinking apple cider containing arsenic was increased to ninetonight when W. H. Hutchinson, of Corry, Pa., died. Seventeen other residents of the home are ill, at least four seriously.

Physicians called in after about twenty-five of the aged residents of the home became ill after drinking the cider at the noon meal yesterday, all diagnosed the cases of arsenic poisoning and a subsequent investigation by the county authorities and Superintendent Charles Mosby of the home, was said to have led to the belief that the source of the poison was the barrel containing the cider. The arsenic is believed to have been left in the barrel from a tree spraying compound which it previously contained.

The commonwealth's attorney and the county coroner both decided after an investigation today that the poisoning was accidental and that none of the circumstances justified the holding of an inquest.

Telegrams received at the home today from all parts of the country, offering aid were replied to by Mr. Mosby that everything possible was being done for those ill and that no assistance was needed.

The extreme age of those made ill makes their condition much fore precarious, physicians stated, and it was said that several more might die although hope was still held for their recovery.

BELIEVES DANCING IS CONDUCIVE TO LONGLEVITY

New York, Nov. 11.—"Begin dancing and add 20 years to your life." Julius Moldenhauer, 79 years old, of Hartford, Conn., advised today as he arrived on the Scandinavian American Liner Oscar II from a visit to Copenhagen. He expressed the belief that if the doctors will only permit him to continue his terpsichorean activities he will live to be 100. Moldenhauer was for many years chief advisor of the state farm bureau at Albany.

Six feet all, with a flowing white beard, the old man, who is the father of Dr. J. V. Moldenhauer, pastor of the Westminister Presbyterian church of Albany, N. Y., said he had danced his way "to Europe and back again."

"Routh weather?" he laughed. "Sure we had plenty of it, but it did not stop me. I danced whenever I heard music and I can't stop until they play 'Home Sweet Home.'"

"My son object to my dancing? No, siree, he dances himself and I taught him most of the steps he knows."

Moldenhauer said he gave up dancing 35 years ago but resumed it again 10 years ago, after the doctors had told him not to engage in violent exercise. Although he prefers the old-fashioned dances to the modern steps, the old man explained he "adapts" himself readily to the new music.

Women passengers aboard the ship confirmed this and said: "He was lighter on his feet than the younger men!"

FAVORS COURT OF COMMERCE FOR BUSINESS DIFFICULTIES

New York, Nov. 11.—A court of commerce before which business men could appeal in times of over-production and low prices in order to arrange for the mutual fixing of prices and the cutting down of over-production was proposed tonight in a statement by Bernard Baruch, formerly of the war industries board, following a closed meeting of 150 former members of the board today.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Danielson turned out a very large number of people Tuesday evening for the annual night parade. The showing was very creditable this year and the parade went through as scheduled despite of the fact that rain began to fall a few minutes before the time set for the event. The parade moved over the course mapped out for it and organizations in line were cheered at different points on the line of march. St. James band was at the head of the line, with the Service Battery next, acting as escort for the American Legion. In order came the Ladies' Auxiliary of the American Legion, W. R. C., G. A. R., East Killingly band, uniformed rank of Odd Fellows, Wauregan band, Knights of Columbus, fire department and with a line of automobiles bringing up the rear of the line. The parade was dismissed at Railroad square. A dance at the state armory followed.

At the week end Walter E. Kies of Broad street retired as boss machinist at the plant of the Quinebaug company after 50 years, 6 months and 3 days of service for the big manufacturing concern. Mr. Kies resigned in order that he might have relaxation after a period of continuous service rarely equaled in the history of the company and only occasionally by men in any line of endeavor.

Upon retiring Mr. Kies was presented a gold watch by the company, the watch engraved with a testimonial of the concern's appreciation. The overseers and machine shop force presented him a purse of gold.

After all, it may happen that a closed season on Fords will be declared. It appears that the nation is on the verge of necessity. Some hunters shoot them. State officers saw a Ford at Brooklyn Tuesday morning that had been riddled with shot. Investigation established that the car had been hit with a charge of shot over in Rhode Island one day last week, while it had been left parked at the side of a country highway. A hunter was responsible. He had been shooting at a game bird. The Ford, as usual, stood the shock well. When observed Tuesday it was running as well as any normal Ford is expected to and had been getting along since absorbing the shock without medical attendance.

Some of the former service men have managed to preserve their uniforms, the Armistice day parade here established, but their number is not legion. Many of the men have outgrown their army clothes. Moths have feasted on scores of uniforms until their owners find them unfit for use. Some have worn out their uniforms. The khaki has gradually disappeared in various other ways. Incidentally, some of the soldiers are not at all in love with appearing in uniforms, so, first and last, many causes operated to reduce the number of uniforms one could note about town Tuesday.

Householders who had run heaters so late last spring are getting some compensation out of the late and mild fall weather. Scores of heaters in town have not come into use yet, and their own figures they have saved considerable on fuel by developing such heat as their homes require with gas heaters, small stoves and other devices. Inquiry establishes that many heaters in town have not had a fire in them since late April. On the other hand, numbers of heaters are in use, but running on what might be termed a slow burning schedule.

Danielson had rounded out up to Tuesday night a full six week without rainstorm. There have been drizzles in the meantime, but not one real rain. The last downpour came during the afternoon and night of September 30. That was a storm. Trees and poles were knocked down, wire service equipment damaged and service interrupted. The drought that has since consistently maintained itself might be in compensation for the fury of the storm referred to, but nature appears to be too contrite. Water levels in streams and ponds in this territory are at lower levels than have been noted in a great many years. On interest is the belief of fishermen that the trout fry released by the thousands in brooks in this county in early June will be for the most part killed off by the water shortage in the brooks and streams.

Local manufacturing plants were represented at the annual meeting of the Eastern Connecticut Overseers' association held Monday evening at the Community house in Plainfield.

A long lost industry that Danielson never hears any talk of reviving is the brick making industry that thrived for years at a yard two miles east of Danielson. It is said that there remain large deposits of clay at the yard, but difficult of access.

There was a generous display of flags in honor of Armistice day in Danielson and some special illumination during the early evening, during the time that the parade was on.

It is not likely that the cement apron considered for the frontage of the fire station property on Academy street will be constructed this fall on account of the lateness of the season and the expense that would be involved.

Mrs. Victoria Vandale, 60, died during the early hours of Tuesday morning at her home in Plainfield. Mrs. Vandale, a widow, formery was a resident of North Grosvenordale.

Manager Frank Barber of the Casino arena anticipates that the boxing bouts scheduled for Thursday will be the fastest seen here in a long time. The bill appears the best balanced of any of this year.

This week end brings the Killingly republican caucus for the nomination of a delegation to the state convention that will nominate a candidate for United States senator.

The Danielson commercial banks which have maintained offices in Putnam since early August, to furnish that city with commercial banking facilities, are withdrawing today (Wednesday) and closing their offices there, on the opening of two new commercial banks in that city.

Many motor parties from this territory were in Norwich Tuesday afternoon, to witness the Armistice day parade.

For the first time since it was established, just ten years ago, the resources of the Danielson Trust recently touched the $2,000,000 mark. This is indicative of the rapid growth of the bank.

In the town court Tuesday morning a fine of $2 and costs was imposed on Edward Rejlanski of Webster for violation of the motor vehicle laws pertaining to number plates. Rejalinski previously had been warned to adjust the plates properly, but failed to do so.

A corner that has been an eyesore in the central part of the borough has been transformed and made unusually attractive by the Standard Supply station. This new concern has added materially to improving the section where it is located at the corner of Main and Academy street. The location will be brilliantly illuminated at night.

With today the hunters have lost two full weeks of the open, but some rain came Tuesday evening to forecast the lifting of the ban that has kept them from pursuit of a pastime that is a fall favorite with hundreds.

Danielson saluted Armistice hour at 11 o'clock, Tuesday forenoon, with a great blowing of whistles and ringing of bells, but the volume did not represent more than a whisper as compared with the gigantic clamor that marked the celebration here on the original Armistice day

Through Brown university Alumni here a block of tickets has been obtained for the Thanksgiving day game at Andrews field between Brown and Colgate'l. The tickets will be used by local football enthusiasts.

PUTNAM

The annual meeting of the Windham County association is to be held at Odd Fellows' hall, Putnam, today (Wednesday). The principal speaker will be Andrew L. Felker, state commissioner of agriculture of New Hampshire. Officers will make their reports for the year. Dinner will be served in the hall. In the afternoon there will be short talks and a musical programme by the High School orchestra.

Miss Alma Salvas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Salvas, of Providence street, is to be married Thanksgiving day to A. D. Vigeant, of Farnham, Quebec. The ceremony will take place at St. Mary's church at eight o'clock in the morning.

Mr. Vigeant is employed by "Le Revell," a newspaper for French speaking people, while Miss Salvas is in the F. X. Lucier store. After the wedding they will live in a newly furnished home on Van den Noort street.

At the weekly luncheon and meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Monday, Alfred Tate was the guest of honor and the after-luncheon speaker. He is the superintendent of Perkins, Strongman, Inc., which has bought and will manufacture a textile fabric in the Morse mill on Church street, which has been idle for many years.

Two hundred looms have been put in place, some of them of the jacquard type. The mill is now in operation and will have a force of about 60 employes. This number the firm expects to increase as rapidly as business conditions warrant. Like all the mills in the city, they are handicapped by insufficient water, due to the fact that it has been seven weeks since Putnam has had a real rainfall.

A large airplane carrying fous passengers, the pilot and mechanician, bound from Boston to Hartford, was forced to land Saturday at Pomfret, having run out of fuel. A suitable landing place was found on the Fayette Wright farm and the big airship descended to earth without mishap. Two of the passengers and the mechanic walked to the Jarvis gasoline station in this city and bought ten gallons of gasoline of the common, garden variety kind. The motors of airplanes are run by a high charged—both in price and composition—solution of chemicals, but none was obtainable here and the mechanic decided that he would take a chance operating his engine on 18-cent gas.

The party bought ten gallons but when it came to paying for it the combined capital of the three was needed to make up the requisite amount which is rather amusing when one considers the kind of vehicle in which they were making a journey of 100 miles.

Evidently the gasoline worked, for soon after the party got back to the Wright place the machine was seen to rise and make its way southward. And ten gallons were evidently enough to carry it to its destination. They should have filled the tank before they started but doubtless it was better to run out of gas a mile above the earth than to have a tire go flat, or the gear of the steering wheel slip a cog.

P. Simon, who conducts a shop on Canal street was called to Philadelphia last Wednesday morning on account of the sudden death of his brother in that city. Mr. Simon, a manufacturer of coats in Philadelphia, last Tuesday was in his usual health, but was taken suddenly ill, went to the office of a nearby doctor and died five minutes later.

W. S. Johnson expects to leave on Friday for his winter home at Miami, Florida.

There is to be a meeting of the Circuit League of the M. E. church at Danielson Saturday afternoon and evening. Methods of League work and plans for the winter season will be discussed.

Miss Rhea de Coudres, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas de Coudras passed the preliminary examinations at Brown university and has begun her studies there.

A special election to choose the second senator from Connecticut will be held December 16th. Delegates from this part of the county have been chosen as follows:

Putnam—Mrs. Dorothy J. Bartlett, David Beausolei, Frederick Dumas, J. Otis Fox and Edmund Dubois.

Eastford—Mrs. Elizabeth Hmith and Mrs. Mary M. Wheaton.

Woodstock — Mrs. Christina R. Scranton, Asa R. Scranton, Jr., Hamilton Holt and Mrs. Holt were elected.

Pomfret—Dr. F. G. Goodridge, Joseph Stoddard, Joseph Bates and Michael Eddington.

Thompson—E. J. Keegan; F. M. Munyan and Philip Duhamel.

The convention will be held at Hartford, November 24.

Mr. Holt resides in Woodstock in the home where his grandparents began housekeeping. He is a graduate of Woodstock Academy, and of Yale. For twenty-five years he was editor of The Independent. During the greater part of that time he lived on the East Side, the tenement district. With Louis Brandeis, now an associate justice of the United States supreme court he settled the differences between the Garment Workers' Union and their employes. He took post-graduate work in sociology and economics at Columbia university, and from that time he has been deeply interested in the promotion of better international relation. In 1897 he joined the staff of The Independent, published in New York, as managing editor, and in 1913 became its editor and owner. He has seen a good deal of the world while engaged on professional errands; and as a special emissary sent to aid in bringing about closer relations between the nations. Mr. Holt possesses French, Italian, Greek and Japanese decorations to which there was added recently the Swedish order of Knight of the North Star.

PLAINFIELD

Plainfield celebrated Armistice Day as a duplicate of the day six years ago, when this town received the word. At 11 o'clock whistles and bells sounded, the youngsters were out with all kinds of noise-makers. It was Mardi Gras, Fourth of July, New Year's and all the other holidays of the years together. All business in the town was suspended. A good football game in Moosup furnished the day's excitement. Athletic events at the Community House were good. Swimming races, fancy diving, bowling matches, pool games, card games and a rifle shoot. In the evening a dance was held. The veterans of the village thought they were receiving another home-coming reception. The dance resembled a league of nations, the girls being in costumes. At 11 o'clock a sham battle was staged and the local boys put their parts over good. After the dance a light lunch was served.

Armistice Day exercises were held at the local grammar school Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. Raymond Greene of the Lawton Mill corporation gave an address on Peace Throughout Our Country. There were recitations by Miss Bessy Condin, Miss Elma Southbridge, Matilda Vincent, Lena Butler, Lucile Fournier, Francis Mathiew, Edna Burke, Isabelle Heneault, Edward Lacourse, Raymond Wood, Leo Varsper, and violin and piano selections by Miss Pauline Heneault and Helen Greene. Miss Alice Sabot played a piano selection. Miss Helen Krages recited Our Flag. The exercises were concluded by singing America the Beautiful and America, later giving the flag salute.

Many Plainfield residents motored to Norwich to participate in the Armistice Day program.

Mr. and Mrs. Delardo Heneault and family motored to Providence to spend Tuesday with relatives.

Plainfield High school students were just a little peeved over the football game Monday with the Academy boys. They claim that they did not receive a fair deal but Plainfield showed the proper spirit by taking the defeat in good humor.

Many fans witnessed the game between the local high school and Westerly High, at Moosup, Tuesday afternoon. Both teams played a hard game.

JUDGE SOPER'S RULING ON FRUIT DRINKS AND BEER

Baltimore, Nov. 11.—In ruling of the admissibility of certain testimony today at the trial of Representative John Philip Hall, in United States court, Judge Morris A. Soper declared it his opinion that it was the intent of congress, as set forth in section 29 of the Volstead act, to permit the manufacture of fruit beverages and cider for home consumption regardless of alcoholic limit of one-half of 1 per cent. set forth elsewhere in the act.

Judge Soper added, however, that should such beverages be in fact intoxicating, their manufacture would be a violation of the law, as would their sale or delivery except to persons having permits for the manufacture of vinegar.

The judge also declared that in his opinion defendants in such cases could offer evidence to show that their beverages were not in fact intoxicating.

Taking of testimony in the case of Mr. Hill, who was brought to trial on an indictment charging that he illegally manufactured and possessed wine and cider of more than one-half of 1 per cent. alcoholic content, was completed by both the government and defense today.

The congressman, taking the stand in his own defense today, was not permitted to testify or introduce correspondence regarding efforts made by him to obtain from Prohibition Commissioner Haynes a ruling on the alcoholic content of home-made beverages. Likewise department of agriculture bulletins on the manufacture of such beverages were ruled inadmissible and Mr. Hill was not allowed to finish testimony that he had followed the directions of a bulletin of that department in making his wine and cider.

After placing a number of witnesses on the stand to testify that they drank Mr. Hill's beverages and were not intoxicated, the defense closed its case.

THE WHITE WAY.

It has taken a long time to get it but Norwich is now partially equipped with what it needs in the way of improved lighting of its streets in the heart of the city.

The idea of better lighted streets has swept back and forth over the country. Norwich hasn't rushed in to set an example for others. It hasn't displayed any great speed in emulating the good work that has been done by others in this direction. The contrast between the well lighted streets of a progressive city and the dimly lighted ones of the city which had failed to keep up with the procession was such that municipal welfare and civic pride finally set the ball rolling, and now Norwich has a system of lighting on a part of its business streets that makes an excellent impression. It is one of the outward signs of an up-to-date community.

Already it may be regarded as prompting the question, How soon before it will be extended to other streets?

When the voters and taxpayers in city meeting appropriated the money for obtaining the so called white way it was recognized as partially meeting a public need. Having put itself in a position that will permit of comparison with other cities Norwich cannot now be unmindful of completing the job. The good appearance of the well lighted streets provides the reason for an extension of the new system, and particularly so in view of the fact that this light, this city advertising, is obtained at cost.

It is not to be supposed that a white way means skimping on needed lights elsewhere within the city. To the contrary it should simply mean the inauguration of an improved system which shall reach to all parts of the city. Dingy and dark streets carry their own evidence of insecurity and dissatisfaction. Norwich has taken a most commendable step forward. The results shine forth most gratifyingly. Let's now carry on the good work and finish the job. Other streets need the same treatment.

THE RED CROSS APPEAL.

With the coming of Armistice day there opened the annual campaign for Red Cross memberships, the annual reminder that a great organization has met such demands as have been made upon it in its various lines of service to humanity for the past year and seeks to fortify itself with the means of continuing similar activity during another twelve months.

There is no great difficulty in understanding the appeal of the Red Cross, and it certainly is one of those causes with which everyone wants to be identified. When the Red Cross is mentioned it is known what is involved. It means service, relief work, meeting the needs in time of disaster and carrying on various peace time undertakings which mean better health, longer life and improved community conditions.

Any organization with such a common appeal cannot fail to get recognition. By its record it is known. Whether it is pestilence, famine, flood or war, the Red Cross is equipped and ready to administer to the unfortunate and relieve the distress. Begun as an organization for service on the battlefield it has seen the opportunity for rendering equally important service during the days when there is no war. It is a service that means the betterment of humanity and therefore a service which should have no limit and in the support of which there should be an eagerness to enlist.

Trouble may or may not come without warning, but whether it does or not it is desirable to have some relief organization to counteract its effect. It is highly desirable to have one that devotes no small part of its activity to prevention.

In the past there has been a most commendable response to the Red Cross membership campaign. It is sure to continue. Norwich is not unmindful of its excellent service and it will be most unlike it if Norwich does not outdo the support given in the past. There are the best of reasons for keeping and strengthening every good thing.

THE GASOLINE TAX.

Placing a tax on the users of gasoline does not appeal to all in the same light. There are those who favor it, and there are those who oppose it.

In the recent election there were three states in which this question was referred to the voters of the respective states. In Massachusetts the tax was defeated by a majority of 225,000, but in Minnesota and Missouri the idea met with approval.

In this connection it is interesting to note that a decision has just been handed down by the supreme court of the state of Indiana in which the constitutionality of a gasoline tax law has been upheld.

Massachusetts developed much opposition to the gasoline tax on the ground that owners of automobiles already pay enough in the way of special taxes, and in that state it was proposed to levy a tax of two cents a gallon. Sight seemed to have been lost of the fact that where gasoline taxes are imposed they are for the most part used for the benefit of the ones who pay the tax, since they are devoted to highway maintenance, and nothing is more desired by auto owners than the construction of goods and the keeping of them in good condition.

There can be no endorsement given to any plan of using gasoline taxes for any other purpose than highway work. Certainly there is no justification for applying such money to general state expenses. It will probably be admitted that auto owners are called upon to part with considerable money in the way of special taxes, but they are invariably broad-minded enough to realize that when the proceeds of a gasolene tax are devoted to keeping up the highways, a state duty in which they are particularly interested and benefited, the objection quickly melts away. They can hardly expect the general tax payer who has no use for the improved roads, the widened roads, the cement roads, to go down in his pockets to provide for their pleasure or their business. That at least is the way the people of Minnesota and Missouri looked at it and just what Connecticut did some time ago.

INCOME TAX PUBLICITY.

From the day when there was compliance with the law regarding the opening of the income tax payments to inspection, and which brought forth a difference of opinion as to what was provided for in the law, there has been a demand for clarifying the legislation.

From the very time that such legislation was proposed there was opposition to it. It was pointed out at the time that there would be snooping, a prying into other people's affairs, and that is just what has developed. Those who have gone to inspect the lists have asked for the entire number of taxpayers, those who paid over a certain amount or those who came from a certain locality, and there has been a frankness about declaring that such lists were wanted because "they would be a help to me in my business."

While there was much opposition to the legislature providing for full publicity, and less to that which modified it, it is impossible to regard the law as providing for the publication of any part of the tax returns. Opening the returns, or lists, to inspection is less objectionable than the publishing of the amounts. Having experienced just what was expected through the legislation enacted the demand which now arises for the wiping out of the law or the restating of the provision against publication in such a manner as to accomplish what was intended is quite natural. It is necessary to put some unwise legislation into operation in order to convince some people that a gross injustice is being done. That seems to be the situation in this instance.

ANALYZING THE CAMPAIGN.

We have reached the point right now where it is possible to get many explanations as to the cause of the election resulting as it did. There are not a few of the democrats who have set out to analyze the situation and to determine where their party made its mistakes. Their aim is to avoid such pitfalls in the future.

There are democrats who do not need to make any further study of the situation. They recognize the harm that was done in trying to fasten the acts of others upon Mr. Coolidge, they know how it reacted when Mr. Davis and others launched out with their attacks and they are not unmindful of the split that was caused by the fracas in the convention.

It doesn't require any prolonged study for those who have been watching developments to understand that the democratic cause was not aided in any respect by the disposition to join in with and help the third party movement. They understand thoroughly that serious mistakes were made and instead of endeavoring to overcome them they were given steady encouragement. Such things are bound to react, and that is just what they did.

It is not to be supposed that the democrats had a chance this year. Nothing pointed to it. The fact is the election resulted as it did because the voters of the country have been thoroughly impressed with the acts and policies of Calvin Coolidge, and while he may have introduced a new type of campaign it went big with those who have no use for those who indulge in wild and unwarranted claims in the hopes of getting political preferment. Coolidge was the issue and all efforts to beat him were useless.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Thanksgiving is but two weeks off. Are you making plans accordingly?

The man on the corner says: Most any day will be all right for rain, now.

We hear no one singing that old refrain, Rain, Rain Go away; Come again some other day.

Somehow the impression grows that the next national democratic convention will not be held in New York city.

In view of the vote rolled up by the president Hi Johnson will have greater reason for understanding his defeat in the primaries.

California goes for Coolidge by more than $90,000. And there were some who were disposed to rate California a doubtful state!

Not so long ago all crooks were warned to get out of and to stay away from New York. Now the police commissioner announces that he is going away.

Highly praiseworthy in every respect was the Armistice day parade. Much credit is due those who perfected the arrangements and carried out the details.

Is there any doubt about how the country feels concerning the wrecking of the Constitution or government ownership of railroads as expressed on election day?

FROM LUCILLES DIARY

Last week I went to visit Nan Darroll. I had heard so much about Sunny Acres, her summer home in Wisconsin, that I was most anxious to see it. I found it romantically beautiful, with the house built on a high cliff above the lake, and broad lawns rolling gently away at the rear into a thick woodland.

"It's enchanting here, Nell dear," I said as we walked about the first evening, "but don't you find it rather quiet?"

"Oh, I like the quiet and I have so much to occupy me about the place that never a moment hangs heavy on my hands, and our weekends are rather gay. Roland always brings a friend or two for over Sunday."

"How nice," I exclaimed, determining at once to reverse my hasty decision to leave the next day. I felt that I could enjoy a little dullness and complete rest with a pleasant house party in prospect.

"Well," I asked, "can you lend me a bathing suit for my morning dip? I have to take a few stitches in mine, and I know I shall not have the 'fusion' as the Scotch say, to get up tomorrow in time to do it, and I wouldn't miss the early plunge for anything. Don't you think the morning swim is especially revivifying?"

"I never feel the need of any revivifying, Lucile," laughed Nel in a way that I could not help deeming catty, but I merely smiled sweetly, and said that the matutinal swim set me up for all day.

"Of course you may have my bathing suit, Lucile, for what you call the matutinal swim. Are you taking a course in the dictionary?"

"Nonsense, Nell. But I do try to enlarge my vocabulary. I think it's refreshingly to get hold of a new word once in awhile. I'll tell you what I'll do, Nell, in return for the use of your bathing suit I'll make you a present of some unusual words with which to embellish your conversation."

"How very generous of you, Lucile! Thank you so much."

"Don't mention it," I told her. "Now there's serendipity, for instance. It means finding joy in unexpected places. It just fits Sunny Acres. Who would have expected to discovered such loveliness in this out-of-the-way corner?"

But I fancied that Nell bade me a rather cool good night, although I had put myself out to be most agreeable. I fear she has a trying disposition. I became almost sensitive about wearing her bathing suit, because of the peculiar glances she cast upon me every time I appeared in it. She was wearing one which belonged to an aunt, and I told her laughingly that it was delightfully quaint, with its high neck, long sleeves, and voluminous skirt. "You look like a belle of the early Gen. Grant period," I said.

"Indeed," she murmured.

On Saturday when I came out in my own black silk gayly embroidered bathing suit, she said, "You finally got around to taking those few stitches, did you, Lucile?"

"Yes, I fear I'm a fearful procrastinator, Nell, dear, but it was just darling of you to lend me your suit. I appreciated it tremendously." I could see that Roland and his friends listened to my pretty acknowledgements to Nell with pleasure.

"Any stitches you took on that suit were decidedly worth while," remarked William Percy, the younger of Roland's friends, and his very obvious admiration quite repaid me for so carefully saving my costume until there was some one beside Nell to see it. I really wondered how she could be content to wear her faded shabby suit. Sometimes I think married women become extremely careless about their appearance. Indeed, this thought disturbed me so much in connection with my dear old school friend that I said to her with the utmost kindness of tone that it seemed to me that she was not really meticulous in her dress.

"Thank you for the word, Lucile," she replied, "but under the circumstances it is extremely difficult to be what you call meticulous. My bathing suit was quite fresh and new when you arrived six days ago. It occurs to me now that I should have selected something more durable. Something that would have stood constant use and drying in the sun. I advise you to have yours in the shade."

"Thanks for the suggestion, Nell," I said pleasantly, for I make it a rule to preserve my own good humor and dignity under all conditions.—Chicago News.

Bacon's Success Came Late

Frank Bacon did not succeed until he was past 50.

While a boy he was taken by his parents from his native state Marysville, Cal., to a sheep ranch 50 miles from Fresno. Reading matter was scarce, and as he spent his time at monotonous sheepherding he conceived a desire to be an actor, but his parents thought theaters places of sin.

When the family moved to San Jose, he entered public school, but cared more for reciting than for his studies. At the end of three years he obtained work in a photograph gallery.

At 16 he saw his first play, East Lynne, then took elocution lessons and became much interested that he was "fired" from the photographer's shop. Starting a gallery of his own he barely made a living, and when he was married at 21 the struggle for two became fierce.

Business dwindled, and he became an advertising solicitor for a newspaper, and later published a weekly newspaper at Mountain View. After two years of close financing, he organized a stock company, playing, with his wife and daughter in horticultural hall at the fair grounds at San Jose for a year, then made a two-year tour of small towns and lumber and mining camps.

Then came seven years with a San Francisco stock company at $30 a week, until the earthquake forced him to leave. His stock company in Oakland was a failure, and after two years on the road with it he returned to San Francisco partially broke.

For years he had been building up the character of Old Bill Jones. He wrote a sketch around it, and with his wife and daughter presented it in vaudeville. It was a success. He then went east and played in prominent companies for eight years, and in that time rewrote a full play around Old Bill Jones.

After retiring to his prune ranch near San Jose at 51 he became so enthused over his play that he induced Winchell Smith to whip it into shape. When Lightnin' was first produced neither Smith nor John Golden, the producer expected much from it.

But it ran three years and a day in New York and 600 time in Chicago, and Bacon became famous and rich.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Behind the scenes of British broadcasting, away from the light of publicity, a former distinguished politician helps to guide the important affairs of the British Broadcasting Company, which is the dominant factor in radio activities in the British Isles. Lord Gainford, the chairman of the company, is a personality little known to the general public, yet his influence is always felt in any big broadcasting schemes undertaken. As J. A. Pease he was a well-known figure in Cambridge in his undergraduate days. At onetime private secretary to the late John Morley, when Chief Secretary of Ireland, he later became a member of parliament. From being Junior Whip he quickly rose to Cabinet rank and held in succession the posts of Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, President of the Board of Education, and Postmaster-General. As partner in a great coal mining firm Lord Gainford is also in close touch with the industrial world.

A Little Talk on Thrift

Pay More Attention to Thrift

An ancient savant, discoursing on the subject of philanthropy, wrote that by aiding a man so "that he may earn an honest livelihood and not be forced to the dreadful alternative of holding out his hand for charity—this is the highest step and the summit of charity's golden ladder."

These words should come with special meaning as we stand at the threshold of another winter, for it is during that season that the greatest demands upon charity are felt.

Encouragement in the practices of thrift is the best way to "anticipate charity by preventing poverty."

There always will be those who, through accident, illness or some other misfortune or through their own folly are dependent upon the alms of others. But just as a large percentage of fires, illness and accidents can be prevented, so a very large part of dependency on charity is preventable.

Not enough attention is paid to thrift. Not enough of it is taught in the schools, in the churches, in the press, in the factory and in the business office.

It is looked upon by too many charity drives and philanthropic activities of the coming winter, it would be well for individuals, groups and communities to keep these thoughts in mind.

To alleviate suffering and penury is an act worthy of the highest commendation. "The quality of mercy is not strain'd, it droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven upon the place beneath."

But to forestall poverty by inspiring thrift is even more praiseworthy. It is better to prevent suffering than merely to alleviate it.—American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

Nice Place for Cows.

The small daughter of proud parents was visiting for the first time on a farm and during her wanderings about the place had visited the cow barn. One evening she was seen running out of the farmhouse, and when asked by her mother where she was going, replied:

"Mother, I'm going out to the cow's garage."

All In a Days Travels

There was a group waiting for the early morning car which seemed a bit late. One young fellow was regaling the men around him with interesting experiences encountered on an extended auto tour in the summer. It was all well told and his audience seemed pleased with the exception of one old fellow, who had held the center of the stage on most other mornings, and didnt like to have the young fellow usurp his place in the sun.

By the time the car was approaching he had reached the point where he could restrain himself no longer and just as they were about to board the car he said:

"Young man, I've been further a rabbit-hunting than you'll ever be in your whole life!"

And Then She Screamed.

Here seems to be proof that a dream, which seems to the dreamer to continue for a considerable period, in reality lasts only a few seconds.

A woman dreamed that a rat had bitten her on each of her feet. She walked to a physician's office—in her dream, of course—and had the wounds cauterised. Then she began to awake and it seemed the rat was frisking about her neck. She screamed and as she thrust out her arm a little mouse scampered off it and on to the floor.

Dead Language Still Popular

Latin still is far in the lead among the languages studied at the secondary schools, although the last few years have seen a persistent movement against the teaching of Latin and Greek in the schools and colleges of the United States. The American Classical League has recently announced there are 940,000 students in the secondary schools studying Latin and 11,000 studying Greek. The Latin students comprise 25.5 per cent of the enrollment. About 80 per cent of the 20,500 secondary schools offer one or more foreign languages.

CHRYSLER

Where Chrysler Sales Are Coming From

There has been much discussion, of course, concerning the unprecedented sales of the Chrysler. No car of quality has ever made such a success in the same space of time. Naturally there has been a great deal of speculation as to where these sales came from. That question can be quickly answered. The Chrysler has made a market which is all its own. Its outstanding qualities are universal in their appeal. Everyone delights in the Chrysler combination of dashing appearance and dashing performance. Everyone recognizes at once how unnecessarily high and unwieldy other cars seem when you look up at them from the comfortable seats of a Chrysler. The Chrysler has invaded the highest priced division in every city in the country. Why not? The contrast in conservation of space, weight and height, the delightful ease of handling and parking, the cradling comfort both of riding and driving—these things are too pronounced to be overlooked by one who has driven more cumbersome cars. So the Chrysler invades the division of highest price—and makes equally striking appeal to the division below it and the next and the next. There isn't an unnecessary ounce or inch in the Chrysler—nothing but a thoroughbred utility throughout which has revised public conception of what constitutes sound motor car investment. The Chrysler market is a market made up of people who instantly discard the past when the present offers them something better. And that means, of course—all America.

MADE THRILLING RESCUE OF DROWNING MAN

Charles Carpenter, colored, who is subject to fits, owes his life to F. G. Fagerquist, first class engineman on the submarine N-3, who dove to the bottom of the Thames river Tuesday afternoon and saved Carpenter from drowning.

The Norwich man fell overboard in a fit and went to the bottom near the submarine, striking his head against the dock. The sailor dove after him, got him between his legs and brought him to the surface after a struggle.

Carpenter was taken out on shore and Dr. Louis T. Cassidy was summoned. The doctor had the ambulance take the man to the Backus hospital. The ambulance went clanging down Washington street and back past the place where the dedication exercises were being held for the memorial tablet.

Frederick Cohalan was celebrant, Rev. U. O. Bellerose, deacon, and Rev. Frederick DesSureault, sub-deacon. Father William A. Keefe was seated in the sanctuary. As a waiting hymn Henry La Fontaine sang Beautiful Land on High, and at the offertory, Pie Jesu was rendered. Miss Josie Hartle sang Lead, Kindly Light, as a processional. The bearers were Edward Gleason, John J. Gleason, John Casey, Daniel Casey, Frederick P. Shea, Edward Kilday. Interment was held in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery, where Rev. William A. Keefe, assisted by Father DesSureault conducted the committal service.

There were many beautiful flowers, and a large number attended the services.

WEDDINGS.

Fink-Exley

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Exley of 68 Church Street, Groton, announce the marriage of their daughter, Clarice, to Elmer E. Fink of the Lakehurst Naval Air station at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning in the parish house of the First Church of Christ, New London. The marriage was performed by the Rev. J. Romeyn DeForth, pastor.

The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Everett Lamb of Groton. The bride wore a dress of pale blue embroidered chiffon with hat to match. Her corsage bouquet was of lilies of the valley. Mr. Fink, the bridegroom, is a chief petty officer and is well known here, for he was formerly stationed at the Submarine Base. He is at present attached to the new rigid airship, the Los Angeles, the proposed new name for the German built dirigible ZR-3, and which is now in its mammoth hangar at Lakehurst, N. J. After a short stay in New York city the couple will make an extended automobile tour of the central states. They will be at home Nov. 25 at 14 South Holly street, Lakehurst, N. J.

HELD JUBILATION OVER SUCCESS OF THE DAY

Members of the common council, chamber of commerce, board of gas and electrical commissioners and others citizens met for dinner at 6.30 Tuesday evening at the Wauregan house after the gas and electrical commissioners had formally turned over the White Way to Mayor Milo R. Waters and a season of congratulation was enjoyed over the completion of the White Way and the magnificently successful observance of Armistice day and the dedication of the World war memorial tablet.

The members of the Westerly drum corps and the Westerly girls bugle corps were present and did much to enliven the time with music and cheers, which were exchanged with the Norwich men. H. M. Lerou, chairman of the general committee on Armistice day, spoke to the 25 men present in congratulating them on the success of the day and there were remarks by Col. A. S. Dorsey of New London, Lieut. Roland Sullivan of Waterbury, C. D. Noyes of the memorial tablet committee, ex-Congressman Edwin W. Higgins and others.

Special appreciation was expressed for the work of Major C. A. Hagberg for the absolutely smooth manner in which the parade was conducted and to John J. O'Rourke for his unflagging work as secretary of the general committee.

DOG SELECTS DOCTOR'S MACHINE FOR RIDE

While making a call on Cliff street Tuesday afternoon, Dr E. J. Brophy found that a finely bred dog had shown the good taste and discrimination to select the doctor's Cadillac sedan for a resting place and was snuggled down in the front seat with every apparent indication that it was accustomed to riding in a machine and was satisfied to stay there. Persuasion failed to move the dog from the car and it had to be dragged out finally by the harness that was over the animal's shoulders. The doctor then handed the dog over to a young man living at 151 Cliff street with whom the dog has been staying since the Cliff street man found him a week ago. Both the men would be glad to see the dog back with his rightful owner.

BAND LEADS PARADE TO CELEBRATE WHITE WAY

Swahn's band played a number of selections at Union square Tuesday night at 7.30 o'clock in honor of the opening of the White Way and then led a short parade through the business section, with members of the common council and gas and electrical commissioners in automobiles, as well as two trucks of the gas and electric department carrying employes. A big crowd was gathered in Union square to participate in the event.

GREATEST NORWICH PARADE GREETS OBSERVANCE OF ARMISTICE DAY

Norwich paid homage to its heroic dead and honored its living veterans of the World War Tuesday, Armistice Day. The day's activities opened at 2.02 o'clock in the afternoon with a parade two miles long, with nearly 7,000 participants, representing the army and navy, veterans of the World War Spanish War, and Civil War, and a half hundred fraternal and civic organizations, with 17 bands and drum corps. The war memorial tablet, erected by the town of Norwich at a cost of $3,500, and containing the names of approximately 1,600 men and women who served their country in the late war, was dedicated at Chelsea Parade. Following dedication exercises and the dismissal of the procession at Union square a supper and entertainment were provided at the state armory on McKinley avenue for the uniformed men and war veterans who participated in the parade.

It was estimated that fully 50,000 people witnessed the long parade, which took 45 minutes to pass a given point. The gaily decorated streets were thronged with humanity long before the parade was scheduled to start. People came from all sections of Eastern Connecticut by train, automobile and trolley car to witness the parade and attend the dedication exercises.

Rain clouds which rolled over Norwich about daybreak soon gave way to a warm sunny day, it was ideal weather for a parade and outdoor programme. A slight sprinkle of rain came about 6.15 in the evening, not enough to interfere with any of the observances.

Promptly at 2.02 o'clock the parade, with Marshal Charles A. Hagberg in the lead, started from the corner of Shetucket and Main streets. As the first division moved through Shetucket street, the second division, which had formed on Water street, between Shetucket and Market streets, fell into line. As the end of the second division swung around the corner of Shetucket and Main streets, the third division started around the corner of lower Broadway, the fourth division swung into line from Franklin and Bath streets, and the fifth division followed from its assembling place on Cliff street. The sixth division joined the parade at the Marguerite corner, the latter division having formed on North Main street. The seventh and final division, which had formed on East Main street, followed the sixth division as the parade was countermarching at Burnham square.

The parade from its starting place at Broadway corner moved west through Main street, on the northerly side of the street, and countermarched at Burnham square, proceeding back through Main street on the southerly side of the street.

Reviewed at Franklin Square.

The parade was reviewed by Mayor Milo R. Waters, the members of the court of common council, other city officials, officials of the town, members of the general Armistice day committee and guests of the committee from a large stand erected on Franklin square, in the inclosure within the traffic beacons. The stand was resplendent in red, white and blue bunting. It was an ideal place for the review, as there was ample room for the parade to pass on both the north and south sides.

Passing through Main street over the Main street hill to Washington square, the parade proceeded up Washington street to Chelsea Parade, where the exercises were held. Each division was assigned a place on or near the Parade and the divisions were escorted to their places by aides under the direction of Marshal Hagberg.

Tablet Dedication.

All divisions had arrived at Chelsea Parade by 3 o'clock and as soon as the various divisions were in their places the program connected with the dedication of the war memorial tablet was started, with Hon. Herbert M. Lerou, chairman of the general Armistice day committee, presiding.

Broadway from Park church north, Williams avenue, Washington street from Sachem north, and Crescent street were kept clear of automobile traffic and no parking was allowed on those streets during the parade hours. This kept the streets open for the parade and prevented confusion.

Following the dedication program, the parade again formed and passing down Washington street turned left on Williams avenue and then right down Broadway, disbanding at Union square. As the regular army and navy and marine detachments, American rived at Union square they were routed directly to the state armory on McKinley avenue, the bands and various units being held intact. The remainder of the parade broke up at Union square and dispersed.

Over 6,000 in Line.

Practically every fraternal and civic organization in the town and city was represented in the parade, which numbered well over 6,000 marchers. There were regular army detachments from Fort H. G. Wright, Fisher's Island, N. Y., a detachment of marines, and a detachment of 175 sailors from the submarine base, Battery B, 192d artillery, C. N. G., of this city, and First Battalion Headquarters and Combat Train, 192d artillery, C. N. G., also of this city, the Willimantic infantry, together with the Fort Wright Military band and the Naval band from the U. S. S. Savannah in the first division, which was led by Marshal Charles A. Hagberg and his aides. Two state policemen, mounted on motorcycles, preceded the parade, keeping the streets open from curb to curb for the marchers.

Unit of Fire Department

The soldiers and sailors in the first division made a splendid appearance as they swung along through the streets behind the military and naval bands.

First National Vice Commander and Connecticut State Department Commander E. P. Armstrong of the American Legion, commanded the second division. The Italian-American band of this city with the department commander and his staff led the division. The American Legion, about 100 strong, appeared in their natty new regulation American Legion caps, of blue cloth with gold lettering. This was the first time the local Legion boys have paraded wearing the regulation cap of their organization. Behind them came 50 or 60 other ex-service men, not members of the Legion, who wore special paper caps of the overseas. A good sized detachment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars were next in line, and they were followed by the beautifully decorated float on which rode the mothers and wives of Norwich soldiers and sailors who made the supreme sacrifice in the World war.

Gold Star Float

The float, the only one in the parade, was constructed on one of the big army trucks from the armory and the truck was in charge of a detail of national guardsmen from the Combat Train. The truck was handsomely decorated in foliage and poppies and the gold star mothers and wives wore white caps with gold stars on them. The float was constructed by the Ladies Auxiliary of Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, and the work was in charge of a committee comprising Mrs. George Fraser, chairman and Miss Evon M. Broadhurst. Other members of the auxiliary assisted in decorating the float.

Immediately behind the gold star float came a good sized representation of John Coleman Prince Post, American Legion of New London, members of which appeared in the regulation Volture caps. The United Spanish War Veterans, were next in line, and there were delegations from the Jewett City, Baltic and Taftville posts of the American Legion.

St. Michael's Girls' Bugle Corps of Westerly followed the Spanish War Vets The mare a most creditable appearance in their neat uniforms. The American Red Cross women turned out about 40 strong and the Backus Hospital Alumni association had a good sized delegation in the parade. The disabled veterans of the World war and the veterans of the Civil war, members of Sedgwick Post, No. 1, G. A. R., rode in automobiles in this division.

Masonic Organizations

Nelson J Ayling commanded the third division which was led by the Plainfield band The Knights Templars were there in a body, 100 strong, all in uniform, and were followed by Nemrod Grotto with the grotto degree team attired in costumes of purple, white and red The Grotto delegation numbered about 90 The members wore their fezzes and carried small silk American flags. The divan of Sphinx temple, Mystic Shrine appeared in this division with its fife and drum corps. There were three bass drums, twelve snare drums, buglers and fifers, all in red, green and yellow costumes and there was a good sized delegation of the Shriners.

Colt's band of Hartford led the Norwich Rotary club which turned out in the Roary delegation, forty strong. All the Rotarians wore the club badge with yellow crysanthemums, furnished by Rotarian Otto F. Ernst. The Rotarians carried white maple canes. Russell A. Clapp, an ex-officer of the army, led the delegation. Otto F. Ernst carried the American flag and George L. Ingalls carried the Rotary banner. Wauregan lodge, No. 6, Knights of Pythias, and the Foresters of America, turned out large size delegations, both organizations making an excellent showing The Wauregan lodge degree team appeared in costume The Foresters' delgation numbered about 60

Had Splendid Delegation

The fourth division was commanded by Francis T. Diggins who headed a splendid delegation of White Cross Council, No 13, Knights of Columbus, numbering over 200. They carried blue flags with the letters K. of C. Next in line came Mercier Assembly, 150 strong, all wearing attractive yellow scarfs and carrying swagger sticks tied with a yellow bow. Part of their delegation carried a large American flag. The Connecticut Council of Catholic Women were well represented.

The B. P. O. E. band of Willimantic led the Norwich Euks who turned out a delegation of over 100. They were followed by the local division of the A. O. H. and the Ladies Auxiliary of the A. O. H. The latter wore costumes of green and white. Three flower bearers preceded the auxiliary members who numbered 40.

Kiltie Band a Feature

Colonel Fred Williams commanded the fifth division which was led by the Continental Drum Corps of Willimantic. Following the band were the department officers of the I. O. O. F., visiting cantons, and large sized delegations from Palmyra Encampment, No., Uncas lodge, No. 11, and Shetucket lodge No. 27. Members of the Rebekas wearing the three links, insignia of the Odd Fellows' order, on their arms, carried a large American flag. The Kiltie band of Westerly, in Scottish costume, with the regulation bagpipes, proved one of the features of this division.

The Boy Scout drum corps made an excellent showing and thoroughly demonstrated their ability with the drumsticks. The United Commercial Travelers of Norwich and vicinity were well represented in the parade. The traveling salesmen all carried sample cases or traveling bags.

Another local organization that was well represented was the Norwich Lions club. Several of their number carried a large American flag. The Norwich Grangers with the officers in regalia and a delegation from the Salvation Army brought up the rear of the fifth division.

Big Sixth Division.

The sixth division was one of the largest of the seven divisions in the parade. There were fully 1,500 marchers in this division which was commanded by Martin Rozycki and headed by the Willimantic band. The United Polish Societies, including delegations from practically all the Polish organizations in the city, were out in force. The Bnai Brith delegation was also large. A large American flag was carried by a half dozen of their members. Several hundred members of the various French societies of Taftville paraded in this division.

St. Joseph's school turned out a hundred or more of the school children with a group of the little girls dressed in the native costume of Poland with red spangled bodices, and a number of the boys wore the high boots commonly seen in the land of their fathers. They also carried a large American flag. Following the Polish school children was a good sized representation of the members of St. Joseph's parish.

The Pioneer colored band made a very favorable impression. They headed delegations from Unity club, dressed in white, with green sashes and head bands, Rose of New England Lodge, No. 2364, G. U. O. of O. F., Rose of New England Women's League and the Colored Citizens club, all of which organizations were well represented by the colored people of Norwich.

Students and Scouts.

The last division, seventh, was commanded by Arthur L. Peale, and the division was led by Swahn's Military band. Nearly 50 Camp Fire Girls and about 80 Boy Scouts paraded in this division, all in uniform. They made a most creditable appearance. St. Michael's Fife and Drum Corps, of Westerly, led the Boy Scout unit, and the big delegation of Norwich Free Academy students was preceded by Houston's East Side drum corps, an aggregation of local boys who did themselves credit. Members of the Sedgwick Woman's Relief Corps, No. 16, Faith Trumbull Chapter, D. A. R., and of the W. C. T. U., in automobiles, and Engine No. 6, of the Norwich fire department, on which rode the World war veterans of the fire department, brought up the rear. The fire apparatus went over the entire line of march and as soon as the parade was dismissed at Union Square the firemen reported back to their stations. Arrangements to have the fire apparatus in the parade were made by Chief Howard L. Stanton, so that the war veterans of the department could take part in the parade and witness the dedication programme at Chelsea Parade. They were on duty and were ready to answer any alarms in case their services were needed.

Traffic Handled Smoothly.

The local police did wonderful traffic work in spite of the fact that the streets in the central part of the city were literally jammed with automobiles throughout the afternoon. The traffic congestions which was expected and which arrived on schedule time was a knotty problem but the good work on the part of the local police and the willingness of practically all drivers to comply with the emergency traffic rules served to keep the machines moving along fairly rapidly. Chief George Linton had officers stationed at all street intersections where traffic jams were expected, and a number of extra officers were on traffic duty in Franklin square and through Main and Franklin streets.

Fire Department Veterans.

The members of the fire department who served in the army and navy during the war and who rode on the fire apparatus were: Peter O'Neil, driver of Engine 6, who was in general charge and who served in the navy during the war. Edward Carey of Squad A, who served in the navy; Patrick Coleman, Squad A, of the army, Thomas Tracy, Engine 3, of the navy, Julian Gale, Engine 1, of the army, and Henry Armstrong of Engine 1 who served in the army. On each side of Engine 5 was a sign bearing the wording, World War Veterans of the Fire department.

Parade Moved Perfectly.

To Major Charles A. Hagberg, parade marshal, and Arthur E. Story, chairman of the parade committee, belongs a good share of the credit for the success of the parade which has seldom, if ever, been equaled in the history of Norwich. In a large measure Mr. Story was responsible for the size of the parade and it was Major Hagberg who so carefully and efficiently lined up the seven divisions, and designated the places for the various divisions to assemble. There was little or no confusion and no delay in getting the parade started. Each division was so placed that it was able to fall in its place in the parade right on time. Everything worked like clock work.

Major Hagberg had as his aides Lieut. Johnathan L. Johnson, veteran of the World war, Lieut. F. B. Craven, U. S. N., a veteran of the World war, Lieut. F. Russell Smith, who served with the Brown unit in the ambulance corps in France, and who joined the American forces when this country declared war; Lieut. Edward G. McKay, Lieut. Harry W. House, Lieut. Webster D. Comstock, all army veterans, and Lieut. Charles Bentley, who served in the navy.

The reviewing stand was erected on the triangle between the trolley tracks on Franklin square and was attractively decorated in the national colors. Those on the reviewing stand with Mayor Milo R. Waters were: Captain E. J. King, commandant of the submarine base; members of the court of common council, Corporation

SUBMARINE HAD MANY VISITORS HERE

The Submarine N-3, stationed at the Submarine Base at the Navy Yard, was sent up the river to Norwich by the naval officials as part of the Armistice day programme. Captain Colberg of this city, who has operated steamers up and down the river for years, volunteered to pilot the sub up the channel to Norwich. The undersea craft tied up at the dock near the New Haven railroad freight station, and throughout the afternoon moved a big drawing card. Hundreds of people visited the dock.

BALTIMORE JOE GANS IN FEATURE BOUT AT DANIELSON ON FRIDAY

Danielson, Nov. 11—Today is armistice day, but there will be battling in plenty at the Casino arena here Thursday evening when a very promising card of bouts will be staged by Promoter Frank Barber. The arrangement looks like the best series of bouts in Danielson this year.

The star bout of the evening will be between Battling Thomas, the Boston black demon, and Baltimore Joe Gans of Norwich. This should be a wow! These men are scheduled to go 8 rounds at 165-168 pounds. Boxing fans at the last show here had a glimpse of Gans' class, but Joe Gill did not stay in there with him long enough to give Baltimore Joe a real workout. It is said that Battling Thomas is the boy who should be able to stick it out.

Thomas has a great record. He has fought George Robinson five times, getting two draws, losing two and winning one. With Panama Joe Gans he won one, lost one and drew one. He won one and lost two to the Jamaica Kid. He has won over Jim Wright, the boy who beat Soldier Franks; beat Billy Burke, Joe Eagan at Taunton, Eddie Trembly at Waterville, Me.; drew with Jack Johnston at Portland and with Battling McCreary at Waterville. He won from Jimmy Kelley of New York.

The semi-final between Al Sears of Boston and Bobby Kelley of Waterbury looks about as promising as the main bout. These men are to go eight rounds at 163-147 pounds. Kelley is a ripping, tearing mit artist. He has class and power and he is always boring in. He has a great record of victories and never worries at all about who his opponent is going to be.

About as much can be said for Sears, who hails from East Boston. Sears has had over 200 bouts and was never off his feet in one of them. He has beaten Billy Woods, Vic Hirsch, Dusty Dumont, Billy Turcotte, Jimmy Cox, Larry Burns, Walter Butler and a battalion of others. The past week Sears beat Tom French at a show in Portsmouth, N. H. Sears made a great record as a boxer while in the army.

In the preliminaries Young Derosier of Woonsocket, the boy who made such a good showing at the last card of bouts here, will meet Young Baker of Sterling, 6 rounds at 128 pounds. Buck Shea of Colchester will meet Jackie Serge of Hartford 6 rounds at 114 pounds.

PRESIDENT LOWELL SHOWS HE IS STILL SOME SPRINTER

Boston, Nov. 11.—The days when A. Lawrence Lowell, Harvard undergraduate, was the best two-mile runner in the college, were recalled today when A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard university, led in a race of subway passengers from the car door to the street. Tall and limber, swinging a green cloth bag as he dodged through the crowd on the ramp below, the college head in a few sweeping strides reached the foot of the escalator at Park street. Harvard's varsity backfield stars might have watched him with profit for lessons in slipping through a broken field.

From the platform, he swooped on to the escalator, with three other passengers in pursuit. President Lowell got there first by a stride and had a clear way up the moving steps. Their customary speed was too slow for him. Step by step was a pace that he scorned. Three steps at a jump he took, with the field following fast behind, but not near enough to be in danger of the swinging bag. Half way up he had distanced all competition. At the top, he had the stairs apparently alone. Then he stepped out into the street crowd and took up the business that called for haste.

BOWLING MATCHES AT NEW LONDON TONIGHT

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Nov. 11—The bowling match scheduled with the Peerless and the Moosup fives rolling at the Peerless alleys had to postpone on Monday due to illness to team members of the Peerless. However the match which is an important one in the Eastern Connecticut bowling league will be rolled off this (Wednesday) evening at the Peerless alleys and on Thursday, the teams will clash at Moosup.

With Moosup in the leading position and with the Peerless five as the runner up there is no doubt that this week's matches between these teams will result in some hard fought struggles. The Peerless must take at least four out of the possible six strings which will be rolled in the two nights. But that unpleasant remembrance of losing three straight strings at Moosup seems to present a task that is not an easy one. Incidently it was the first time any team in the league took a three string fall out of the locals and the first time any team bested Captain Bill Belcher's men. For at no previous engagement in games rolled in this league was the Peerless five defeated two strings. So when Moosup took three straight from the Whalers it did something which the other teams in the league failed to do.

On Wednesday evening at the Lawrence alleys, the Aetna and the Lawrence fives will clash for honors. The high scores hung up by these teams at Norwich on Monday will undoubtedly be registered again at the Lawrence alleys on Thursday night. To hit the pins and hit them as consistently as the Lawrence and Aetna bowlers have done shows that these teams have dangerous bowlers, of the consistent type and that they will be heard from as the race for top honors in the league tightens.

Football Results.

BULKELEY PLAYS AT TORRINGTON ON SATURDAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Nov. 11—All Bulkeley efforts will be turned toward the coming tussle with Torrington one of the leading high school elevens of the state and Coach William R. Canty is expected to hold both afternoon and practice until late in the evening by means of a white painted ball. This game is another one of those tough teams which have comprised the Bulkeley schedule this season. With a clean record this season and meeting Bulkeley, Torrington High will open its bag of tricks against the invading Orange and Black machine this Saturday.

There was nothing hard about the last game played by Bulkeley with Norwich Free Academy and the score should have been much larger than what it was. Several times Academy held on the one or two yard line, and Bulkeley was forced to give up the ball. Quarterback Henkle, instead of playing off tackle slants with the Academy team massed in center of the line, anticipating center plays, failed to pick his plays with good judgment here. But Henkle's efforts on the whole during the afternoon were spectacular. Instead of giving him four touchdowns as he should have been credited with, some of the writers who credited Rice with four touchdowns were erroneous in their statements. Henkle's work is worthy of commendation, especially his 95 yard run from the kickoff.

Rice and Sheflott failed to get off on any of their famous long runs, but they were good for anywhere from four yards up to ten when they took the ball. They showed exceptional ability in advancing the ball, which has characterized their play all season. If their smashing battling forms can be evident on Saturday Bulkeley's chances for a victory are good.

With the absence of Coach Canty this afternoon, there was no practice for the first team players. Although Captain Sheflott took charge of the second string players who reported. Only a short signal drill could be held as there were but 12 men to report for practice. Coach Canty will be back tomorrow from a sudden call to New York and then the team is expected to get into condition for the hard game with Torrington.

With but two games remaining on the schedule and a possibility that two more may be added to the schedule while the individual scoring records to date find the leader to be Henkle. Henkle has eight touchdowns to his credit, while Rice who is second with two touchdowns, five kicks after touchdowns and one field goal, is five points ahead of Sheflott who is third.

Following is the scoring record to date, also the team record.

TIGERS PREPARING FOR COMING YALE GAME

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 11—A vigorous three hour work out, during which Coach Bill Roper had three distinct backfields in action, comprised of Princeton's practice today for the annual Yale game. On University field today, every varsity man settled down to real work following a day of rest and exhibited that same spirit of fighting which carried the Tigers to their 34-0 win over Harvard last Saturday.

The coaches were jubilant because not a man was injured sufficiently serious in the game with the Crimson to prevent his appearance today and precautions will be taken during the remainder of the week to insure no casualties in practice.

Sammy Ewing, Ted Drews and Brad Dinsmore were assigned to one end of the field today where for three hours they did nothing but place drop kicks between the goal posts. Ewing exhibited the best form, placing the ball between the uprights from the 40 and 45-yard lines with apparent ease. He failed, however, in an attempt to place one from the 50-yard line.

With only two days remaining for practice before the bull dog invades Tigertown, Roper has announced that he will send the varsity against a scrub combination tomorrow using Yale formations. Friday the team will rest.

FIRPO AND WEINERT READY TO REVIEW HOSTILITIES

New York, Nov. 11.—Luis Angel Firpo Argentine heavyweight, will fire the opening gun in his comeback campaign to regain his lost ring prestige when he faces an old foe, Charlie Weinert, Newark heavyweight, in the Newark armory tomorrow night in a 12-round no-decision encounter.

Weinert was one of the first victims of Firpo's terrific right when the Argentine was being built up for a match with Dempsey. This fight took place in Philadelphia and resulted in a one-round knockout.

STONINGTON HIGH HARRIERS WIN CROSS COUNTY RUN FROM CHAPMAN & WESTERLY

(Special to the Bulletin)

Stonington, Nov. 11—Running over a course that had all imaginable obstacles in the path of the runners, the cross country run of three miles held under the auspices of the Eastern Connecticut High school league, terminated here this afternoon in a most satisfactory manner from Stonington's point of view. Leading a pretty race throughout over the rough course over which were included fences and stone walls and other hindrances which runners are not apt to come across on a straight road, Maggs and Vibber, the former of Stonington and the ultimate winner, and the latter from Chapman Technical High and who placed second, left their other nineteen rivals far behind and matched their last minute spurts in an endeavor to come out the individual winner.

But Maggs showing a wonderful burst of speed in the last thirty yards, outdistanced his Red and Black rival by about eleven yards. It was a pretty finish for a cross country run and Maggs' last minute stamina won the race for him. His time was twelve minutes and one and six tenths seconds. The time showing that the finish between the two runners was very close. Main of Stonington finished third, and the remaining runners of which a large number were runners from Westerly High and Stonington straggled in some with little hopes of finishing, except in the first ten.

The meet went to Stonington with a total number of points of 32. Both Westerly and Chapman Tech were tied for second place in the team standing each being credited with 44 points each. Chapman Tech which was figured in advance to be a strong contender for team honors, placed only two runners to place, the former second while the latter placed tenth. Norpected to send runners to participate in the event failed to enter a team in the meet.

The meet although the first was merely an experiment, but proved to be a success and is expected to be continued in the future by the league officials. It is expected that Armistice Day will be selected as the day to run this event off.

The runners for each team were as follows: Winning Stonington team, Cropper, Maggs, Firbence, Ward, Dobson, Main and Smith.

Chapman Tech, Vibber, King, Carlson, Johnson, Nash, Hewitt and Wiley.

Westerly: Harron, Jaign, Kaplan, Lyman, Terrin, Rickloo, Dobroski.

The team scores are as follows: Stonington first with 32 points; Chapman Tech and Westerly each with 44 points tied for second place.

Winner, Maggs of Stonington, Time, 12 minutes and 29 seconds. Second, Vibber of Chapman Tech, time 13 minutes and 1 6-10 seconds. Main of Stonington third, no time given.

HARVARD TO USE FULL STRENGTH AGAINST BROWN

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 11. — The word went out from the Stadium after secret practice for the Harvard football team today that the Yale game two weeks away will be allowed to take care of itself, and that the Crimson will marshal all the strength remaining after the defeat by Princeton last Saturday, to try to prevent Brown from making it three successive victories over Harvard in the same at the Stadium this week end.

Gohrke, Miller, Hammond, Cheek and Zarakov, leading backs, are still on the injured list, but Hammond and Zurakov may be made ready for the Brown game. First string strength will be presented at every position available, instead of sending in second string players as in some other years to allow the first string men to rest up for Yale. The Princeton defeat has made it necessary for Harvard to get a victory as proper mental preparation, the coaches have decided, and the Brown game is the sole immediate objective. Thirty thousand tickets have already been sold, and 46,000 are expected to attend the game.

YALE HAD ONLY LIGHT WORK YESTERDAY

New Haven, Nov. 11.—Abandoning his plans for putting the Yale varsity football team through a hard scrimmage today, Head Coach T. A. D. Jones called for a long dummy scrimmage and signal practice. If there is to be any scrimmage before the Princeton game, it will be held tomorrow as Thursday, previous to the departure for New Jersey, the team will have a signal drill only.

Shep Bingham, the varsity left end, who has been laid up from an injured knee for ten days, was in football togs again today as was Dan Lindley, halfback, who was injured in the Maryland game Saturday. If Bingham is completely recovered he will start against Princeton. Otherwise Hart will be the man to face the Tigers in that position.

Many graduate players were at the field today, several of whom had come for Dr. Bull's funeral. Among these were Pa Corbin, Harry Marlon, Ralph Bloomer Frank Butterworth, C. F. Black and John W. Feild.

CHAPMAN TECH TO BRING STRONG TEAM TO NORWICH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Nov. 11.—A football game of much importance in deciding the ultimate winner in the Eastern Connecticut league will be played at Norwich this Saturday afternoon. The contest in question is between Chapman Tech of this city and Norwich Free Academy. Considerable emphasis is being placed upon this contest by the Red and Black mentor, and as it will be one of the deciding games of the season all eyes will be focused upon the outcome of this game.

Chapman Tech, previously undefeated until Windham High was encountered in a game last Saturday at the Thread City, retreated back to its natural haunts a badly defeated eleven Tech lost its chance of going through the season undefeated by high school teams, and being uncored on also. This immaculate record was besmirched by the Windham crew with that reckless free abandonment of a team that is out to hit or miss. But Windham hit and missed very little, piling up a large total, profiting by mistakes and in other ways which will go toward making a score a large one.

But the memories of that distasteful game at Willimantic will be left far behind when Tech tackles the Academy. At present first in the league standing with four victories and with nary a sign of a defeat, the Red and Black machine is on its way toward a league championship. But although the Atkin coached machine is in third place, this does not by any means act as a judge upon this coming battle on the gridiron. The Red and White is seemingly out of the race, and unless something unusual happens in the way of a cataclysm of both Chapman Tech and Westerly then all the Academy can hope to do is make trouble for Chapman Tech. For in event of an Academy victory this Saturday it will present an opportunity to Westerly to eventually win out. But a victory for Tech means that Westerly can hope for nothing more than a tie, and in that event the situation will be a very complicated one indeed. For Westerly and the Academy have one tied game and whether this game would be ordered replayed is not known. But it is certain that the Westerly and Tech elevens will meet to play off the tie.

Instead of allowing the players a day off on Monday, as has been the custom, practice at Chapman Tech was continued from the first day of the week. There are several defects in the present system in both offense and defense, and it will take considerable time to straighten out. The team as a whole came out rather well physically considering the hard game, and only bruises of the minor sort were encountered. Kennenberg and Courbois both with leg injuries had to retir efrom the game at Willimantic, but are expected to be back in uniform tomorrow.

CALIFORNIA MAY RIVAL NEW YORK AS BOXING MECCA

New York, Nov. 11 (By the A. P.) —New York and the metropolitan district, which has been the boxing world's Mecca for several years, faces the prospect of having its monopoly broken if the new California law, permitting 12-round bouts, results in the expected boom to the ring game on the coast.

California, where pugilism flourished in former days, has restricted bouts to four rounds of late, a limit which served to keep away many of the ring's most prominent performers and eliminate the chance of championship bouts. With this extended to 12 rounds, the limit which now prevails in New Jersey, the scene of numerous important bouts of late years, California is expected to provide attractions after the first of the year for many of the game's titleholders and other leading lights where activities have been centered in the metropolitan district.

Already, a number of eastern boxers have started westward on fistic "prospecting" expeditions, influenced also by a temporary period of depression here. Benny Leonard, the world's lightweight king, disclosed today that he had begun negotiations with Los Angeles promoters for a 12-round title bout there in February against an opponent yet to be selected. Other champions may follow suit, including Mike McTigue, the light heavyweight champion; and Abe Goldstein, bantamweight titleholder.

Tex Rickard and other metropolitan promoters, however, do not view with alarm the prospects of a new era in boxing in California, where promoters are reported to be planning erection of arenas to boom fistic affairs. Rickard believes that some of the present-day unsatisfactory boxing conditions have been due to the concentration of practically all major ring activities here and that with the opening of a new field, new talent will appear, fresh interest develop and the game benefit as a whole.

Several decades ago boxing was at its height in California, witnessing many notable fights and producing many prominent figures. James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion, was born in San Francisco and started his ring career there, as did another heavyweight titleholder, Jim Jeffries. Jeffries won the championship from Fitzsimmons at San Francisco in 1902. Among other historic encounters, the famous fight in which Jack Johnson knocked out Stanley Ketchel occurred at Colma, Calif., in 1909 and Johnny Kilbane won the feather title from Abe Attell at Vernon, Calif., in 1912.

ALTAWOOD WINS BOWIE HANDICAP AT PIMLICO

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 11—W. E. Widener's Altawood won the $10,000 Bowie handicap, today's Pimlico feature, by running the mile and a half in 2:30 3-5, three fifths of a second better than the track record by George Smith in 1918. A head behind the Widener colt came Aga Khan, while My Own took third place.

Aga Khan took the lead in the break from the barrier, trailed closely by Spot Cash and Rustic. The half mile mark found Aga Khan still leading, but Sunsini had displaced Spot Cash. Altawood in the meantime was trailing the field by a dozen lengths. At the clubhouse turn, however, Jockey Ivan Parke brought the whip into action, and his mount jumped into the lead on the finish stretch. My Own pulled up at the same time to take show position from Rustic.

BERLENBACH INJURES HAND, BOUT WITH MARULLO OFF

New York, Nov. 11—The twelve round match slated between Paul Berlenbach, New York light-heavyweight, and Tony Marullo of New Orleans, at Madison Square Garden Friday night was called off today after an injury Berlenbach sustained to his left hand in training.

Berlenbach went before the state athletic commission's physicians for an examination to determine the extent of his mishap, but in the meantime Promoter Tex Rickard announced cancellation of the fight. Efforts were being made to obtain another opponent for Marullo.

NOTRE DAME SEEKS GAME WITH FAST ILLINOIS TEAM

South Bend, Ills., Nov. 11.—Knute Rockne, director of Notre Dame athletics, while discussing today the possibility of post-season football games, expressed the hope that western conference rules could be altered so that Notre Dame might meet the University of Illinois.

Rockne also expressed doubt that the University of Southern California would meet Notre Dame at Pasadena on New Year's day.

"Due to the Trojans' defeat at the hands of St. Mary's it is not likely that the University of Southern California will be chosen as the representative team of the western coast by the tournament of Roses committee," said Rockne. "Notre Dame, however, stands ready to play any team the committee selects. Of course we hope it will be the best in that part of the country."

LEONARD WILL PROBABLY TAKE ON SALVADOR

New York, Nov. 11.—Benny Leonard plans an active indoor ring campaign, he said today in confirming reports he had tentatively agreed to defend his title at Los Angeles in February. He said no definite arrangements had been made but mentioned Phil Salvador as a probable opponent on the strength of reports he had defeated Joe Benjamin.

"There's no opponent in sight for me here just now," said Leonard, "but I intend to keep in shape this winter with several engagements preparatory to another outdoor season. With 12-round bouts legalized after the first of the year on the Pacific Coast, I look for a revival of ring activity there."

MACFARLANE WILL TEAM UP WITH BARNES

New York, Nov. 11.—Willie MacFarlane, one of the Metropolitan District's leading professional golfers, has signed to appear with Jim Barnes at the Temple Terrace Country club, at Tampa, Florida, in the winter competition. MacFarlane won the Westchester open championship this year, was second in the Metropolitan open and finished third in the Canadian event.

Barnes and MacFarane will appear as partners about January 1.

NO CHANCE OF ILLINOIS PLAYING POST-SEASON GAME

Champaign, Ills., Nov. 11.—George Huff, director of athletics at the University of Illinois, today declared that there is "absolutely no possibility of the big ten rules being changed so that we could play a post-season game with Notre Dame, or any other school."

Mr. Huff said he had declined an offer to play Leland Stanford University and one for a game in New York Yankee Stadium with an eastern team to be selected.

CHEERS GREET OPENING OF NORWICH WHITE WAY

Cheers by the crowds that thronged the streets mingled with the tooting of automobile horns and other signs of jubilation that greeted the official opening of the Norwich White Way about 5.15 o'clock Tuesday evening when Mayor Milo R. Waters pressed a button at his office in the city hall at the conclusion of the formal ceremonies of turning the White Way over to the city by the gas and electrical commission.

None of the city lights had been turned on Tuesday night until the hour for turning over the White Way so that the streets were in darkness as the current sped along the wires and the streets where the White Way extends were bathed in a flood of brilliant light.

Mayor Waters and members of the common council met the gas and electrical commissioners at the mayor's office at 5 o'clock. Addressing His Honor, President James L. Case of the gas and electrical commission told him that this was a day that would long be remembered in the history of Norwich, a time to glory in the deeds of those who had served their country in the ways of war and in the same spirit to acknowledge the service of citizens in ways of peace and civic service. The board, he said, had for a long time desired to carry out such an improvement as the White Way and in the past two years financial conditions had become such that it was possible to do so and steps had been taken to set aside the necessary funds for the work. Delays had ensued for which the board was not responsible but today it was possible to glory in the completion of the work and to turn over the White Way completely installed, and awaiting only the pressure of the mayor's finger on a button to commence its service to the citizens. It was just the beginning of a plan for a better lighted city and what had been done so far would give Norwich the best lighted business section of any city east of Kansas City.

President Case invited the mayor to press the button, which was done at once, and at the same time the mayor thanked the commissioners and General Manager C. W. Taggart for the work that they had done, for which he said all the more praise was deserved as it had all been done without adding a cent to taxation.

The commission under which the work has been carried out comprises James L. Case, Fred A. Fox, Frank P. Welch, Clarence E. Carpenter and Jeremiah A. Desmond.

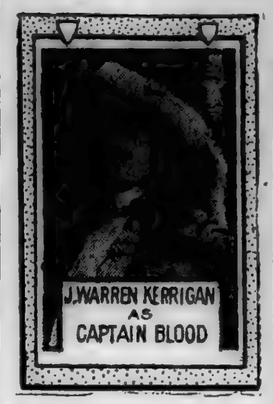
Palace Theater

J. Warren Kerrigan, who has the role of Captain Blood in Rafael Sabatini's famous novel of the same name, which will be the attraction at the Palace theater on Sunday, four days, has lost his beautiful curly locks and joined the Shaved Headed Men's Club. For several years Kerrigan's hair has been admired by the fair sex and it was with great retret that he allowed Director David Smith to shave his pate for the production.



The story is set in the period of 1685 when men wore wigs, the custom originated in France in the 14th century when an elaborate curled wig graced the head of Louis XIII to cover baldness. It was adopted as a distinctive figure of court dress by Louis XIV and was introduced into England under Charles II. Wigs are still used in Great Britain as part of the official regalia of the Lord Chancellor and of the speaker and clerks of the House of Commons. It is the professional dress of judges and barristers in Great Britain and Ireland. The judge's wig gives to his decisions a weight and sacredness they would not have were he bareheaded.

Bread Theater

The best picture of the year?—It's The Arab.—There's no doubt that this new Rex Ingram production, which will be shown at the Bread theater today will stand out in your memory as one of the supreme achievements of the screen.

The Arab, adapted from Edgar Selwyn's thrilling stage play, was screened in Algiers and Tunis, with thousands of Bedouin and Berber tribesmen in the great mob scenes. Ramon Novarro, appears as the son of the Sheik of a wandering Arab tribe who falls in love with a fiery American girl, played by the beautiful Alice Terry. The Moslems are rising against the Christians. Howling for blood, they storm the doors of the American Mission. Then—

But you must see it.—There never was a picture more thrilling, more colorful, more beautiful.

Larry Semon in Horseshoes, the Fox news and Hodge-Podge will make up the remainder of the bill.

Entertainment at Armory.

After being dismissed at Union square the naval battalion from the Sub Base, the two Fort Wright regular army companies, Battery B and Combat Train of the 192nd Artillery, members of the veterans organizations and the Willimantic company of state guards, in all about 1,000, went to the State Armory on McKinley avenue, where a chicken pie supper was served. The Wauregan hotel, Fred Watson, manager, catered and 125 women from the various women's organizations assisted in serving. The organizations represented were Eastern Star, Woman's Relief Corps, Daughters of Veterans, Red Cross, W. W. Backus hospital, Hope Rebekah lodge, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary, Rose of New England Auxiliary, I. O. B. B. and Norwich chapter of Hadassah.

During the supper Swahn's band rendered music and Edward T. Connelly, Irish lyric tenor, sang several selections and told a number of humorous stories. After the supper there were four boxing exhibitions which held the attention of the boys and provided much entertainment.

The first bout was a four round exhibition between A. Harris and B. Tauff, both of the submarine base at 123 pounds. The exhibition was fast and snappy although there were no damaging blows struck.

The second bout was a two round affair between Baltimore Joe Gans of Norwich and Henry Casey of Willimantic at 168 pounds. Gans was far too clever for his Thread City opponent and his ring antics were a delight to the fans. Gans then took on Frankie Bush, a local boy, for two rounds and this was really an exceptionally good exhibition of boxing. Both boys worked hard and although not out to kill each other it was a fast affair and some hird hitting resulted.

The final bout was a three round bout at 147 pounds between C. C. Terrien and T. H. Ayers from the submarine base. These boys boxed well and showed flashes of speed at times. Chief Petty Officer Bannon was the referee and Standish timer.

After the bouts Chairman Max Hanover of the entertainment committee publicly thanked the women of the various organizations, the Submarine Base Athletic department and the local boxers for their co-operation in making the affair a success.

Parade Notes

The loud speaker at the Chelsea parade was installed through the courtesy of the George P. Madden Co.

The reviewing stand and the speakers stand as well as the decorations on the White Way poles were placed by J. Ross Jones of Hartford, the official decorator, without expense to the committee.

William F. Bailey drove the automobile which carried the moving picture machine of Joseph F. Reed to take pictures of the parade. It had the right of way everywhere.

Among those who marched with the medical detachment was Dr. W. P. S. Keating of Willimantic, who served in the World war as a captain, medical corps.

It was very noticeable during the parade that a great many men neglected to remove their hats when Old Glory went by.

During the traffic jam late Tuesday afternoon two police officers were doing duty at Broadway corner.

The plan of having the bands join forces at Union square after the parade to play the Star Spangled Banner as a grand finale was given up owing to the 20 minute delay in turning on the new white way. Union square was enshrouded in darkness as the final divisions of the parade were dismissed.

The new Shenandoah system of sidewalk flags installed by most of the Main street merchants and business houses was very favorably commented upon by the general public.

Zane Grey Picture Coming

The Border Legion, with Antonio Moreno and Helene Chadwick featured in the leading roles, comes to the Broadway theater for a run of four days on Sunday next.

The picture is an adaption of the popular novel of the same name by Zane Grey. It deals with the activities of a band of ruthless outlaws which spread death and destruction in the gold towns of the early '70s. The production was filmed in isolated and beautiful locations selected by the author.

Other big names in the strong supporting cast include James Corey, Edward Gribbon and Luke Cosgrove. George Hull adapted the story to the screen and William Howard directed the production as his first for Paramount.

Palace Theater

Gladstone Smith occupied a desk on the San Francisco Morning Ledger and from his place by the corner watched the other fellows go out to cover the exciting news events, while he remained behind to write book reviews. Occasionally he was sent to cover a lecture on prehistoric butterflies, or something equally dull. Then came the night when a lot of big news broke loose and the city editor found himself without a reporter to cover a murder in a low dive on the Barbary Coast.

Charles Ray portrays Jr Dynamite Smith showing Thursday-Friday-Saturday at the Palace theater, the young newspaper man who knew life only as it existed between the covers of books, until his first assignment dragged him into the current and he learned the meaning of hatred and vengeance; of fear and courage; of pity and sacrifice of love and passion.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Selecting a Wrist Watch

Dearest me, as I commence this story I feel so sorry for Little Miss Mousie who had planned such a lovely surprise for dear Uncle Lucky. Then, too, I feel just as sorry that the poor old gentleman bunny had found out by accident that his tiny housekeeper had baked a beautiful birthday cake for him.

"Gracious goodness meebus!" exclaimed dear Uncle Lucky, as he hurried along in the Luckymobile to the Three-in-One Cent Store in Rabbitville, "what shall I buy to head her broken heart," and he pondered and wondered till his poor muddled head refused to think any more.

"Stop! Stop!"

"I'll leave it to the Duck saleslady," he murmured as he stopped just in front of the Three-in-One-Cent store. "Ladies always know what ladies like, and more often what they don't like, which is the same thing, only different," and in he hopped holding his old wedding stovepipe hat politely in his left paw.

"I want to buy a present for my little housekeeper," he explained, when the saleslady, that nice little lady duck of whom I have so often spoken, inquired what he wished.

"A pretty blue sunbonnet,
With a pinky rosebud on it,
Or a diamond solitaire
Would match her boby hair."

answered the little lady duck.

"Have you wrist watches?" asked the old gentleman rabbit. "A watch would save her running out into the hall to see what our old Grandfather Clock says."

Of course there were plenty of dainty wrist watches and pretty soon, by and by, after a great deal of hesitation, generous Uncle Lucky picked out a lovely blue enamel one set in a silver chain band. Then hopping out to the Luckymobile, he hastened back to his little white house on the corner of Lettuce Avenue and Carrot street.

"Maybe I'd better take a short cut through the Shady Forest," he thought, and, turning down a winding lane, in and out among the trees, he whistled a song as nice as you please. But, Oh dear me. All of a sudden, just like that, so quick that it almost blew off his hat somebody shouted "Stop."

"Not yet," answered the brave old gentleman rabbit. As long as Little Miss Mousie's new watch keeps going, I will. I won't let a little watch have the laugh on me," and putting on more power, away went dear Uncle Lucky, faster than ever.

"Stop!" again shouted the voice, and out from behind a tree jumped Danny Fox and after the Luckymobile he sped on his four swift feet just as tight as he could run.

"Go it, Uncle Lucky," sang Bobbit Redvest from a tree overhead. "Don't let him catch you."

"Not if I can help it," answered brave Uncle Lucky, from behind his big green goggles. "Four wheels are better than four feet." And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

WESTERLY

The Armistice day parade held in Westerly Tuesday afternoon was witnessed by not so many sidewalk spectators, although the route of march was lined with parked automobiles. The line formed at the junction of Broad and Elm streets under Marshal Robert Freestone, who had as aides Louis Rossi and Walter Thorp. Passing the Westerly town hall the column was reviewed by Council President Clifford Campbell and Councilmen Morrison, Utter and Fowler. The procession moved through Broad, High, Grove avenue, Granite street, Broad, West Broad street, countermarching West Broad, Broad street to the town hall where brief exercises were held. The opening prayer and benediction were by Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ Episcopal church. The address was made by Rev. Arnt L. Schoning of the Broad Street Christian church.

The column was headed by the George C. Moore Company's band, other musical units being the Westerly Boy Scout drum corps and a group of Scottish pipers.

Company I, 243rd Coast Artillery, Captain John Datson, commander, was the first military unit in line. Other organizations were: Grand Army of the Republic, Womans Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans, Spanish-American War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, British and Colonial Great War Veterans, Westerly Sanitary Corps, Red Cross, St. Michael's Boy Scouts, Westerly Boy Scouts.

A group of five automobiles featured the Red Cross, Westerly branch, which begins its membership drive this week.

The Armistice day observance closed with a Victory ball Tuesday evening in Westerly town hall, the Crandall-Sutcliffe orchestra playing.

Tuesday morning from 12.30 traffic on the west bound track of the New Haven railroad was interrupted until 8 o'clock. The delay was caused by a freight derailment at Wood River Junction when the draw-head of a box car pulled out and the rigging falling caused a car following, the seventh from the end, to leave the rails. Westbound passenger express trains were operated on track No. 1 to Bradford and the delay in arriving at the Westerly station was from half to three-quarters of an hour. A wrecker was sent to the place but the freight car was pulled back on the rails by a locomotive without help from the wrecker. The 12.55 westbound Quaker express left Westerly station about 1.30 a. m.

Officer George H. Champlin called to investigate two automobile accidents Monday afternoon in Westerly. A collision between the Ford truck of the Minchen bakery, driven by John F. Minchen and a Buick touring car operated by Cornelius Riley of White Rock, took place near the residence of R. J. Rooney on Canal street and is reported to have happened when the truck turned to the left, crossing in front of the touring car, which was headed in the same direction. The Ford sustained broken axle, front fender and smashed mud guard. The Buick had a left front fender broken. The second mishap was in Dixon House square, when a Ford sedan driven by John N. Giatrelis, 51 Granite street, was in collision with the Buick roadster, operated by James Murray, which came down High street. Little damage was sustained by either machine but Murray was found to be operating without a license. Officer Champlin gave Murray a summons to appear in the Third District court Friday.

An increasing number of building permits is being sought from the Westerly town council under the present building laws, not only in town but by property owners who are desirous of buildings at the beaches will find useful the following form, explaining requirements in filing an application to the town council:

An application to the town council shall have attached thereto an accurate plat or plan in duplicate, satisfactory to the council. It is recommended that such plat be drawn to a scale of 20 feet to an inch, drawn in ink, or a blue print, showing:

All lots and streets abutting upon applicant's lot or lots.

An invitation was accepted by St. Michael's Boy Scouts from the Armistice day committee in Norwich to participate in the celebration there. One of the features was the big parade with 17 bands, among them St. Michael's fife and drum and bugle and drum corps.

The encounter on the Pawcatuck river bridge in the evening was investigated by Pawcatuck Patrolman Francis McMahon, whose advice was to the effect if hostilities had to continue, they be staged on the Westerly side, "as it would be cheaper if it came to a court settle-bridge to Coggswell street the other ment."

While turning from the Pawcatuck evening the Ford sedan of Edward O'Connell, and the Buick coupe of Max Novogroski, which was reported as parked too near the turn, were in collision in which a fender was ripped from the sedan. Although Officer McMahon was called, a settlement had been arranged.

MYSTIC

A large audience gathered in the Union Baptist church Monday evening to listen to the lecture on "Rebuilding Manhood," given by Thomas Mott Osborne under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers Association of Mystic Academy. From the moment when he was introduced by Mrs. Adella B. Gray, president of the Association, and began his address until its close an hour and three-quarters later, Mr. Osborne held the close attention of the audience as he painted vivid word pictures of the life in Auburn, Sing Sing and Portsmouth prisons before and after mutual welfare leagues were started in these institutions. In order to know the exact conditions existing in these institutions, Mr. Osborne actually served time in them personally and his description of his experiences there made his hearers realize what a horrible place a prison is and particularly was before the days of prison reform. After giving a graphic account of the spirit of revenge and the hopeless outlook on life of most of the prisoners in these institutions before the days of prison reform, wherein he clearly outlined the severity of the prison rules which brought about this state of mind. He spoke of the great benefit to the prisoners of the mutual welfare league and of how the improvement in living conditions had wrought such a change in their outlook and view of life, emphasizing his remarks with illustrations of numerous cases of this kind.

NEW LONDON SHIP & ENGINE CO. TO MAKE SUBMARINES FOR PERU

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Nov. 11.—The long anticipated announcement by the Electric Boat company of the reception of a contract with the government of Peru for submarine, torpedo and naval stations, was finally released this afternoon, when Lawrance Y. Spear, vice president of the Electric Boat company and president of the subsidiary plant, the New London Ship & Engine company, made the announcement. The contract calls for the construction of two submarines, torpedoes and naval station base on the island of San Lorenzo, in the harbor of Callao.

The work on the construction of the two submarines will be started within a few weeks and the entire work will be performed at the Groton yard. A hull equipment, including a set of ways, is already under construction and will be completed shortly. It became necessary to erect the ways when it became known that the Electric Boat company would receive the contract, as heretofore no hull construction has been possible at the Groton yard, although machinery and torpedo tubes have been installed in submarine craft there several years.

It is stated that when the work of the construction of the two boats gets under way the company will increase the number of men employed there.

Several students of Bulkeley High school are paving the way for their early appearance in the police court and unless the youths change their practice of thieving and destroying property, they are sure to be in the court. After numerous acts of mischievousness on the part of the youths the most serious offense perpetrated by them was revealed this forenoon when three students were taken into custody by Sergeant John Cavanaugh charged with stealing tickets of admission at the Lyceum theatre of the value of $85.

A few days ago the boys visited the theatre during an hour when the ticket office was closed and forcing a window stole the tickets, which were for admission to the gallery and for any show. Last night, when several boys appeared at the gallery entrance and presented some of the stolen tickets to the collector the youths were escorted to the ticket office where their names and addresses were taken. This morning Sergeant Cavanaugh was assigned to the case and rounded up three guilty students. The youths admitted the thefts stating that they had attempted to dispose of some of the tickets by sale, while the majority had been placed in hiding, some of them in buildings that were in course of construction. The boys accompanied Sergeant Cavanaugh to the hiding places and most of the tickets were recovered.

Largely through her efforts, there has been completed at Hawthorne, Westchester County, N. Y., Rosary Hill Home, where a fireproof annex has recently been completed, to safeguard at least the weakest of the sufferers. Wealthy friends of the cause, Catholic and non-Catholic, have enabled Mother Lathrop to achieve this great success. Now she is endeavoring to erect a main home which will accommodate 100 other patients. She has already $100,000 in the fund and is working for $300,000 more. The appealing character of the charity is winning aid from many sources and the influential New York papers are helping the talented Sister.

Patrick Brady, middle-aged, who has frequently been before the police court on a charge of intoxication, was presented before Judge S. Victor Prince this morning and was a pitiable sight. So weakened in body was Brady that he was not compelled to climb two flights of stairs to the court room, but was given a hearing in the squad room. Judge Prince sentenced Brady to 30 days in jail, that he could be treated and nourished back to partial health.

1,400 HENS START IN STORRS LAYING CONTEST

They are away, 1,400 strong, in the largest laying trial ever conducted at Storrs. There are 140 pens of 10 birds each, a total of 1,400 choice pullets, chosen chiefly for their ability to lay large numbers of eggs. It must be explained, however, that many poultrymen who are breeding for eggs are also anxious to have their pullets look well and in consequence there are now in the contest a large number of pens that could be transferred from the laying contest to the show room with little or no loss of prestige to the owner. In other words, a growing public demand for the beautiful as well as the useful has encouraged poultrymen to combine by careful selection good egg production and good looks as well. Of the 1,400 pullets that have entered the long grind, 340 are owned by Connecticut breeders. Massachusetts poultrymen supply the next highest number with a total of 300 birds. New York and New Jersey are tied for third place with 130 each. Rhode Island and Maine are tied for fourth place with 60 each. There are 60 pullets from Pennsylvania, 40 each from Vermont and Missouri, 30 from Michigan, 20 each from New Hampshire, North Carolina, Indiana, Oregon and England. The remaining 120 are from Delaware, Maryland, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Texas, Illinois, Ohio, Nebraska, California, Washington and the province of Canada.

Almost without exception the entire lot of 1,400 hens arrived in Storrs in perfect condition. In consequence the opening week's performance was splendid. These pullets laid 2,017 eggs or a yield of more than 21 per cent. For three successive seasons the college has continued the use of electric lights in order to give these pullets an extra meal each day. The lights are turned on at 9 o'clock in the evening, the pullets are all fed, the lamps dimmed at 10, and there is some 15 or 20 minutes for them to get back to bed.

Two pens of White Leghorns owned by Hanson's Leghorn Farm at Corvallis, Ore., and Mount Hope Farm at Williamstown, Mass., got away to the best start with a score of 50 eggs each. GEDDES GIVES ADDRESS ON GREATNESS OF AMERICA

London, Nov. 11—(By the A. P.)—In a lecture describing the United States as one of the great stable empires of the world, Sir Auckland Geddes, former British ambassador to Washington, this afternoon told an audience of 3,000 at Westminster hall how profoundly American thought was influencing the United Kingdom, and, to an even greater extent, the British dominions.

The British dominions that look out on the Pacific, he said "feel that in Washington there is an instinctive understanding of their difficulties which, when they come to London, they have to explain laboriously in Downing Street."

The speaker seemed to surprise some of the audience with the remark that when the dominions looked to the mother country and found no satisfactory understanding, "they are apt to look to Washington, and Washington with inviting eyes, looks back on them."

The far-flung British empire, Sir Auckland said, has yielded the leadership to the world in many respects, to the compact empire of the United States. He cited the Washington Arms conference as an example.

PONZI MADE ARGUMENT IN HIS OWN DEFENSE

Boston, Nov. 11.—Charles Ponzi, at liberty for several months after serving three and one-half years as a federal prisoner for frauds in connection with his get-rich-quick scheme of four years ago, in which millions of dollars were invested and lost, argued in his own defense in the superior court today that he was guilty of no larceny as charged by the state. "Remember," he said, "that four years ago I had $9,000,000. Today I am so impoverished that I cannot afford a lawyer. Does that look as if I intended to steal?" He asserted that he had dealt in international postal reply coupons as he represented. He said that the promises of profits which he made and did not fulfill were not such as to involve larceny. He said the jury should concern itself solely with the question of intent.

Ponzi's spirited arguments were interrupted by court and prosecutor from time to time, and Ponzi excused himself with the statement that he meant no reflection on the judiciary and none on the lawyers, then took up his arguments with new fervor.

COOLIDGE MAY DISPENSE WITH INAUGURAL BALL

Washington, Nov. 11. — President Coolidge is not inclined to hold an inaugural ball, although it was said today at the White House he had not given consideration yet to plans for inauguration.

White House officials said the president had made inquiry as to whether he would have to attend an inaugural ball if one were held, and expressed his disinclination for such a function.

It is the general expectation that all of the inaugural plans will be marked by simplicity and economy.

It is better to be safe with one soap than worried with five

You wouldn't need another soap in the house if you had one that answered "yes" to these 3 questions

YOU wouldn't need another soap in the house if you had one that answered "Yes" to these three questions—

1 Is it safe for my skin?
2 Is it safe for my fabrics?
3 Does it make rich suds?

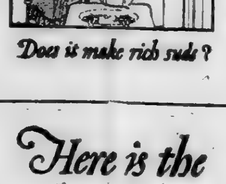
And think of the convenience! Instead of three, four or five soaps — one soap! Instead of constant worry about the state of your complexion, your hands, your clothes—confidence!

Ivory passes this test as does no other soap we know of, yet costs so little that its use for everything becomes a genuine economy.

Because it is pure, Ivory has protected fine things for 45 years: delicate complexions, fragile silks, soft woolens, real laces, heirloom china. Yet, because it costs little, it has also done with characteristic thoroughness and satisfaction all the humbler tasks of washing and cleaning, too.

Is it safe for my skin?

Is it safe for my fabrics?



Does it make rich suds?

Thousands of women keep their hands soft and smooth through the strenuous household round, simply by using Ivory for every soap-and-water task.

Ivory's economy is two-fold. Ivory is all soap, and though it may cost a little more than harsher soaps or powders, it usually goes further. Ivory is so much easier on clothes that they give far longer service.

Thus it happens that Ivory is the only pure, safe, rich-sudsing soap which is economical enough for every soap-and-water task in the American home.

Instead of half a dozen different soaps for special purposes, therefore, why not have an "Ivory shelf" stocked with Ivory Flakes and Laundry, Bath and Guest Ivory cakes? If you should run short of one, you know you can use any of the others with perfect satisfaction, for they are all the same pure Ivory.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS BULLISH

New York, Nov. 11—A sensational demand for the industrial shares toward the close of today's market developed into one of the most remarkable bullish demonstrations in recent years, approximately seventy stocks soaring to new high records for the year on a total volume of business that reached 2,465,000 shares, the largest on the current movement. The number of issues dealt in totalled 545, the highest in all time, and 27 above the record established yesterday.

Prices opened irregularly higher, coppers and oils moving ahead rapidly while the rails see-sawed on further profit-taking. Buying of the oils was stimulated by the reported reduction in Gulf Coast crude production following closely another decline in the output of the Los Angeles Basin, and the rising trend of gasoline prices. Coppers reflected the recent stiffening of commodity prices and the expected increase in the European demand for the red metal.

Realizing sales in the rails were well absorbed and that group was soon headed upward under the leadership of some of the high grade dividend payers, accumulation of which was accelerated by the eighth successive week of million car freight loadings. The demand for Southern Pacific was unusually heavy and that stock was boosted up 4 5-8 points to 104 1-2, the highest price in four years. Other issues in that group to attain new peak prices were Canadian Pacific, Missouri Pacific preferred, "Katy" preferred, Frisco preferred, and Baltimore & Ohio preferred.

Chief speculative interest, however, centered in the industrials with American Can, which soared 9 3-4 points to 150 3-4, a new high record for all time, as the individual feature. United States Steel common was bid up 2 1-2 points to 115, the highest since 1919, closing at the top. Baldwin jumped to 126 and then eased to 125 3-4, where it was up 4 1-8 on the day.

Other outstanding strong spots included American Locomotive, American Sugar Refining, American Woolen, General Electric, Pullman, Westinghouse Air Brake, Allis Chalmers, American Car and Foundry, Electric Storage Battery, Foundation Company, Great Western Sugar, Postum Cereal, Radio Corporation, United States Cast Iron Pipe and Republic Steel, all up 2 to 6 points, and several of them at the year's best prices.

American Can was bought heavily on speculative expectation that the stock will shortly be split up on a 5 to 1 basis, with the dividend increased to the equivalent of $10 on the present stock. Pure Oil was bid up to a new high above 27 on reports that current earnings were the best in the company's history, and about 80 per cent. above those of a year ago. Southern Pacific was bought on rumors that the stock shortly would be placed on a $7 dividend basis, but these lacked official confirmation.

The reduction in the call money rate from 2 1-2 to 2 per cent. Stimulated the buying of stocks during the afternoon. Time funds were in greater demand and rates stiffened as a consequence. Sixty to ninety day loans, which were quoted 3 1-4 to 3 1-2 yesterday today were definitely established on a 3 1-2 per cent. basis with four to six months loans ruling at 3 3-4. Commmercial Paper rates were unchanged.

Reactionary tendencies crept into the foreign exchange market, with heavy profit taking in evidence. Demand sterlin sold off about 1 1-2 cents to around $4.61 1-2 and moderate recessions also took place in the Scandinavian and Dutch currencies. French francs, however, ruled slightly firmer around 5.30 cents.

BOND MARKET

New York, Nov. 11—Spirited bidding for selected railroad issues today resulted in another lively trading session for bonds, although considerable irregularity prevailed throughout the list. Prices generally held firm with several 1924 high records established in the foreign government and semi-speculative rail groups.

The intense activity in the stock market, combined with a shift in money rates, influenced a transfer of speculative interest to stock trading. Despite a return of call money to 2 per cent., time funds showed further hardening tendencies with an increase in commercial borrowings. The advance in these quotations was immediately reflected in losses by Liberty bonds, with the treasury 4 1-4s dipping below par, more than a point under their recent high record.

The firmer money situation also impeded trading in corporation bonds to some extent, but not until a number of railroad issues had scaled new peaks for the year. "Katy" Adjustment 6s reached the best price in their history at 72 1-2, scoring a net gain of 2 3-8 points. Other substantial gains were recorded by Seaboard, Chesapeake and Ohio, Norfolk & Western, St. Paul, New Haven, New York Central and Rock Island liens, although intermittent profit taking appeared.

Moderate improvement took place in foreign obligations under the leadership of Swiss 5 1-2s of 1946 and Netherlands 6s which sold at new 1924 top figures of 101 and 102, respectively. German bonds got back to 95 for the first time in several weeks and Serbian 8s recovered more than a point.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Nov. 11.—Prices surged upward in curb market trading today under the leadership of the oil and radio shares. Activity in these groups broadened perceptibly, although interest dwindled in other sections of the list in which price movement were mixed.

Net gains in the oil shares ranged from 1 to 9 points, the extreme advance being scored by Standard Oil of Ohio, which moved up to 326. Borne-Scrymser advanced 5 points and Eureka Pipe Line 6, with gains of 1 1-2 to 3 1-2 points were registered by Galena Signal Oil, Indiana Pipe Line, Vacuum Oil, Northern Pipe Line and Solar Refining.

Radio stocks moved irregularly higher with renewed accumulation of Dubilier sending the price up 1 1-8 to 56 5-8. Hazeltine gained 1 7-8 and fractional advances took place in Freed Eisemann, and Radio Corporation common.

Speculative uncertainty over developments in the new Continental Baking merger caused a fresh break of more than five points in United Bakeries, bringing the price twenty points below last week's high mark achieved before the exchange offer of Continental shares was announced.

Public Utilities were firm, with trading featured by gains of 1 1-2 points each in Commonwealth Power and Middle West Utilities.

DIAMOND CONNOISSEUR SLAIN IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Nov. 11.—An illicit jewel trade, believed by federal officers to have been revealed in the slaying of Mrs. Theresa W. Mors, Aug. 13 last, for which Kid McCoy, former prize fighter, now is awaiting trial, last night again occupied the attention of authorities following the mysterious killing here of Harry Katz, diamond connoisseur, musician and real estate operator.

In each killing a .33 calibre pistol was used and in each instance neighbors testified that they heard the slayer running away. Mrs. Mors was shot through the head once. Katz was shot once through the neck.

A "heavy set man" was seen running from the room where Mrs. Mors was shot. The same description is applied to a man who made several trips to Katz's apartment, and with whom Katz said he had had trouble.

Police officers working on the Katz case declared him a "clearing house" in the underworld jewel trade, and added that he had been under observation for some time. Likewise the authorities seized several hidden caches of the Mors jewels.

The dead man lived in a luxurious apartment, had 22 violins and almost invariably carried diamonds of large size and value on his person. Other gems, he kept, it is declared, in a safe deposit box in a downtown bank.

Katz, although giving evidence of wealth, owner of two expensive automobiles, choice violins, jewels and a small gangline yacht, went through bankruptcy proceedings here in September, 1922.

Robbery was not the motive for the Katz killing, officers declare. Katz had a small fortune in diamonds on his person when he was shot and these were not touched.

AN ATTEMPT TO CONVERT QUICKSILVER INTO GOLD

New York, Nov. 11.—The Scientific American announced today that it would direct an attempt to convert quicksilver into gold, during a series of experiments already in progress under Prof. H. H. Sheldon, department of physics, New York University.

"We believe the effort will be successful," said E. E. Free, editor of the publication. "The experiments probably will take from two to four months."

He explained that Professor Sheldon's efforts would be directed toward confirming, by a different process, results claimed to have been achieved by Prof. Adolph Miethe during the last year at Charlottenburg Technical College, Berlin. In the meantime a duplicate of the apparatus used by Professor Miethe is being sent here for study.

The apparatus now being set up at New York University consists chiefly of a quartz lamp which incloses various tubes and electric paraphernalia. The lamp will hold about a half ounce of quicksilver vapor.

The theory is that a current of electricity, of 170 volts and an amperage to be determined, will "crack" the atoms of the quicksilver "knock off" the 80th planetary electron which differentiates quicksilver from gold, and thus leave atoms with a planetary system of 79 electrons—pure gold.

"We believe our experiments will be successful," Mr. Free said. "Accurate records will be kept so that an estimate of the cost of producing gold may be made. We shall make the best possible estimate of the time—if ever—when the world will have to face the threat of cheap gold."

Berlin dispatches at the time of Professor Miethe's announcement of his discovery quoted him as saying that his method of changing quicksilver to gold could have no immediate economic effect because of the prohibitive cost of the process. Two million dollars worth of electric current would be needed to manufacture a pound of gold, he said, basing his estimate on the expense of his experiments with small quantities.

Last July when Professor Miethe made his announcement, gold was selling for about $330 a pound. Quick silver brought a little less than a dollar a pound.

SNAKE HUNTER KILLED WHEN THROWN FROM TEAM

Great Barrington, Mass., Nov. 11.—Ike Whitbeck, the hunter of Mount Washington who for years had gone into snake dens and fastnesses where other residents had feared to trend to obtain rentiles for the country's zoos, was killed today. Death came not on the fangs of a serpent, as many had prophesied, but from a broken neck when horses which he was driving with a load of freight at Copake, N. Y., became frightened and threw him to the ground. Ike had found a new snake den this fall out of which he had said he expected to get 400 rentiles. There is none on Mount Washington to succeed him as a hunter of snakes.

WOMAN WAS BRUTALLY MURDERED IN FARMHOUSE

Providence, R. I., Nov. 11.—Mrs. Fannie Thornton, 63, was brutally murdered by her brother-in-law, Archie Thornton, 55, in the latter's farmhouse on Sandy Lane, near Boxie, R. I. this afternoon. Thornton was held by the Warwick police for observation. He was overcome by three patrolmen after a terrific battle and upon arrival at police headquarters in Apponaug, had to be clubbed into submission before he was locked up.

A long bread knife was used by the murderer and Miss Anna Kawaltzky of New Bedford, Mass., who was a companion woman and maid to Mrs. Thornton, witnessed the crime and told the police that when she remonstrated with Thornton he attempted to attack her. She fled from the house, however, calling for help. She is being held by the police as material witness. The murdered woman's husband, Frederick M. Thornton, is working in New York city.

BELIEVE HULK NOT THAT OF YACHT LEIF ERICSSON

New York, Nov. 11.—Friends of William Washburn Nutting and the other yachtman aboard the motor yacht Leif Ericsson, missing in the north Atlantic, expressed the belief today that the derelict referred to in reports reaching the U. S. S. Trenton was not the sought-for craft.

Three weeks ago, it was recalled, a transatlantic steamer reported sighting a hulk four degrees west of the position of the derelict referred to by the Trenton, and in about the same latitude. Yachtsmen here said that probably that hulk had now drifted eastward to the position mentioned by the cruiser.

Morris Maybush, a director of the Tremont Trust Company before it went to the wall four years ago, died of poisoning in Boston. Physicians and police said it was supposedly self-administered.

Open-air political meetings are to be held in England throughout the winter.

PRACTICAL NURSE ADDS TESTIMONY

Mrs. Crail Says Tanlac Is Without An Equal.

Mrs. Hattie Crail, a highly successful and popular practical nurse, 32nd and Douglas Sts., Des Moines, Iowa, is another among the many of her admirable profession to endorse the Tanlac treatment.

"Following a period of severe nervous prostration two years ago," declared Mrs. Crail recently, "I was so weak, restless and uncertain of myself that I scarcely dared go on the street alone. I suffered from violent headaches and dizzy spells, and again from a condition of extreme drowsiness. For a time I was compelled to give up my work.

"But with Tanlac my recovery was surprisingly rapid, and soon my nerves were entirely normal, the pains left my head, my appetite and digestion became perfect and I was strong enough to resume my work of nursing. In short, Tanlac built me up so I have enjoyed sound health ever since."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

A Great Car Made Still Greater

When you think of the Chandler today, you naturally think in terms of the Traffic Transmission, inasmuch as its amazing advantages rank it as one of the great advances in automotive design.

Traffic Transmission

(Campbell Patent)

But even before the Traffic Transmission was perfected, the supremacy of Chandler performance and the soundness of Chandler values had been clearly established.

That the Traffic Transmission made it impossible to clash gears—

—that any driver could change instantly and silently from low to high or high to low, under all conditions was only another reason for becoming a Chandler owner—

—a reason, perhaps more spectacular but certainly no sounder, than the masterly performance of the Pikes Peak Motor, the smartness and comfort of fine Fisher bodies, and the rugged construction that has sent so many Chandlers far past the 100,000 mile mark.

Genuine super-size balloon tires are standard equipment on all Chandler models. Four-wheel brakes are optional at a moderate additional charge. Five open and five closed types—ranging in price from $1585 for the touring car to $2195 for the seven-passenger sedan, f. o. b. Cleveland.

POETRY

THE HERITAGE OF TOMORROW.

Were you ever sitting at your desk with papers strewn about,
With your head so full of figures that it just seemed bustle' out?
Then you'd sorta just relax a bit and lean back in your chair,
Prop your hands up to your head and run your fingers through your hair,
Close your eyes for just a second to clear the fog away,
And heave a sigh of weariness that doesn't come from play,
From far away a voice would say,
"Come on, let's go afishin'."

The figures then would vanish and the fog would clear away,
And your weariness would carry you and your thoughts would turn to play,
The pencil there upon your desk would change before your eyes
To a long, slim, slender bamboo rod and the pens would turn to flies,
The papers there before you'd turn to lily
pads of green,
And then a voice would say to you,
"That's just what you were wishin',
Come on and play, put toil away,
Let's you and I go fishin'."

Well, you toiled hard for all you'd gained and neatly laid away
Was a tidy little fortune to use another day,
And if you never used it, there was Son
—to him 'twould go,
And he would have the business, too, and you were glad 'twas so.
So why not go afishin' in the streams
you loved so well,
Since the future was provided for as far as one could tell.
You had no one to answer to, from no
one admonition,
So for a while court Izaak's smile that guides men
While they're fishin'.

But is Son's heritage complete, complete
as you had thought,
Had you willed him all that should be his
of things you had begot?
Yes, you had left him rich indeed, in money, gain and power,
But had you left the fishin', too, to help his trying hour?
When you have gone he'll take your place, and, tired with business care,
Can he close his eyes, relax somewhat and lean back in your chair
And put his hands up to his head with out a premonition
And just like Dad, do what he had,
Just steal away afishin'?

Take heed to this, down in his heart
you've willed him a desire
To do the things his Daddy did, and he can't quench that fire.
The voice that called you all your life
when you were tired and blue
And helped you o'er life's stony road would help the boy o'er, too.
And so, before you go to meet the Fisher, man of Men,
Just try and leave some fishin' in the streams where you have been;
Get out the will you've made to him and pen there this addition:
"To you, my boy, I leave this joy,
A heap of fish for fishin'."
—Elmer E. Rawdon, in Outdoor America.

A TURKISH LEGEND.

A certain Pasha, dead five thousand years,
Once from his harem fled in sudden terror.

And had this sentence on the city's gate
Deeply engraven, "Only God Is Great."

So these four words above the city's noise
Hung like the accents of an angel's voice

And evermore, from the high barbican,
Saluted each returning caravan.

Lost is that city's glory. Every gust
Lifts, with dead leaves, the unknown
Pasha's dust,

And all is ruin—save one wrinkled page
Whereon is written, "Only God Is Great."
—Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

The United States bureau of standards is experimenting with a process for reclaiming worn machine gun barrels by nickleplating the interior of the bore and then re-filling.

The American Ornithologists' union was formed forty-one years ago in 1883 by the amalgamation of numerous societies of bird students in various parts of the country. Its membership at first was small but it has constantly grown, increasing from 140 to approximately 1,000 at present. The activities of the society are manifold. It arbitrates scientific questions concerning birds, maintains a bird magazine, the Auk, and investigates the problems of the migration and nesting of birds. Two offshoots of the union have themselves attained a development practically overtopping the parent organization. The American Audubon Society, which is concerned with the protection of game and song birds, originated as a committee of the Ornithologists' union. Another committee developed into the biological survey, now one of the most active bureaus in government work.

LEGAL NOTICES

JOSEPH E. JAFFE VS. THE S. & W. Self Service Grocery Co., Superior Court, New London County, Nov. 7th, 1924.

JUDGMENT.

This action by complaint came to this Court on the first Tuesday of November, 1924, and thence to the present time, when the parties appeared, and were fully heard, no plea or answer being filed.

The Court finds all the allegations of the complaint true and that on the 14th day of October, 1924, Abraham Levine of Norwich, Conn., was appointed temporary receiver of said defendant corporation by the order of Hon. Leonard J. Nickerson, Judge of the Superior Court (that said temporary appointment was confirmed by the order of said Judge on the 24th day of October, 1924), and that said Levine accepted such appointment, qualified as such temporary receiver and is now acting as such.

FINDS SAILOR'S DEATH WAS WHOLLY ACCIDENTAL

The navy board of investigation under Lieutenant Commander Jones at the submarine base has completed its investigation into the death of Stanislous Pestka, of the crew of the N-1, who was killed last week in an automobile near the Poquetanuck drawbridge.

The death was purely accidental, according to the board's finding. Pestka being thrown from his seat when the car struck a tree.

The automobile which was owned and driven by Pestka left the road after rounding a downhill curve, climbed a bank and hit a tree, then falling back into the road with Pestka and another sailor under the machine. A third sailor was thrown out clear of the car.

Approximately 175 sailors to be held as a reservoir of men to be drawn for sea service are now at the academy and the Coast Guard station at Newport has been abandoned.

The barracks and quarters for these men are still undergoing alteration and being placed in readiness for the new contingent. Ensign Walter S. Fish is in charge of the unit with Gunner Carl Ward, formerly of the Destroyer Cassin, assisting.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes —Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, tallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

WORLD WAR MEMORIAL TABLET ON CHELSEA PARADE DEDICATED

Following the parade which brought the marching column of over 6,000 to the Chelsea Parade Tuesday afternoon, the dedication exercises of the World War Memorial tablet at the northerly end of the Parade was conducted with a programme of dignity and impressiveness that touched the hearts of the thousands gathered within sound of the voices of the speakers. The Parade and all the space and streets around it were a solid mass of humanity and automobiles, to which the voices of the speakers were carried by an amplifier that had been placed on the Civil War monument.

On the speakers' stand were grouped members of the general committee, city and town officials, and military staffs, while in front of it were assembled the Academy students and Swahn's full military band for the singing which was led by William G. Park. The Gold Star Mothers' float was given a position of advantage close to the stand.

General Chairman H. M. Lerou opened the exercises by announcing

H. M. LEROU
General Chairman

America as the first number and after the singing by the assemblage he spoke brief dedicatory words as follows:

"We are gathered here this afternoon to dedicate a memorial to the memory of those who obeyed the call of their country and offered their lives in the Great World War. With gratitude to all who served and grief for those who fell, we dedicate this tablet today."

Mayor Waters Speaks.

Mayor Milo R. Waters followed, representing the city as he said:

My Friends:

Words are feeble instruments to use in trying to express the gratitude of our people to the sons of Norwich who played such a loyal part in the great World War.

In quiet nooks under shady trees in our church yards rest peacefully brave men of Norwich who have faced the enemy in every war in which the republic has engaged, and their record for bravery and loyalty has been equalled only by the heroism of the men of this last great war.

Whether their orders called them to serve in the regular army, navy, or marine corps, those gallant organizations with a hundred years of glory behind them, or they came from civil life we honor them. Whatever their nationality, native or adopted sons of Norwich we honor them.

Whatever their creed, Jew or Gentile, Catholic or Protestant, we love them. Whether their orders called them to the sea, or air, or the forlorn hope of some lost battalion, we can never forget them. And our children and our children's children will cherish their memories forever.

Dedicatory Prayer

Rev. M. H. May of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church offered the dedicatory prayer as follows:

Almighty and Eternal God, who hast created man to Thine own image and likeness that we might know Thee, love Thee and serve Thee.

Heavenly Father, who has planted into the human heart love for home and love of country, we Thy children are assembled on this historic day at the gateway of this historic city to dedicate in Thy name this tablet as a memorial to our valiant sons and daughters who hearkening to their country's call buckled on the armor of righteousness and patriotism and went forth, heedless of danger to do and, if need be, to die for the honor of our country and the glory of our flag.

Grant, we implore Thee, as we dedicate this memorial, that our hearts may be lifted up to Thee in the desire to do noble deeds to Thy greater honor and to the welfare of our country.

Bless, O, Lord, our heroes who so promptly answered their country's call for service on land and sea and in the air; mercifully remember, O Lord, our beloved ones who are represented by the gold stars of our Service Flag.

And forget not O Lord, those others whose names are emblazoned on this memorial—those who filled the posts assigned to them, not on the field of battle nor sailing the seas—the men whose will was to go, but whose fate was to remain behind.

O, God of Nations on this day renew and spread over the land a feeling of pride in American institutions, American greatness, American prosperity, American tolerance and forbearance, of enthusiastic support and self-sacrificing devotion to the fortunes and needs of our country.

O God of Love, while we dedicate this memorial on which are inscribed the names of men of different races and creeds, dissipate hate of strife and cause to burn in the hearts of men the flame of friendship and love.

O Father of Light from whom comes every good and perfect gift, bless our country, bless and prosper the heroes whom this tablet commemorates, safeguard our liberties; guide and preserve our rulers in the way of justice and truth. Hasten the day when justice and peace in loving embrace shall dwell upon the whole earth.

O Merciful Father, grant us after this life's warfare an imperishable crown of eternal victory.

Amen.

The Long, Long Trail was sung by the Academy students and the assembly, under the leadership of Mr. Park, and was followed by Colonel Orville E. Petty, of New Haven, whom Chairman Lerou introduced as one who had seen service both on the Mexican border and "over there."

Dedication Address.

Col. Petty, who is a pastor in New Haven, wore the khaki uniform of his military rank, and spoke upon the theme of The Price of Peace.

He had been thrilled, he said, when he came to this city and saw the good taste, good sense and great generosity in the decorations and he had almost been carried off his feet by the dignified and well ordered parade. He congratulated the mayor and the committee who could well feel proud of what Norwich had done on this day, and he was grateful to share in the dedication of this symbol of valor, the granite memorial faced in bronze.

But it is a reminder of The Price of Peace. Too often in our crowded lives we forget that our peace is paid for by the blood and brawn, the tears and tireless energies of thousands, many of whom sleep far beneath the sod. We need to guard that great heritage of peace, which is a by-product of courage invested in sacrifice that good will may abide in the hearts of men. We must forget how much it cost to bring a great and what we trust will be a lasting peace.

But we cannot fail to recall the terrible cost of seeking peace at the edge of the sword. I appeal to you, Col. Petty said, to use your heads, be sensible, be intelligent to find some other way of establishing justice than through the blood shed on battlefields. I am not a militarist nor a pacifist, declared Col. Petty, but the time to prevent war is in times of peace by creating the spirit of good will. We must guard our heritage by right thinking and good feeling if we can; and by our blood if need be. And we shall need to be ready before it is too late. (Applause). We know that the world has outlaws among nations as well as among individuals. If you will study the causes of war, and then study to overcome it in your own life, you can do it. It all depends on your spirit and your purpose.

War is caused by greedy selfishness, wanting more than we should, wrong ideas of national greatness, race hatred and religious intolerance and all that. It is not caused by citizens who believe in defense and are prepared for it. Because I know how to box does not make me a fighter. It's forty years since I have been compelled to take off my coat and fight, but I meet a lot of men every day whom I know I could lick. I know I have kept out of many a fight because I showed by my actions that I knew how to take care of myself. We should try to understand other people and other races and have respect for their convictions and cultivate goodwill, generosity, the spirit of co-operation and understanding and devotion to American ideals and principles.

But there is something more. There is an attempt to codify international law with a world court and an international police force to make it effective. I hope the time will come when we shall all stand together against the onslaught of brutal bigotry and greed on the part of any other nation. Let us have tolerance and goodwill and back of all the plans a machinery that will make it impossible for any nation to attack another unless it is suicide on its part. Let us take time to think about American ideals and our heritage of valor. They cost so much that they must not be lost, and the measure of our nation will be its moral and spiritual greatness.

Hymn and Psalm.

The assemblage sang The Battle Hymn of the Republic, which was followed by the reading of the 90th Psalm by Rabbi J. N. Rosenberg of the Brothers of Joseph synagogue.

Memorial Wreaths.

Three memorial wreaths were placed upon the tablet while the solemn notes of Taps were sounded three times by a bugler of the marines at the submarine base. The wreaths were placed by the Robert O. Fletcher post, American Legion, and Richard Hourigan post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and by Mrs. William L. Fletcher, mother of Robert O. Fletcher, who made the supreme sacrifice in France on Aug. 15, 1918, and after whom the Norwich American Legion post is named.

Commander Armstrong Speaks.

An address was given by Commander E. P. Armstrong of Waterbury, state commander of the American Legion, and vice commander of the National American Legion, who was introduced by Chairman Lerou as an old friend, a Norwich boy, who was loved by the men of the American Legion.

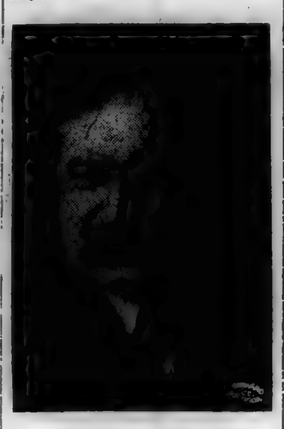
COL. ORVILLE A. PETTY
Speaker of The Day

Commander Armstrong spoke as follows:

Dear Comrades and Friends of Norwich: It is a privilege to be with you on this Armistice Day, which means so much to all of us and it is a pleasure to come back to my home town to assist in the dedication of this tablet in honor of the men and women of this city who served this country during the World war. Its purpose will be two-fold. Not only will it commemorate forever service rendered and sacrifices made by the men and women of this community, but it will serve as an inspiration and a shrine of patriotism to future generations of young America.

The American Legion has decreed that on Memorial Day we shall honor the memory of our departed comrades and the service men of previous wars who have passed on. That is considered as a day set aside for honoring the dead of all wars and Armistice Day is set aside as a day of glorification when we may celebrate the victory gained by American arms in France in 1918, but my thoughts go back to the old days in France and also to the thirty odd thousand comrades who sleep under the white crosses and poppies in the fields of France. And to my mind comes also the more than thirty thousand comrades of ours located in hospitals scattered throughout these United States whose minds and bodies have been wrecked by war, and while we glory in the achievements of our country and its armed forces, I think it is well that our minds should turn to the problems that confront this world, particularly as to how we shall stop all future wars. And as we live over today the memories of the great World war it should remind us that the world, which calls itself civilized, has not advanced and seems incapable of advancing beyond that stage where its disputes can only be settled with force of arms. It is the uncivilized standard, the standard used in Africa where the savage chief has never heard of diplomacy, whose one thought in case of dispute is to grab his gun and torch and kill. It was so in the cases of Germany and Austria. They turned to trial by battle to see where truth and justice lay in the quarrel they believed they had with their neighbors.

Thus we might ask ourselves what means can be devised to usher us into light and put us and all other nations on a plane that will not allow a repetition of the great 1914-1918 catastrophe. Unless some such means is devised, unless nations will trust each other and make an end of war, war will make an end of our civilization.



MILO R. WATERS
Mayor of Norwich

How can we have a permanent peace? It is a problem that the great minds of the world are wrestling with today and we should not be led astray by that class of our people who believe that the way to peace is in the complete disarmament of our nation, the abolition of our army and the scrapping of our military equipment.

The lesson of our unpreparedness has been taught us many times. Just as often have we ignored these teachings. The extreme pacifist would make us believe that mortal combat is an unpardonable sin. He would teach the young of the nation that the uniform is a badge of wickedness, a military title the worst a man might wear. Yet our history shows that in the last century and a half we have done just what he preaches. The end of the war that gave us our independence was a signal for the doing away of our army and navy, the discarding of our defense. The second war with England came and found us totally unprepared. Success came to us in the Mexican war not because we were prepared and ready, but because we had a preponderance of numbers. Much loss of life and treasure would have been prevented in the Civil war had the federal army been prepared. The Spanish-American war was another instance of our being unprepared. Had Spain been the great military power the world believed she was we would have paid even more dearly; as it was the cost was enormous. The World war is still too fresh in our memories to need comment.

In all therefore we have had six instances to prove that extreme pacifism does not pay. At the present time our standing army consists of 125,000 men. We have an organized reserve of 80,000 and a national guard with a personnel of 250,000. A total strength of 355,000 out of a population of 110,000,000. Such organizations as the military intelligence and the National Security League say that the extreme pacifist gets his encouragement and his leadership from Russia. There is nothing to prove this statement false. There is much to prove it correct. Let us look at Russia's trained military man power. With a population of 129,000,000 people it has a standing army of 700,000 and trained reserves of 4,700,000. Every good American will look at these figures and promptly put his foot on any proposition further to reduce our military and naval forces. After the disarmament conference held in Washington but a short time ago, the United States made great sacrifices in reducing its naval armament and scrapping ships that were well on towards completion, and it was decreed that the naval ratio should be 5-5-3 and yet we find today that the ratio is actually 5-4-3, with the United States in second place. The people of this country do not want war and particularly the service men who know what war is, but we believe that the only way to prevent war and prevent the enormous loss of life and countless treasure is in being prepared for war.

The Hero Dead.

First Selectman William S. Murray read the list of the 47 who made the supreme sacrifice and again the bugler blew Taps with an impressiveness that brought tears to the eyes of many.

The following was the list:

Horace Hastings Allen, Dominick Barber, Irving Edwin Bogue, Anthony Clarence Bonin, Jr., Ernest John Bossey, William Brault, Durlin D. Bushnell, James L. Carver, Edwin H. Cohen, George A. Dawson, Albert Henry Dexter, Kerwin Doyle, William Morgan Durr, Robert O. Fletcher, Peter Gallan, Raymond E. Gibson, Fred B. Hasler, Harold B. Hotchkiss, Richard Edward Hourigan, Thomas Perry Johnson, Frederick Joseph Kelley, John McGrath, James Thomas Morrison, Michael J. Murphy, Isadore Nagdyman, James Joseph Nevins, Antonio Pancicco, Harry Pappagallo, James Henry Harrison Perrin, William E. Perry, Frederick W. Roessler, Arthur Schofield, Arthur Paul Schulz, Edward Francis Smigiel, William Alexander Stankiewicz, Rufus Hibberd Stanton, Leroy Ames Swan, Herbert Clifford Taylor, John Ulanovich, William A. Weeden, George Constantine Welcin, Frank Alfred Wilcox, Charles W. Willey, Walter James Woodmansee, Charles Zdancewicz, Peter Zeneski, Donald Fraser.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott of the United Congregational church, who was in his chaplain's uniform, and the exercises closed with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner while all stood with bared heads and in silence made a renewed pledge in their hearts of allegiance to the flag and the nation for which it stands.

HOME CHAPTER MEETING HEARS OF NEAR EAST WORK

The November meeting of Home Chapter of the King's Daughters held Monday afternoon at the Johnson Home was largely attended. The leader, Mrs. William E. Manning presided. Following the opening exercises the secretary and treasurer submitted their reports, and six new members were initiated into the chapter. The names of three others were presented for membership to be balloted on later.

Mrs. Manning named the following as a nominating committee to appoint officers and committee's for the coming year, Mrs. Earl Christman, Mrs. Edwin Lathrop and Mrs. Albert Boardman.

It was voted at this meeting to again adopt the holiday calendars. Each members is expecter to deposit 10 cents for every holiday during the year, also on their birthday anniversary, thus making a total of $1.60 from each to add to the chapter's treasury. The calendars for 1924 are now being turned in to the treasurer Mrs. Herbert R. Branche, and to date, a good sum has been realized.

Of special interest was the collection for the Near East Relief, also the brief talk by the leader, who gave extracts from one of the principal speakers at the State King's Daughters' convention, held October 8th and 9th in Waterbury. Facts brought out were that 60,000 children between the ages of four and twelve were being helped by the Near East Relief. It is pitiful to see these children many of whom live in fear and dread because of having seen their parents killed. They even have to be taught how to play as other children do. The speaker in question told of a diplomat from Geneva, Switzerland, who quoted that the American people were in the lead for the quality of love displayed on children, as no other nation possessed such love for the little folks. Our schools and Sunday schools, and the encouragement we give the children is deserving of praise and commendation. There is a great opportunity for America to continue in the good work, as these children have no ideals, as conditions are bad, four religions fighting for supremacy. Many of the girls in Syria have been taught to weave rugs, make scarfs and do various kinds of embroidery, these products being commercialized. The speaker stated that it was quite a problem to keep 5,000 girls busy, as teachers are scarce many being under the supervision of one older person who teaches them all kinds of domestic work as well. The children even are taught to cook their meals in one large kitchen. Of the boys, a large number have been taught to sew and they have proven so proficient, up to a short time ago an order was outstanding for 1,000 French uniforms, but they were obliged to wait for material. Not only is the Near East Relief feeding the children, but aside from being taught to use their hands, their minds are being trained that they might develop good strong characters. Those attending the convention were urged to observe "Golden Rule Sunday," December 7th, and if properly carried out will amount to only six cents for each person. Before the collection was taken by Home chapter, Mrs Manning in concluding her talk related interestingly a few things concerning a young Armenian who was a student at Greenwich Academy at the same time she was. Arakel H. Nazarian, then a Methodist student, later becoming a minister, wrote his autograph for her in English, Armenian and Turkish, also wrote a verse which was translated in all three languages. This was shown at the meeting Monday.

While attending Greenwich Academy, Mrs. Manning (then Miss Grace H. Fuller) was chosen by this foreign student to put on an Armenian costume for which he presented her a knit beaded bag, which she has preserved though the years. The collection amounted to $5.30, was taken in this bag, the leader asking that each one to drop in 10 cents. This was turned over to the treasurer who before Christmas will forward the amount to Near East headquarters.

At the suggestion of the leader, no refreshments were served at the close of the meeting, owing to illness at the Johnson home.

BOLTON NOTCH MAN DEAD IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Dominic Ernico of South Manchester is under arrest at Coventry, R. I., on a manslaughter charge for the death of his brother-in-law, Steve Bellitti, 30, of Bolton Notch, last Saturday night in an automobile accident on Fairbanks Hill, near Rice City, R. I.

Dr. Benjamin F. Tefft, medical examiner of Coventry has performed an autopsy on the body of Bellitti. Dr. Tefft was assisted by Dr. H. Barton Dryer. The post mortem examination revealed that five ribs in the right side had been fractured, causing ruptures of internal organs and that the neck was broken. Death, according to Dr. Tefft, was caused by internal injuries. The autopsy was held at the undertaking rooms of Byron Read at Anthony.

Dominic Ernico, brother-in-law of Bellitti, and owner and driver of the automobile, was arraigned before Judge Felix Hebert at a special session of the Fourth District court by Chief William R. Longridge of the Coventry police immediately following the accident on a charge of manslaughter. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $4,000 bail for trial Friday.

According to Chief Longridge Ernico drove out of the state highway leading to Greene on to the state highway leading from Oneco to Rice City. Tire marks showed that the car had dragged 40 feet on the macadam and 30 feet on the dirt. The car plunged through a fence, down a ten-foot embankment and brought up against a stone wall, according to the chief.

Ernico and four of the other occupants of the car, Albert Gato, Loui Roberto, Frank Martelli and Enrico Gaginesi, all of South Manchester, Conn., escaped injury. The front of the automobile was damaged badly.

Domenic Ernico, owner and driver of the machine, told the authorities that as he drove out of the highway leading to Greene, which he had taken by mistake, he was forced to make a wide swing in order to avoid striking another car. Chief Longridge said that, although he had found five bottles of beer in the machine, none of the occupants was intoxicated.

PROPOSES THAT STATE SELL ITS BANK STOCK

The sale of all national bank stock held by the state of Connecticut to avoid double liability has been proposed to Comptroller Frederick W. Salmon by Treasurer Anson T. McCook. It is a question whether the liability shown through the defalcation of former State Treasurer Gilpatric at the First National bank, may not have had something to do with the present proposal. The state has holdings in six different banks amounting to $219,718, market value distributed as follows:

Hartford—Aetna National bank, 500 shares, which cost the state school fund $50,000 and were valued at $140,000 in the last report of the state treasury.

First National bank of Bridgeport, 128 shares, which cost the state $12,800 and were last listed at $23,040, market value.

Danbury National bank, 57 shares, which cost the state $5,700 and were last listed at $6,840, market value.

Middletown National bank, 134 shares, costing the state $10,050 when acquired, which were last listed at $14,328, market value.

New Haven bank, N. B. A., 100 shares, costing the state $10,000 when acquired, last listed at $19,500, market value.

Waterbury National bank, 200 shares, costing the state $10,862.61 when acquired, last listed at $18,000.

The state would realize a profit of approximately $125,000 if it were to sell these bank stocks at present. The dividends upon them during the year ended June 30, 1923, amounted to $9,927 which was at the rate of about 10 per cent. on their cost value and 4.6 per cent. upon their market value.

Treasurer McCook said, when asked about his plan, that he did not have the slightest doubt as to the soundness of the securities, but believed it wise to avoid the contingent liability due to their being national bank stocks.

Comptroller Salmon stated his position to be opposed to the sale. They had proved to be good investments for the state he said, and, even if any of them should happen to fail, which, of course, there is not the slightest reason to expect, the state could sell the stock of any of the other banks unquestionably at book value to make up for whatever losses, by stock assessments that the state would incur.

The law requires the treasurer to secure the written approval of the comptroller, for the sale of such securities and Mr. Salmon's position evidently precludes any sale at this time.

GREATER DEMAND FOR MALE HELP LAST MONTH

Increased demand for male help and a decrease in the demand for female help, was indicated in the result of the operation of the five free employment bureaus of the state for the month of October, just made public. Of the male applicants for employment in all bureaus 69.8 per cent. were supplied with situations against 61.7 per cent. during September, while of the female applicants during the month only 75.7 per cent. were furnished with situations against 78.8 for September. The percentage of all applicants supplied with work therefore quite nearly balanced that of the previous months, 70.6 per cent. of all applicants being supplied with employment as against 69.5 per cent. for September. Of the total number applying for help during the month 92.8 were furnished against 91.5 for September.

The figures for the five bureaus follow:

Hartford—Applications for employment, 1,468; applications for help, 1,057; situations secured, 991.

New Haven—Applications for employment, 885 applications for help, 1,052; situations secured, 974.

Bridgeport—Applications for employment, 838; applications for help, 737; situations secured, 697.

Waterbury—Applications for employment, 353; applications for help, 599; situations secured, 520.

Norwich—Applications for employment, 328; applications for help, 143; situations secured, 138.

HADASSAH IS SEEKING 5,000 NEW MEMBERS

A campaign for 5,000 new members of the Hadassah—the women's Zionist organization of America—was launched in New York Monday at a luncheon attended by 2,000 women. The guests of honor were Miss Henrietta Szold, president of the Hadassah, and Mrs. Edward Jacobs and Mrs. A. H. Fromenson, two members of the National board, all of whom have recently returned from Palestine. With increasing restrictions on immigration to the United States, the speakers held out the Jewish homeland as one of the "great hopes" of the Hebrew race all over the world.

In the United States the Hadassah has 183 senior chapters with a paid-up membership of 16,220; 73 junior units, consisting of 87 groups, and 547 sewing circles. It was explained that the primary object of the membership drive was to stimulate interest in the work and raise additional funds for carrying it on.

PEN PANORAMA OF FUNERAL OF HENRY CABOT LODGE

Distinguished Group of Mourners Attended the Simple Services in Christ Church, Cambridge—There Was No Eulogy, Bishop Lawrence Adhering Strictly to the Ritual—Outside a Reverent Crowd of Hundreds of Men and Women Stood With Bowed Heads as the Bells Tolled the Knell—Only Members of the Family and the Pallbearers, Bishop Lawrence and Rev. Mr. Evarts Accompanied the Body to the Grave.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 12—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, whose career as statesman and scholar was ended by death here last Sunday, was laid at rest today in the Lodge family vault in Mount Auburn cemetery, between the tall American elms, on the slope of a hill and by the shore of a lake. The services at the tomb and at Christ church, where a distinguished group of mourners gathered, were as simple as the homage of hundreds would permit. The simplicity of the obsequies, relieved only by a military and naval guard of honor, two soldiers, a sailor and a marine with draped colors and with arms, carried with it a tribute impressive to those who took part because it was characteristic of the man they mourned.

Nation and state, city and town, judiciary and organizations whose activities he shared each represented by delegations of well known men joined within the ancient edifice of Christ church with family and friends. By wish of the family, only those close to the senator in public life, in personal interests or in the more intimate circle of friendship of kinship were allowed in the old church. Senator Lodge was married in Christ church after attending services there in his college days and there he mourned his wife nine years ago. Outside, a reverent crowd of hundreds, some of them high in social standing or in public life, gathered before the box like basilica of the church and stretching back to Cambridge Common formed a congregation that stood through the services, the men with heads bared, the women with heads bowed, as the bells tolled the knell of the man they had once called to classes.

Great Britain, Cuba and China among the nations of the world, and North Dakota and Wyoming among the states sent wreaths or sprays to add to the floral tributes that banked the arched chapel and choir stalls. A three-fold spray of violets, bound by orchids, rested on the coffin, the offering of Senator Lodge's descendants in two generations. The coffin was closed throughout the services.

These services were as simple as the ritual of the Episcopal church would permit, and there was no departure from the book. Bishop William Lawrence, head of the Episcopal diocese, playmate and classmate and lifelong friend of the senator, conducted the services, assisted by Rev. Prescott Evarts, rector of the church. Meeting the casket at the entrance, he preceded it down the aisle between old box pews backed by colonial pilars, intoning as he went, the simple sentences of the ritual. With set lips the bishop, whose years are those of the senator, 76, followed the reading of the prescribed gospel by Rev. Mr. Evarts, then sang or sought to control tears that coursed from his eyes while the surpliced choir chanted the hymn "the Strife is O'er, The Battle Done."

Then reciting but not reading prayers selected from the book as most appropriate, his head held high as if under stress of feeling that was strongly controlled, the bishop appeared to emphasize the passage:

"We yield unto thee, most high praise for the wonderful grace and virtue declared in thy servants," departing from the text in reference to servants instead of saints. Except as this might be construed as a testimonial to the greatness achieved by the friend of his boyhood, there was no eulogy.

As the choir took up the strains of the hymn "The Son of God Goes Forth to War," Bishop Lawrence headed the recessional. The bells of Christ church tolled, the bells of the first parish, Unitarian, on the edge of Harvard Square, took up the slow antiphonal, and the church emptied in the wake of the recessional. At the end came the colors, those of the country, a flag from the Battleship Florida that was in action at Vera Cruz and was flown in the North Sea, and the state colors, each with a drape of mourning at the peak.

Through the reverent crowd, the cortege moved again. As in the procession from the home of Dr. W. Sturges Bigelow on Beacon Street, Boston, where the body had rested since Monday, to the church, only members of the family and the pall bearers, with Bishop Lawrence and Rev. Mr. Evarts, accompanied it. The roster of pall bearers, drawn from Senator Lodge's contemporaries was not complete, disabilities due to age making it impossible for two to serve.

Through the winding paths of Mount Auburn cemetery, with graveyards on either hand that holds the remains of Sumner and Longfellow, Holmes, Agassis and Robert Gold Shaw, the cortege wound its way over a carpet of fallen leaves. Turning down Oxalys Path, along the shore of Mount Auburn Lake, the casket was brought to the family vault, a Gothic structure of red sandstone, with Gothic cross surmounting, set on the western slope of Italian Ridge.

Behind the door of Carrera marble, Senator Lodge was committed to his last resting place beside the body of Mrs. Lodge, and those who had gone before. Bishop Lawrence pronounced only the simple commitment service, it was said; then having performed the last rites of his friend, turned away, leaving the family alone with their dead, whom nation and state had honored.

At Christ church, Secretary of State Hughes and Secretary of War Weeks with Governor Cox, occupied the first pew on the left of the casket, facing the chancel, while behind them on the left were the official delegations. On the right were family and friends.

COURT CASE FOR DISPOSAL OF GERMAN DYE PATENTS

Philadelphia, Nov. 12—Returns of the seized German dye patents, now owned by the Chemical Foundation, Inc., to their original German owners by congress, should the government recover them in its suit against the foundation, was termed "quite possible" today by Attorney General Harlan F. Stone before the United States Circuit court of appeals. Mr. Stone's appearance was the first in many years of a United States Attorney General in the local courts. The suit, dismissed by the Delaware Federal District Court, was appealed to the higher tribunal here.

Summing up for the government, Mr. Stone stressed the claim that congress alone should have had determination of disposal of the patents which had been sold to the foundation for $271,000 by the alien property custodian in 1919.

Moorfield Storey, of counsel for the foundation, in his argument, declared that the suit was suggested by a group of Germans who visited Attorney General Daugherty before the litigation was instituted. Mr. Storey contrasted the "fair and honorable" treatment of the German owners of the patents with the way the Germans had ravaged France and Belgium in the war.

"We have to bear in mind," he said, "that these patents were privileges that had been extended to German citizens in hope of benefit to American industry. In reality they were used in an attempt to stifle it."

TO WORK FOR BRITTEN AS SPEAKER OF HOUSE

Washington, Nov. 12.—Representative Fred A. Britten, of Chicago, has been named as head of the "Madden for speaker," committee to further the candidacy of Representative Martin B. Madden, of Illinois, for speaker of the house.

In a statement today Mr. Britten said the "country has just put its stamp of approval on a business administration and the next congress is going to be presided over by an outstanding businessman."

The statement recited various fiscal reforms and savings with which Mr. Madden has been identified.

DECISION IN TEXTILE CASE IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, R. I., Nov. 12.—Petitions of the Aracoma Textile Co., Inc., of New York, seeking to restrain the Aracoma Textile Co., Inc., of Rhode Island, from selling its output to any other concern than the petitioner were denied in superior court today. The litigation involved a legal tilt between Walter S. Roberts, head of the New York firm, and his brother, William R. Roberts, head of the Rhode Island firm. The former alleged a contract had been made in 1923 guaranteeing that the Rhode Island concern would limit its sales to the New York firm alone.

BUCKETED 85 PER CENT. OF CUSTOMERS' ORDERS

New York, Nov. 12.—Raynor, Nicholas and Truesdell, alleged bucketeers, who failed in 1923 for $4,000,000, bucketed from 85 to 90 per cent. of their customers' orders, a federal court jury was told.

The testimony was offered by Charles F. Hodges, for six months in 1921, auditor and bookkeeper of the firm. He was called as a government witness against William S. Silkworth, former president of the Consolidated stock exchange, and seven other defendants charged with having used the mails to defraud in operations of the firm.

With his testimony the government produced a balance sheet from the firm's books of May 31, 1921, which showed the [illegible] that the customers' balance totalled $4,000,00[illegible] and the stock [illegible] account, totalled $3,000,000. Hodges estimated that more than 75 per cent. of the stocks belonging to customers, and supposed to be held as collateral, were sold.

$100,000 DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST CONVICTS LEOPOLD AND LOEB

Joliet, Ill., Nov. 12.—Suit for $100,000 damages was filed in circuit court here today against Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, serving life terms for slaying of Robert Franks. The suit was filed in behalf of Charles Roam, a taxicab driver of Chicago who charged that the two mutilated him.

Chicago, Nov 12.—The suit for $100,000 damages filed at Joliet today against Nathan Leopold, and Richard Loeb originally was filed here but was started again at Joliet after lawyers for the youth failed to file an appearance. The case may be tried at the January term of court in Joliet, attorneys for Ream said.

NEW BANKS IN PUTNAM OPEN TO GOOD BUSINESS

Putnam, Nov. 12.—Putnam, which lost a national bank last August through the peculations of its cashier, former State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatric, tonight has two new banks, and both were reported to have done a goon business when they opened today.

Taking the place of the First National bank, which was closed after Cashier Gilpatric had attempted to commit suicide, is the Citizens' National bank, organized by the citizens of Putnam, who pledged approximately $200,000 for its capital. It occupies the same building formerly used by the First National bank. Its lobby, banked high with flowers from banking and financial concerns in and outside of the state, was crowded most of the day, and it was said by the officials tonight that the majority of the people were there to do business.

A few doors away is the new Cargill Trust company, which also opened its doors for the first time today. It is a state charter bank nad has the support of many men of prominence in banking and business circles. The president of the Citizens' National bank, Samuel Reynolds, and the head of Cargill Trust company, Byron D. Bugbee, in an exchange of greetings wished each other success in their new field. The Citizens' National bank has retained all of the employes of the First National bank with the exception of one clerk, who has accepted a position elsewhere.

Receiver Coffin of the First National bank has been assigned a place in the new banking house and here, with the aid of three clerks, he is continuing his work on the books of the wrecked institution.

JURY OUT ON HILL TEST CASE OF VOLSTEAD ACT

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 12.—The case of Representative John Philip Hill, of Baltimore, who has been on trial in the United States court for the last three days on an indictment charging violations of the Volstead law, went to the jury at the beginning of the afternoon session of the court today and not having reported a verdict at 5.30 o'clock Judge Morris A. Soper adjourned court, directing that the verdict, if one was reached, be sealed and presented to court tomorrow morning.

Judge Soper's charge to the jury preceded the argument of counsel. He directed the jury to dismiss the fifth and sixth counts of the indictment accusing Colonel Hill of maintaining a common nuisance at his home, 3 West Franklin street, on the ground of insufficient evidence.

Judge Soper declared at the outset that the burden of proof was on the government to satisfy the jury of the defendant's guilt and later refused the request of District Attorney Woodcock to instruct the jury that the burden of proof rested upon Colonel Hill to prove that his fruit juices were not intoxicating in fact. Mr. Woodcock contending that section 33 of the Volstead act shifts it from the government to the defense. Judge Soper directed the jury to give Colonel Hill the benefit of all reasonable doubt.

ITALIAN CHAMBER HAS REASSEMBLED QUIETLY

Rome, Nov. 12—(By the A. P.)—The chamber of deputies reassembled today, and the session passed quietly. One interesting feature was a statement made in the name of the communists that they reserved to themselves the liberty of intervening in the sittings of the chamber whenever they deemed it advisable. This is contrary to the attitude to the remainder of the opposition, who do not contemplate the possibility of attending.

Premier Mussolini made reference to the murders of Deputies Matteotti and Casalini, when in the name of the government he joined in the homage paid them.

The remembrance of the tragic end of Matteotti," he said, "renews in us the sentiment of execration for the crime and pity for the victim. The fact that Matteotti was an adversary of the present government does not diminish, but accentuates, the intensity of these feelings, which are profoundly shared by the Italian people."

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT BY HER EIGHT-YEAR-OLD GRANDSON

Bridgeport, Nov. 11—Mrs. Mary Margeson, aged 69, of 68 King street, is in the St. Vincent hospital mortally wounded by a bullet from a 32 calibre revolver in the hands of her young grandson, eight years old, who believed the weapon to be a toy pistol which he owned.

Mrs. Mary Margeson, according to a statement made to the police by the boy's mother, was reading at the time of the accident. The boy attracted, climbed onto the arm of the large chair in which his grandmother was sitting, and reached for the revolver which was on the top shelf of a mantle-piece. He then pointed the weapon at his grandmother and pulled the trigger. When she collapsed after the report of the discharge the youth, frightened, ran out of the room. Shortly after the shooting the boy's mother came into the room and found Mrs. Margeson, weak but still conscious. The bullet penetrated her spine and lodged in her shoulder.

BROOKHART MAJORITY NOW STANDS AT 650

Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 12—A lead of 650 votes for Senator Smith W. Brookhart, with official figures yet to come from 12 of the 99 Iowa counties, was the standing tonight of the official canvass of votes cast for Brookhart and Daniel F. Steck, his democratic opponent for the senate in the November 4 election.

The official total vote in 87 counties and the unofficial total in the 12 unreported counties made the totals tonight: Brookhart 447,457; Steck 446,807.

Explosion in Grand Rapids Postoffice

Two Men Were Killed and 12 Injured—Cause of Explosion Unknown.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 12.—Two men were killed, one is dying and 12 are injured as the result of a terrific explosion which late today destroyed the loading dock and receiving room at the main Grand Rapids post office with a property damage of $60,000.

The dead are: Ernest A. Roth, 30, a truck driver; Herman Pettersch, 47, a clerk, both legs blown off.

The seriously injured are: Dale Newshouse, possible skull fractured.

Less severely injured: Sinclair Vatter, a clerk, broken leg; Roy Bush, of Hastings, Mich., cut on right arm and neck; Loraine Yarrington, minor injuries; Clarence R. Mackley, manager of American Weather Strip company, cut no head and hands by flying wreckage; Charles H. Butler, superintendent of mails, struck on head, suffering from shock; Edwin V. Annotyn, dockman, cuts and bruises; Harry W. Curry, a clerk, face cuts; Marvin Bas, clerk, finger cut by glass; Luis M. Yeager, salesman, right arm injured and bruises about the body; Henry Roelofs, cut by flying glass; Fred Gunn, clerk, knocked against wall and bruised.

A splinter of wood pierced Roth's body and he died in a hospital three hours after the blast.

Pettersch, Roth and Newshouse were on the loading platform at the time of the explosion, which sent fragments of the platform a hundred feet into the air; hurled a loading truck upon the federal building roof; buried five automobiles and shattered hundreds of windows within a radius of two blocks.

Two theories, that escaping gas collecting beneath the platform was ignited, or that a bomb went through the mails and exploded prematurely, were advanced by postal inspectors and police following a preliminary investigation. Not a fragment of any bomb or other explosive substance however, has been found by investigators, who are continuing their work tonight with the aid of searchlights.

Gas had been scented by employes on the platform for two days, but gas company officials said exploding gas would not have shattered the roof of the dock as occurred in the blast, but rather would have blown out the side walls of the structure.

CAPT. ROALD AHUNDSEN LECTURED IN HARTFORD

Hartford, Nov. 12.—Captain Roald Amundsen, following a lecture at Foot Guard hall tonight, disclaimed the report that the Maud, the explorers' ship, might have to give up her attempted drift across the North Pole.

A Christiana dispatch had stated that the latest message from the ship, received by the Norwegian explorer, Otto Sverdrup was unfavorable. It was interpreted to mean by Dr. Fridtj of Nansen that the vessel had abandoned the drift and was trying to get back to Bering Straight. Mr. Nansen had declared the Maud had evidently exhausted her oil supply, leaving her dependent on sails.

According to Captain Amundsen the Maud had plenty of oil and was coming back to San Francisco. He declared that by no means would the attempt to drift across the pole be given up although it "may have to wait."

He had confidence that the ship would not have to remain in her present position near Cape Baranof for another year as Otto Sverdrup believed. Evidently Captain Wisting, of the Maud will make every attempt to bring the ship into San Francisco and final plans for th eattempted drift will be made there.

The message from the Maud received by Sverdrup follows:

"Came free of ice August 7, 76.25 degrees north, 143.20 degrees east. Impossible to go aroune near Siberia. Had to turn and go around Sotelnoi. Passed Laptev straits August 19 seven miles from Capt Baranof, August 27. No possibility of proceeding inside or outside and had to go under Bear Island. Now lie four miles north. Four sailors on island. The Maud sprang a little leak astern working through ice otherwise all well. Wisting."

BIG COUNTERFEITING CONSPIRACY IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Approximately nine more arrests were tonight expected to follow the detention of 11 men and two women, including Ben Newmark, former assistant state fire marshal, in what government operatives have called the biggest counterfeiting conspiracy in the history of the country.

Although Captain Thomas I. Potter, chief of the secret service here, said today that only $100,000 in bogus war saving stamps had been cashed, according to the most definite information, other operatives declared that reports from banks throughout the country indicated that the total exacted by the counterfeiting gang may run well over a million dollars. These reports came from Chicago, Cleveland, New York, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati houses.

Forest Fires in Vermont

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 12—A forest fire which swept over 100 acres in Maldstone and engulfed the buildings of an abandoned farm, was reported today to the state forest service here. Other fires reported today burned a total of 58 acres in Lowell, Pittsford, Marshfield and Brattleboro. BELLIGERENT SCENE AT CONGRESS FOR PEACE

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Denunciation from the floor of a speech made before the peace congress of the American Council of the World Alliance for International Friendship through the Church, as "socialistic, un-American, unpatriotic and bolshevistic" threw today's session of the congress into pandemonium for several minutes.

Herbert M. Sein of Mexico, in delivering an address advocating revolt of the youth of the world against war, declared the churches during the World war, had "stimied when they prayed for victory," and characterized as "barbarous" the placing of the flag beside the Bible in church pulpits. He pictured the nations of the world abou to engage in another conflict when "suddenly and in unison there breaks forth around the world a revolt of fighters and workers—the great refusal to fight—thus making the war stage collapse."

The speaker had concluded his address when William E. Otto, a Buffalo delegate, leaped to his feet, denounced the speech and demanded whthr the congress was "going to stand for such a spectacle." A mingled chorus of "yes" and no" drowned out both Seis and Otto. The furore was being further increased by attempted impromptu speeches from other parts of the floor.

When quiet had been restored Sein denied his speech had been socialistic, declaring it to be internationalistic.

Dr. William P. Merrill of New York, president of the American council, explained to the delegates that the congress could endorse the sentimnts of speakers only by resolution and that the council was in no way obligated to support the express views of Mr. Sein.

He requested that the matter be postponed temporarily. It was understood that the address and the attacks on it were to be made the subject of a resolution to be presented to the congress tomorrow.

Office Hours: 9:30 to 12 a. m.; 1:30 to 6 p. m.

An out of court agreement was reached Wednesday in the case of Victor Budzinsky vs. the Jones Auto company, a civil suit for damages of $3,500, on the docket of the Windham county superior court for two years. The case was heard twice by jury, the first time being non-suited and the second time resulting in a disagreement. The attorneys in the case were William A. King and Samuel B. Harvey for the defendant, and Thomas M. Shields of Norwich and Thomas J. Kelley of this city for the defendant. The case was the only one listed for Wednesday and when the attorneys announced a settlement after an hour conference behind closed doors, Judge Maltbie thanked the members of the jury for their attendance and attention thus far in the term, discharging them until Tuesday of next week at 10 a. m.

The Budzinsky-Jones case was one which created considerable interest throughout the legal profession in the state. Budzinsky was a resident of Mansfield Center and a blacksmith. Feb. 23, 1922, he secured the Jones Auto company to move his furniture and other articles by truck to his former home in Brooklyn, N. Y. The truck started on the night of Feb. 23 and shortly after daybreak on the morning of the 23d the truck and contents were destroyed by fire at Darien. Harry Clark and Austin Weeks of this city, occupants of the cab, sustained burns, and the former died later at the Stamford hospital as a result of his injuries. Budzinsky attempted to have Merrill H. Jones, principal owner of the Jones Auto company, make a settlement for the loss of his goods, but the latter said that he was not to blame for the accident and that there was no agreement to involve him in the responsibility. Jones did agree to make a settlement of $150 for traveling expenses. Budzinsky then brought suit for $3,500 and in September, 1922, the case was tried in the superior court. The contention of the plaintiff was that Jones was a common carrier, and this was denied by the defense. Attorney King for the defendant proved that the latter was not a common carrier and the court so allowed, declaring the case non-suited. Jones said that he only carried on business by advertisement and that there was no agreement regarding the safety of the goods. Exhibit A in the case was a long list of articles destroyed in the fire, totaling in value $3,571.82, first cost, and estimated at the time of the fire at $3,007.25.

The case again came up last year, and this time the jury disagreed. The third attempt by Budzinsky to get a settlement was made Wednesday. The attorneys had nothing to say regarding the nature of the settlement other than that the action was withdrawn. The plaintiff, Budzinsky, said that no settlement had been made with him of his actual loss, but that he is to be allowed a small sum for expenses. Budzinsky once more resides in Mansfield Center, having purchased the Whiton place, near the pumping station, four months ago.

The case was taken up Wednesday morning but at the request of Prosecuting Attorney Harvey, Judge Foss continued the case to Saturday morning, during which time an effort will be made to secure additional witnesses. The lieutenant and Officer Arthur Hurley were made aware of the animal's venture to the business blocks on Church street. The deer, sighted them and bolted—and so did the policemen. WILLIMANTIC SCHOOL BOARD HAS SPIRITED MEETING

Willimantic, Nov. 12.—The November meeting of the town school committee was held Wednesday evening in the town building, Dr. W. P. S. Keating acting as chairman in the absence of Chairman William F. Sweeney. Present were Dr. Keating, Secretary Egbert A. Case, Dr. F. E. Guild, George W. Hickey, H. C. Lathrop, Robert E. Snow, Joseph F. Gaudreau and John Reilly.

The minutes were read and accepted. The report of Truant Officer Jean B. Paulhus showed six cases investigated during the month. According to the report of School Physician Dr. Keating, 600 children were examined, quite a large number of these being found to be affected with tonsil trouble and adenoids. At the request of the teachers, Superintendent of Schools Case suggested that a change be made in the school calendar, to have the Christmas vacation start on Tuesday, Dec. 23, and continue to Monday, Jan. 5, instead of starting on Friday, Dec. 19. The change was voted allowed. Chairman Hickey of the properties committee reported that repairs on the brickwork on Windham High school had been made and he explained the necessity for this work.

It was voted to procure the services of an additional clerk at the office of Superintendent Case, for one month, during the school enumerating period. Secretary Case announced that next week had been designated as Education week and that all the schools in their plain, everyday appearance will be open to public inspection, as well as the evening school, which holds its sessions in Windham High building.

In telling of the necessity of having the public visit the schools on Wednesday they are under artificial spirit and especially decorated, but as they are on an ordinary school day, Secretary Case pointed out several interesting matters connected with the modern school. Mention was made of the character and physical building of the pupils in the school of today.

Robert Snow made a strong appeal to the board to have the insurance on the schools more evenly divided among Willimantic's 15 insurance agencies. He expressed his views in a vehement manner and the matter was threshed out in a lengthy discussion and was finally settled to the satisfaction of all concerned. It was the first evidence in some time past of any form of friction between the members of the school board and was the first time in at least three years that the word "politics" had been mentioned at such a meeting, this word coming from Mr. Snow. Adjournment was taken at 9.30 o'clock.

Heads Widows' And Widowers' Club

KEYSTONE VIEW CO., NEW YORK.

Mrs. N. B. Stull, of Sandusky, Ohio, who is president of the Widows' and Widowers' Club, with branches in every large American city, says her idea has matured beyond her expectations. Two years ago she started the club with the idea that widows and widowers in a club could form "pleasant association." The idea proved good, and has prospered. As Mrs. Stull claims, the club is not for marital-minded people, for as soon as some one marries, their membership card is revoked.

AFRAID SHE COULD NOT LIVE

Operation Advised, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made It Unnecessary

Glasgow, Kentucky.—"I was rundown, nervous, with no appetite. My side had given me trouble for five or six years. At times it was all I could do to live, and the doctor said I couldn't live but a short time longer without an operation. That was two years ago. My sister-in-law recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She had never used it herself, but she said one of her neighbors suffered just like I did, and it cured her. After I had taken four bottles the pain left my side. I had a fine appetite to eat anything that was put before me, and I began to do all my work and my washing, something I hadn't done for years. I am a dressmaker, and this last fall I began suffering with my side again, so I began taking the Vegetable Compound again. I am on my fourth bottle, which makes eight in all I have taken. I feel so much better when I take it and everybody tells me I look better. My appetite improves and I feel stronger in every way. I am a very nervous woman and it seems to help my nerves so much."—Mrs. MAGGIE WALLER, Glasgow, Kentucky.

VIRUS CAUSING SLEEPING SICKNESS NOT DISCOVERED

Cambride, Mass., Nov. 12—Scientists must take up again at the beginning of their search for the micro-organism which causes sleeping sickness, Dr. Simon Flexner, head of the laboratories of the Rockefeller institute, told members of the national academy of sciences convened here today in their annual meeting. Announcement that the virus responsible for the disease had been discovered has proven to be a mistake, Dr. Flexner said, asserting that medical men are now as much in the dark as ever concerning the bacteriological explanation of this comparatively recent malady.

Dr. Flexner explained that the microbe which causes a disease in rabbits similar to sleeping sickness in human beings and which, it was thought at first, was the sleeping sickness germ, has been found to be only the microbe which causes cold sores in human beings.

Relatively new as far as medical records are concerned, he said, sleeping sickness has already made heavy inroads on the health of people in Europe and America. Thousands of cases he said, occurred in the British Isles in the past summer with a death rate of 25 per cent. Japan has suffered similarly.

Dr. Flexner declared the name "sleeping sickness" a misnomer for the disease. It has been suggested, it was said, that the name "sleepy sickness," be substituted to distinguish the malady from the true "sleeping sickness," found in Africa.

STABBED BY UNKNOWN ASSAILANT IN MERIDEN

Meriden, Nov. 12.—Attacked by a man who wielded a knife after they met on a street corner and engaged in an argument in Southington early this evening, Lester Moorcroft, about 45, of 2038 Stanley street, New Britain, a foreman of the line department of the Connecticut Light and Power company, was taken to the Meriden hospital, suffering from severe stab wounds about the body and face.

James Cotter, about 50, of Main street, Southington, who went to Moorcroft's assistance, himself received a severe stab wind in the body, and also was rushed to the hospital here.

Both victims accused Joseph Viele, a junk dealer, who lives on Liberty street, Southington. Acting on the complaints, Prosecutor J. L. Degnan issued a warrant for Viele's arrest. Police tonight are searching for the assailant, who disappeared directly after the stabbing.

PLANNING TO ESTABLISH COLLEGE OF PHARMACY

New Haven, Nov. 12.—Tentative plans for the establishment of a college of pharmacy here next fall were made at a meeting of druggists from all parts of the state here today. The curriculum of the new college, as announced by the studies committee, will embrace a vocational course in medicine, biology and business administration. The course of study will be open only to those having a high school education or its equivalent.

Charles T. Hull, M. F. Hope and Charles W. Whittlesey were named a committee to make a survey of the city for a location for the new school. Another committee was appointed to select the faculty for the college. These committees will report at the next meeting of the pharmacists.

Fifty students are expected to enroll at the opening session of the new college when it opens in September. The course will cover at least two years.

INTERNATIONAL OPIUM CONGRESS NONPLUSSED

Geneva, Nov. 12 (By the A. P.)—The commission of the international opium conference, which is expected to report to a plenary session tomorrow its findings on how best to curb opium smoking in the far east, probably will not satisfy those who demand a quick suppression of this narcotic evil.

Members of the commission, who have been meeting privately for four days, frankly admitted this today when they explained they had been unable to reach an accord on any system of estimating how much opium was required by various far eastern possessions for opium smoking.

The committee members insisted that no annual estimate could be made until they were able to determine how much opium was smuggled in, as the contraband often exceeds the quantity legitimately available in each country or colony.

An agreement was reached that opium will become a state monopoly, both as to production and export and import. The delegates felt that individual, uncontrolled initiative would increase the difficulty.

Palace Theater

Charles Ray has returned to his old public in his inimitable homespun-hero characterizations, and will be seen today at the Palace theater in the first of a series of big features to be made under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince, for release by Pathe, signed the contract which pledged him to resume the quaint, whimsical portrayals in which he is best understood, best loved and most appreciated. It was four years to the day since he left the Ince organization to start star-producing "on his own," that period he made sixteen pictures, only six of which were financially successful, although some of his features which did not make a profit were accounted artistic masterpieces. His own favorites of the lot are: Forty-five Minutes from Broadway, Peaceful Valley, The Old Swimmin' Hole, Scrap Iron, A Tailor-Made Man, The Girl I Loved, and The Courtship of Myles Standish.

Other attractions, Walter Heirs in Educational latest two reel comedy A Fall Chance, Pathe news and Sport Light.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater

Two words which are used extensively in Rafael Sabatini's popular novel, Captain Blood, which will be shown at the Palace theater on Sunday, Nov. 16, four days, are frequently used as synonyms, although there is quite a shade difference in meaning. The words are pirate and buccaneer.

The story deals with the adventures of Peter Blood as a pirate after he had been condemned by the cruel King James as a slave to the Barbadors. A pirate has been regarded by all nations to be an enemy of the human race. Piracy is a crime against nations which may be brought before any court, no matter what the nationality of the plaintiff or the origin of the pirate may be.

A buccaneer is a freebooter, one of the pirate rovers of the 17th and 18th centuries that preyed upon the Spaniards along the Spanish coast of America. The first buccaneers were Frenchmen whom the Spanish authorities had driven from their occupation of hunting and bucaning or curing meat.

Although Captain Blood's escapades might better be termed buccaneering he roved the sea almost a century before the buccaneers originated and therefore must, strictly speaking, be termed a pirate.

Captain Blood will be presented at popular prices.

Breed Theater

If you want to laugh as you have never laughed before, cancel all other dates and come to the Breed theater today, Friday or Saturday to see Buster Keaton in The Navigator, the Metro-Goldwyn picture presented by Joseph M. Schenck.

The Navigator is the comedy of all comedies. It actually keeps you in a continual fit—and "fit" is the right word—of laughter. Buster has become nautical, but you don't have to be nautical yourself to enjoy it.

The Navigator shows Buster at sea on an ocean liner with no crew; it presents his adventures at the bottom of the ocean in a submarine and in a diving suit; it shows him amid the cannibals of the South Sea Islands.

This comedy is a classic in its class, with laugh bubbles bursting out through every foot of the film.

It's something you've got to see.

Pictures of the big Armistice day parade will also be shown startine tonight and William Duncan in The Fish Express, the Pathe news and an Educational make up the remainder of the bill.

Musical Items for the Week

Fritz Kreisler's bow can plumb the depths of human feeling and this week he chooses to don a sober mien. Slavonic Lament and Dirge of the North are sombre, though colorful, numbers, with a vivacious sobriety traditional of regions that lie toward the Polar Star.

John McCormack counters with two promises of Spring — two charming love melodies to brighten dull days. When is impetuous and swift, reflecting the ardent lover, while Bridal Dawn is more sedate, with lovely voice and violin counterplay.

Sir Joseph Barnby, composer of Sweet and Low and some of the finest English religious music, is the author of the anthem King all Glorious which Trinity Choir records this week. It is a splendid record both as to subject and as a model of ensemble singing.

The three Brox Sisters cavort on a pair of records this week. Mammy, stuff and heart throbs abound in The Sweetest Little Rose in Tennessee and Nobody Loves you Like I Do, waltz and fox-trot, respectively and variably.

Wendell Hall and Carson Robinson distort themselves in two compositions by themselves, waltzes with whistled effects and some close vocal harmonies. Lonely Lane has the assistance of a violin and piano, while Swanee River Dreams has the further support of a guitar.

Victor Salon Orchestra plays two charming concert waltzes, Aloha Sunset Land, is obviously Hawaiian, while its companion, Chanson Bohemienne (Sweet Dreams of Thee) is an equally soft and sumptuous record.

The trend of the program is somewhat dreamy in character. International Novelty Orchestra records this week two traumatic waltzes, feelingly and skilfully, Dreamer of Dreams and Let Me Call You Sweetheart represent a high degree of artistry, the latter with a vocal refrain introducing a phrase from Bartlett's Dream.

The Bensons, of Chicago, are safely in the fox-trot column with Some Other Day, Some Other Girl and My Rose Marie, light and graceful with open orchestration.

From the source of "blues" come two Cerulean fox-trots by the Original Memphis Five, with the slow, rolling rhythm of the only and the genuine blues. You have undoubtedly heard How Come You Do Me Like You Do? but hear it on this new record. Meanest Blues certainly reveals a tot bottled up venom.

Broadway Theatre.

An incomparable programme of B. F. Keith vaudeville features opens at the Broadway theatre today for the week end.

Interpretive costume dancing by the Clinton Sisters, entitled, Cartooning in Dancetand, is the opening number.

Syncopated songs and dances is the offering by The King and Queen of the Blues, Esther Covington and Jack Kent.

A travesty on the monarch of the apartment house entitled "The New Janitor," is the comedy offering by Archar and Belford.

Tony Bell and Charles Maples in "Taka Da Flowers," is a fine comedy Italian characterization.

The Gladiators, Siegel and Irving, close the Keith vaudeville with feats of prodigious strength and graceful motion.

"Yankee Madness," the Film Booking Office photodrama now holding the screen at the Broadway theatre, and in which George Larkin and Billie Dove appear as the stars, is certain to make even the hardened movie fan lean forward in his seat and grasp his breath in astonishment.

It can be truthfully said that never before has the screen revealed a more smashing, red-blooded, hand-to-hand conflict than takes place between the hero and villian in "Yankee Madness." George Larkin sets a dizzy pace for Douglas Fairbanks and other movie heroes in this new F. B. O. feature.

If you like action, love making and flashes of Spanish dancing as it should be danced, we advise you to see the film now at the Broadway theatre.

Zane Grey's "Border Legion" Coming Here.

The Zane Grey-Paramount production, "The Border Legion," with Antonio Moreno and Helene Chadwick will be the feature at the Broadway theatre for four days beginning Sunday.

The story, directed by William Howard, was adapted to the screen by George Hull. It was a fast-moving tale of the wild and woolly days when the west was young, a story of the old days when "The Border Legion," one of the most feared of all bandit gangs, terrorized the southern Idaho border, plundering and killing in its search for gold.

The entire picture was taken in the mountainous wilderness of the Northwest where in the early days, the Border Legion was a real menace. To make the picture, Paramount players went one hundred miles into the mountains from a railroad, that "The Border Legion" might be filmed on the actual locations described by the author.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Annual reports of the Windham County Agricultural society, holding a fair at Brooklyn each year, show that notwithstanding expenses the past year in excess of $1200 over expenses for the preceding year, the society maintains a balance in its treasury in excess of $4,000, this including the $500 state aid due the society and payable during the current month. Incidentally, the plant and equipment of the society is in a greatly improved condition. This year the society increased its expenditures by adding extra attractions to the fair, including an additional race.

With its plant in good condition and a snug balance in the treasury, members of the society look forward with confidence to the coming year.

Damages of $180 will be assessed against John Krushesky and Ignatius Rojar, Eastford residents, as the result of dogs owned by them killing 17 sheep owned by Henry B. Buell, of Eastford. Both dogs engaged in the sheep raid have been killed. The Krushesky dog was shot by one of Mr. Buell's sons in the Buell sheep pasture and the Rojar dog wounded at the same time the other dog was shot, found after it made its way home, was impounded by the dog warden and later despatched. The Buell sheep were killed during last Friday night and Saturday morning. Chief Special Deputy Howard A. Elliott of the commissioner of domestic animals was engaged in a check up of the case Wednesday. For no apparent special reason there has been an epidemic of sheep killing by dogs in eastern Connecticut towns during the present fall season.

About 20 dogs remain in quarantine in the town of Pomfret, following a raid through the town during the latter part of October of a rabid dog that made his way down into Connecticut from the vicinity of Worcester. With one exception none of the quarantined dogs that were believed to have been in contact with the rabid dog has developed symtoms of rabies.

The exception was a dog owned on the Harold Cunningham farm, at Elliott, and in quarantine for about two weeks. The dog developed symptoms of rabies and was killed. The head was forwarded to the state bureau of laboratories at Hartford for examination and a later report made to the commissioner of domestic animal showed a positiveness of the dread disease.

In removing the head of the dog killed at the Cunningham place, Dr. F. T. Baldwin sustained some abrasions on the hand and is now taking the necessary treatment as a safeguard against any untoward developments.

There were some new breaks in the state highway fences bordering South Killingly hill and Dark Lantern hill, Wednesday afternoon, following the first rainy day in six weeks. Up to nightfall no person had been injured in the minor accidents, again serving as a warning to all motorists that these hill must be negotiated with extreme caution when the highway surface is wet and slippery. Numbers cars did some amazing slides on the hills during Wednesday, but the damage was confined to the cars and fences more than to the occupants of the machines.

Arthur L. Brown of Putnam appealed Wednesday from fines imposed upon him on three different counts, when he was presented before Judge W. Fenner Woodward, in the town court here.

Mr. Brown delivers milk to customers resident in villages in the northern section of the town of Killingly. It was alleged in the state's complaint that Mr. Brown issued a circular containing advertising matter relative to his milk and that is alleged to be untrue; that the circular represented that milk he sells comes from tuberculin tested cows, exclusively, and that on September 28 he sold milk not of standard quality Mr. Brown pleaded guilty to all three of the counts, on the first of which he was fined $10, the same amount on the second count and $5 on the third count, and costs. Attorney Charles L. Torrey of Putname was counsel for Mr. Brown, and he will try the matter out in the superior court.

Members of the Telephone Employes association representing divisions in thisimmediate vicinity held their monthly meeting in G. A. R. hall Wednesday evening. Following the business session refreshments were served.

PUTNAM

At the Cargill Trust Company, which is housed in the old Thompson bank building on Union street, now converted into handsome and attractive quarters, there was a like feeling of gratification Wednesday over the results of the opening day. The bank officials gave out the following statement:

"The officers and directors of the Cargill Trust Company are more than pleased with the first day's business. There was an amount deposited in excess of $200,000, which, augmented by the combined capital and surplus of the bank, which is fully paid in, places $350,000 in cash at the immediate disposal of the citizens of Putnam and its contiguous territory.

"The officers of this company are sincerely desirous of serving the business men here in every way consistent with sound banking to the best of their ability. They cannot but feel gratified over the substantial expression of confidence shown by the volume of today's busines and they will endeavor to reciprocate by giving the people of this community every courtesy and consideration that a bank conducted on a sound and approved modern banking policy can give."

Both banking houses were decorated with beautiful flowers. Included among those at the Cargill company was a beautiful piece from the new Citizens National bank, accompanied by an expression of good wishes. The national bank had an equally fine floral tribute from the Cargill company with a card carrying congratulations and a hope that they would be friendly rivals.

The clerical force of the Citizens National bank consists of James E. Murray, Ivor Nelson, Lucius P. Merriam, Miss Marion Warren and Miss Aline LeClair, all former employes of the First National bank.

Miss Sharpe, Miss Ellis and Miss Pratt, who were on the clerical staff of the First National are still assisting Receiver George M. Coffin, who will continue to occupy a part of the building while liquidating the affairs of the wrecked bank.

At the Cargill Trust company Miss Lathrop, Miss Bessie O'Brien and Leo Bodo had banking experience.

A further evidence of friendly rivalry was contained in the following message, from Samuel Reynolds, president of the Citizens National bank of Putnam:

"I sincerely hope that the two new banks which opened their doors in Putnam today will operate on the most friendly terms. The policy of the Citizens National bank will be to render every possible service to the community consistent with sound, conservative banking. We will not antagonize anyone and will do all that is possible to promote good feeling, believing that this will be for the best interests of the people of Putnam and surrounding towns."

From Byron D. Bugbee, president of the Cargill Trust company came the message:

"The Cargill Trust Co. extends its best wishes to the Citizens National bank. We believe that this community is large enough to support two commercial banks and we further believe that harmony and good will among all our people are essential to prosperity. It is time to iron out and forget any differences that may have existed and work for the general good."

These officers were elected Wednesday at the annual meeting of the Windham County Farmers' association: President, Dr. G. P. Perley, Woodstock; vice president, John R. Stromberg, Abington; secretary treasurer, Whitman Danielson, Putnam; board of directors, Allen B. Lincoln, Ashford; C. E. Salmon, Brooklyn; Adelard LaFrambois, Canterbury; H. F. Buell, Eastford; C. B. Jewett, Hampton; John Z. LaBelle, Killingly; Peter J. Chabot, Plainfield; A. H. Amidon, Pomfret; Alvin A. Sweet, Puenam; C. F. Breen, Scotland; J. E. Tanner, Sterling; Alexander, Maitland, Thompson; Thomas Marra, Windham; L. H. Lingeman, Woodstock; directors-at-large, S. H. Peckham, Woodstock; W. S. Warren, Putnam; George A. Cook, Windham.

Walker White, 23, of East Woodstock, died Wednesday morning at the Day Kimball hospital following an operation for appendicitis performed a week ago. Up to Tuesday night the young man had shown indications of recovering but suffered a relapse during the night.

The White family has suffered to an unusual extent from illness in the past few months. His mother, Mrs. N. T. White was at the hospital in August tion in Putnam John Z. Labelle of Ballouville was elected a member of the board of directors to represent Killingly. Peter J. Chabot of Wauregan was elected a director to represent Plainfield.

It was the Men's club band of Dayville that was mentioned in this column Wednesday morning as the East Killingly band as having a place in the line of marchers here on Armistice night.

The bit of rain that came during Tuesday night and Wednesday demonstrated at least that it is still possible for rain to fall from he skies. But the storm provided but a drop in the bucket of what is needed.

The boxing exhibition at the Casino arena this (Thursday) evening will bring a large number of followers of the sport to Danielson.

Harvests that have now been gathed to represent at least some compensation to mill workers who had so much time off from work during the past summer. Some of this spare time was employed in caring for home gardens.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church held a meeting Wednesdkay afternoon.

The body of Mrs. Jennie E. Gould, who died in Providence was brought to Central Village for burial. Mrs. Gould formerly was a resident of Danielson.

Dr. Winfield Scott Hall of Chicago was the speaker at the Y. M. C. A. Father and Son banquet held at the Congregational church Wednesday evening.

A girls' hiking club has been formed at Killingly High school and walking, with all of its benefits, will be practiced regularly.

Miss Susan Collins was at Norwich recently to attend the wedding of a relative.

Miss Elizabeth Dunn was in New London Tuesday on a business trip.

There is very general indication that a great number of motorists than ever plan to keep their cars in commission throughout the winter. This is largely due to the fact that the state highway department keeps that sate roads open the winter through, clearing away the snow after each storm.

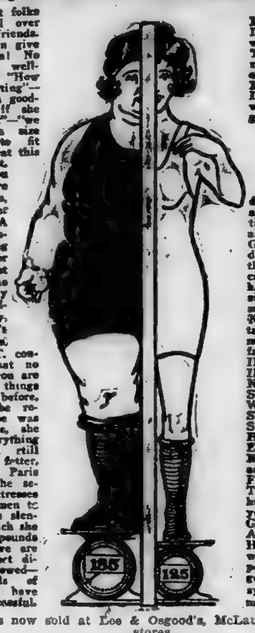
Killingly grange will elect its officers for the ensuing year when it meets next week.

Former service men expressed themselves Wednesday as well pleased with the interest manifested in Danielson and surrounding communities in the observance of Armistice day.

FAT PEOPLE! LISTEN!

Here Is How I Took Off 50 Pounds In TWO Months. Simple, Easy, Harmless Way.

New French Discovery Creates Sensation in Paris and New York—No Weakening Diets, Absurd Creams or Worthless Garments.



At last you fat folks can have it all over your slender friends. For once you can give them the Ha! Ha! No more of these well-known phrases: "How fat you are getting"—"She would be a good-looking woman if she was not so fat"—"we do not carry a size large enough to fit you," or "don't eat this and don't eat that. it will make you fatter." No more puffing, pains, rheumatism or tired feeling. A new French discovery is doing away with fat for good. Amongst hundreds who have already tried this marvelous new way, Madame Elaine's case, of 390 West 31st St., N. Y. C. convinces you that no matter how fat you are or how many things you have tried before, now you can be relieved. Her case was an obstinate one, she had tried everything to reduce, and still she was getting fatter, until one day in Paris she found out the secret used by actresses and beautiful women to keep their figures slender, and with which she herself lost 52 pounds in two months—we are giving below exact directions she followed—already hundreds of men and women have found them successful.

MRS. NUTTING BELIEVES HER HUSBAND IS SAFE

New York, Nov. 12.—Mrs. William Washburn Nutting, wife of the commander of the motor yacht Leif Ericson, refused to be downcast tonight on being told that the United States cruiser Trenton was to give up its search for the little craft, whose crew of four essayed to follow the route the Vikings took to North America.

"I shall continue to believe that my husband and his companions are safe until it is proven that they are not," Mrs. Nutting said. "You know, they may have had to put into one of the inlets along the coast of Greenland. I'm still hoping."

Nutting and his companions—Eric Podahl, marine painter; Arthur Hildebrand, writer, and a Norwegian journalist who joined the party at the last minute at Bergen—are now fifty-six days overdue at Battle Harbor, Labrador. They sailed their 40-footer out of Julianshaab Harbor, Greenland, September 8.

Yachtsmen supported Mrs. Nutting's suggestion that the little boat might be icebound by the early Labrador winter.

TO INVESTIGATE RUM SHIPS UNDER NORWEGIAN FLAG

Washington, Nov. 12—Activities on "rum row" of vessels under the Norwegian flag, reported by the coast guard service yesterday, will be investigated by the Norwegian minister here, H. H. Bryn.

Mr. Byrn said today he would ask the American government to furnish him with the names of these ships in order that he might communicate the facts to the Norwegian foreign office.

The minister added that popular upinion in Norway, which is itself a prohibition country, would oppose the use of the Norwegian flag for smuggling liquor into the United States. He expressed confidence that the Norwegian Ship Owners Association would take steps to correct any such situation as pointed out in the coast guard report.

Mr. Bryn declared at the same time that he was unaware that any considerable number of Norwegian ships were active in the rum fleet, the only case that had been drawn to his attention being that of the seizure of the Sagatind.

While doubting whether any official action could be taken by his government to restrain the bringing into this country of liquors from Norwegian ships, as this would entail special legislation, Mr. Bryn expressed the opinion that the Norwegian Ship Owners Association, would, if satisfied on the charges, exert pressure, supported by public opinion, to stop such traffic under the Norwegian flag.

At present, he said, the liquor treaty between the United States and Norway is the only agreement between the two countries which has any bearing on bootlegging. In his opinion it would be difficult to make a general agreement of that nature more stringent so as to do away with bootlegging altogether.

The Florida Western & Northern railroad, when completed, will, it is said, be the straightest line of railroad in the United States. In its total length of more than 200 miles there will be only eight miles of curve.

DESTROYING THE WASHINGTON

In connection with the suit which has been brought to restrain the secretary of the navy from carrying out the plan to bomb the nearly completed battleship Washington, the claim is made that it should be salvaged, that the advisability of converting it into an airplane carrier should be considered and that we should go slow in carrying out the terms of the naval agreement inasmuch as the other countries were not doing their part.

It is to be remembered that this country made a name for itself when it advanced the idea of the naval treaty and generously took the lead in agreeing to reduce its naval armament. That act gave confidence to others and served as an inspiration to nations that might otherwise have balked. There is nothing as yet to show that we have made any serious mistake by the manner in which we have respected the terms of the treaty.

No one can expect the treaty to be a one-sided affair. It applies to all and it is to be expected that all will comply. Having taken the lead in this respect the force of such a good example is bound to have its effects. We are not helping the situation when we hesitate. We set the best kind of an example when we carry out the terms of the agreement.

As for the matter of converting the vessel into an airplane carrier, it doesn't appear that there is any such option. That would still leave it as a naval vessel when its destruction has been agreed to.

If the vessel could be salvaged at a profit there could certainly be no objection. If it is going to cost as much to break it up as it would bring there is no loss involved in using it for a target, while there is the advantage through such use of knowing what modern warship construction will offer in the way of resistance, and that is much value to the navy department.

THE IMBRIE INDEMNITY.

This country can be pointed out as one that does not tolerate a policy of conquest.

There has been one outstanding instance where it has turned a big indemnity to the advantage of the people that were obliged to pay it. This followed the Boxer rebellion in China when the United States returned its share of the fund, exacted for the killing of Americans, to China.

Earlier in the year this country was shocked by the killing of Vice Consul Imbrie in Persia. It was the act of a fanatic mob but this country has insisted not only upon the punishment of those involved, but the payment of an indemnity of $110,000, representing what it cost to send a warship to that country to bring back his body.

In keeping with the treatment of the Chinese indemnity the idea of devoting the Persian indemnity to the education of Persians in this country cannot fail to be looked upon with much favor. If we are to judge by the small number of Persians who are educated it is just what is needed, for in addition to creating a spirit of fi will at being obliged to meet this requirement the fact that it is being turned to the advantage of Persians is bound to make a strong appeal.

Persia apparently needs the benefit that should accrue from such an educational fund, but it is an advantage which it would be slow to adopt for itself. In the murdering of Vice Consul Imbrie no such outcome was thought of. It was a brutal and fiendish killing, entirely unwarranted, however much the Persians may have been misled by appearances or the misinterpretation of the acts of the deceased. It is not possible to overlook the crime or to waive indemnity. Such would not be advisable, but when the indemnity is employed for providing an education for young Persians the fruits of it are bound to be distributed over a long term of years and in a most favorable light.

KEEPING PRISONERS BUSY.

Most every state is faced sooner or later with the problem of labor for its prisoners. Prisoners are invariably sentenced to hard labor but it is not often that they really get it. In fact, in too many instances is it the case that they are provided with nothing to do. They are prisoners with varying degrees of restraint but they lack that something to do which they require for their own physical and mental welfare.

When states in the northwest seek to experiment with various lines of manufacture in order to provide something for the prisoners to do, they are but tackling problems which have been faced in other states. There may be opposition to the product of prison labor, but when one stops to consider how small the number of prisoners is in comparison with the workers, the fact that they would be expected to have employment if they were at liberty, the importance of encouraging reformation through being able to work and the advisability of utilizing this man power instead of making it more dependent it is not difficult to realize that the employed prisoner system is much preferable to the idea of shutting them up in cells and keeping them idle.

What form this employment should take varies in different states. There are those which utilize them in the building of roads. Some states have provided farms for cultivation and others maintain factories where a diversity of articles are produced, but in each instance something is being done for the individual.

It is probable that the greatest number are fit only for unskilled labor, but there are unquestionably opportunitoes for instructing many of them in certain lines of employment which will be beneficial to them after the time comes for them to depart. Finding out how to do something useful, even if the instruction is obtained during a period in prison, cannot be looked upon otherwise than a much to be desired feature of prison life.

THE WORLD FLIGHT.

Attention was directed at the time the world fliers were crossing this country on their return to the Pacific coast that inasmuch as they had lost some of the vouchers for the expenses incurred on their trip they would be unable to collect their expense money from the government.

There was no reason to believe that this government would saddle them with any such burden, even though the importance of being able to show how the money is utilized cannot be too strongly impressed in connection with the many avenues of government expenditure.

Not only is this country anxious to meet all expense and to confer all honor and distinction upon those who have first circled the globe in the air, but it is ready to make exception in their cases as is disclosed in the statement that they will be permitted to publish their story of the trip around the world and to distribute the proceeds.

Regardless of what has been told concerning their flight and their experiences there are many details about which nothing is known. That they have a story to tell is indicated from the fact that one of their number was offered $15,000 for his story by an English syndicate. While he refused the offer because it was against army regulations, the ban on such action has been lifted in this particular instance and when the story is put forth there's no doubt it will awaken interest far and near to the financial benefit of the fliers who made so many sacrifices to attain the much coveted honor for this country.

RESTRICTING HUNTING.

It had been hoped that before this there would have been enough rainfall to make it possible to lift the suspension on the hunting season. Such isn't the case, and until there is more rain hunting must be stopped. What is required is a soaking rain. Showers which wet the leaves and underbrush only to have them dry out when the sun comes forth or a gentle breeze blows are not sufficient.

The aim of the suspension of the hunting season is the prevention of fires caused by those who drop firebrands of one kind or another while going through the woods and tramping through the material where fire causes great havoc in a twinkling.

If hunters chafe at the restraint it means far less than it does for the owners of woodland, or other farm property, to experience the loss of valuable timber, cord wood and possibly home and other farm buildings.

In some instances it is noted that there have been those who have defied the suspension order. Probably all who have done so have not been caught but there's no excuse for leniency in such cases. Their defiance and their chance taking justify whatever penalty is imposed upon them. For the most part, however, it is believed that there is respect for the suspension, and a willingness to contribute to the protection that comes through the preventive measure. The reasonableness of it cannot fail to make its appeal to those who are willing to take a broad and sensible view of the situation. It is far preferable to give up a few days of hunting than to saddle someone else a staggering loss of property such as forest fires mean.

FACING THE MUSIC

The young man striding down the street did not look happy. His jaw was set and every once in a while he would straighten back his shoulders. He turned into a big entrance to the expensive apartment building with all the joyousness of one going to execution.

"I knew it was you, though I did not hear your car," accused the very pretty girl who opened the front door on the second floor before he rang the second time. She had seized his hand and was doing a dance step or two. "Oh, George, you can't guess what I've done today! Picked out where we are going on our — our wedding trip!"

"Have you?" asked the young man. "It isn't absolutely necessary to kiss me, but it is sometimes done," the pretty girl reminded him kindly. "You're awfully funny tonight."

"I don't feel funny," the young man assured her. He sat down and she noticed that he was unusually pale. "There isn't any way to get it over except to plunge right in I guess. Here goes: The firm went into bankruptcy today and I'm out of a job, have lost the $5.00 they got me to put in six months ago and it'll be ages before I'm on my feet again. We can't get married now and—and you're free and—I guess that's all, Anne."

"Oh," gasped the pretty girl with a rising inflection. After a minute she put one hand out over his two clasped ones and leaned closer. "You—you're kind of saying such a lot of things at once, George, that I don't take them all in! Didn't you know about it at all before today?"

"Oh, I was trying to kid myself that it couldn't be true!" the young man said grimly. "Oh, how I hated to tell you!"

"I don't know anybody who had a better right to know you were in trouble the pretty girl argued.

The young man moved a little away and then faced her. "Don't be kind, Anne," he said. "I couldn't stand that. Let's carry it off with a shrug and a laugh and then you go ahead and forget all about it— and me. I've disappointed you right and left!"

"Well, it's something of a shock to have one's wedding blow up, but still it isn't exactly a death blow," the pretty girl said a creditable smile. "We've got fifty years ahead of us to have a wedding in, you know, and it's nobody's business but our own if we put it off, George."

"You didn't hear all I said," interrupted the young man determinedly. "There's going to be none of this life's devotion and patient waiting on your part, my dear! I'm still man enough not to ruin your life in that fashion! Right here and now we end things. I'm going to New York to start again, because—well, I'd rather not be in Chicago after this. Things won't seem so real. It—it won't be so hard when I hear that you've married somebody else— Why, of course you will! I want you to be happy and—"

He broke off abruptly and walked to the window. "The really hard part of it," the pretty girl sat out, "is discovering how little you think of me, George! I thought all this time that you did love me!"

"Love you!" the young man echoed harshly, spinning around, his hands clenched. "What do you mean? It's just because I do love you so much that I'm refusing to let you stick! It's like you to take it so gallantly, Anne, but it can't be! I've seen one or two of these years-and-years affairs with what it meant to the girl and there'll be none of that in this!"

"How—how long would it be, George," the pretty girl inquired quite calmly, "this years-and-years affair of ours? Before we could take that wedding trip I picked out today?"

"And the car and the bungalow," reminded the young man bitterly. Oh, about five years, I guess!"

"I still use my feet sometimes and there are such things as one-room kitchenettes," mused the pretty girl. "Well, say two years, George. Drop around in two years and I'll be right here, all ready for the I-will and I-do recitation. You don't need to stay engaged if you don't want to, but somehow I feel just as much engaged as I ever did. I am going to remain a millstone right around your neck and you can't help yourself!"

"I don't want you to," stammered the young man with his arms clasped very tightly around her. "but, oh, Anne! I'd have died if you hadn't!" —Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

It has been said that the majority of the men at the head of the Great American railroads have started at the bottom of the ladder and climbed their way step by step to the top. One began his career as a rodman, another as a telegraph operator, still another as a freight clerk, and so on down the list. A typical example of this remarkable group of men who are self-made in the best sense of the word is A. E. Clift, who has just been advanced to the office of senior vice-president of the Illinois Central system. A native of Urbana, Ill., Mr. Clift entered the employ of the Illinois Central when only 19 years old in the humble capacity of a freight brakeman. This was in 1888. When little more than of age he had become a conductor. Then in succession he filled the positions of yard master, train master, superintendent, and general superintendent, finally becoming general manager and one of the vice-presidents of the company.

Berliner Suffered Breakdown as Success Loomed

After years of hardship and study Emile Berliner saw success ahead, and worked so hard that he suffered a nervous breakdown; then had to school himself in self control to regain his health while awaiting the courts' decision as to his rights.

Born in an orthodox Jewish home in Hanover, Germany, he was graduated from Samson School of Wolfenbuttel and at 19 came to this country.

Alone in a strange land, he endured many hahrdships. First a "sort of bottle washer" in a chemical shop in New York at $6 a week, he spent his evenings in studying science at the Peter Cooper Institute. Given a copy of Muller, he became interested in physics.

Later a clerk in a dry goods store in Washington, D. C., he continued to study at night. While learning telegraphy as an aid to his scientific investigations he was told by the fire-alarm operator that greater pressure upon the keys increased the sending distance of messages. The idea of the telephone transmitter instantly flashed into Berliner's mind.

By intensive after-hours' work, he invented the telephone transmitter and receiver, the persistent effort causing his nervous breakdown at 24. Then came the battle to regain his health. Two weeks after his patent was granted Edison also invented a transmitter. Poor and without friends, Berliner had to face a fight for his patent rights.

Buying his patent rights, the Bell Telephone Company fought 14 years before the title and honor of being the inventor of the telephone transmitter were credited to Berliner.

At 36 he invented the gramophone and sold the rights to the Victor Talking Machine Company. He also was the first to make and use the light weight revolving cylinder internal combustion motor at one time employed extensively in aeroplanes. With his son, Henry, he designed a helicopter that has been successful and competed for the prize offered by the British Air Ministry this year.

Berliner, at 73, is active in scientific pursuits and also in his campaigns for safe milk and against tuberculosis.

Stories That Recall Others

Money Instead of Thanks.

Mr. Smith was cutting his front lawn some weeks ago. Three children in the neighborhood drifted across the street and the first thing he knew they had the bushel basket and were carrying the grass on to the vacant lot next door. Smith feared that if the kids were enjoying themselves it didn't matter so much, even if they were getting in his way and mowing up the grass cutting considerably.

After finishing the front yard Smith moved to the back yard. Meantime the children had drifted away to their homes for the evening meal. Presently, however, they came trooping back, and started in to gather the grass.

Happening to glance behind him, Smith saw three little heads were bent together in earnest conversation. Then the leader of the children walked boldly up to Mr. Smith. "Mr. Smith," he said, "instead of just saying 'thank you' like you always do when we help you cut the grass, why don't you give us something?"

His Excuse.

Mother's face wore an exasperated look as she rapped her little son smartly on the knuckles. It was at dinner time and everyone who has a son aged six, knows how difficult it is to teach the little fellow table manners that will pass in good company.

Johnny would persist in putting the food into his mouth with his knife instead of his fork, and time and again mother had told him about it.

"Sonny," she said angrily, "how many times have I told you that you must not eat with your knife? Use your fork!"

"Yes; but mamma," objected the little boy, "I must use my knife 'cos my fork leaks."

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Capturing Danny Fox

My, how fast the old bunny goes
As Danny Fox gallops along on his toes.
The Luckymobile is remarkably fleet,
But so's Danny Fox on his four agile feet.

I hope this pretty poem has brought to memory what happened in the last story as dear Uncle Lucky sped home from the Three-in-One Cent Store with a watch for Little Miss Mousie. Dear me, I hope that Wicked Fox won't catch up to him and steal the tiny jewel box in the dear old gentleman rabbit's coattail pocket. What would Uncle Lucky do, I should like to know and so would you, little reader. But I would hate to be obliged to write about such dreadful calamity. Indeed I would.

Nearer and nearer came Danny Fox.

for you see, the road was such a winding one that every once in a while, and it seemed 'most the time to poor, anxious Uncle Lucky, he was forced to slow down to avoid running into a tree, or three trees, four or five bushes and once a big rock.

"If you'll stop and give me the watch," panted Danny Fox, who was now close behind the Luckymobile. "I'll promise not to bite you. But if you don't you must take the consequences," which means, dear little reader, unpleasant things to come.

"I'll never give up Little Miss Mousie's watch," bravely answered the dear, bewildered old gentleman rabbit.

"Then look out for the worst," shouted Danny Fox.

"Haven't time," retorted smarty Uncle Lucky, "Too many other things to look out for," and he commenced to whistle to keep up his courage. Dear me, he needed plenty of it, so he did, that nervy old gentleman rabbit. Everything seemed to be piling up on him, not one at a time, but three and four, and then seven!

All of a sudden, just like that, quick as the bills on the first of the month, Danny Fox took a somersault backwards. Wasn't that strange? You won't understand why until I explain, I'm sure, little reader. So here we go, typewriter and I. A wild grapevine with a noose on the end of it, fell over his head and around his neck, and before he could stop himself, something did, the grapevine of course. And Bingo! he stopped and turned head over heels backwards.

"Ha, ha!" shouted a voice, and from behind a clump of bushes jumped the Yellow Dog Tramp, a broad grin on his face and a tattered straw hat on his head.

Hearing the familiar voice of his old friend, dear Uncle Lucky put on the brakes and the next minute the Luckymobile came to a standstill.

"I've got him fast," shouted the old tramp dog, deftly tying a rope around the wicked fox's hind legs. "Now, what shall we do with him?"

"Take him to the Rabbitville jail," answered the old gentleman rabbit without a moment's hesitation. "That's the best hotel for rabbers. Thirty days' free board, such as it is."

"Back up your car and we'll take him there," barked the faithful tramp dog, and in the next story I'll you what happened after that.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The White Way.

Mr. Editor: Now that the white way is completed and many of our citizens exclaim "This is something which our city needed a long time ago" and there's no doubt that this remark is true, may I be in order in saying a word to the credit of the man who is actually responsible for the grand improvement to our city, Chas. W. Taggart, superintendent of the gas and electric department, is the man who worked tirelessly and conscientiously to give us a white way commensurate with the beauty of our Rose of New England, and a good job he performed. Mr. Taggart possesses grit and determination and is a man of his word, completing this tremendous task in forty-three days of which seven were Saturdays, which are only half working days, making a total of about forty actual full working days.

When on September 26th, Mr. Taggart set out upon this task with a promise to turn on the white way on November 11th the night of our great holiday, the wise ones who always can foretell what is going to happen, shook their heads and said, "It can't be done, some one is making a foolish promise." I am sure, however, that today those same wiseacres say, "Sure, it wasn't much of a job, and we knew that it could be done—I told you so." Whatever this enterprise may have suggested to those who are always ready to criticise anything and everything attempted by our public-spirited citizens the installation of our white way in about forty working days is one of the most notable achievements in the history of our city.

It is a great credit to the efficiency of our gas and electric department and of the enterprising spirit of our entire city administration.

Well done Norwich. Keep up the good work.

RHEUMATISM

A Remarkable Home Treatment Given by One Who Had It.

In the year of 1893, I was attacked by Muscular and Subacute Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who are thus afflicted know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, but such relief as I obtained was only temporary. Finally, I found a treatment that cured me completely, and such a pitiful condition has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted, even bed-ridden, some of them seventy to eighty years old, and the results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from any form of muscular and subacute (swelling at the joints) rheumatism, to try the great value of my improved "Home Treatment" for its remarkable healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of getting rid of such forms of rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

GAVE INSTRUCTIVE TALK FOR ART STUDENTS

A program that will give a series of Four Evenings in Great Galleries was opened at the November meeting of the Norwich Art Students' association at Slater hall this week with an intensely interesting talk by Miss Faith Leavens upon Greek Sculpture in Italian Galleries, which was illustrated by photographs or screen views of the casts that are included in the Slater museum collection.

Miss Leavens spoke with a keen insight of the subject because of her study and the opportunities she had enjoyed of seeing the originals and pointed out the four great periods in sculpture, which include the archaic, the transitional, the great age and the Hellenistic.

These were illustrated by pieces of sculpture to be found in the Museum of Naples, the Vatican gallery, the Lateran museum, the Capitoline museum, the Palace of the Conservatori, and the Musco Delle Terme, all of which were described in an informative way, with delightful touches of wit by Miss Leavens.

At the business meeting which Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn, the president, conducted, there were the usual reports, and in addition a report from Mrs. E. W. Perkins on the successful Lyme and Mystic exhibition, and from Miss Eunice Gulliver on the docent work. Mrs. Philip Johnson is to do this work in the museum and the schools this year. The children are already entering into this work with enthusiasm.

Booths with women in attendance to record the membership enrollment were stationed at the Boston store and at the Thames National bank and will be continued through to Saturday of this week.

Memberships received at the booths totalled $68 and mail memberships sent to the treasurer, Arthur L. Peale, brought in $207 more, a total of $275 for the day.

The booth at the Boston store today (Wednesday) will have women from the United Congregational church in attendance, with Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard in charge, assisted by Mrs. Edwin V. Ross. Miss Alice Browning and Mrs. H. W. Gallup.

It is an interesting incident that the first membership in the 1924 roll call was received from Eng Wing, proprietor of the Chinese-American restaurant. TILLINGHAST STORE AT PLAINFIELD BURNED WITH $73,000 LOSS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Plainfield, Nov. 12.—The worst fire in many years swept this village late tonight when the three-story frame structure occupied by A. C. Tillinghast & Son, general store, a large stable, garage, and several small buildings were burned to the ground with a loss estimated by the owners at about $73,000.

Apparatus from Plainfield, Central Village and Moosup responded to the call when the fire threatened to extend to several buildings standing near by, but there was little that the firemen could do to check the flames, the nearest hydrant being over 500 yards away, and with sufficient water for pumpers about a half mile away. What water that could be supplied was brought up, but the greater part of the work, of necessity, was confined to saving nearby structures and houses, chemicals being the only means of fighting the fire.

The blaze started in the basement of the three-story structure, evidently from spontaneous combustion, and was first noticed by Henry Fontaine of Plainfield, who was returning home from Putnam. An alarm was immediately sent in, but within a short time the entire building was a mass of flames.

Rescued His Wife.

Living on the second floor of the building was Mr. and Mrs. Frank Skinner, and they had a narrow escape from the burning structure. Being warned of the danger, the couple, who had retired for the night, made their way to the stairway, only to find the stairs a mass of flames. Seeing that it was a matter of minutes, Mr. Skinner seized his wife and carried her down the stairway, out through the flames into the street, where neighbors quickly threw clothing about the couple, who were clad only in their nightclothes, and took them to their home near by. The couple escaped without injury but lost everything they owned in the home, Mr. Skinner estimating his loss at $1,800, with no insurance. Neighbors offered to provide food and shelter for the couple until they could find other means to provide for themselves.

Neighbor Fire Fighters Help.

Soon after arriving at the scene of the fire the Plainfield department realized it was useless to try to save the several buildings on the property, as they were already a roaring furnace. Likewise it was impossible to save any of the stock in the buildings, which included large stocks of grain, merchandise, groceries, coal, lumber and other goods.

With the arrival of Moosup and Central Village companies and hundreds of people from surrounding places, the fire fighting force was greatly increased and it was only through desperate effort that the flames were confined to the Tillinghast property. Nearby buildings were threatened several times, the Kingsley house being badly scorched, while other houses caught fire from flying sparks. These were quickly extinguished by chemicals.

By 1 o'clock Thursday morning the fire was completely under control, nothing being left of the Tillinghast property but smouldering embers, and the neighboring companies returned home.

In speaking of the fire early Thursday morning, Mr. Tillinghast said that the loss on the property would amount to $73,000, he being insured for only $30,000 on the building and contents, this covering less than half the total loss. Added to this was the loss of the Skinner family, fixed at not less than $1,800.

The store was the largest of its kind in the village and supplied farming districts all around Plainfield with coal, lumber, grain and general merchandise, and its loss will be felt by the entire community.

Asked whether he intended to rebuild, Mr. Tillinghast stated that it would be impossible to do so before the coming of winter, but that he would of course rebuild in the near future. It is likely that the business will be carried on in some nearby building as soon as arrangements can be made. Many valuable papers owned by the Tillinghast firm were in a safe which is still in the ruins, and it is not known whether or not these have been destroyed by the intense heat. A gasoline tank in front of the store was saved from the flames, thus preventing a dangerous fire at this point which would have made the fighting of the fire extremely hazardous.

The fire could be seen for miles about the village and hundreds made the trip by automobile to watch the firemen fight their battle with the flames.

ROTARY CLUB MEETING HEARS OPTIMISTIC TALKS

Due to the inability of the speaker of the day to be present at the weekly meeting of the Norwich Rotary club the meeting was devoted largely to club matters. President Hugh B. Campbell presided and Willis Austin acted as song leader. Communications from District Governor Lavery were read by the president urging an observance of Boys' week later in the year. President Campbell expressed his thanks to all the Rotarians who in any way helped to make the Armistice day parade a success.

Herbert M. Lerou, chairman of the Armistice Day committee, and John J. O'Rourke also added their praise of the Rotarians for their help in the parade arrangements. Mayor Milo R. Waters spoke in commendation of the work of the local police in handling the large crowds that were in Norwich for the day.

President Campbell also called attention to the White Way and called on Frank P. Welch, a member of the gas and electric commission, who in a short talk gave credit to Charles W. Taggart for his work in putting the project through. Mr. Taggart also spoke on the White Way saying that he hoped it could be extended to cover other streets in the city within a short time.

A very interesting talk was given by Howard Heston of the Buffalo club who was in Norwich on business. Mr. Heston extended the greetings of the Buffalo club and extended a hearty invitation for the club members to visit the Buffalo club. Mr. Heston said that he was in Norwich investigating a new process for making wall paper, a Chinese process of printing which is being used at the U. S. Finishing Co. He told of the addition to his plant in anticipation of the success of the process.

BIBLE STUDY ON THE GOOD SAMARITAN

The largest number of the season thus far were present Wednesday evening at the weekly Bible study of the Men's class at the local Y. M. C. A. and the discussion was most interesting. The Scripture used was Luke 10:25-37, the story of the Good Samaritan, and among the points developed in the discussion were the following: The lawyer who asked Jesus what he should do to inherit eternal life was evidently insincere; he probably thought that he could best Jesus in an argument, but he found what all such will find, that it is folly to argue against God's laws or purposes. Jesus began to answer the lawyer's question by asking him another question, a very practical way of arguing. To Jesus' question, What the law was, the lawyer quoted that great law suggesting the necessity of loving God with all the heart, soul, strength and mind, and thy neighbor as thyself. The emphasis in this passage is first a complete love to God, and second a love for man. In order to love our fellowmen as we should it is necessary to love God so fully, that we see, as it were through his eyes, and then we will be more charitable, more patient and more forgiving, and we will see the good in men more often than we do. To the question of the lawyer, "Who is my neighbor?" Jesus proceeded to tell him the story of the good Samaritan. The Priest and Levite had not yet learned to be neighborly; they had the outward form of religion, but it did not reach the heart; they passed by on the other side. A most unexpected thing happened, namely, a hated Samaritan was a real neighbor and friend to the wounded Jew. Sometimes we fail to get help from those we expect to help us and we at times receive help and sympathy from the most unexpected quarters. When Jesus finished the story, He looked directly at the lawyer, and asked, "Which think ye, was neighbor to a man who fell among thieves?" There could be but one answer and in giving that answer, the lawyer was silenced and he evidently learned his lesson to an extent at least. The man in the story who fell among thieves, is typical of many of the unfortunate in our day, and the modern good Samaritan is the man who "has a heart" for any man who is less fortunate than he is. The unfortunate are not all among the poorer classes, but even among the rich there are many unfortunate, and these all need that someone show in a practical way the spirit of the good Samaritan

BUS HIT AUTOMOBILE ON BROADWAY HILL

The touring car driven by Irving E. Browning of Norwich Town had one side crushed in Tuesday night on Broadway hill when it was struck by one of the Hartford motor busses driven by Jerome J. Sullivan. The bus was coming down hill in third speed with the street in such a slippery condition because of the rain that the driver did not dare to put on the brakes when he saw there was a chance of hitting the touring car.

PEERLESS TEAM TAKES LEAD FROM MOOSUP IN EASTERN CONN. LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Nov. 12.—The Peerless bowlers moved their effects into first place in the standings of the teams in the Eastern Connecticut Bowling league as the result of taking three straight games from the Moosup team, which had led the league up until tonight's battle. One of the largest crowds to witness a bowling match was on hand to watch the local bowlers stride majestically into first place, leading the rest of the pack by a single string margin.

The first and third strings were won by wide margin by the locals but the second string was another story. It was won after Mackenzie got a spare in the tenth box, but failed to get more than four pins when he needed an eight to tie. Peerless winning by four pins.

Henry Sistare again led the parade for the Peerless with a total of 334. Bosworth had high single with 124, his total of 330 being second. Chartier of Moosup with a single of 119 had a three string total of 326 to lead his team. The score:

AETNA WINS TWO GAMES FROM LAWRENCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Nov. 12.—With Roy Fillmore bowling steady in all three strings, the Aetna bowling five took two strings out of three, after being outclassed in the opener. All three games won by either the visitors or the locals were won by exceptionally large margins. The last string went to the Lawrence mainly because Costello, Campbell and F. Sistare each hit over 110. However, the Aetna retaliated in the second string and with the entire five men hitting 100 or over, the string was easily won by a margin of 48 pins. The final and deciding string went to the Rose City bowlers after Aldi had spared in the last two boxes.

Fillmore kept up his spectacular bowling, and was easily high man for the evening. His high single was 118 while his three-string total registered 333. No other bowler threatened to oust Fillmore from occupying the high honors for the evening. The score:

PADDOCK WILL ATTEND A. A. U. MEETING AS DELEGATE

New York, Nov. 12.—Charley Paddock, famous California sprinter and national champion, has been selected as one of the six delegates from the Southern Pacific association to the Amateur Athletic Union convention, starting at Atlantic City next Sunday.

Paddock, who was in New York today in connection with a lecture tour, declared he had been authorized to bid for the 1925 National outdoor track and field championships on behalf of the Pasadena, Calif., Athletic and Country Club, a new organization. Chicago, New Orleans and San Francisco also are seeking the title events.

Paddock said he was not in training now and not anticipating any indoor performances this winter, although he manifested interest in the metropolitan program for the coming season. He has not competed since he won the 100 and 200-yard national titles in record-equalling time at West Orange, N. J., last September.

The sprinter's position as an A. A. U. delegate marks an odd shift in his relations with the athletic governing body as compared with the situation a year ago when he was the storm-center of a controversy among governing organizations and suspended for a time by the A. A. U. as the outgrowth of his participation in an outlawed Paris meet. This tangle was straightened out, however, and Paddock restored to good standing in time to become a member of the Olympic team.

YALE TEAM HAD LONG DUMMY SCRIMMAGE YESTERDAY

New Haven, Nov. 12.—A dummy scrimmage today between the first two Yale varsity football teams and the scrub teams featured the last hard work of the Yale squad previous to the Princeton game Saturday. The squad will have nothing but signal drill tomorrow and will leave Friday morning for New Jersey. Palmer stadium at Princeton will be turned over to the Yale men Friday afternoon and the squad will spend the night in Trenton.

Shep Bingham, the regular end, who has been out of the lineup for some time with injuries, was at the field but did not take part in the scrimmage. He apparently is in shape, however, to start the battle against the Tigers. Stanley Gill, who has been playing with the freshmen and scrubs for two years, took Bingham's place today. Lindley, who was hurt last Saturday, was in uniform but did not take part in the practice.

The Yale lineup for the Princeton game has not been decided as yet and possibly will not be until the team goes on the field Saturday.

C. D. Rafferty, captain and tackle in 1903, Artemus Gates, tackle in 1916 and H. Ray Page, tackle in 1907, watched the practice today.

DANIELSON WILL BE MECCA FOR FIGHT FANS TONIGHT

Local fight fans are anticipating a real contest this evening at the Danielson Casino when Baltimore Joe Gans, local tarbaby, exchanges punches with Battling Thomas of Boston, another dusky mauler, in the eight round star bout. Gans will enter the ring at 168 pounds his best fighting weight and will be in the proverbial pink of condition. Gans never looked better in his life than he does today and those that saw him box four rounds Tuesday evening realize that he is fast and clever.

Thomas is no setup by a long ways and has met some of the best of the colored boys in his weight. Both Gans and Thomas have fought about the same men with honors about evenly divided Gans will go into the bout with the intention of winning as soon as possible, but also realizes that he must be cautious for Thomas is known to be a hard hitter with either hand.

The other bouts on the card are expected to furnish some fast milling as all the boys are noted to be clever boxers.

Indoor Baseball Tonight

At State Armory this evening at 9:30 p. m., the First Combat Train will tackle Faber's Demons in an indoor baseball game. It is remembered that Faber's Demons were victorious in their first two games they played with Battery E. The Combat Train team has a strong aggregation and it expects to turn tables on the Demons as they did with the so called "All Stars" of Norwich.

With Lieutentant Tracy Burdick as pitcher for the Combat Train the soldiers will surely do their bit behind him, if not before him.

The Combat Train will use the following men: Chamos, Tombari, Kelly, Ludlow, Zaremba, Porucank, Nye, Byington, Burdick and Cimikoski, who has been playing with Faber's Demons, and last year's Riverview team.

WEINERT OUTPOINTS FIRPO IN MATCH

Newark, N. J., Nov. 11.—Charley Weinert, Newark heavyweight, outpointed Louis Angel Forpo, Argentine heavyweight in a 12 round no decision match, in the Newark Armory tonight in the opinion of newspapermen at the ringside.

Frantically Firpo endeavored to counter with the terrific right which once beat Weinert in two rounds in Philadelphia before Firpo's fight with Dempsey, but Weinert evaded any issue with that right and tied up the Argentine at every lead in which the blow was involved.

Weinert, by the presence of two world's champions in his corner, Mickey Walker and Harry Greb, holders respectvely of the welterweight and middleweight crowns, gained confidence as the fight progressed when he saw how his style confused Firpo.

Although Weinert's margin was wide, he absorbed considerable punishment himself, both fighters bleeding profusely when the final gong had sounded. Firpo's face was badly cut, both eyes being cut while blood streamed from his nose and mouth. Firpo weighed 222 and Weinert scaled 184.

The Argentine fighter appeared slower than ever and seemed to have made no improvement since his defeat by Harry Wills.

In the semi-final Joe Lewis, of New York, outpointed Harold Mays, of Bayonne, N. J., in a ten round no-decision affair, in the opinion of newspaper critics at the ringside. The men are light heavyweights.

Billy Prestage, of England knocked out Jack Townsend, of Pittsburgh, in the second round of a six round match. In the opener Frankie Bates, of Newark, knocked out Johnny Fields also of Newark in the first round. A crowd estimated at 5,000 attends dthe exhibition.

In a thrilling semi-final match Miguel Ferrara, of Argeatine, Firpo's heavyweight sparring partner, knocked out Jack Showers, Elizabeth, N. J., negro, in the first round of a programed ten round affair. The end came after two minutes and 14 seconds of fighting.

Before the finish Ferrara was knocked down three times and it appeared that he was virtually out when he suddenly recuperated and floored the negro twice before delivering the finishing blow. The weights were: Farrafa 189; Showers, 175.

FR. GUERRIERO, WILL BE MISSED IN SCHOOL ATHLETICS

That Rev. Rocco J. Guerriero of St. Patrick's parish, who has been transferred to the Holy Rosary church in Bridgeport is extremely popular with the school children of St. Patrick's school was shown Wednesday night when a number of the members of the baseball and football teams appeared at The Bulletin and asked that they might be permitted to say something about Father Rocco. The general sentiment expressed by the youngsters was that he was dearly beloved by them and that his going will cause much sadness among the boys of the school. One youngster said "Father Guerriero was a "regular fellow" and we'll miss him like everything." Another youngster said "You bet, he was a regular guy and he did a lot for us fellers."

And so it went on every last one of them having a good word for Father Guerriero and expressing their own feeling of personal loss at losing him.

Father Guerriero has certainly been a great help to the children at St. Patrick's school and was a great favorite with them. Father Guerriero's interest in athletics has made him very popular with the boys of the school and he has developed some fine teams since he has been there. Not only has he taught the boys athletics but has instilled in them a spirit of fairness, a love for clean athletics and taught them to take defeat with as good grace as victory. Seldom is such a spirit of clean sportsmanship shown by grammar school teams as has been shown by the St. Patrick's teams. Father Rocco's influence for clean sports will long be felt at the school even after he has gone to other fields. All who have met Father Rocco on the athletic field know him as an exponent of true sportsmanship. Everyone will miss him.

BULKELEY AND WINDHAM MAY MEET IN POST-SEASON FOOTBALL STRUGGLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Nov. 13.—There were no serious upsets in the race for the state high school football crown over the week-end. With the exception of the disastrous defeat handed to Chapman Tech High of this city, a team previously undefeated, the week was a dull one in state high school football circles indeed. Windham High, one of the other leading High school teams in this state will hook up in a contest at the close of the season, the result of which will find the Thread City eleven considered in the final accounting.

Stamford High with one of the best high school teams in the state, brushed beyond all hopes of reviving, the hopes of a Bridgeport High school championship. The Lock City eleven and the Park City High school teams battle on Armistice day and the outcome was a victory for Stamford and by the score of 13 to 3. This is indeed a large score for either team to be rolling up on the other, and with the defeat that Bridgeport received at the hands of Hartford earlier in the season, the Park City eleven is hopelessly out of the running for the state title Stamford strengthened its hold upon first place, with New Britain and Torrington High each close behind in the order named.

New Britain at present placing second to Stamford in the standing has lost no games to High school teams but was defeated by Taft preparatory school by a 25 to 2 score. Last week New Britain engaged Yale preparatory school and although this game was won by New Britain, it does not count in the standing of the teams.

Torrington High previously undefeated until it met Naugatuck High on Saturday was held to a 7 to 7 tie, and consequently will have to drop out of that select class of teams which have not been either tied or defeated.

Bulkeley High with a 33 to 0 victory over Norwich Free Academy and Crosby High holding Ansonia High to a tie score of 7 to 7 were the other scores made during the week end. Hartford High remained idle, but will be quite busy this week end as will other undefeated teams.

On Saturday, November 15, high school football history will be recorded. For on that date several titles of much importance will take place. Among the leading teams to occupy the limelight are the Stamford High-Ansonia game at Ansonia; the Bulkeley-Torrington game at Torrington; and the Hartford High New Britain High contest at Hartford. At the three cities named above, the cream of High school teams will assemble and there is bound to be several unlooked for upsets. It will be an important week end for High school battle, and considerable will depend upon the final outcome of these games.

From present plans it looks as though Bulkeley will engage either Windham High or Hartford Public High school in a game at New London on Thanksgiving day. The only thing which is holding up the definite announcement that a game between Bulkeley and either Hartford or Windham will actually take place is the formal declining of the invitation extended New York Stuyvesant High school to meet Bulkeley at New London in a Turk Day battle. It is understood that Coach Canty made the trip to New York yesterday expressly for the purpose of binding these teams to play on Thanksgiving day. But from all that could be gathered from the conversation between Coach Canty and Manager Fern was that it is most likely that the New Yorkers will refuse the invitation to play. So until Bulekeley football coach is the recipient of a formal declination of a game by the New York High school officials he cannot go head and schedule either Hartford High or Windham high for a game. Although a game with either Windham or Hartford High at New London would draw a large crowd.

BULKELEY WILL HOLD CROSS COUNTRY RUN

New London, Nov. 12.—That Bulkeley intends to enter the track field on an extensive scale is evident by the scheduling of Stonington High school harriers for an inter-school cross country run, in the first of several inter-school track events which are soon to follow. Bulkeley will be entertained at Stonington on Friday, to run against the Stonings harriers over the same course over which the Eastern Connecticut scholastic cross country run was held.

With James Granata of the senior class elected captain of the cross country team, the wearers of the Orange and Black are expected to put up a good battle against the strong Stonington runners. Stonington placed first both in individual performance and team performance in the Eastern Connecticut meet held on Armistice day and expect an easy time in winning from Bulkeley. It will be the first inter-scholastic meet for Bulkley extending over a period of years, and to begin on the right path would please both Coach Thomas Cook who is working hard with the material he has on hand and Manager Lorents Bellinger who is making an effort to revive track as a major sport at Bulkeley.

TO CONSIDER CHANGES IN RULES AT BASEBALL MEETING

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Ball players who are sold for fabulous sums will receive part of the purchase price, if a suggestion as to a change in the rules is adopted at the annual joint meeting of the major leagues in New York next month. The proposal was submitted to Commissioner Landis by the Philadelphia Americans, and asks that when a player is sold for $10,000 or more, the player shall receive 10 per cent of the money involved.

This proposal among others was sent tonight to all major league club owners for their consideration prior to the winter gatherings.

Players at present are paid such amounts as the interested clubs decide upon at the time of the transfer.

The New York Yankees have submitted a proposal which would restrict major league clubs to fifty players, exclusive of ineligible or voluntarily retired players, prior to June 15, but provides that the number must be reduced between that date and August 31 to twenty-five active players.

Another proposed amendment provides that no player would be assigned outright to a minor league until all the major league clubs have been given an opportunity to assume the contract of the player. When a player is sent out on option, no opportunity would be given the other major league clubs to take the assignment of the player without waivers being obtained.

Major league clubs would be permitted to send players to the minors on optional agreements for five years instead of two as at present, if another suggestion is adopted.

The Boston Americans in another proposal would eliminate the present requirement that minor league clubs shall pay a consideration of not less than $300 for each optional assignment of a player's contract by a major league club and substitute a provision that for each such optional agreement the minor league club shall pay to the secretary of the national association, through official assignment, 2 per cent of the cash consideration or $6, if no consideration is stipulated, or if a cash consideration less than $300 or other consideration than cash is stipulated.

HARVARD WORKING HARD PREPARING FOR BROWN

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 12.—Continued intensive activity today marked the practice of the Harvard football squad working in preparation for the game with Brown next Saturday—a contest into which Harvard has been accustomed in years past to send a team of substitutes.

With the shift yesterday of Captain Greenough from tackle to center, a hole at tackle was created when Nash, shifted to that berth, injured his ankle in scrimmage. He reported on crutches today and John H. Fordyce was moved up from the second squad to fill the breach. Another shift involved the transfer of Bayard Kilgoer from the line to the backfield. Kilgour, who tips the scales at 190 pounds, though only a sophomore has already played every position on the Harvard team except quarterback. Dean replaced Chase at left end, in today's practice.

Adie and Daley, injured in the Princeton game, and Cheek were still absent from the field today. Hammond and Miller reported in uniform for the first time since Saturday.

TIGERS HOLD LAST HARD PRACTICE BEFORE YALE GAME

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 12.—Active preparation for the Yale game in Palmer stadium Saturday, today was completed by the Princeton varsity.

Following today's practice which lasted until darkness settled over University field, Coach "Bill" Roper said the team will be given only a signal drill tomorrow and that on Friday the players will be given only sufficient work to keep them in physical trim.

Which backfield will start against the New Haven bulldog remained a matter of speculation in Tigertown tonight. Roper to start his light backfield combination of Williams, Shagle, Gilligan and Weeks, but later the heavier set consisting of Dinsmore, Slagle, Caldwell and Dignar occupied the field.

SIKI WILL SUB FOR BERLENBACH AT GARDEN

New York, Nov. 12.—Battling Siki, Senegalese heavyweight, will face Young Marullo, of New Orleans, at Madison Square Garden Friday night in a 12-round bout, the garden management announced today. Siki replaced Paul Berlenbach who suffered an injured wrist in training.

Siki scored a victory over Kid Roscoe in Passaic, N. Y., Monday night in his first appearance since injuring his wrist in an Omaha battle.

Augie Ratner, who fought Berlenbach to a draw in the milk fund bouts last summer, will meet Allentown Joe Gans in the 12-round semi-final.

Such popularity must be deserved

TO convert critics into enthusiasts, whether for a new school of music or for a cigarette, requires something more than luck. There's sound reason for every big swing in popular taste.

So, to account for Chesterfield's swift rise, look to the cigarette itself, its tobaccos, its blending—in short, its taste. This one thing alone—its decidedly better taste—explains why thousands of smokers are changing from other cigarettes to Chesterfield.

M2 SMUGGLING CONSPIRACY BROKEN UP

Washington, Nov. 12.—Agents of the customs service have succeeded in breaking up one of the greatest smuggling conspiracies in recent years, it was disclosed tonight at the treasury where it was said that customs agents in half a dozen sections of the country in recent months have seized and identified smuggled jewelry valued at more than a quarter of a million dollars.

Information as to the success of the agents' efforts which were inaugurated with the killing at Los Angeles last August of Mrs. Theresa Mors, with whose murder "Kid" McCoy has been charged, was received here today when agents of the service in New York notified the treasury they had found details of the smuggling operations. The treasury was informed that man named Medianski, now in flight to a foreign country, was the person who actually had brought the jewelry in.

Any information concerning the identity of Medianski was withheld by officials but it was indicated that their knowledge was not definite as to how long he has operated or how much jewelry in the aggregate had been smuggled into the country. The fact that the trail was picked up on the death of Mrs. Mors, it was stated, was regarded as having no significance insofar as her death itself was concerned.

Whether Medianski operated for himself or as an agent for higher ups was not indicated but acording to custom service records, he was the head and forefront of the active operations and had enlisted a dozen or more aides in disposal of the jewelry.

Victims of the conspiracy were numbered by officials at "several hundred," scattered widely over the country. The agents have seized all the jewelry they have been able to find but it was said that probably as much more never would be uncovered. Innocent purchasers have stowed it away in safe places or are wearing it, not knowing of its origin.

The jewelry possessed by Mrs. Mors was the first to be identified positively. From that beginning the agents, it was said, ran down a series of clues in Pacific Coast cities. They found much jewelry both in San Francisco and Los Angeles, the latter city where Mrs. Mors had her home providing the greatest quantity.

The trail led eastward and the port of entry was found to have been New York from which base Medianski, according to custom officers, directed the distribution and sale of the jewelry. There were many diamonds among the smugled goods and these left plain tracks for the agents to follow.

With the killing in Los Angeles on Monday of Harry I. Katz, another trail was opened and this, it developed, had resulted in the findings of more jewelry which is now en route to New York for examination by agents who have been in charge of the case.

Agents of the service have found that most of the jewelry came from Austria and Germany direct to the United States but back of that they traced many valuable pieces into Russia.

The latter pieces had been sold in Austria and Germany and the smugglers, it was said, picked them up in those two countries when the low value of currencies permitted them to operate on a larger scale and make their purchase at low prices.

Nothing rounds out the pleasures of life like a circle of friends.

IMPROVEMENT IN INDUSTRIES IN NEW ENGLAND STATES

Boston, Nov. 12. — Improvement, either slight or marked, is reported in most of the New England states in the monthly review of the United States employment service of the department of labor, made public today. In New Hampshire the recovery was most marked; in Rhode Island it was felt only in certain centers, but between these extremes, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Maine and Vermont reported improvement in some measure. The review by states follows:

Connecticut: Industrial employment conditions show an improvement over September. Practically all industries are working full time schedules and mills that have been closed, reopened and are now running to full capacity. Very little unemployment noted. Building continues active and affords work for many men.

Rhode Island: Part time operations prevail in many of the textile mills throughout this state. Extensive building operations and highway construction afford employment to many craftsmen and common laborers. No farm labor problem at this season.

Massachusetts: While all textile mills are operating, many of them are on part time basis. However, some sections have shown improvement over September and working forces have been increased. Seasonal slackening in the shoe industry apparent. Jewelry industry operating on full time. The granite industry increased activities and in some parts of the state quarries are working to full capacity. Building continues active with tradesmen well employed. Highway improvements afford work to a number of men.

CONTRADICTORY TESTIMONY IN GOULD ESTATE HEARING

New York, Nov. 12.—Contradiction of a part of the testimony of his sister, Mrs. Finley J. Shepard, and a recital of what he called a clash of personal ambition between his brothers, George J. Gould and the late E. H. Harriman, were given today by Edwin Gould in the referee's hearing in the suit for an accounting of the $82,000,000 estate of the late Jay Gould.

Mrs. Shepard had told of a conference in 1911 at which she said Frank Gould offered to buy 285,000 shares of Missouri Pacific railway stock from the estate at $60 a share.

"Was any such offer made?" asked F. C. Nicodemus, counsel for one of the heirs.

"No," replied Mr. Gould, explaining that Frank had discussed purchasing the shares but had made no definite offer.

Mr. Gould said Mr. Harriman had sought a half interest in the Colorado Fuel and Iron company and the Denver and Rio Grande railway, but that George Gould rejected his advances to this end, apprehensive last Mr. Harriman "double up on the Missouri Pacific."

The witness said he sounded out the other trustees as to the policy of investing heavily in the Missouri Pacific and that they supported George in this continuance of his father's policy.

Mr. Gould told how the late Andrew Carnegie induced the Goulds to buy into the Wabash Pittsburgh Terminal company, because he wanted to prevent the Pennsylvania railway gaining control of it.

BETTER DAYS FORECAST FOR COTTON INDUSTRY

Boston, Nov. 12.—The cotton industry apparently has definitely turned the corner and is proceeding slowly though steadily toward better days, Robert Amery of Boston, president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, said in his address before the annual meeting of that association here today.

"The present cotton crop is the largest in four years and we are assured of sufficient raw material for a much greater percentage of our capacity than through the last year," President Amery said. "A word of caution: we are not assured of sufficient raw material for an adequate reserve supply. Therefore, price fluctuation is still likely although probably not to as great an extent as during the year past.

"The past year has been one of the most difficult through which our cotton manufacturing industry has ever passed, at least in the memory of men now engaged in the business," he said.

HAIR CUTTING FEUD AT LA. STATE UNIVERSITY

Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 12.—Louisiana State University freshmen, which heads were shaven last night by upperclassmen invaded the Baton Rouge high school today and cut the hair of three teachers and a number of girl students.

The teachers were Misses Ruth Gladney, Cora Dros, and Violet Keller, an attempt was made to cut the hair of Mrs. B. W. Pegues and Mrs. Charles Kean, two other instructors, but both resisted, Mrs. Pegues striking one assailant.

The hair of the teachers and the girl students was not trimmed so as to make it ridiculous, but the scores of boys who fell into the hands of the invaders were required to visit barber shops later.

The freshmen invaded the school during school hours and the boys and girls were dragged into the halls and into the school yard.

BOSTON PLANS TO DEPORT GUNMEN AND UNDESIRABLES

Boston, Nov. 12.—Boston is to be rid of gunmen and undesirables and, instead of shunting them off to other cities, they will be shipped out of the country, wherever possible Superintendent of Police Michael Crowley announced today. Arrangements have already been made to deport four of five men arrested in the North End subway as suspicious persons, he said, because there was every reason to believe they were in the country unlawfully. A campaign against lawless persons, directed especially against foreigners, is now under way, the superintendent declared.

RAILROAD LABOR LEADERS CONFER WITH LAFOLLETTE

Madison, Wis., Nov. 12.—Bert M. Jewell, president of the railroad employes department of the American Federation of Labor and L. E. Sheppard, president of the National Order of Railroad Conductors, today conferred with Senator Robert M. LaFollette, here. Although no announcement was made, it is understood that the Howell-Barkley bill pending before congress and the third party movement were discussed.

BULLS AND BEARS CONTINUE BATTLE IN STOCK MARKET

New York, Nov. 12—The battle between the bulls and the bears of the New York stock exchange continued today with unabated fury, with the day's honors about evenly divided at the close. On total sales that exceeded 2,420,000 shares, or less than 50,000 shares below the record established yesterday, the general industrial price average advanced slightly, while the general railroad average declined.

Prices of many of the popular industrials and rails, such as United States Steel common, Baldwin, American Can, Southern Pacific, New Haven, Union Pacific and St. Paul bowed one to 3 1-2 points under the towering load of profit-taking sales and bear selling, but they did not break, apparently because there were too many investors and speculators who had not shared in the first outburst of post-election strength, waiting to pick up stocks on recessions.

Meanwhile, bullish operations continued with increased vigor in other sections of the list, at least fifty stocks climbing to new 1924 high records during the session. Shifting of speculative interest from one group to another indicated that profits piled up some of the recent strong spots were being converted into cash and reinvested in other issues believed to be "out of line" with the general market.

U. S. Cast Iron Pipe was the day's outstanding individual feature, soaring 12 5-8 points above last night's close to a record high for all time at 139 1-2, as compared with the year's low of 64 established last February. General Electric jumped nearly six points to 266 3-4, but forfeited 2 1-4 points on its gain at the close.

Other individual strong spots included Frisco Common, Jersey Central, Goodyera Rubber prior preferred, Manati Sugar, Otis Steel preferred and Sears-Roebuck, all of which closed 3 to nearly 6 points higher.

ARMISTICE IN WARFARE OF TONG EXTENDED TWO WEEKS

New York, Nov. 12.—Chinese Consul General Chang disclosed tonight that the armistice in the war of Hip Sing and On Leong Tongs in seven large American cities had been extended for two weeks beyond this midnight, when the existing truce was to have expired.

The new agreement was understood to have been signed by tong leaders of the various cities who for days have been in conference with Consul General Chang and officials of the Chinese Merchants' Benevolent Association, seeking peace after weeks of warfare that caused 15 deaths and numerous non-fatal casualties.

Conferences have been shrouded in deepest secrecy, so that even local sub-chieftains of the hostile tongs were unaware of the name of the hotel in uptown Manhattan, far from Chinatown, where the truce was signed.

The chief stumbling block toward the negotiations of full peace between the tongs is reported by both factions to be the refusal of the Hip Sings to pay the On Leongs $50,000 indemnity for its members slain, and their equally emphatic refusal to give up business in Chicago, Pittsburgh, Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Washington, Baltimore and New York.

PONZI JURY DISAGREED; TO FACE TRIAL AGAIN

Boston, Nov. 12.—Charles Ponzi former get-rich-quick financier, whose trial in Suffolk county superior court on an indictment charging larceny ended in a jury disagreement today, will be placed on trial again next Monday, District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien announced tonight. Ponzi, who acted as his own attorney in the trial, was admitted to bail in $9,200.

The case was given to the jury late yesterday and the jury after eleven hours' deliberation, reported that they were unable to agree on a verdict on any one of the four counts of the indictment. The complainants were former clients of Ponzi when he was conducting his international postal return coupon business here. It alleged lahceny of $10,800.

It is up to you merely to win the prize; let others explain how they lost it.

DANGEROUS AGONIZING ASTHMA!
Simple New England Prescription of Essential Oils Gives Speedy Relief—Makes Breathing Easy.

In New England, where bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other diseases of the throat and lungs are so prevalent, remarkably successful results are being reported following the use of a new form of treatment known as Oxidase, a physician's prescription.

Oxidase is a harmless but powerful combination of curative essential oils concentrated and compressed into a small tablet. One of these tablets slowly dissolved before going to bed seems to have the effect of releasing the muscular constriction of the bronchial tubes, opening up the air passages and regulating spasmodic lung action. This enables the patient to breathe easily and naturally while lying down and to get a comfortable night's sleep.

So much interest has been shown that local druggists, including Lee & Osgood, have secured a small supply and state that they are authorized to refund the money paid for the first package if in any case this new treatment fails to give relief. Oxidaze is pleasant to take, contains no harmful, habit forming drugs, and is not expensive. This makes their test an easy matter.

Inverts New Form Of "Twi light Sleep"

Dr. James T. Gwathmey, of New York, under whose direction—it has just been learned—1,000 babies have been born at the Lying-in Hospital, New York, with absolutely no pain to the mothers. Unlike the "blue babies" born under the influence of the once favored "twi light sleep," the children born through the use of his method are lusty and strong and ready to "yell at once," it is reported. Dr. Gwathmey's discovery consists of the use of scopolomin and morphine in a solution of Epsom salts. The salts make it possible to obtain the same degree of immunity from pain with one-fourth to one-sixth the quantity of scopolomin, thus reducing the danger of toxic effects on the child.

YACHT ARCOMA AT NEW LONDON; CAPTURED OFF BLOCK ISLAND

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Nov. 13.—Yacht Acoma, 17 tons and 500 horse power, hailing from New York and with Capt. Leo C. Spence as master, was seized in the ocean about 40 miles off Block Island this morning by the crew of the revenue cutter Seminole, Capt. Scott. The yacht was captured after a chase of two hours and only when gun fire was brought into play.

The Acoma and Spence were brought into port. Spence charged with violation of the navigation laws, in proceeding upon a foreign voyage without being properly documented and failure to obtain clearance papers. Spence was released, but the craft is tied up at the state pier.

The Seminole was off Block Island about daybreak, when the Acoma was sighted leaving the vicinity of the rum supply ships off Rum Row. When Spence observed the cutter he caused the Acoma to be started at full speed and head for the ocean. The cutter put chase and after trailing the Acoma two hours, during which time the yacht was gradually hauling away from the Seminole, Capt. Scott issued orders to fire on the yacht. Two shots were fired, both of which landed dangerously close to the Acoma. This caused Spence to bring the yacht to a ston and submit to capture. That the Acoma is a rum-runner there is no doubt, for her partitions below deck have been removed to permit cargo space. While the Seminole was in pursuit of the Acoma, three or four barrels of whiskey were sighted in the wake of the yacht, it being the belief of Capt. Scott that the liquor was thrown from the deck of the Acoma by Captain Spence when the chase became hot.

THE PASNIK CO., Norwich

Lucius Cameron is going up to the common pleas court to defend a suit in which he was today found guilty of trying to steal the contents of lobster pots set in the harbor opposite the Groton Iron Works and between that point and the Griswold hotel, at the mouth of the harbor. The testimony adduced in court today was seemingly of the most positive sort while Cameron's only defense was a general denial that he was guilty. The lobster pots were the property of John and Joe Sevitsky of New London. There were fifty of them but only 23 when the owners sought to haul them. The Sevitskys declared that they saw Cameron pull one pot from the water and that they put chase in a power boat in which they were cruising, but that the boat Cameron had, the 453-J, was much faster craft and he scudded off toward Bartlett's reef lightship. There the pursuers lost him. They identified Cameron, they said, and took the number of his power boat. Cameron admitted that he was the owner of the boat, that the number was accurate and that he was in the harbor cruising at the time the accusers say he was there. State Game Warden Robert B. Chappell and Deputy Chris C. Culver were in court and the latter testified that the 453-J was registered in the name of Cameron. He also disclosed that the Sevitsky boys had licenses to fish for lobsters and that the number of their license was marked on the buoys that held the pots. Abraham Katz became surety on a bond for Cameron and he was released from custody. The fine imposed on Cameron today was $10.

John M. Comi, a war veteran, attended the celebration of Armistice day at Norwich Tuesday. He returned to his home in Groton late at night, coming into this city by way of Huntington street. As he got his machine headed to the eastward on Federal street he crashed into a car parked by the sidewalk. Both cars were damaged. Comi admitted that he was reckless in the operation of his car, but he said he did not see the vehicle he collided with till he was too close to avert the crash.

Charles Post of Groton got drunk yesterday and when found he was fortified with a pint of denatured alcohol that would kill on sight. Post admitted that he had the alcohol, but swore by all that was good and great that he did not know where he obtained it nor what he secured it for. He said he had kept away from the court five years or more and he intended to keep away as much longer. "I have drank some wine and beer in the time I have been away from court," he said, "but I have not been drunk since I was here. Post is a woodchopper and is employed at present about Trail's Corners, where brush is being cleared away. His frank statement won for him a suspended sentence.

John M. Toohey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Toohey, 45 Colman street, and Miss Dorothy A. Gillis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Gillis, 96 Ocean avenue, were married this morning at 8 o'clock at St. Joseph's church, the nuptial mass being celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons, the pastor. Edward Kelley was best man, and Miss Mary Toohey, sister of the groom attended the bride. Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Toohey held a reception and a breakfast was served at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Toohey left at noon on a wedding trip. Mr. Toohey is a mail carrier. Mrs. Toohey was until recently employed by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad as telephone operator at the union station.

Mrs. George Taner and infant daughter, of Montauk avenue, were patients dismissed at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital today.

Two children, neither of them five years old, were found on the sidewalk in front of their home, 247 Huntington street, at 2 o'clock this morning by Louis Ramistella, a public service operator. Being unable to locate the parents of the children, Ramistella had them taken to the police station. Desk Sergeant James D. Gaffney instructed Patrolman William Babcock to take charge of the children and to return them to their home. Going to the residence in front of where the youngsters were discovered crying, Babcock learned that the children were those of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fraser, but there were no occupants of the house, although the front entrance was open and the tenement illuminated. Babcock had the children put to bed and left them presumably asleep, but at 2.30 o'clock when Ramistella was again passing the house he found the youngsters again on the sidewalk and in tears. The police were again notified and Patrolman Babcock was again assigned to locate the parents or some one to take charge of them. As on the first visit of the officer at the Fraser home, neither of the parents was there. In order that the children might be properly cared for the balance of the night Babcock aroused a nearby resident named Adams, who volunteered to shelter the youngsters. This forenoon it developed that Fraser is employed nights and that the children had been in the care of the mother when the husband left for his work, but during the evening Mrs. Fraser left the house and did not return until early this morning. During the forenoon Fraser appeared at the police station to obtain the facts in possession of the police as to the finding of his children on the street.

Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin late this afternoon instructed Sergeant John Cavanaugh to notify Mrs. Fraser to present herself in the police court tomorrow morning.

Newton E. Rowley, of 248 Colman street, employed by the New Haven railroad, is a patient at Lawrence hospital suffering from a lacerated left eye and wrist and general abrasions, as the result of the automobile which he was operating late last night crashing head-on into a trolley car of the Connecticut company. Rowley will be under treatment at the institution several days. When he is dismissed he will be taken into custody on a charge of operating his automobile while under the influence of liquor. Rowley has been convicted of the same offense before, having been prosecuted in the police court two months ago.

Rowley was operating the runabout northerly on Broad street, about midnight and between the rails of the trolley company. As the machine approached the corner of Ledyard street, the trolley car that left the State street terminal at 11.30 o'clock in charge of Motorman Livermore for Cedar Grove and St. Mary's cemeteries approached. Rowley instead of operating his machine from the trolley tracks continued to drive the machine along the tracks with the result that the automobile and trolley car bumped with terrific force, the automobile being wrecked and the trolley car damaged. Rowley remained prone in his seat, in which position he was found by Sergeant John Cavanaugh, who was in an automobile that followed Rowley's car from Cedar Grove cemetery and Patrolman Howard Sloan who was on the trolley car. The officers picked Rowley from the automobile and caused him to be taken to the hospital.

The funeral of Mrs. Nellie Holt MacCammon, sister of City Manager William A. Holt, whose death occurred in New York Sunday, was held in New York last evening. This afternoon the body was brought to New London for burial in the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery. The committal service was read by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ.

Edward Connell, 29, a former resident of New London, died this morning at a Hartford hospital, where he had been under treatment for heart trouble but a few days, although he had suffered with heart affection many months. He is survived by a brother, John Connell, of Crystal avenue. Mr. Connell was formerly employed as bellman at the Crocker house, but for several years he had been an employe at the Allyn House, Hartford.

Walter Brown, ex-sailor, was taken into custody this evening by Patrolman William Babcock and Supernumary Officer William Riordan, charged with assault upon Elmer Brewster, 5, son of Mrs. Albert Brewster, 29 Cottage street. He will be presented in the police court Thursday morning and in default of a surety on his bond Brown was locked up. If the allegations as made by Mrs. Brewster are true Brown possesses the instincts of a brute and will probably be dealth with severely.

Mrs. Brewster, who admitted that she was the common-law wife of Brown and that the boy was one of two born to her while she resided with her husband, declared that Brown had most inhumanely thrashed the child and to substantiate her statements she showed the boy's back when she lodged complaint against Brown. The back from both shoulders to the waistline was a sickening mass of bruises, the entire fish being discolored. The punishment was inflicted, according to Mrs. Brewster, with a strap last evening because the child engaged in a quarrel with another child. Tonight, according to Mrs. Brewster, Brown struck the child several times upon the face and head and the boy displayed a discolored eyelid to substantiate the statements of the mother.

Mrs. Brewster, who was in tears as she lodged her complaint, declared that she had resided with Brown since she and her husband became estranged a year ago. She stated that she worked daily and that Brown had contributed little or nothing to the support of herself and children for some time. She also stated that Brown had beaten her but that she would not lodge complaint against him for the beating that she had received, but desired him punished for the abuse of the child.

When arrested Brown admitted having struck the child with his hand, but denied inflicting the punishment which the marks on the child's body showed the little fellow had received.

Miss Margaret L. Leahey, about 56, of New York, formerly of this city, died this afternoon at the residence of her cousin, Miss Mary Ducy, 56 Washington street, death ending a lingering illness of kidney trouble. Miss Leahey had been confined to the bed nearly three years. She was the daughter of the late James and Catherine Leahey and is survived by two sisters, who reside in New York.

Thomas C. Brennan, 74, died tonight at his home, 496 Broad street, after an illness of a few days. He is survived by his wife and four daughters, Mrs. Daniel Walls, Waterford; Mrs. Arthur Walsh, New York, Mrs. David J. Cronin, Brooklyn and Miss Anna T. Brennan, of this city, and by a son, Frank J. Brennan, also of this city, who is critically ill. Mr. Brennan suffered a shock about two years ago, but was able to be about until a few weeks ago, when he suffered a weakened condition of the heart, being compelled to take to his bed.

Commuters between New London and Mystic and Stonington late this afternoon were greatly inconvenienced because of the failure of trolley cars of the Groton & Stonington Traction company to operate. From 4.30 until 8.30 o'clock no cars entered or departed from the city. The failure of the cars to run was due to a mishap at the power station in Noank.

A fight between sailors who had been holding a drinking party in the Salvation Army lodging house, State and Atlantic streets, tonight resulted in one of the sailors being attacked with a bottle. The man was badly cut about the face and was taken to the police station and attended by a physician.

The largest flock of blackbirds ever seen was noted Sunday at Maple Hill farm, in the old apple orchard. They fairly loaded down the old trees as they stopped for a rest and a chattering social time. WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

Latvian Prime Minister

Dr. J. Tschakste, Prime Minister of Latvia, formerly a lawyer in Mitau, and editor of "Tehwija," had to leave due to being a protagonist to Agrarian Reforms. He went to Dproat with other Courlanders and formed a Refugee Aid Society. In 1917 he was made Commissary of the Province of Curland by the Provisional Russian Government. When the Independence of Latvia was proclaimed in 1918, he was made the President, and the Constitutional Assembly shortly afterward elected him President of the Assembly and Prime Minister. He has recently celebrated his 64th birthday.

NO TAX LEGISLATION FOR SHORT SESSION CONGRESS

Washington, Nov. 12—Tax reduction at the coming short session of congress will not be attempted under present plans by the administration and although some congressional leaders have expressed a desire to take up such legislation it now appears that attention will be directed primarily to appropriation and farm measures.

It is understood that Secretary Mellon, who conferred for more than half an hour with President Coolidge today, considers it impracticable to attempt to reopen the tax question at the three months' session with a new law just going into effect.

Administration officials point out that the actual results of the new law relative to the surplus available for future reduction will not be felt until after December 15, and the benefit of the new rates will not be received until payments ar made next year on this year's taxes, leaving opportunity to survey the entire situation carefully before concentrating upon the tax question.

While no final decision has been reached, neither have any plans yet been made by the treasury or the president, it is understood, in regard to recommending additional tax reduction before the meeting of the new congress in December a year hence.

Secretary Mellon, however, it is understood, expects in his annual report to restate his position on tax reduction along the lines he recommended to the last session of congress.

This scheme, providing for a larger cut in the high surtax rates than was finally approved by congress, received the endorsement of President Coolidge. In his recent speeches, Mr. Coolidge also has indicated a desire to cut further the surtax rates as well as all other taxes.

What Congress itself may attempt, without recommendation from the administration is regarded as throwing to some extent an element of uncertainty into the situation now crystalizing as the December session approaches. Several congressional leaders, also are already pressing for an extra session after March 4 to take up tax reduction and other measures.

However, some administration leaders in congress, including Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, a member of the finance committee, insist the new congress will be able a year hence to go farther in tax reduction than proposed even a year ago by Secretary Mellon. Senator Reed bases his opinion on the present condition of the treasury and large increases in business resulting from the benefits of the new bill just going into effect.

Itoy T. Davis, American minister in Costa Rica, reports that a law has been passed in that country for the construction by the government, through the medium of the Costa Rican Red Cross, of small houses to be sold to the poor. The houses are to cost 1,500 colons each (4 colons equal $1), and the purchaser is to have the privileges of paying in 100 equal monthly installments.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET CONTINUES ACTIVE

New York, Nov. 12.—Trading in today's stock market was maintained at the same furious pace of the last four or five sessions, but price movements disclosed more irregularity as the pressure of profit-taking increased. Price staggered under the load of these realizing sales but they did not break, the net losses in many popular issues ranging from 1 to 3 points, leaving closing quotations still 5 to 10 points above those prevailing on the day before election.

Total sales today were slightly in excess of $2,420,000 shares or less than 50,000 below the high record established yesterday. The general industrial touched a new peak for the year, but the general railroad average showed a moderate decline. United States Cast Iron pipe was the senational performer in today's market soaring more than 12 points to 139 1-2, a re-record top for all time, on what was described as urgent short covering.

Bear traders made repeated attempts to unsettle the general list. Declaration of the regular dividend by Foundation company stock, setting at rest rumors of an increase, was followed by concerted selling of that stock, which broke more than seven points to 84 5-8 before effective support was forthcoming. Continental Can reacted 3 3-4 from its 1924 high of 62 7-8 established earlier in the session, on the announcement that the directors had authorized the issuance of additional common stock.

Extreme recessions of two to six points also took place in merican Can, Baldwin, Davison Chemical, Kreske Department Stores, Nash Motor, United Drug, Willys-Overland preferred, American Express and Southern acific, but practically all made moderate recovery from their low prices.

Over fifty new high quotations for the year were established during the session, the list including Southern red, "Katy" preferred, Northern Pa-Missouri Pacific common and prefer-Pacific, Frisco common and preferred, cific, Louisville and Nashville, Baltimore and Ohio, American Locomotive, Pullman, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Radio Corporation, American Smelting and Texas Gulf Sulphur.

Gas stocks leaped into favor just before the close, Consolidated Gas leading the advance in that group by gaining nearly two points to a new high record for the year at 75 1-2. Other individual strong spots included Allied Chemical, American Car and Foundry, Cuba Cane Sugar preferred, General Electric, Cuyamel Fruit, Goodyear prior preferred, Otis Steel preferred, Pennsylvania Coal, Postum Cereal and Western Union, the net gains ranging from 2 to nearly 5 points.

The weekly steel trade reviews reported that the outcome of the election had stimulated the demand for steel, pig iron sales assuming large proportions. The only other important trade news during the day was another increase in the wholesale prize of gasoline in New York.

Despite the unusually heavy demand for funds for speculative operations in the stock market, the renewal rate on call money was lowered to 2 per cent., holding at that figure all day. The demand for time loans slackened somewhat, but rates held firm at the top figures reached yesterday. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Reactionary tendencies predominated in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling sold off more than two cents to around $4.59 1-4 and French francs were again quoted below 5.30 cents. Moderate recessions also took place in other European rates.

BOND MARKET

New York, Nov. 12.—Heavy profit taking which followed the recent strengthening of time money rates, turned bond prices reactionary today. Semi-speculative railroad issues alone with stood selling pressure and further accumulation of popular members of this group accounted largely for the bulge in total sales to more than $23,000,000.

Liquidation of United States government obligations was attributed to banks and larger investors, who were said to be transferring funds into higher yielding bonds and stocks in anticipation of a reduction of taxes by the next congress. Treasury 4 1-4's at one time broke 18-32nds but closed with a net loss of only 7-32nds. Liberty bonds were from 1-32nd to 7-32nds lower.

An almost unprecedented demand for the "Katy" adjustment 5's carried this issue to a record high level at 73 7-8. The activity in these bonds was the outstanding feature of trading, although buying orders also effective in Frisco liens, Central of Georgia 5's and Chicago and Eastern Illinois 5's.

High grade rail mortgages encountered unusually heavy realizing sales, which brought losses of a point or more in New York Central 6's, Union Pacific 4's, Atchison General 4's, Northern Pacific 4's, Baltimore and Ohio 4's, and Reading 4 1-2's. Switching operations into higher yielding issues were said to be under way.

A $5,000,000 issue of Minnesota State 4 1-2 per cent bonds has been awarded to local banks and will be offered to yield slightly above four per cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Good rains reported in Argentina, where there has been complaint of drought, pulled down the price of wheat heavily today but sharp rallies resulted from important late commission house buying based more or less on corn strength. Wheat closing quotations were unsettled at 1-4 to 1 1-2c net decline, December 1.52 3-8 to 1.52 1-2 and May 1.59 3-8 to 1.59 1-2. Corn finished 1 1-4 to 2 5-8 up, oats varying from 3-8 decline to 1-4 gain and provisions 22 lower to 10c advance.

Aside from the better crop outlook in Argentina it was said that something of a decline in wheat prices was to have been expected on account of the rapidity of the recent advance, 16 cents in a week. Rushes here to sell were no impetuous that breaks in prices amounted to nearly four cents a bushel here before an irregular recovery set in.

Apparent dearth of new export business acted as a check on rallies in the wheat market.

Corn averaged higher most of the day and toward the last shot up to the highest level reached in several weeks. Smallness of the farm reserve supply of old corn gave stimulus to buying which was also accelerated by the government's low estimate of the quality of new corn. Oats followed wheat rather than corn packer selling of lard depressed the provision market.

ITALIAN AND HUNGARIAN FENCERS WOUNDED IN DUEL

Budapest, Hungary, Nov. 12—The Italian Fencer, Senior Oreste Pulitti, and M. Kovacs, the Hungarian fencing judge at the Olympic games, were both seriously wounded today in an hour-long sabre duel at Nagy-Kanizsa, on the Jugoslav border.

The seconds of the two duelists finally stopped the fight because of the adversaries' wounds and fatigue. Senor Pulitti, who was the aggressor in the duel, offered his apologies to M. Kovacs and a reconciliation was effected while the spectators cheered.

The encounter was the result of an exchange of cards at Paris when Senor Pulitti blamed M. Kovacs for his expulsion from the Olympic fencing contests.

PRECAUTIONS TO GUARD AGAINST COMMON COLDS

A recent study of colds among babies brought to infant welfare stations in Chicago showed a rather high incidence of colds in the families of babies having colds. This was especially true where the mother had colds. In fact exposure to mothers' colds was stated to have occurred in nearly half as many babies without colds as of those with colds.

It is clear that outside influences particularly those involving chilling of the body may serve to induce a cold even if these influences cannot be regarded as the most important etiological factors. Even in spite of our rather uncertain knowledge as to the cause of common colds we are able to point out methods of prevention which, if followed, should result in materially lessening incidence of colds.

Perhaps the most important method of prevention is to guard against too sudden strains on the heat regulating mechanism of the body. People who live in overheated houses are easily chilled upon going out in the winter time. The temperature of dwelling houses and offices should be kept at not over 70 degrees Fahrenheit in order that the body may not suffer too great a shock upon going out of doors. When the heat regulating mechanism is tuned to a high temperature indoors it is subjected to much greater strain upon going out on a cold day than if it is tuned to minimum temperature for comfort while indoors.

The other method of preventing colds consists in measures for preventing the spread of infection. While the specific infective agent is not known, the evidence available appears to warrant taking precautions based on the theory of the infectious nature of colds. This would signify mean the avoiding of close contact with persons who have colds.

If colds are due to infectious agents it appears obvious that such agent exists in the discharges from the nose and throat. Thus the precautions to be taken are merely those necessary to avoid contact with the nose and throat discharges of persons who have colds. One of the most important methods of avoiding such infections is to keep far enough away from infected persons so as to be out of range of "droplets" thrown out by coughing, sneezing, or talking.

In this glorious land of the free the petty politician seems to be a necessary evil.

RESOLUTIONS.

At a meeting of the Directors of the New London Northern Railroad Company, held Nov. 11th, 1924, the following resolution was adopted:

Charles Henry Osgood died at his residence in Norwich, Conn., on Monday, Nov. 10th, 1924.

He had been a Director of this Company since April 4th, 1881, and President since Oct. 2d, 1907, giving the most acceptable and efficient service.

He, with others who have passed on before, was largely instrumental in completing arrangements which have resulted in advancing the interests of the stock and other security holders of the Company, so that their investments have been placed on a sound and profitable basis.

In his personal association with his fellow directors he was always genial and was gladly welcomed at the meetings of the Board, and was sincerely missed when unable to be present.

We mourn his loss and shall cherish his memory.

We spread this memorial upon the records as an expression of our regard, and desire that a copy be transmitted to his bereaved family, with our deepest sympathy.

Attest: J. A. SOUTHARD, Secretary.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES IN 82ND YEAR

Frederick S. Snow, who passed away in Deep River last week, in his 82nd year, was for many years a resident of New Haven, but for the past two years had spent much of his time in St. Cloud, Fla.

He was born in Boston, Nov. 11, 1842, the first son of Martin A. and Louise Emerson Snow, and was united in marriage to Jennie M. McIntosh, at New Haven, Jan. 7, 1892.

In June, 1893, he joined Admiral Foote post, No. 17, Department of Connecticut, Grand Army of the Republic. He filled many offices in the post and was commander in 1901 and acted for many years as quartermaster of the post. During his residence in Deep River Mr. Snow was doorkeeper in the house of representatives at Hartford, and for many years he was employed by the New Haven road at Belle dock.

His earlier life, if written in detail, would fill a volume. Residing in New York at the breaking out of the Civil war, Mr. Snow volunteered in the famous Hawkins Zouaves, which made up the Ninth New York regiment and was commanded by Col. R. C. Hawkins.

He was in all engagements of Company A, 9th New York Infantry, and he received a certificate of honorable discharge at New York city, May 20, 1863, by reason of expiration of term of service. After receiving his discharge from the 9th New York Infantry he went to Baltimore, Md., and was appointed military instructor at Lafayette barracks and Camp Bradford and from there was assigned to Company E, 5th regiment, Maryland Infantry, and was promoted to sergeant major of that regiment. He received a certificate of final honorable discharge at Baltimore, Md., Sept. 1, 1865. He joined the United States navy Jan. 14, 1867, and was assigned to the practice ship Sabine and was promoted to paymaster's steward and to paymaster's writer. Upon the expiration of his enlistment he went to the western plains and was wagon master for General Sturgis of the 7th United States cavalry and for many years saw hard and varied service on the plains. When employed as a scout for the army on the plains Mr. Snow was frequently engaged in carrying despatches from one post to another, and owing to the hostility of the Indian tribes it was an exceedingly dangerous service.

Mr. Snow had a high regard for Gen. George Custer, under whom he served many times. He came east in 1887 and lived for several years in Deep River.

His brothers, Gustavus N. and Augustus Snow, died some years ago. A half-sister, Mrs. Raymond Baldwin of Milford, a step-daughter, Mrs. Charles Fancher of Stratford, and several nieces and nephews survive him. Burial took place in the family plot at Deep River.

200 Acres Burned in Deep River.

A woods fire which started Saturday in Deep River was under control late Monday afternoon, after 900 acres of timberland had been burned over. The land was heavily wooded and had not been cut over for nearly 50 years. Fire Warden Peter J. Dreher and Assistant Fire Warden Heser took 50 men from Killingworth to assist in fire fighting. A back fire in Killingworth was started and the main blaze died out when it reached a ledge district.

A small fire in the meadow and woods, between Deep River and Essex, fought by 60 men, did little damage. The land was a young growth of pines and hard wood.

NORWICH TOWN

The November meeting of Dorcas Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church is to be held this (Thursday) afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with the president, Mrs. James B. Aldrich, at the parsonage.

At the Methodist church Sunday morning, Rev. James B. Aldrich preached from Hosea 2:9. Therefore will I return and take away my corn in the time thereof, and my wine in the season thereof, and will recover my wool and my flax given to cover her nakedness.

Miss Hazel Cruthers was the leader of the Young Peoples' Christian Endeavor services in the evening. The topic assigned to this meeting was, Stewardship—Our Abilities for Christ. Matthew 25:14-30. This was followed by an address by Deaconness Marion Hope of Fall River, Mass., who explained her work in the Deaconness' Home there.

Of the forty-seven Norwich heroes who made the supreme sacrifice in the world war, as read at the Armistice Day exercises, four were from Norwich Town. William Morgan Durr, the first Norwich Town boy to be killed in action on the battlefields of France. Albert Henry Dexter, Frank Alfred Wilcox (killed in action) and Donald Fraser, who died from pneumonia in France, the day before the Armistice was signed.

At Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, Sunday the choice flowers on the platform were given in memory of Donald Fraser, by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Fraser of Lafayette St., following out a custom each year since his death.

Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church and that church quartet, will have charge of the Sunday afternoon service at the Sheltering Arms.

The Home Missionary society of the First Congregational church has made a general request that members of the parish or any interested person contribute useful articles of any description, for gifts to be sent to Miss Ruth Beebe, a missionary from this church, Miss Beebe a teacher in the mountains of the south is located at Trinity School, Athens, Alabama. It was suggested that articles helpful in Miss Beebe's sewing and cooking classes would also be appreciated.

In observance of Armistice Day, a flag pole 30 feet high, was erected on the property of Mrs. Charles F. Geer, 76 West Town street. From this a large American flag 10 by 15, was raised in memory of Mrs. Geer's husband Charles F. Geer, a member of Company C, 18th Regiment, Connecticut Volunteers. The flag was presented Mrs. Geer by a friend of her late husband, a Civil War Veteran from Lebanon, Conn.

SUPPER FOR OF VICTORS

(Special to The Bulletin)

Nov. 12—Tonight the North Stonington Grange hall a get-together, or love feast was held by the democrats and the republicans of the town. The host of the evening was Horace G. Lewis, chairman of the republican town committee. About 200 were present and were served a fine oyster supper.

Mr. Lewis' son, Harry E. Lewis, was elected representative to the assembly at the recent election, the second representative being William F. Morgan.

Invitations had been extended to many residents in the town and Messrs. Lewis and Morgan welcomed them as they entered the hall, receiving in turn the congratulation of their friends.

John B. Perry of Clark's Falls was toastmaster and among the speakers called upon were John L. York, chairman of the democratic town committee for North Stonington and John D. Avery and Mrs. Avery.

Following the supper, Dudley Stewart delighted his audience with several Scotch songs and this was followed by brief speeches by the two representatives elect.

Attorney Charles L. Stewart and Mrs. Stewart of Norwich were present, Mrs. Stewart being a sister of Representative-Elect Lewis. Attorney Stewart responded briefly when called upon to speak.

John D. Avery, who has served in the state legislature expressed the conviction that both representatives will fill their office with credit to the town and assured them that when they returned to North Stonington they would find the people awaiting them, ready to serve another oyster supper in their honor.

GOTHIC BEAUTY OF TRINITY CHURCH NOW RESTORED BY RENOVATIONS

All services in Trinity Episcopal church will be resumed Sunday, the church having been closed since last summer because of extensive alterations and re-decoration.

During the period that the church has been closed the parishioners have worshiped with Christ church parish, Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown of Trinity having been in charge of both parishes since the death of the Rev. Richard et. Graham of Christ church last August.

Trinity is one of the oldest churches in the city, having been built in 1828 and has been the home of the present Trinity parish since 1850 when it was vacated by Christ church parish upon the completion of their building on Washington street. Archdeacon Brown has been the rector of this parish since August, 1896, and with two exceptions is the oldest ranking pastor in the city.

The outside of the edifice has been repainted and all broken sills and lintels replaced, which brings out the beautiful effects of the stone construction. The woodwork and roofs have all been repainted.

In order to restore the original Gothic architecture of the inside of the building the side balconies were removed, re-establishing the effect of the beautiful Gothic side windows. In the front of the church two stained glass memorial windows have been placed. These windows are mullioned to conform to the construction of the center chancel window. St. Matthew, St. Mark, St. Luke and St. John are represented in these windows which were placed as memorials in memory of former parishioners, the west window in memory of Henry Lester Parker, Ann Meech Parker, and Anne Meech Walker, by Mrs. Elizabeth Ross Boss and Henry Fitch Parker; the east window in memory of Betsey Whipple Rawson, by her daughter, Emma Rawson Hammond.

The chancel window has been restored to its original beauty and made to harmonize in colors with the new memorial windows, this work being a memorial in memory of Mabel Anna Cardwell by the members of the family of Mrs. William H. Cardwell.

All the new windows have been placed on both sides and the Church street end of the building, the glass in these being three shades of double rolled English cathedral glass, each window divided into three lower rectangular sections, mullioned into sixty lights with a Gothic top section of fifty-five lights. The glass in these windows and the memorial windows are from the studio of Wilbur Herbert Burnham of Boston.

A new oak floor finished in light color has been laid over the entire church including the narthex, this being placed by Miss Matilda B. Randall as a memorial in memory of her mother, Elizabeth Randall.

The entire interior of the church, side walls and ceilings, has been redecorated, a color scheme of two shades of warm gray being used throughout.

The chancel is covered with a heather brown carpet, the chancel cushions being covered with a shade to match. Runners of heather brown cover the center of the three aisles. All of the church furniture including the stalls, reading desks, bishop's chair, credence table, pulpit, lectern, and pews have been re-finished and the upholstering renewed.

The choir gallery and chorister's room have been re-decorated, the same color scheme as the body of the church being carried out, these floors being covered with a carpet of terra cotta.

The removal of the side balconies necessitated alterations to the lighting system and this was accomplished by installing between each window and in the rear specially designed wall brackets, these being placed by Walter Roath in memory of his mother, Laura E. Roath, in whose memory the original lighting system was installed by the late Louis P. Roath in 1909.

Cram and Ferguson of Boston have been the consulting architects, working in conjunction with the Commission on Church Architecture of the Province of New England. Aside from the windows all the work has been done by local contractors, Peck-McWilliams Co., having the stone and woodwork, Allyn M. Brand the decorating, Williams Brothers the heating and plumming, N. S. Gilbert & Sons carpets and upholstery and the Eaton Chase Company the electrical work.

The entire work has been in charge of a committee consisting of the rector, Rev. J. Eldred Brown, the wardens, Alexander P. Williams, Walter E. Gilbert and William H. Harder, assisted by S. Hussey Reed, Miss Alice M. Cardwell and Miss Rosalie A. Bennett. The preliminary investigations of the undertaking was done by a committee consisting of chairman, S. Hussey Reed, Alexander P. Williams, Miss May L. Bushnell and Mrs. Fred N. Clark.

This committee had charge also of raising the necessary funds to meet the expense of the work and due to their efforts and the loyal response of the parishioners $10,000 was secured for the work just completed.

Today with these improvements and redecorations, and through the restoration of the beautiful Gothic architecture of both the inside and the outside of the building, Trinity church is one of the most attractive churches in the city. It is planned in a few weeks that the bishop of the diocese will be here and a re-dedication service will be held in the church.

MARRIAGES AND DIVORCES INCREASE IN CONNECTICUT

The department of commerce at Washington announces that, according to returns received, there were in the United States for the calendar year 1923, 1,223,835 marriages performed and 165,139 divorces granted. For the calendar year 1922, 1,129,045 marriages and 148,815 divorces were reported.

The increase in marriages reported for 1924, with one county lacking, over the number reported for 1922 is 94,790, or 8.4 per cent. Nebraska is the only state in which there was a marked decrease in 1923 and this is due, to some extent, to an amendment to the marriage law in 1923 requiring the posting of the application for marriage licenses for a period of ten days before the license is issued.

The divorces reported for 1923, with three counties lacking, show an increase of 16,324, or 11 per cent., over the number reported for 1922. The large increase shown for the state of Washington is due to a change in the divorce law in 1921 which caused a considerable decrease in the number of final decrees entered in 1922, the first year in which the new law was in effect.

The figures are preliminary and subject to slight correction.

In Connecticut, the marriages increased from 12,108 in 1922 to 13,269 in 1923, a gain of 1,161; and the divorces increased from 1,030 in 1922 to 1,175 in 1923, which was an increase of 145.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

CONNECTICUT INSURANCE DAY WAS GREAT SUCCESS

With more than 500 insurance agents and underwriters from all parts of the state and representing all branches of insurance present, Connecticut Insurance Day was opened at Hartford Wednesday morning at ten o'clock with group meetings. The life and accident branches drew the largest group but fire insurance has its large quota present. Insurance commissioners from several states and heads of numerous insurance companies in Hartford and elsewhere were present to address the insurance men.

A most enthusiastice gathering of the morning was that of the Connecticut Life Insurance Underwriters association which held a special meeting, open to all life underwriters, in the auditorium of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance company building. The expectations were that there would be from 300 to 250 present at this meeting but when John M. Holcombe, chairman of the board of directors of the Phoenix Mutual company arose to welcome the underwriters there were about 275 present and the seas were nearly all filled, while there were more members coming in. Edward S. Doten, of New London, president of the association, presided as chairman and introduced the speakers.

There were over 100 present at the meeting of the Connecticut Association of Insurance Agents, held in the assembly hall of the Travelers Insurance company, this morning. Most of the time was taken up by general discussion on points of interest to all of the agents present.

James L. Case, chairman of the general committee in charge of the plans for the day, and past president of the association welcomed the members and gave them an interesting talk.

Mr. Case's topic was The Object of Connecticut's Insurance Day upon which he spoke as follows:

Gentlemen of the Convention:

To some who are gathered here this afternoon, the occasion marks the consummation of an event long looked forward to, and long anticipated. Your presence in such goodly numbers is a tribute to the business as a whole, and to Connecticut's Insurance Companies, as well, for they have protected life and property; maintained and re-established credit, and saved from utter ruin millions of individuals, firms and corporations. The aims, ideals and purposes of the Insurance Profession, have often been misunderstood, and not only by the public at large, but sometimes by those who have been identified with one or more of its several branches. For that reason, if for no other, such a conference as this is worthy of endorsement and support.

This is the first time, to my knowledge, that representatives of practically every classification of the business have come together at one time, and in one place, for the common purpose of considering and discussing subjects which pertain to common interest. A few months ago, an "Insurance Day" was celebrated in Indiana, and the success of that occasion created a desire on the part of certain Connecticut men, to arrange for a similar observance in Connecticut.

No other state in the Union has such extensive and so successful insurance interests as has the "good old Nutmeg State," and here in the City of Hartford, the very capitol of the insurance world, it is highly proper that officers of companies, managers, agents, and field men, together with representatives of the public, should meet upon common ground and for a common purpose.

The object of Insurance Day is twofold: First: That members of the various classes of the business may become better acquainted with each other and also acquire a definite knowledge of some of the outstanding principles of the several classifications represented, and second: That the public may be instructed as to the real purpose and scope of the Insurance Business as a whole.

Insurance interests are threefold, for they affect the companies, the agents, and the public, but primarily the purpose of Insurance is to protect and indemnify the assured against losses of various kinds and characters.

The history of the Insurance Business in America is a fascinating story, and this afternoon we are fortunate to have present several distinguished speakers who are well qualified to tell us what Connecticut companies have contributed thereto. Because of years of service they have become recognized powers in the business world, and whenever occasions have required, they have rendered aid and assistance in proportion to their ability. Long years ago, the American Agency System was established whereby subscribing companies sell insurance to the public through agents appointed and licensed for the purpose. The system has operated most successfully for the benefit and profit of both parties, and it has been adopted by practically all of the companies operating in this state. The interests of the two, while not identical, are inseparable, and it is, therefore, both essential and desirable that a cordial and sympathetic relationship should exist between companies and agents at all times and under all conditions. In Connecticut, today, a spirit of conference, co-operation, and co-ordination of interests prevails between them.

The Connecticut Insurance Companies have rendered a dependable service and protected the interests of millions of people throughout the length and breadth of the nation, and in some cases the protection has extended even to the uttermost parts of the world. Such a condition has been made possible by the stability and integrity of the companies, and by the selling ability of qualified agents. The confidence of the public has been an important factor in the success of Connecticut's Insurance Expansion and efforts to secure a better understanding of insurance and insurance conditions by the insuring public of the state, have been consistently made. Too often, however, the public has accepted policies without knowing, or even reading their terms and conditions, and has depended upon the honor and reputation of the Companies and the services of the agents to see that its interests were properly cared for and protected. Such a condition should not exist, nor can it exist, indefinitely. The public must inform itself as to the terms of policy contracts and coverage, of insurance laws and ordinances, and in the future it must interest itself in insurance problems more than it has in the past. It has a duty to see that proper laws, and only such, are passed and then enforced, and it should seek to give as well as to expect "the square deal" in all of its relations with insurance interests of each and every character.

The chamber of commerce of the United States has done much to create a better and a more sympathetic feeling and the insurance department which it maintains is constantly spreading the gospel of "a better understanding" in every section of the country.

I am confident that as a direct result of this, the first "Connecticut Insurance Day Conference", we shall know each other better and have a greater respect for the insurance profession. May we not expect that other states will follow the lead of Indiana and of Connecticut, and that in the not far distant future, similar conferences will be held within their borders. This occasion could not have been made possible but for the assistance that has been so cheerfully and freely rendered by executive officers of the companies, by officers and representatives of the various co-operating organizations and by the cordial and enthusiastic endorsement of the insurance commissioner of the state.

In conclusion may I express the hope that this day may be one long to be remembered and that many succeeding years shall witness an annual observance of a Connecticut Insurance Day.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE IN DERRY HILL FATALITY

The charge of reckless driving made against Lawrence Beally of 16 Willow Street, Mystic, has been changed to manslaughter and Beally is to be presented on that charge before Justice of the Peace William Smiddy in Montville for causing the death of Joseph Kutia of Montville through an automobile accident.

Kutia, who was 28, died Tuesday night at the Backus hospital where he had been unconscious with a fractured skull ever since the accident. Kutia was riding his motorcycle down Derry Hill on the Montville road last Sunday night about 8 o'clock and when near the foot of the hill the cycle was struck by the sedan owned and driven by Beally, who had two other men in the machine with him. Kutia was thrown off the motorcycle which was wrecked and the Beally sedan shot up a steep bank to the right and onto a stone wall where its forward wheels straddled the wall. None of those in the Beally car were injured.

State Policeman William Albright made the charge of reckless driving against Beally and held his car as security to await the result of the injuries to Kutia.

Beally is employed by Contractor Arrigoni, who is constructing the Salem road and it is understood that the contractor will give bonds of $5,000 for Beally.

Coroner J. J. Desmond was notified Wednesday morning of the death of Kutia and will at once begin an investigation. Kutia was born in Russia twenty eight years ago but had been in this country since he was a small boy. He was unmarried and worked in the paper mill at Montville.

Beally, whose real name is said to be Laurence Bello, the other being an alias, was arrested at Mystic Wednesday night by State Policeman Albright and was brought to New London police headquarters. He was held there on the charge of manslaughter in default of $5,000 bonds.

Slight Improvement in Mullen Boy.

Something more of hope for little Thomas Mullen, the 9 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mullen of Town street was held out Wednesday night by the attending physician at the Backus Hospital where the boy has been unconscious since a week ago Tuesday night when he was knocked from his bicycle by an automobile. His condition is still serious, but there are some encouraging symptoms.
